Some 250 firms exhibit sets and accessories, and not a few advertise that with their instruments one can hear the musical programs broadcast in the United States. Privately the salesman will whisper, however, that one must arise early to hear the western hemisphere, since the evening programs of New York are given between 2 and 6 a.m., Berlin time.

AT ALL DRUGGISTS

COURTEOUS PIRATES COMPENSATE FAMILY OF MAN THEY SLEW

FOOCHOW, China, Jan. 7.—With consideration for their victims worthy of Robin Hood, pirates recently took possession of the Chinese steamer Ningshin, ran her into a harbor near Amoy and proceeded to loot her most systematically, according to a report brought here by William Overholt and family, American missionaries, passengers and witnesses of the occurrence. The quartermaster bravely refused to turn over the keys to the pirate chief and was killed, but the pirates made up a purse of $300 and entrusted it to another of the ship's officers to be given to the family of the murdered man.

The pirates boarded the ship in Shanghai in guise of passengers. When nearing Amoy they overpowered the officers and crew, acting with precision and with practically no violence. They politely warned the Chinese-speaking passengers not to get excited, informing them that their object was primarily the seizing of 90,000 pounds of silver bars consigned to the American Oriental bank at Foochow. Nevertheless, it was explained somewhat apologetically, the pirates needed some clothing and would be obliged to accept some from the passengers. Only the passengers in the private cabins were robbed, the less fortunate ones in the matter of comforts being unmolested. Toward the foreign travelers the pirates were extremely polite. From them they took nothing, evidently under orders from their chief.

Under compulsion the crew piloted the Ningshin into a harbor where, in a concealed location, appeared a fort suggestive of medieval days. Boats put out from shore in great number to take off the treasure. Many of the wild looking boatmen attempted to board, but the pirate chief stood them off at the point of revolver while his followers brought the loot to the ship's side. He explained to the passengers: "If these fellows get on board I can't control them, and they certainly will rob you of everything you have."

As soon as the silver was unloaded into the small boats the captain of the ship was ordered to put to sea, and as the boats dropped astern the pirates fired a salute with their small arms, the chief bowing low and swinging his hat in a wide theatrical gesture.

ARTICLE No. 13

There is no auction player in the world who always wins or who always loses and yet some players, deservedly or otherwise, get that reputation. It is very useful to have a reputation for good luck. It not only gives your partner confidence in you but also worries your opponents. Card players as a class are superstitious, even though they will not admit it and when a player has the reputation of "always" winning, he generally does. He has a happy air of success that imparts itself to his partner and opponents alike. "I love to play with you, partner. You always make me feel that we are going to win." Such remarks to a winning player are often heard and show the influence that his reputation exerts. On the other hand, take the player who "always" loses. He takes his place at the table with a sad and mournful expression as if Fate had already marked him out as the loser of the rubber. He generally starts out with a remark like this: "Well, partner, I haven't been able to hold a face card in weeks so watch your step." He takes a queer sort of pride in his bad luck and seems to enjoy talking about it. Needless to say such a player has a bad influence on his partner and an encouraging one on his opponents. He probably doesn't always lose but he certainly deserves always to do so. He is his own most formidable opponent and by his dismal complaints and talk about hard luck, discourages his partner as well as himself. There is a lot of psychology in auction and the winning player is generally the one who comes to the card table not only with the will to win but with the sure belief that he is going to win. Tell your friends of your good luck but keep your bad luck to yourself. Don't get the reputation of being a "Jonah." All the world loves a winner but the loser must always weep alone. Practice Coue's auto-suggestion and keep repeating to yourself, "I am getting luckier and luckier day by day." You will be surprised at the results both in your luck and also in your popularity at the card table.

The following hand is an interesting one:

Problem No. 6

	Hearts — 9, 3 Clubs — K, 5, 3 Diamonds — None Spades — 7, 2
Hearts — Q, 10 Clubs — J, 9, 7 Diamonds — None Spades — 10, 4	Y A B Z	Hearts — K, J, 2 Clubs — 10 Diamonds — None Spades — 9, 5, 3
	Hearts — None Clubs — 8, 2 Diamonds — 10, 2 Spades — K, Q, 8

If diamonds are trumps and Z is in the lead, how can Y-Z win six of the seven tricks against any defense? Solution next week.

Y
Z

Hearts — 8
Clubs — 10, 5
Diamonds — A, K, Q, 7
Spades — A, Q, 10, 6, 4, 2

No score, rubber game. Z dealt and bid one spade, A two hearts, Y pass, B pass, Z two spades, A pass, Y pass and B three hearts. What should Z now do with the foregoing hand? Z should bid three spades. The only other possible bid is four diamonds and that is a bad bid because partner may leave it in. At a void score, there is a much better chance for game in spades than in diamonds so the three spade bid is preferable.

Z

Hearts — Q, 8, 4, 2
Clubs — 10, 7, 3
Diamonds — J, 7, 2
Spades — J, 8, 4

No score, rubber game. If Y's partner had first bid spades and re-bid them and on the third round of bidding, bid four diamonds, what should Y now bid if A passed four diamonds? Y should bid four spades. His partner has shown a good spade hand by his re-bid and only a fair diamond hand. Y's hand has practically the same strength in both suits and therefore the same chance to make four in either suit. As four spades score game, it is the preferable bid. This hand was the one held by Z's partner in the preceding example. In the actual play, Z bid four diamonds and Y passed. The hand was submitted to the writer for criticism and from the analysis it is evident that both players made bad bids. Y's error, however, was inexcusable. When your partner has bid two suits and you have better support for one, always take him back to that suit. If you have equal support as in the second hand take him back to the major suit. Play for game all the time.

SENDS BADGE TO THE MUSEUM HERE

Former Resident Recalls Interesting Link With the Past.

An interesting link with the almost forgotten past is a badge recently received by the Examiner, the writer who sends it saying: "If you have an historical society or museum, it might be of interest to them."

Mr. John George Ogle O'Olier sends the badge. He writes that he was born on Oak Hill, overlooking the Otonabee River, and went to the Union School on the other side of the hill, to Mr. B. C. Dixon. Mr. D'Olier, whose grandfather was the first rector of St. John's Anglican Church here, is now a resident of Rochester, New York, where he occupies the position of Vice-President of the Lewis H. Morgan Chapter of the New York State Archaeological Association.

The badge, of heavy cream silk, bears a facsimile of the well-known features of Sir John A. MacDonald, wearing the speckled cravat and high stock always associated with the Father of the National Policy. It was worn by Mr. D'Olier at "a dinner given to John A. MacDonald, about 1870, in the drill shed situated on an abandoned graveyard on George street."

POLES ACCEPT INVITATION TO HONOR HEROES OF WAR

WARSAW, Jan. 7.—(Associated Press).—Poland recently achieved a monument to "The Unknown Soldier" in such a mysterious manner that neither the press nor the public knows whence it came. One morning at dawn a motor lorry appeared in Saxonian Square and unloaded at the base of the Poniatowski statue a great sandstone block bearing the inscription "To the Unknown Soldier."

The public immediately began laying wreaths of flowers before the inscribed stone and it has become an accepted monument in spite of the ignorance as to the origin of the gift.

SPAIN ENTERS MARKET FOR IMPORTED MOTOR CARS

BERLIN, Jan. 7.—(Associated Press).—German automobile manufacturers today are interested in Spain, where the import duties on cars are very low. They hope to regain some of their business with Spain, interrupted by the war, but realize they will have to meet American competition.

American cars are popular in Spain, with French cars second. Reduced duties on the imported article is having a bad effect on the nationalized automobile factories of Spain, which are said here to be going out of business.

ONLY THE MOTHER KNOWS ABOUT THE COUGHS AND COLDS OF THE CHILDREN

It is hard to keep them from taking cold; they will run out of doors not properly clad, or have on too much clothing; play too hard and get overheated and cool off too suddenly; get their feet wet; kick off the bed clothes at night, and do a dozen things the mother can't prevent.

The prompt use of

will check the cough or cold before any serious lung trouble can possibly develop.

Mrs. Everett E. Keetch, R.R. No. 2, Fredericton, NB, writes:—"My little boy, age nine years, had a dreadful cold which left him with a bad cough I tried Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, and after using three bottles he was completely relieved. I would advise all mothers to use this remedy for their children as it is an excellent medicine."

Solving Of Puzzles Adds To Efficiency Of Typists

CHICAGO, Jan. 7.—(Associated Press).—Cross-word puzzles "are a blessing in disguise to those employers who feared their distracting influence when they first appeared," according to Albert M. Johnson, president of the National Life Insurance Company of the United States, who said that so far as his organization was concerned the puzzles wer e responsible for increasing the efficiency of his stenographers 25 per cent.

Rather than being a distraction to the office girl, the mental labor in solving them has made her faster and more accurate in her work, Mr. Johnson found.

"Noticing a marked improvement in the speed with which our several hundred stenographers were handling the correspondence to 100,000 policyholders, I inquired the reason and found that we had the cross-word puzzles to thank," Mr. Johnson said. "I discovered our stenographers were cross-word enthusiasts and that their idle hours spent over the dictionary had improved their spelling and recognition of words to a startling extent.

"All our executives reported that the stenographers were taking dictation far more rapidly; that they were recognising and handling correctly words that they used to stumble over. We have encouraged our employees to play the game as it widens their minds and improves their speech, as well as increasing their office efficiency."

GOOD LOOKS DICTATE WOOLLEN STOCKINGS FOR FRENCH WOMEN

PARIS, Jan. 7.—(Associated Press).—The fear of a red nose is alleged to have caused silk stockings practically to disappear from Paris streets during the past week. Bitter cold weather was responsible. It was not a question of style, but one of comfort, which brought out neat gaiters over well cut shoes and heavy woollen stockings to replace the flimsy silk creations as ankle protectors.

The following paragraph, printed in one of the leading styles periodicals at the beginning of the cold wave over the signature of one of the most renowned doctors of Paris, is said by the trade to have been responsible for the unprecedented run on gaiters and woollen stockings. It read: "It is really wise to dress warmly, for it keeps the circulation right and helps save one from a red nose and that pinched, blue look about the mouth which is so very unbecoming."

WHEN GREEK MEETS GREEK

Here is shown Professor Eugene Duployen de Gyn, master of Applied Psychology of the Psychological Institue, Bucharest, as he produces a state of catalepsy in a deady Australian snake. Considering the fact that a snake has hypnotic eyes of his own, the feat is a remarkable one. The professors claims that by means of hypnotism he can cure many mental disorders.

Voice Of The People

To Editor of Examiner.

Sir,—The Rev. R. Pogue, minister of St. Paul's, outlines the principle of a merger without loss of identity. That is a partnership and is known as a "federation" in business. Had it been understood that federation, and not organic union, was the object of union, who would have been found to oppose it? Organic union is likened to a pudding. You take the flour, the raisins, the baking, powder the suet, etc., etc., and blend them altogether, and then you call it plum duff or plum pudding if you like. But if you wish to find the identity of the component parts afterwards you would be like the boarder looking for oysters in the soup. I use these homely illustrations because we can understand them. Organic union means the complete loss of the identity of the individual. That is what the words mean.

ONE INTERESTED.

In reply to your editorial, "Where Do They Come From," I would like to be permitted to question a few of the statements made therein.

You say "Nature's system is to keep us so that she can strike us down to make room for uncoming generations as fast as the medical profession makes progress in curbing diseases like Typhoid, new ailments attack us."

In reference to the above I would like to call your attention to the fact that although this is the theory taught by medical association it is not believed by many of the doctors themselves, and many writers like Bernard McFadden, Editor of Physical Culture, and Henry Lindlahr, M.D. of Chicago, who have given the matter much thought take an entirely different and a more common sense view of the matter. They believe that all acute diseases are an effort of nature to clear the body of impurities and encumbrances that have accumulated there through unnatural methods of living such as the eating of manufactured denatured and cooked foods in which in many cases have been poisoned by mineral preservatives, coaltar dyes, and hundreds of other products that nature never intended for human consumption. These sicknesses are in many cases nature's methods of compelling us to fast and give our digestive organs a rest so that she can eliminate poisonous substances from the system and to some measure purify the blood stream. The frantic efforts made by the medical profession with drugs, serums or the knife to suppress symptoms of these troubles are the direct cause of many of the so-called new diseases. Their boast that they eradicated Typhoid in the late war amounts to little when the facts are known. A great deal of the freedom from this disease was due to greater care and sanitary measures carried out by the sanitary engineers, but the main reason is because the disease was called by another name, Typho-Typhoid, A & B two disesaes that were never heard of before the war.. In other words they gave the old disease a new name in order to bolster up their serum theories.

Thousands of returned men are still suffering from the effects of this serum treatment. Many thousand died by reason of this treatment in the late war or after the return home.

Nature's efforts are always beneficial never destructive and many people who have been given up as incurable by the medical profession have been cured by the aid of Chiropractors, Osteopath, or even by living a little closer to nature and avoiding foods whose nutritive qualities have been destroyed by manufacturing or so called preserving process.

NEWS OF OMEMEE.

Capacity Houses Greeted Performance by the Young People.

Omemee Jan. 6.—A capacity house greeted the Young People of the A.Y.P.A. in their annual amateur production of New Year's Night. This year the choice of the committee in charge was a comedy in three acts entitled, "It Pays to Advertise." The play was a heavy one but with such talented young people as Mrs. Smithson Nurse, Messrs. Horace Hill and Jack Beret, who were the outstanding stars of the production, the play was carried out to a finish amid tumultuous applase.

Rodney Martin (Horace Hill), the son of a wealthy soap manufacturer (Will. Skuce), is thrown on his own resources to make a living, through a quarrel with his father. The pretty stenographer (Mrs. S. Nurse), employed by Martin, Sr., who is in league with her employer to see to it that Martin Jr., makes good, proves a real asset to the young man, who decides to enter the soap business in opposition to his father, and by unique advertising of the "13 Soap, Unlucky for Dirt," which scheme is launched and carried out by an old college friend, Ambrose Teale (Jack Bent) manages, when on the verge of ruin, to get an order from a wealthy Chicago firm for one-half a millioin cakes of the unlucky 13 soap! This having been accomplished by the wonderful advertising campaign in which his father is no believer.

Martin, Sr., is finally convinced that his son is not a "dud," but has inherited a considerable amount of his father's business ability and soon becomes an enthusiast believing that "It Pays to Advertise."

Other characters in the play were Co. tesse de Beauview (Alta Moncrief) who wore stunning costumes and finally proved to be a French fake and a swindler; also Johnson (Harry Burgess), Marie (Ethel Stephenson), Wm. Smith (Charle Davis), Donald McChesney (S. Nurse), Miss Burke (Edna Morton), Ellery Clark (Lewis Adams) George Bronson (Noblt Clemett).

A chorus of ten young ladies, in pretty costumes of rainbow tints and carrying dainty - colored swagger sticks rendered several catchy choruses between the acts, adding much to the general enjoyment of the evening. The chorus girls were I Morton, M. Rowan, I. Clemett, I. Pogue, L. Jamieson, V. Thorn L. Weir G. Pogue M. Thorn. M. Pogue. Mrs. Harry Griffin was the efficient pianist for the evening.

The play was under the supervision of Mrs. Fred Bent, assisted by Mrs. T. C. Stephenson.

Would make Canada their Home

Many Thousands of Prospective Immigrants in Old World Lands Looking Toward Canada. War Checked the Tide of Newcomers. Carefully Selected Agriculturists to be Brought in from Britain.

Back in 1839 the Toronto Almanac and Royal Calendar of Upper Canada, had "a word of advice to emigrants of all classes from one who has seen a good deal of the country." Most of it might serve well as a text for newcomers to Canada in our own day, in spite of its ponderous sentences and florid style. Here is an extract:—

"It must always be taken for granted that whoever leaves England, no matter where he goes, must experience some change for the worse; for if he is no otherwise affected than in his feelings, he must suffer a temporary laceration that will jaundice every first view he may take of the new country to which he goes; and it is not pretended that even Canada is so heavenly a land as to do away at once with all such views and feelings, although the writer of this account has but little hesitation in stating that it speedily takes fast hold of the newcomer—and that, if a fair comparison is made between the advantages and disadvantages possessed by the various Colonies of Great Britain in different parts of the world, and that those things are coolly and candidly weighed, the decision must be in favor of Canada, which is undoubtedly, one of the most fertile and magnificent regions of the Globe; peopled by the subjects of Great Britain—in the full possession of British Laws and immunities; and with a Constitution nearly an exact model with that of England, and which is likely to be still further perfected—but without the vexatious operation of the tithe, with scarcely any taxes, and with many other privileges it would be tedious to name on this occasion."

That little touch about temporary laceration of feeling giving one a jaundjced first view, is as true of the present as in 1839. Who has not known an emotion that might thus be described, though his immigration might not take him outside of his own country. Homesickness is one of the greatest enemies of the immigrant; not to take it into account is to unfairly judge the newcomer. When he has become immune he is in a fair way to do his share in the development of his adopted country. The potential value of one contented and hard working immigrant is incalculable. If he does not himself attain to distinction, one or more of his children may be numbered among the greatest of the nation. Should they do no more than he has done, till the soil and reap the harvests, or fill with honesty and capability positions in industrial establishments, then they will add inestimably to the aggregate of the country's progress and wealth.

Times and customs change. Hundreds of thousands of immigrants have arrived in Canada with no one to care whether their first impressions were good or bad. Of necessity, our forefathers had to shift for themselves when they set foot on Canadian soil, and the idea persits in some minds that the immigrants of today are the better for receiving a succession of hard knocks at the outset. Fortunately governments, provincial and federal, as well as the public in Canada, have for the past decade or more been moving toward the ideal of a cheery welcome and a fair deal for immigrants of the right type. Any individual who can look back to an unexpectedly warm greeting and the extension of the simple courtesies, in a city strange to him in all but name, will understand.

Canada is for them the "the land of hope and glory."

Canada Their Objective

Canada is now on the eve of a more pretentious character than has been attempted for a considerable period. The question of encouraging immigration at this time is a debatable one. There is no doubt, however, that it should be strictly supervised and controlled. But the argument on it may be left to debate by the politicians, the labor bodies and the editors. What is the fact is that arrangements between the Imperial government and that of the Dominion for bringing into Canada many British agricultural families, have been completed. Instead of spreading the first part of this scheme over three years, it is to be done in two. So promising is the outlook held to be that plans for the establishment of new immigration offices in Britain, schemes for closer co-operation and a more intensive canvass of desirable prospective settlers, are under way. Northern Europe is also expected to furnish many additional settlers for Canada, and it is promised that the regulations to bar all but the farming classes will be enforced.

In all some 6,000 families are to be brought to Canada under the arrangement with Britain. The families are to be selected by Canadian officials. The British government is to advance each family $1,600 to be repaid in twenty-five years. Canada is to see to it that these newcomers are properly established in homes on farm lands that are suitable, and to keep a paternal eye upon them until they have taken their places in the communities in which they settle.

Under this plan no particular part of Canada is to benefit more than another, unless the preference of the settlers brings that about. It is intended that these families shall be settled in all parts from the Atlantic to the Pacific coast. Some have already expressed their preferences, and none will be able to plead ignorance of the situation so far as thorough explanation and information is available before they start for Canada.

The plan becomes operative in March next, so that the settlers will be coming in at a time of the year when an active season will be before them. This will be preferable to any scheme which would involve their facing winter conditions in many parts of the country to which few if any of them are accustomed.

If Canada threw down the barriers there would be a tremendous influx of Europeans, Scandinavians particularly. The quota law of the United States has kept from that country hundreds of thousands of people who have every attribute for attaining success in the new world. Barred from the republic these people are looking Canada-ward, with those who had originally and definitely selected this country as their future home. Incidentally the authoritative assertion has been made that in spite of the United States quota law and the efforts to enforce it, 850,000 people have evaded it and secured entry. That is an almost incredible number. It is impossible that these could all have been smuggled in via Canada or Mexico. If they were then official Canada, Mexico, and the United States are easy for the law-evader. There have been lots of rumors regarding the extent of the border traffic in live freight, some asserting that it is the best paying line for any smuggler.

Interesting in the revival of immigration plans and developments is the situation in the Irish Free State. Conditions there for some years have militated against Canada canvassing among the southern agricultural communities for prospective settlers. By an odd coincidence a change of attitude comes at a time when there is some discussion as to the decline in the percentage of people of Irish origin in Canada. Figures say that in 1871 such persons numbered 24.28 per cent., English 20.26 and Scottish 15.78. By 1921 a remarkable reversal was recorded. The English percentage had risen to 28.96, while the Scottish had fallen to 13.36 and the Irish to 12.60. Several volumes might be compiled in the attempt to get at and analyse the causes of such changes. The conclusions might be interesting enough without being of any significance whatever. The matter of racial origin is important to some degree, but does not rank with that of national unity. Those who would make their home in Canada should be of the material that readily adapts itself to the laws and customs of a democracy that cheerfully owns allegiance to a Throne.

Population and Settlement

There have been some curious fluctuations in immigration since the first settlers from France made their homes in Canada, to the present day. The bulk of the country's French-speaking population can trace their ancestry back to those who came from France two hundred to two hundred and fifty years ago, and in some cases a little more. French-speaking immigrants to Canada have been few since the days when the country became British. English-speaking and European immigrants have come in waves at varying periods of marked prosperity. Times of depression have witnessed the ebbing of the tide. It is the firm conviction of those who study economics that the almost feverish anxiety of thousands in the old world to become citizens of the Dominion, is another indication of returning prosperity.

Some idea of what immigration means to a country like the Dominion, may be found in comparisons of recent and past census figures. A census was taken of all that was known as Canada just before the Conquest and a population of 82,000 was shown. In 1759 the British took a census. One of the two large folio volumes in which this census was recorded, was destroyed in a fire in Quebec. The second one was happily saved, and contains a recapitulation of the census figures. These show that the population was 54,275 exclusive of Quebec and Montreal. Adding the latter, and making allowance for hunters, trappers and voyageurs in the woods and on the lakes at the taking of the census, the whole population was estimated at 80,000.

The population grew slowly, but there was a great influx into parts of Upper Canada (Ontario), what we now know as the Maritime provinces, and the Eastern Townships of Quebec, as a result of the American Revolutionary war. Canada gained immensely in numbers, material wealth, and in all that makes for greatness in a nation when the United Empire Loyalists crossed the border to make new homes.

When the war of 1812 began British North America was proud of a population of half a million people. That was less than the total enlistments in the American armies during the war. The census is taken in Canada every ten years, and forms the bases of any necessary changes in Parliamentary representation, as well as furnishing the country with much useful and interesting information. The last census, that of 1921, showed a population of 8,788,483 compared with 7,206,643 in 1911 and 4,342,810 in 1881.

Before and After War

In almost every decade from Confederation in 1867 on, the census figures were swollen by immigration. The world war, of course, gave the movement a serious check in addition to turning into other channels the wealth that should have been devoted to developing Canada. As an example, immigrants from the British Isles and Ireland in 1918 totalled only 3,000 compared with 150,000 in 1913, the year before the war. In 1918 there were about 3,000 newcomers from Continental Europe, as against 138,000 in 1914. The war was spreading then and beginning to effect conditions in many countries not actually involved in the conflict. The pre-war period immigration figures have never been approached since the fighting ceased. There isn't any doubt that they would be surpassed if Canada was willing to adopt a policy of welcome to all. But the policy of selection is not likely to be abandoned by Canada now or in the future. Plans such as those being carried out by the Imperial and Canadian governments, have superseded the old happy-go-lucky system of other days. The Dutch and Swiss governments are also parties to plans for the settlement of selected immigrants on Canadian lands. They do not confine their choice to agriculturists only; townsfolk have a chance also under certain conditions. No precaution that will help to make the settlements a success is forgotten.

All of these arrangements and plans had their prototypes in the centuries that have passed. The Selkirk settlement on the Red River is a famous case in point. It need not be dwelt upon here. Success attended it after a series of trials and tribulations that add an heroic chapter to the history of the Dominion. Selkirk's settlers in Prince Edward Island receive less attention because their records were not written amid such spectacular scenes and incidents. They scored an earlier partial success at any rate for their patron, who, however, failed to create sufficient interest to make success for his plans for settlement on a big Upper Canada estate.

In late years there have been many settlement schemes and attempts at such, to give Canadians of this generation opportunity for criticism and comment. Some of these have fallen through, others have builded firm foundations upon the trials of their early experiences. In most cases these settlements were based upon the assumption that people of distinct nationalities should be located together. Argument for or against this plan has no place here. The results in their bearing upon Canada's development and attainments as a nation must decide.

LEICESTER SQUARE HAS ITS TRAGEDIES

Place Where Broken Men Congregate Was Famous in War Song.

By MILTON BRONNER.

LONDON, Jan. 7.—Not far from Leicester Square, famous in song and story, there is a little clear space back of one of the art galleries. It is adorned by a statue of Henry Irving and if it were in Paris would probably be called Place Irving.

And every day the stone eyes of the great tragedian look down upon tragedies as poignant as any in which he once enthralled the English-speaking world. For this particular spot in London is the place of the broken men—broken in pocket, in body, in spirit, in clothes and shoes.

All day long and until late in the evening they display the wares in which they have invested their last pitiful pence.

More often than not what they have is some cheap trash made in Germany and sold over here for a song—a wobbling policeman who nods his head, a dude who waggles his cane, a paper bird which flaps its wings.

People in a hurry to cross over from the Haymarket to Charing Cross pass by. Only occasionally do the poor men make a sale and even then the profit is a bare penny. But it's all that stands between them and actual starvation.

The humor of Georges Clemenceau is inexhaustible. Age can not wither it nor time stale it.

His sayings are as sharp, as sardonic, as devastating as they were 40 years ago. The Tiger's body may be old, but his claws are young and terrible.

The other day somebody asked him what he thought of the present government of France. And promptly the old man put down on paper the mathematical formula:

O x O x O x O x O equals O

Speaking of heiresses, the English have a very smooth custom. If a man marries a girl and some of the wife's relatives leave her a huge "chunk of kale," it is not unusual for the happy hubby thereupon to hyphenate his name.

There are two in the present British cabinet. The British minister of Labor once upon a time was Sir Arthur Steel.

He married a woman who inherited a huge fortune from her father. So now they are Steel-Maitland, the latter being the wife's maiden name.

Sir Philip Lloyd-Graeme, president of the Board of Trade in the cabinet, already enjoyed a hyphen. But he is to have an entirely new one and be henceforth Sir Philip Cunliffe-Lister, because his wife recently inherited about five million dollars.

BRAZIL WANTS OUR BOOKS.

A recent report of one of our consular agents in Brazil says that there is a great opening in that country for American books. A round of the book stores of Rio de Janeiro shows that all the books in the English language on sale were of London origin and were not exactly of the character wanted generally. There is a strong demand for books of a scientific nature.

A REVIEW OF THE YEAR 1924

Looking back over it, the year 1924 was a pretty good year as years go. No major wars occurred and only the usual number of threats.

* * *

The outstanding events of the year were the hanging of the Hochelaga Bank bandits, the Loeb-Leopold trial and the cross word puzzle craze.

* * *

The Loeb-Leopold case was the best thing of its kind during the twelve-month, the vote on the O.T.A. being the only other outrage to attract any great attention.

* * *

The year will go down into history however, as the year in which the Washington baseball club won a pennant and then a world's series. Probably ten years from now nobody will believe it. It is still regarded as unofficial.

* * *

1924 brought across the Prince of Wales, Epinard, Grand Duke Cyril's wife, the ZR-3, radio pictures and the discovery that there are worms in ice. It was one of the few years in the history of the republic when a president was chosen by acclamation.

* * *

Early in the year China broke out in a new series of wars, the factions that lost in 1922 playing the sides that lost in 1923. Tong wars broke out and church wars broke out in various pulpits through out the country on the Union issue.

* * *

Sir Thomas Lipton made his annual challenge for the American yacht cup, Cozy-Dolan was suspended from organized baseball, Lenin died and Trotzky might as well have.

Ma Ferguson was elected governor of Texas and Bill White was defeated for something out west where kleagles are kleagles and editors are their opponents. Benny Leonard went into vaudeville, Charlie Chaplin took a child-bride, Prof. Baker of Harvard was farmed out to Yale for further seasoning, Ethel Barrymore took off 60 pound Ibanez declared war on Spain at $1 a word, and "Mister A" was identified as a rajah who had everything he needed except a conservator.

* * *

Ramsay Macdonald and his labor Government were given the bum's rush just as they had invested heavily in silk knee breeches, brushed up on the Book of Etiquette and prepared to enter the smartest society without tripping.

* * *

In Egypt somebody killed a sirdar and Britain grabbed Egypt by the throat and made it say "Uncle" while the League of Nations refused to act on the ground it was matter for Eddie Gerard to handle.

* * *

Mexico vhanged presidents without a casualty.

* * *

Congressman Hill found out it was all right to make home-made wine, Magnus Johnson went through the year without milking a cow for the movies, Messrs. Duke and Eastman gave away a few million dollars for higher education, "Red" Grange made three dozen touchdowns in four times at bat, 56 U. S. destroyers went on the rocks, "Goose" Goslin made a name for himself as the biggest figure in Washington, D.C., and Tommy Gorman as one of the greatest controversialists in Ottawa.

A MODERN JAZZ OPERA

A JAZZ OPERA FOR MR. OTTO KAHN.

(Otto Kahn, noted banker, urges that Irving Berlin or some other composer of jazz numbers compose a jazz opera with a story of modern life of which the heroine is a modern type of girl—a flapper, a stenographer or shop girl.—News item.)

Carmen, a Flapper.
Her Bobbed-Hair Grandmother and flask.
A Stenographer with visible ears.
A Cross-word Puzzle out of Work.
A Shop Girl (in seven horizontal letters).
Two Adenoids.
Done Jose, a Subway Guard.
A Low Comedian.
Two Low Friends of His.
Six Southern Mammies in Search of a Composer.
87 Jazz Musicians.

SCENE I.

A quiet spot in the subway immediately in the rear of 400 hurried businessmen with sharp elbows.

(As the curtain rises 3,687 people still munching buttered toast rush down the subway steps and see a sign marked "Exit Only." They rush back and come down the right way. They see a frail young woman waiting for a train. They knock her down, sit on her and calmly begin reading a newspaper which enters quietly from the left in the hands of a subscriber from Troy. The girl seems very happy. She has travelled in the subway ever since she was able to stand. As a train pulls in Carmen, the flapper, comes down the subway stairs preceded by the Notre Dame eleven. She manages to enter the train with only minor injuries, but upon getting inside discovers that in the rush she has lost her hat, skirt, waist, chemise, corset-cover, petticoat and stockings. Done Jose, the Subway Guard, finds everything but the first eleven articles and returns them to her. It is a case of love at first sight. Here the jazz orchestra begin playing a tune of no importance and the action begins.).

Carmen: Ah, thou hast a fair countenace, making allowance for wear and tear.

Guard. I love you Pennsylvania sta-shun. Lettemoffpleaze.

Carmen: Silly! why shouldn't thou love me

Guard: You remind me of my mother.

Carmen: Tell me of your mother.

THE GAURD.
(Singing)

Mam-my, Mam-my, the sun shines east, the sun shines west
But my ma lives where the sun shines best.
Mam-my, Mam-my, way up north in Ala-bam-my.

Etc.

(Carmen is overcome with emotion. She seems very dejected. It's his voice or something).

Guard: Why so depressed, fair creature?

CARMEN
(Singing)

I'm a poor broken blossom and nobody's child
Haunting and taunting and just kind o' wild
Oh, Limehouse blues, I've the, real Limehouse blues
Learned from the chinkees, those sad China blues.

(She is interrupted bya a plumber who enters the train, pulls her out of her seat onto the floor and takes the seat himself. She lies on the floor in a stupor while the train passes eight stations. The guard sings.)

GUARD

(In rich contralto, by Puccini out of Bizet)

Low smiling in the Orient sky
Morn in her beauty breaking
Cans't thou my love inactive lie
My sweet, are thou not waking?

(The 86 jazz musicians set up a horse laugh through trombones and trick saxaphones. The guard now loses interest in the Flapper and turns to the Stenographer who is being slowly crushed to death between fourteen filing clerks).

Guard: I love you.

Stenographer: If you love me get these fourteen men off my neck. I've never met them.

(At this point everybody gets off the train except the Two Adenoids).

Note: The second and third acts take place three weeks earlier at a convention of Southern Mammies held jointly in Carolina, Virginia and Alabama. They are not worth to go. Parker broke down the side printing.

OWEN SOUND, Jan. 7.—(Canadian Press). — When the nail and wire departments of the Northern Bolt and Screw and Wire Company, Limited, Owen Sound, were destroyed by fire last night, the loss, variously estimated at from $50,000 to $75,000, was sustained by the company. It is understood the loss is covered by insurance.

Nearly all basic problems are "old as the hills."

A German scientist finds in an Egyptian tomb a divorce decree that was granted 2,000 years ago. It is the oldest known.

In those days they also had high cost of living, spendthrift governments and heavy taxes.

Life is a theatrical performance whose plot never changes. One generation of actors succeeds another, in an endless chain. The play itself goes on, repeating over and over. Existence would become very monotonous if we lived several centuries.

LEARN HOME NURSING FROM LOCAL SOCIETY

One Dollar For Course—Twelve Different Lessons in Course.

The Canadian Red Cross Society is once again advancing the organization in Peterborough of the Home Nursing Classes which were so popular last year. A great deal of benefit accrued to those taking advantage last winter of the classes, which are a part of the peace-time programme of the Red Cross Society, for "the improvement of health, the prevention of disease and the mitigation of suffering throughout the world."

Twelve lessons are comprised in the course, with an outline for the series as follows: (1) Introduction, Health in the Home; (2) The Bedroom in Health and Sickness; (3) The Signs of Sickness; (4) The Care of the Patient; (5) Feeding the Sick; (6) Treatments; (7) Communicable Diseases; (8) Emergencies and Slight Ailments; (9) Maternity Nursing; (10) Infant Care; (11) The Feeding of Infants and Children; (12) Review. For the entire course, including the manual, the fee is one dollar.

This year a room in the basement of the Public Library has been secured and will be fitted up for the lectures and practical demonstrations. All meetings, except those in connection with the Y.W.C.A. class, will be held there. Miss M. McNaughton of Toronto will be the local instructress, and may be reached at any time at the Y.W.C.A. boarding home. Miss R. E. Hamilton of Toronto is at present in the city organizing for the course.

To give instruction in home nursing and care to the young women and the mothers of Canada is the aim of the Red Cross in inaugurating these classes. Anyone interested is asked to get in touch with Miss M. McNaughton at the Y.W.C.A.

MID-WINTER STYLES IN FASHION WORLD

By HEDDA HOYT

NEW YORK, N.Y., Jan. 7.—(United Press).—The newest thing in neckwear is the "neckerchief," which is a large square of silk, printed or plain with borders of contrasting color, which is folded cornerwise and worn as a bib about the neck tying in knotted ends at one side. Batik effects in neckwear are not as popular as plain colors and for this reason many women are buying large-sized men's handkerchiefs rather than batik squares. One sees many smart women in fur wraps with neckerchiefs of brilliant yellow, rust or orchid worn about the throat.

Street coats have never been as colorful as they are this season. Red is especially popular, being made in the long-straight-fitting coats of wrap-about shape. It is astonishing how many turkey red wraps one saw during the holiday season. Most of them are fur-trimmed on collar cuff and hem-borders with cream-colored furs such as fitch, caracul or badger. Some of the less conspicuous ones are trimmed in beaver or nutria. Black coats trimmed at the neck and hem-bordered with red fox are many. Greens and royal blue are also popular coat shades. Recently one sees hats matching the shade of the coat and one of the prettiest instances of this was a coat of royal blue velvet which was worn with a hat of royal blue velvet trimmed with bunches of flat silver grapes on the crown.

Raincoats of rubberized silk are also colorful this season. It is not unusual to see a middle-aged matron wearing one of brilliant green, red or rose and in most cases the umbrella matches the raincoat in shade. Navy blue and deep purple are those most standard in color.

One of the loveliest styles on Fifth Avenue is the short fur jacquette which is made in ensemble effect by having a frock of self-shade trimmed at the hem with a border of the fur used in the jacquette. A particularly effective type is the gray fur jacquette combined with a gray suede cloth frock which is banded at the hem in gray squirrel. Gray squirrel, by the way, is becoming more popular than it was earlier in the season. One usually wears a corsage of orchids pinned on the fur and a small orchid colored felt hat. Red velvet hats are also popular with gray furs. Several smart women lately have appeared wearing short, boxed-shaped jacquettes of beaver with brown frocks. Beaver is untrimmed by other fur this season.

The ensemble suit this year has many followers. Several of the better class shops are designing the three-piece ensemble—that is, there will be a cloth dress matched by a three-quarter or five-eights length coat of the same material, which is to be worn for street wear, and an additional dress of dressier type which may be worn with the same coat for afternoon affairs.

One lovely brown duvetyne jacquette has a simple, straight-lined frock of self-material which makes it appropriate for shopping or street wear. And for more dressy wear there is a frock of gold embroidered chiffon which has a wide hem border of brown fox which matches the fur on the jacquette. Since the fur border is the only portion of the dressy frock showing beneath the coat, it makes an outfit for various occasions.

Printed taffetas will be most popular for the bathing suit at Palm Beach this season. Black taffeta suits, printed in yellow or rose flowers, are being made with long bodices and short flaring little skirts. Sometimes there is a scarf attachment at the neck for warding off sunburn.

Another popular Palm Beach style is the colored leather jacquette. Most of thees are of suede in soft shades of green or rose and they are worn with pleated fannel skirts.

The newer sports coats are bordered at the hem with fur and are minus fur trimming on collar and sleeves. Long white coats with white fox hem borders and tailored colors are especially popular for beach wear.

3 MONTHS IN JAIL.

Former Cashier Thos. J. Fisher Found Guilty of Theft.

HAMILTON, Jan. 7.—(Canadian Press). — Thos. J. Fisher, former cashier in the city accountant's department, pleaded guilty before Judge Gauld in the County Court yesterday afternoon to stealing $660 from the city. He was sentenced to three months' imprisonment at the Ontario Jail Farm. Fisher was arrested last October when the civic scandal began to gain momentum.

"SPOTTERS" ARE SEDUCING BOYS SAYS J. O'BRIEN

Defending Akey on B.O.T.A. Charge in City Police Court.

EXCEPTION TAKEN.

Prosecution Asks Court to Find Alibi a Concoction of Perjury.

J. A. O'Brien won the approval of sixty rail birds in City Police Court yesterday evening by leading a scathing attack on three Provincial officers, who said they bought liquor from James Akey, but whether he won his client's case remains to be seen when Magistrate O. A. Langley delivers judgment next Tuesday.

Akey was charged with selling liquor to one of the Provincial officers, contrary to the provisions of the Ontario Temperance Act. In his defence he set up an apparently airtight alibi, covering all his movements from the day before the alleged sale until the morning of the second day after. Witnesses told of being with the accused in Toronto at the very hour he was said to have sold the liquor here, and Akey produced a letter which he swore he wrote and mailed in Toronto that day.

In his denunciation of the Provincial specials, Mr. O'Brien rose to oratorical heights in expressing his righteous indignation that men of their character should be turned loose on unsuspecting Peterboro, travelling in a car with a foreign license, and "seducing the young men of the city to secure their own aggrandizement."

He branded them everything in the vocabulary of vituperation from "sneaks" to "wretched spotters," "seducers of the youth of the country" to plain "lawbreakers" and associates of the devil. Then he held up Akey and a witness who is a confessed dope addict to the public gaze as sterling examples of incorruptible young Canadian manhood, whose evidence was unimpeachable.

Laughter and incipient applause in the spectators' benches were hushed by Sergeant John Deannard.

Says Attack Unfair.

Declaring that attack of defence counsel upon the Provincial officers was unwarranted and foreign to the merits of the case under trial, J. F. Strickland presented the prosecution in concise form. "These men," he said, "are part of the established form of administration of justice, and in the discharge of their duty they should be treated with respect by the defence as well as by the prosecution. The fact that they are not popular has nothing to do with the merits of the case before the court. I have advanced the case, as they have, on its merits, and I must take exception to the remarks made by the counsel for the defence."

Defending one of the Provincial officers who seemed to have been singled out by Mr. O'Brien for a specially bitter outpouring of his wrath, Mr. Strickland pointed to this man's honesty in presenting his testimony, even to differing on a point from the evidence given by his associates.

"There is no cooked up story here," Mr. Strickland declared, and then after a pause of a split second, added—"in the prosecution."

Attacks Alibi.

The witness to whom Mr. O'Brien referred as being seduced to secure a conviction for the Provincial officers, Mr. Strickland said, is no misguided youth, but has been ruined by his own habits as a confirmed drug addict, and is incapable of belief.

This witness confirms in every essential detail the stories told by the officers as to the movements of the cars, and even as to two mysterious girls who were said to have been in Akey's car. The girls got out at Smith Street, and are unknown to the prosecution. "The innocent bystander can often be materially hurt by even being called in these cases," Mr. Strickland said "and personally, if I knew the girls, I would not call them."

Magistrate Langley pointed out that Mr. Strickland's chivalry may withhold evidence as to the identity of the second man in the car.

Referring back to the allegedly seduced witness, Mr. Strickland declared that it has never been the policy of the Crown to browbeat witnesses. This witness may have been frightened by threats from other sources, more potent than the Crown could produce. "He had made a slip in introducing these men to his friends, and I ask you to find that he has come here to testify in a last desperate effort to square himself and has deliberately perjured himself."

Mr. Strickland submitted that all evidence as to the alibi, with the exception of that given by a Bewdley man, is perjured. "It is a concoction from beginning to end."

Magistrate Langley said he had a somewhat definite opinion on the case at the moment, but he would take the evidence under consideration and give his finding on Tuesday next at 10 o'clock.

Akey was allowed out without bail.

WEEK OF PRAYER IN PETERBORO

The second of the series of Union services in observance of the week of prayer, was held last night in St. John's church. The attendance was very good, and the worshipful atmosphere of the splendid old building contributed in no small measure to the impressiveness of the service.

The service was conducted by Dr. Blagrave. The first lesson, the 60th chapter of Isaiah, was read by Dr. Rose, and the second lesson, in the 8th chapter of Romans, by Mr. McKinnon. The form of evening prayer was used, slightly modified for the ocasion, and proved beautifully impressive in such a service. Mr. F. G. Mann presided at the organ, the choir rendering as an anthem "It came upon the midnight clear," during the reception of the offering.

The sermon was preached by Rev. G. J. Bousfield, of St. Luke's. He dwelt upon the festival of the day, Epiphany, bringing out the significance of the manifestation of God in Jesus Christ, to the Gentiles, and emphasing the adequacy of the Redeemer to meet the deepest needs of the soul. His text was taken from the story of the stilling of the tempest—"What maner of man is this, that even the winds and the waves obey Him?"

To-night each of the churches has its own service, beginning at eight o'clock. To-morrow night the service will again be union, being held in the Murray street Baptist chuch. All are invited to join in these services.

DESPATCH FROM ROME SAYS CALM PREVAILS

Mussolini Emerges From Recent Crisis Stronger Than Ever.

By Thomas B. Morgan, United Press Correspondent.

ROME, Jan. 7. — His star once more in the ascendency, Benito Mussolini emerges from the recent crisis stronger than ever before.

A period of peace from now until next Monday when the Chamber convenes, looms in the wake of the sizzling battle which ended when the cabinet was re-cast.

Mussolini's followers, pleased because the all-Fascisti cabinet permits untrammeled party interpretation of all issues, with no need of catering to the whims of other groups.

To bring this about, when the opposition parties threatened a political upheaval, Mussolini closed 95 clubs, suppressed 25 organization hostile of Fascism, disbanded 125 branches of the War Veterans' Party, arrested 111 Communists, closed 150 public buildings and meeting places and had his militia raid 655 private dwellings. Aside from incidents at Florence, Arezzo, Pisa and Bologna, the government announces calm prevails throughout the country.

MONTREAL MAN RISKS LIFE FOR OTHER MAN

Taxicab Driver Descends Into Manhole and Rescues Napoleon Lalonde.

MONTREAL, January 7. — At the risk of his life, Louis Zimmerman, a taxi driver, aged 24 years, yesetrday rescued Napoleon Lalonde from a manhole where he had been overcome by gas. Lalonde had gone down to repair a break in the conduit. Before lapsing into unconsciousness from gas, he managed to call for help. A crowd collected and Zimmerman seeing the commotion left his cab and started to descend the ladder into the hole. A citizen steped in front of him and warned him of his danger.

"Oh, that's all bunk!" said the chauffeur, and pushing the man aside, he scrambled down, then called for a rope, which he tied about Lalonde's waste, then with the victim over his shoulder Zimmerman, successfully made the ascent.

Lalonde is recovering at the hospital and Zimmerman was only slightly affected by the gas.

FABLES ON HEALTH

With January and February slush and damp weather coming, a good remedy for catarrh will come in handy, thought Mr. and Mrs. Mann of Anytown.

Here are some remedies which were recommended to them by the doctor:

Pour a small amount of mixture of a teaspoonful of boracic acid powder, dissolved with a teaspoonful of salt, in half a pint of boiling water, in the palm of the hand and snuff it up the nostrils three times a day.

Another good remedy:

One-fourth teaspoonful of soda, dissolved in one cup of warm water. Use with a spray, or nose cup, or snuff up into the nostrils.

Still another:

Sodium benzoate, five grains; carbolic acid, one drop; glycerin, one dram; water, one ounce. Mix. Use by spraying or snuffing two or three times daily.

STUFFED PRUNES.

Uncooked prunes, pitted and stuffed with nut meats, make good dessert for a meal that has been light.

POPULAR COAT

This type of coat has become very popular for mid-winter, combining a very decided elegance and ornateness with utility and warmth. The material is black velvet with silver brocade and black monkey fur. The hat trimmed with monkey fur completes the costume very pleasingly.

ART STUDY CLUB.

A meeting of the Art Study Club, in connection with the Women's Art Association, was held last evening at the home of Mrs. W. R. Widdess, Stewart street, when a very interesting paper on "Landscape Painting Development" was given by Mrs. James MacKintosh.

Mrs. MacKintosh traced the course of landscape painting from the earliest times, when meagre landscape outline was used only as a background for the figures which constituted the main interest in pictures. In those early days, the outline of a tree did duty as a forest a round line represented a mountain top and three or four zigzag lines symbolized a river or ocean.

In the tenth century, a favorite representation of the Garden of Eden was a blue tree with red apples, surrounded by snakes, with a man and woman at the side. The colorings were unnatural, and there was no attention paid to such things as light, shadow, perspective or sky.

In the twelfth century, under Giotto, landscapes were painted which were truer to nature but were still hampered by the importance of the figures. This was true of all the painters of the time even of the work of Raphael and Leonardo da Vinci, who, with their fellow artists, subordinated the landscape in every instance to the figures.

What was termed the Classicist school of Landscape painting was formed later by Claude Lorrain and Poussin, who inaugurated the Claude Poussin tradition. Under them, landscapes became more than a background for the central figures, although these still gave the works of art their titles. Their new art influenced that of their contemporaries in the Dutch school; Ruysdael and Both, and in the English school Wilson and Turner.

In the first quarter of the nineteenth century, a revolt against the classic type of portrayal led directly to what was called the Romantic type. Delacroix was notable among those who advanced this new departure, which was extremely antagonistic to the previous idea. Whereas the classicists painted an ideal tree, perfect in every twig and branch, or a sky serene and lovely, the romanticists depicted a twisted, torn and ragged tree or a sky overcast and dismal. The classic type also insisted on an outline drawing, while the romanticists slurred outlines, in favor of color in patches, and the delineation of wind, light and shadow. Both schools distorted nature in order to make it chime with their subject, neither painting it as it really was.

Then came the Fontainebleau-Barbizon painters, who saw that both schools preceding them were false in sentiment. The French followers of this new style went to the Louvre and studied the works of the Dutch men, Hobbema and Ruysdael, just as Constable and Gainsborough did in England, and then they took the Forest of Fontainebleau as their model.

Corot and Rosseau were both of this school. There was nothing harsh or elemental in their work. They did not portray nature in her stormy moods, but rather in her softer and milder manifestations. They thought that nature in art did not require the classic idea, which distorted it, nor the romantic idea, which exaggerated, neither did it need the copyist who imitated, but rather the lover who interpreted.

The impressionists who probably represent the latest manifestation of individual interpretation in art, had their strongest exponents in Monet and Sisley. They were strong for the use of color and light and they revived the methods and materials of their art which is in itself an achievement.

Mrs. MacKintosh concluded her paper with a reference to the foremost position occupied by French painters and to the influence exerted by their art on artists of other lands.

The next meeting of the club will be held on Tuesday, January 20th, at the home of Mrs. J. B. Mann, when a paper on Corot will be given by Mrs. R. A. Brown.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Editor, The Examiner:

In the issue of The Examiner of January 5, Rev. Robt. Pogue publishes a long statement with the apparent object in view of showing that the three negotiating churches, the Presbyterian, the Methodist and the Congregational will be able to maintain their identity after Church Union is consummated and The United Church of Canada has been formed.

In this connection, Rev. Mr. Pogue quotes the following words from The Act incorporating The United Church in Canada: "Whereas the Presbyterian Church of Canada, the Methodist Church and the Congregational Churches of Canada, having the right to unite with one another without loss of identity."

According to The Act incorporating the three negotiating churches, these churches do enter Church Union without loss of their identity, but their identity is lost the moment after they have entered Union.

This is made very clear on page 3 of the Church Union Bill, paragraph 4 (a and b), which reads as follows.

"(a) The union of the said churches, the Presbyterian Church in Canada, the Methodist Church and the Congregational churches, shall become effective upon the day upon which this Act comes into force, and the said churches as so united are hereby constituted a body corporate and politic under the name of 'The United Church of Canada,' hereinafter called 'The United Church.'

"(b) The several corporations referred to in sub-sections (e), (f) and (g of section three hereof are hereby MERGED in The United Church and the congregations referred to in sub-section (a) of said section three are hereby admitted to and declared to be congregations of the United Church."

Note from the foregoing that the moment Church Union is consummated, the three churches mentioned are "merged" into the new church and are admitted to be and are declared to be congregations of the United Church. Could anything show more plainly that their separate entities then cease.

We would like to ask Mr. Pogue questions which have already been asked Unionist speakers, without being answered.

(1) After Rev. Mr. Pogue enters the United Church will he be recognized as a minister of the Presbyterian Church in Canada or as a minister of the United Church of Canada?

(2) When members are accepted in the new church, will they be accepted as members of the Presbyterian Church or of the United Church of Canada?

(3) When Rev. Mr. Pogue baptises an infant in connection with the United Church, will it be baptised as a ceremony of the Presbyterian Church or of the United Church of Canada?

(4) When Rev. Mr. Pogue, in his office as a minister of the United Church marries a couple, will he sign the register as a Presbyterian minister or as a minister of the United Church of Canada?

(5) Will church property be held in the name of the Presbyterian Church or of the United Church?

In under such circumstances as the foregoing the identity of the Presbyterian Church in Canada is not to be recognized, what is the use of Unionists claiming that the Presbyterian Church will maintain its identity?

Denominational Differences.

One of the chief claims that have been made by the Unionists is that the present denominational distinctions reflect upon Christians and should all be abollshed. They had hoped to abolish several of them by the United Church. How, then, do the advocates of Church Union explain their present desire to lead people to the belief that the three negotiating churches will continue their identity after Church Union with their expressed desire that there should be no more denominational differences.

The efforts of ministers, like Rev. Mr. Pogue, to prove that the identity of the denominations concerned will be continued cannot be taken very seriously in face of the fact that Mr. Greshom W. Mason and Mr. MacGregor Young, the lawyers who drafted the Church Union Bill, in returning the Bill to Mr. N. W. Rowell, K.C., in September, 1922, in their covering letter wrote as follows: "In our view the basis of Union and the Bill as approved by the Union Committee provides for the Union of the negotiating churches, and upon the passing of the Act these churches would cease to exist."

It was because Parliament recognized that the Presbyterian Church in Canada will pass out of legal existence on June 10, 1925, that it incorporated in the Church Union Bill the following clause:

"Nothing in this Act contained shall prevent non-concurring congregations from considering themselves the Presbyterian Church, the Methodist Church or the Congregational Church, as the case may be under the respective names so used."

This means that when the Presbyterian Church in Canada passes out of existence, through being merged in the United Church of Canada on June 10 next, the continuing Presbyterian Church will commence to function under the name of the Presbyterian Church of Canada or the Canadian Presbyterian Church or some similar distinctively Presbyterian name.

For churches that are merged in the United Church of Canada to continue to use the name Presbyterian after June 10 next, would be presumptous and out of place.

LIGHT ON BIBLE TERM

Question of "Virtue" Raised in Proverbs Explained By Professor.

"Who can find a virtuous woman?" —Prov. 31, 10.

For centuries the human race has been wondering about this passage in the Bible. Does it mean that the ancient scribes were pessimists? Or does it indicate a sad reflection upon the gentler sex?

"Neither," asserts Prof. J. M. P. Smith of the Divinity School at the University of Chicago, who explained to the Society of Biblical Literature and Exegesis meeting on the Midway the difficulties in the way of translation of the Old Testament.

In illustration of some of the difficulties, Prof. Smith said that our word "virtue" in these days had lost much of the earlier significance which it brought over from the Latin word, "virtus," and has been narrowed down, particularly in its connection with the sexes to the matter of conjugal fidelity.

"Certainly the writer in Proverbs did not mean to say that it was a very hard thing to find a morally straight woman among his contemporaries," Prof. Smith declared. "The word woman here evidently means 'wife.' Apparently the normal thing was that every woman should be a wife.

"The word rendered 'virtuous' is not so easily disposed of. It is quite clear that here it cannot have its original meaning, 'strength.' It is equally certain that a 'militant wife' was not wanted. We are sure that the scribe was not seeking a 'rich wife,' although some of his successors might conceivably entertain such a wish.

"The content of the term rendered 'virtuous' must here be determined in the light of the description of the wife given by the sage in the following verse: 'She enjoys the confidence of her husband in the fullest measure; she is a good business manager and a hard worker; she gets up early and works late; she is generous, charitable and kind; she dresses well and looks after her husband's interests carefully; she is a good and beloved mother and an appreciated wife, and at least as the text now stands she is a devout worshipper of Yahweh — the accurate translation of the word known as Jehovah.'

"It is hard to find any one word that is adequate for the characterization of such a paragon virtue. Indeed she is supposed to be the incarnation of almost all the virtues with which women were supposed to be endowed in ancient times."

LADY OF THREADNEEDLE

By STEUART M. EMERY.

The "Old Lady of Threadneedle Street" is packing her bag. She has been in her present home for the last 230 years, the most conservative little old lady in all history. But now she must move away for a while and things will seem strange indeed in the heart of London's financial district. Imagine the Bank of England doing business outside of Threadneedle Street! As soon think of the royal family housed elsewhere than in Buckingham Palace.

The needs of modern business, however, must be met, and upon the site now occupied by the Bank of England's huge one-story building a taller, more up-to-date structure is to be erected. While this modernizing process is going on the "Old Lady of Threadneedle Street" will have temporary quarters in Finsbury Circus. The "Old Lady" has a heavy purse to be moved, for at the last estimate there was no less than six billion dollars in gold and securities in the vaults.

The scene will most certainly not seem the same in Threadneedle Street with the "old lady" and htr host of customers gone away for a time. It is not often that the color of romance attaches itself to so sound and solid a thing as a financial institution. One is prone in these enterprising days to desire stability rather than atmosphere in one's bank. But the Bank of England—known as the world's safest financial house—has both. Written into its history are numberless vivid incidents of days when storm and stress raged about its walls.

Gordon Riot of 1780.

Picture the London of an older period —that of 1780—when Lord George Gordon was stirring his mob of fanatics to the worst religious riots the city of London ever saw. The town was in a turmoil. From all over the city rioters flocked to the standard of Gordon. A crowd of 40,000 was sweeping the streets, and through days and nights of terror it was thought that they would destroy the entire city in their fury. Houses were plundered and set afire; mad with triumph, the mob swung to the iron-barred gates of the prisons and burst its way through. Highwaymen, cutpurses—the worst criminals in England—freed by the general jail delivery, joined Gordon's forces. Newgate, Bridewell poured out their unsavory hosts. And then the cry went up: "Take the Bank of England!"

With the flames of thirty-six different fires that it had set blazing in its rear the mob came storming down the narrow streets, howling for the gold that the vaults of Threadneedle Street held in millions. It was a tense hour within the walls of the Bank of England, where clerks had left their ledgers to cast their leaden inkstands into bullets. Volunteer citizens manned the roof, prepared to fire on the charging rioters, and a company of horse and foot reinforced them.

The mob came on, cheering and shouting, confident that by sheer force of numbers it could smash its way into the bank, but when it saw the steel of British troops drawn in a cordon around the building it halted for a moment. There came the crash of powder and ball, the mob fired back, lost its courage and disappeared in broken fragments up the by-streets. It was virtually the end of the riot, for within a short space of time thereafter the military regained control of the city. The Bank of England had learned its lesson, however, and from that day on it stood ready to repel any assault. That one wild night began the custom of marching a company of the guards into the bank each evening to stay there until morning came.

One Day of Panic.

"Safe as the Bank of England" is a saying that is historic, but before it came into being there were many times when the institution seemed almost on the verge of tottering. There was a frenzied day when Charles Stuart the Pretender, sweeping down from Scotland at the head of his army, reached Derby, only 120 miles from London. The city was in a panic of fear. Everywhere the shutters of shops were being put up as honest merchants prepared to flee the city. They did not, it seemed, have any idea of fleeing without funds, for a huge and frightened crowd came rushing to the tellers' windows of the Bank of England.

A way had to be devised of checking the run or the Bank might go down. So into the throng of depositors the Bank of England sent dozens of its employees armed with drafts on the institution. They fought their way to the windows and presented their drafts, which were paid—in sixpences. For hours they blocked the lines, and as each man was paid he hurried around to the back of the Bank and returned the money he had drawn out. Next morning came the news that the Pretender was in retreat, and slowly London settled back into a period of calm.

As early as 1698, in the fourth year of its career, the Bank of England had to suspend payment. Under the profligate King James the coinage of the realm had been debased. Counterfeit coins were found everywhere, and a new recoining of silver had become a national necessity. It was decided upon and the old currency was recalled, but the Bank of England found that for a time it must cease operations. There followed an easier period, but the shadow of danger was always looming near in those early, struggling days. The Pretender threatened a raid from France, and it was discovered that a group of goldsmiths, jealous of the popularity of the new institution, had collected its notes and were prepared to descend with them on a single day and wipe the Bank out of existence. It was then that friends of the Bank came to its aid. Promises of assistance, currency and securities were poured onto its vaults and the storm was ridden out.

That particular raid was planned by a complete circle of the Bank's enemies. But in later years the Bank of England was to meet one of the most daring and ingenious systems of attack ever contrived against a financial institution—that of a single individual. The famous forger, Charles Price, was responsible for it, and the part that he played was rehearsed to perfection. He made his own ink and paper and reproductions of Bank of England notes that he turned out were almost flawless.

In the newspapers of the day he would advertise for a servant to attend an invalid gentleman. When the applicant arrived he would find an apparently bent and broken old man, muffled to the eyes in an overcoat and wearing a black patch over one eye. The old gentleman would engage the applicant and from a carriage in the street would send him into various lottery offices to buy tickets.

The lottery offices cashed the Bank of England bills and returned the difference. Then the trouble started. Thousands of pounds worth of false bills were being returned to the Bank without a clue to those who were passing them, for Price, better known as "Old Patch," was far too tricky to employ the same servant for any length of time. It was a matter of five or six years before he was captured. The penalty for counterfeiting and forgery in those days was death, but Price cheated the law by committing suicide.

An Old Time Swindle.

It was their own oversight that led to the capture of three American forgers many years later in another raid on the Bank, which, it is related, netted the perpetrators £77,000 sterling. The swindlers, operating in 1872, went to London with $40,000, which they were prepared to spend in introducing themselves to various banks. So cleverly did they forge and alter bills they purchased on leading houses that it seemed for a time as if they would be able to continue their operations indefinitely. Finally, into the hands of a clerk came a bill on which, after the words "payable three months after sight," the date had been omitted. The clerk returned it to the original house, which declared it to be a forgery. That was the end of the forgers' career. The trio were captured and received sentences of imprisonment for life. Of the £77,000 lost by the Bank of England, £73,000 were recovered.

The earliest history of the Bank of England has romance of its own. For years the original scheme for a national bank, drawn up by William Paterson, had lain dormant, and it was not until 1694 that the Bank of England was incorporated by an act of William and Mary. Paterson himself had had a strange and varied career as farmhand, peddler on the land and adventurer in the West Indies. His friends declared that he had been a preacher, his enemies charged him with buccaneering. At all events, in 1691 he presented his plan for a national bank, and, although his own life was a series of disappointments, he lived to see his dream in operation.

At the head of a group of Scotch colonists, Paterson endeavored to settle the Isthmus of Darien. The Spaniards attacked the little colony; sickness came and death, and Paterson brought home the wreck of his band. Meantime, the Bank of England had been created. The Government was in need of £2,000,000 and had raised one million by a lottery. The second million was raised by Paterson's plan for England's first national bank, incorporating the subscribers to the loan as "The Governor and Company of the Bank of England." Forty merchants took up the loan in a matter of hours and the world's most famous financial institution came into being.

Stirring times, indeed, in the early days of the Bank of England! The South Sea Bubble arrived and London went mad with the fever of speculation. The crash came, but the Bank stood firm—a solid landmark that restored public confidence. Fully as wild a period of speculation came in 1811, when exporting was the craze. One prominent merchant even was exporting skates to tropical Jamaica. Bank ruptcies were startling the city in hundreds and money was hardly to be had at any rate of interest. So grave did the situation become that the Bank of England took to issuing silver tokens. £4,500,000 worth being issued before calmer times came.

There are many odd incidents to be found in the history of the Bank of England. There is the story of the bank manager who brought £108,000 to London in a handbag. Joint-stock banks had been formed and the Bank of England was bitterly opposed to them, even going so far as to demand cash for their paper. So one joint-stock bank was forced to send to Manchester for ready currency. The manager of the Manchester branch arrived safely in London with a fortune in his grip and then promptly left the grip in the cab that he took from the station to his hotel. A cool half-million dollars left in a cab is probably the record for absent-mindedness.

Under the Bank act of 1844, the Bank of England was limited to the circulation of a certain amount of notes and no more, but there came desperate times when, to save the situation, the limit was taken off. Those are memorable days in the "Old Lady's" career. When the 1850's came, a wave of fraud made its appearance. Also in the United States and Canada no less than 5,000 firms crashed for a total loss of $291,800,000. The London financial houses had been dealing heavily with the overseas institutions—many of them were involved to the extent of their resources. And bank frauds and embezzlements were coming out almost weekly. Under the double disasters of frauds and failures, financial London was tottering.

Conditions reached such a pitch that on one day the reserve of the Bank of England was a scant £580,751, while the sum due to other bankers was £5,458,000. The bank's bullion had been drained by the tremendous demands upon it. It was at this crisis that the Prime Minister of England stepped in. He guaranteed that he would put through Parliament a bill permitting the Bank of England to issue notes above its limit and the situation was saved.

How much money does the Bank of England keep in its vaults on an average? A London weekly, it is told, once sent an excited crowd storming through the bank's corridors and almost suspended its business through a guessing contest concerning the bank's deposits. A pound a week for life was offered to the reader who could guess nearest to the amount that would be in the bank on a certain day. No less than 718,218 guesses were turned in. The entire nation waited with eager curiosity for the result, and on the day appointed throngs of contestants poured into the bank demanding of officials, tellers and doormen the amount of deposits the bank had.

It happened to be £867,823, and an ordnance survey officer of Southampton bore off the prize with a guess of £867,525. Almost twenty contestants were within $100 of the right amount. The enterprising newspaper added to its circulation, the country had its curiosity satisfied and the "Old Lady of Threadneedle Street," the world's greatest conservative, was not too pleased at having her doors stormed by excited throngs in a popular guessing contest.

And now the "Old Lady" is moving away from Threadneedle Street for a while. When she comes back she will take up her residence in newer quarters, but the old romance that has colored her past will live as freshly as ever.

Always save sour milk since it is most delicious in griddle cakes or biscuits.

Agriculture.

The year's crop, though less than the phenomenal one of 1923, is above the average for the preceding five years (1918-22). A rise in agricultural prices has equalized conditions for the farmer as they have not been in several years past, thus promoting national harmony. The numbers of farm live stock show an increase over last year. The dairying output is mounting rapidly.

Fisheries.

The 1924 catch has been more profitable than that of 1923 by over a million dollars.

Mines.

Production in 1923 was 16 per cent. above that of 1922. In the first half of 1924 the value of metals produced went up to $47,000,000, compared with $39,000,000 in the same months of 1923. The mining industry as a whole will be well above the level of 1923 in 1924

Railways.

The net operating revenues of Canadian railways showed an increase of over $2,250,000 in 1924, compared with the preceding year. The Canadian National lines in Canada have increased their net operating revenues in 1924 by over a million and a half.

Building.

The housing scarcity which was so serious as a result of the cessation of building during the war has now been fairly met, and the nation is free to turn its capital into more immediately productive channels.

Employment.

Canada began the year 1924 on a considerably lower level than the United States but has ended the year considerably above the latter. In January, 1924, our index number was 88.7 In November it was 93.0.

A Foreign Opinion.

"Fundamentally and basically Canada is in a much more favourable situation than the United States, whose trade channels are choked with two-thirds of the world's gold supply, and where minor business flurries during the past year or two have but served to retard progress toward the ultimate goal of general business activity and broad prosperity."—Roger W. Babson, Babson Statistical Service, Boston.

A Great Financier's Judgment.

"The name of Canada stands high throughout the world. Its credit is excellent. Its resources and natural advantages are very great. It is producing a fine, sturdy, upstanding race of men and women. To be a Canadian is an excellent trade-mark everywhere. The greatness of Canada's future is beyond question."—Otto H. Kahn, at the Empire Club, Toronto.

Dollar is Ahead.

Canada is not spending more than she earns. Her dollar is the only currency in the world quoted at a premium over the United States dollar since the war.

U.F.Y.P.O. CLUBS NON-POLITICAL

Correspondent Says Objects Are to Train Good Citizens and Leaders.

GROUNDLESS FEAR.

INDIAN RIVER, Jan. 7.—In a recent issue of The Examiner I read a report entitled, "Otonabee Young People Met at Keene Tuesday."

The report goes on to tell how the Keene club had definitely decided to drop out of the debating league, because the other debating societies wanted Keene to change the name of the organization and bring it under the rules of the U.F.Y.P.O., and, further, that the members made it distinctly understood that the Keene organization is absolutely non-political and have no intention of linking up with any politica party.

Now, right here, I would like to say that the U.F.Y.P.O. clubs are not linked up with any political party. We are absolutely non-political. The object of each club as set faith in our constitution is:

To train the young people of the rural districts to make good citizens and good leaders through sane and honest teaching along the following lines: (1) Educational; (2) Moral; (3) Physical; (4) Economic; (5) Political.

Our slogan is: Organization, education and co-operation.

But last of all and most important is our pledge: "I promise to be loyal to the organization, and to follow its laws. I will strive to become a good citizen and uphold all that is good and noble in the life of the nation. I promise to be trustworthy, to give honest service, pursue knowledge, glorify God, hold on to health and be happy." This is followed by a salute to the flag; colors red, white and blue. Red for progress, white for purity, blue for reform of ideals and life. But remember, the pledge doesn't pledge us to support any political party.

There is absolutely nothing in the U.F.Y.P.O. constitution compelling its members to vote for any political party.

When the Indian River U.F.Y.P.O. club was organized it was made very clear to us by the organizer that as members of an U.F.Y.P.O. club we would be absolutely free to vote for whichever political party we wished.

I am sorry that the Keene club was forced out of the debating league because it was not an U.F.Y.P.O. club, but I regret very much if the Keene club refused to become an U.F.Y.P.O. club through the groundless fear of becoming entangled in politics.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, and hope I haven't taken up too much space. I remain, sincerely yours, Cecil Bolton, County President, U.F.Y.P.O.

FARM IMPLEMENTS FOR THE CHINESE

The Canton Christian College has been instrumental in introducing small farming implements into China from this country, and by their use the capacity of the small farmer is greatly increased. It is now possible to support a family o ffive upon a two-acre truck patch.

Auntie—You don't mean to say you understand French, Grace?"

Grace—Oh, yes, I do. When father and mother speak French at tea I know I have to take some medicine.

A Dairy Barn That Can Grow.

LINCOLN, Neb., Jan. 7.—Increasing interest among farmers to improve their dairy stock has brought so many requests from agricultural universities and experiment stations for plans and suggestions on dairy barn construction that the University of Nebraska has produced a series of such plans for general information.

For the farmer with a small stock, who wants to build up his dairying business, no better plan could be found than the one given here. It is so arranged that additions could be made to it as the herd grows.

Important factors which enter into the selection of a type of barn are: climate, topography, location relative to other buildings, size, cost, available building materials, and local regulations covering the production and disposal of dairy products.

Building Site.

A building site should be selected which is well drained so that the barnyard and the yards adjacent may be kept reasonably free from mud and filth. The site should permit the placing of the barn so as to admit an abundance of sunlight and allow free movement of air. If a windbreak can be had to the north, that is desirable.

All things considered, it is most desirable to have the long axis of the barn run north and south as this permits the most sunlight to enter the barn and also simplifies the ventilation problem in summer, as the prevailing winds are then from a southerly direction.

The production of good milk and other dairy productions requires strict sanitation. This means dry yards and barns supplied with an abundance of light. The interior of the barn should be such as to make cleaning easy. There should be no cracks or other places where dust may lodge. All corners should be rounded.

Means should be provided for removing manure quickly and easily. Gutters for collecting the manure and litter carriers or trucks for hauling it will permit this.

To do her best the cow must be comfortable. This fact should be borne in mind when planning and building the barn. The stalls should be of ample size and the stanchions should be designed and arranged to permit the cow to lie down comfortably.

Steep approaches at the doors or anywhere else in or about the barn should be avoided. The temperature of the barn in winter should not fluctuate widely, and proper attention should be given to ventilation details.

Foundation.

A concrete foundation is usually the cheapest and best and can easily be laid by unskilled labor. It should extend into the ground far enough to provide a good bearing. It should extend far enough above the ground and floor level to prevent moisture coming in contact with the sills and other framework. The plan of extending the foundation up to the bottom of the windows is a good one.

The barn walls may be built from lumber, brick, hollow tile or concrete. Regardless of the material used, the walls should be built so that they will be dry and keep the barn warm. They should be smooth in order to be easily cleaned.

On the small barns the shed or gable roof is generally used.

Use of Concrete.

Concrete makes the most satisfactory floor for the barn as it is easily laid, is reasonable in cost, and is easily cleaned. Unless kept well bedded it will feel cold due to the fact that it is a good conductor of heat and cold.

Smooth and slippery floors are not desirable, especially in the stalls and passageways. Concrete floors are generally finished with a wooden float or a brush to avoid their being too smooth.

The gutters are made with vertical sides, as shown. The width should be not less than 16 inches in order to permit easy cleaning with an ordinary shovel.

For Cleanliness.

The gutter should slope toward one end of the barn so that it may be washed out, and a drain should be placed at the low end to carry off the liquid. This drain must be of ample size to reduce the possibilities of clogging and its opening should be covered with a grating and bell trap to prevent chaff and other coarse material from entering.

Litter alleys should be of ample width and have a slope of about one inch in five feet from wall to gutter.

The various types of commercial stanchions are pretty well standardized and any of them should be satisfactory. It is cheaper to buy these than make them.

There should be some available space in a small barn which may be converted into a box stall at calving time. These should be not less than 10 feet by 10 feet in size.

Calf pens may be built at one end of the barn or in an addition at one side of the barn or in a separate building. About 30 square feet of floor space should be allowed for each animal.

Mangers.

Concrete mangers are preferred, as they are easily constructed, more sanitary, more easily cleaned. The manger may be easily washed out if given a slight fall in one direction and a drain installed at the low end.

Ordinarily, four square feet of window area is allowed for each stall, or one square foot of window area to 20 square feet of floor space. The window should be placed so that the sill is at least four feet above the floor line. It is desirable to have them arranged so that they can be opened to assist in ventilation, especially in summer.

The doors and alleys through which the cows must pass should be of such width that the cows need not squeeze through and yet not so wide as to encourage two cows to try and pass through at the same time, causing them to crowd and possibly becoming injured. From 3 feet 6 inches to 4 feet will be found desirable.

For ventilating small barns the tilting window is probably the most practicable. This avoids the necessity of constructing flues and openings.

Water Essential.

An abundant supply of fresh, pure water should always be ready. The cows may be watered from a tank in the yard or barn, or, where a water supply system is available, the water may be run into the concrete manger.

Where the cows drink from a tank care should be taken that they do not drink ice cold water. Hence a tank heater is a desirable part of the equipment. Care must be taken in winter that the pipes leading into the barn do not freeze.

The plans for a small barn, as given here, contain no storage space for hay or grain. It is not intended that this should be a permanent arrangement. It is merely temporary and will serve until the income from the cows justifies an enlargement of the plans.

The arrangement of the floor plans is such that they can readily be incorporated into larger units.

CANADA HAS HIGHER AVERAGE YIELD OF WHEAT TO THE ACRE

Leads in Last 23 Years' Average With 17.8 Bushels to the Acre—United States is Second on List With Three Bushels Less.

GREAT VARIATION FROM YEAR TO YEAR.

As the value of the wheat crop on the prairie is normally about fifty per cent. of the total value of the entire annual agricultural production of the prairie provinces, it is interesting to learn how the yields of this important crop in Canada compare with those in other countries. Briefly stated Canada has a much higher average yield per acre than any other wheat exporting country. Some countries which import wheat have a higher average yield per acre than Canada, but there are only a few of these, such as the United Kingdom, Germany and Denmark, which have a yield considerably higher, while the total quantity produced by these countries is relatively very small. Moreover the expense of producing wheat in these countries is extremely high. Even such an important wheat producing country as France has an average yield of only two bushels per acre higher than Canada, while both Italy and Rumania have lower yields per acre.

The average yield per acre of wheat, over a period of 23 years, for the following chief exporting countries of the world is as follows: Canada 17..8 bushels, United States 14..1, India 11..3, Argentine 10.6, and Australia 10..4. In Russia the average yield over a period of 15 years was 9..4 bushels per acre. It will be seen, therefore, that Canada enjoys some considerable advantage over other exporting countries. This advantage is due in part to a natural adaptation of wheat to the soil and climate of this country, and also to improved methods of cultivation as well as to better varieties of wheat which have been introduced by scientific agriculture.

Nevertheless, in spite of this very favorable showing in average yield per acre, Canada is unfortunate in having the greatest variation from year to year of any large exporting country in the world. This large variation exists not only between individual years but also between averages of two successive year periods and of five successive year periods. The lowest yield per acre ever secured in Canada as a whole was 10..1 bushels in 1919, while the highest yield was 26..0 bushels in 1915. The five year period, from 1917 to 1921, had an average yield of only 12..8 bushels per acre, while the five year period, from 1901 to 1905, had an average yield of 21..2 bushels per acre. Australia, while having less variation in per cent, than Canada in bushels per acre, has a larger variation in per cent. of the average yield. For example, in Australia in 1903 the average yield was only 2..5 bushels per acre, while in 1921, the highest yield on record, it was 16..0 bushels per acre.

The outstanding facts, then, in the Canadian production of wheat are that the average yield per acre is much better than in any other exporting country in the world but that, unfortunately, the variation from year to year is also greater than in any other country. The reason for this great variation in yield is due predominately to variation in rainfall. When the season is dry the yield is small. It is self-evident, therefore, that experimental work is urgently required to try to improve this condition. It is the object of Experimental Farms to experiment in order to discover methods of farming which will reduce the injurious effects of dry years. The high average yield per acre which Canada now enjoys in comparison with that of other countries, is due in quite a large part to the results of scientific agriculture. There remains yet the difficult task of reducing the losses suffered in dry years.

LOSSES IN SWINE.

Tuberculosis leads all causes for loss in swine. Of about 54,000,000 hogs federally inspected last year, nearly 233,000 were condemned. Nearly half were put aside for tuberculosis.

RABBIT GUARDS.

Guard your trees against the rabbit, the pest of winter. Poultry netting, corn stalks, building paper, veneer paper have been found efficient guards against the ravages of Mr. Bunny.

POULTRY RATIONS.

Plenty of grit and green food are essential for winter feeding, although the same ration as at any other time will give best results for egg production in winter. Skill in feeding is important.

STIRRING TIMES, THESE

"Anybody new in your neighborhood" one farmer asked another when they met on the road.

"The whole durn township is purty well stirred up right now," was the answer.

"What about?"

"Spring plowin's commenced."

MEETING AND PARTING.

They met by chance,
They never met before,
They met that once,
And she was smitten sore.

They never met again—
Don't want to, I avow—
They only met that once,
'Twas a freight train and a cow.

BRITAIN DEALS IN U. S. GRAIN

America Has Vision of Supplying World Through Huge Combine.

FARMER GAINS?

By ROY J. GIBBONS.

CHICAOG, Jan. 7.—The American farmer may soon feed the world on a co-operative basis.

This is the vision at headquarters of the American Farm Bureau Federation here.

The plan hangs fire on pending negotiations between representatives of two great wholesale co-operative buying societies of Great Britain and the Co-operative Grain Marketing Company of this city.

The British societies have some six million members and, with their families, represent 18 million consumers. Their net sales to members in 1923 amounted to more than $405,000,000.

Representatives from this vast purchasing population have proposed taking eleven thousand tons of American grain a week through the Co-operative Grain Marketing Company, which is affiliated with the American Farm Bureau Federation.

Only a Starter.

This tonnage would be equivalent to 370,000 bushels, or one good-sized cargo vessel capacity.

The trade commission which came to Chicago to negotiate the deal for Great Britain was composed of W. T. Charter of Cambridge, A. M. Hobley of Liverpool and Joseph Bradshaw of Manchester. All are directors in the Co-operative Wholesale Society and Scottish Wholesale Society.

President Gray Silver of the Grain Marketing Company, which is owned and controlled on a co-operative basis by American farmers, says the negotiations will eventually result in permanent trade relations between the organized consumers of England and the organized grain producers of the United States.

Better for Farmer.

Silver believes that proper co-operation will double the farmer's share of the consumer's 10 cents paid for the average loaf of bread.

At present the American grain farmer is getting but two cents out of this dime.

"A world economy organized largely on a co-operative basis so far as foodstuffs are concerned, may seem an improbable vision," says Silver. "But how many people realize that the farmers' Grain Marketing Company is already marketing more than one-half of the entire commercial grain crop of the United States?

Waste Eliminated.

"The rapidly increasing population of the world begins to crowd the production of foodstuffs, and consumers cannot much longer stand the burdens of waste and overcharges of the old system of distribution.

"Sound economic practice makes certain that the world's food producers and the world's consumers must do business directly with one another."

Parasites Are Imported To Eradicate Crop Pest

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—The United States has gone to the native countries of some of our most troublesome crop pests ot find means of their eradication.

The alfalfa weevil is being checked in its ravages by an imported parasite.

The gipsy moth, which has done great damage in New England, is being put under control by a parsite imported from Europe.

Scientists in Japan have been searching for parasites to stop the advance of the Japanese beetle, now a bad pest in New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Delaware.

And the corn-borer, native of Europe, is finding its equal in a parasite that is being introduced in the Corn Belt, also shipped from Europe.

Attractions Help Farmer Through His Hard Labor

Farm life is very interesting if everyone takes a hand in the work. But if all the work is left to one person farm life is tiresome. Everyone loves to know the reason for work on the farm.

Of course farm life is never so good that it cannot be improved. The very best of things need improvements. Life on the farm can always be improved by adding attractions to the buildings and their surroundings. The first thing that can be made appealing to the eye is the farmer's meal. If the farmer gets up from the table after eating a clean hearty meal he is always more inclined to work.

The house should be clean, bright and warm with everything [illegible] necessary to work with. The [illegible] thing to turn your thoughts to is the barn. It should have a foundation and the well should not be near the barn as the filth of the barnyard would run into the well and cause typhoid fever. PETES ADD THE HAMILTON ROWING CLUB TO THEIR LIST OF VICTIMS WINNING SECOND GAME OF GROUP

Crowd of 1,500 Fans Saw Seventh Consecutive Victory Attached to the Pennons of the Blue and White—Petes Were Inside Often and Missed Chances.

QUINN, IN HAMILTON GOAL, WAS GREAT.

Peterboro Dominated the Struggle At All Stages, But Were Given Strenuous Opposition—The Final Score Was 3-0.

ARE LEADING SENIOR GROUP.

Running their string of consecutive victories up to seven and getting a firmer grip upon the leadership of group No. 1, the Peterboro Hockey Club marked it, local senior, O.H.A. debut very effectively by defeating the Hamilton Rowing Club at Brock Street rink last night by 3 goals to nil, getting a counter in each of three periods.

One thousand five hundred fans saw a clean and interesting game that considering the ice conditions was remarkably fast.

Save in the lack of the final punch around the nets the Petes played brilliant hockey at all stages and the score does not do justice to the manner in which they dominated throughout.

They were inside often enough to have run their tally into double figures.

Hamilton's defence pair were easily tricked and the blue shirts swept through or around them enough times to have fattened their scoring averages materially.

That they got but three goals was due to two factors, inaccurate shooting caused to some extent by the soft ice and a wonderful performance by Karl Quinn, the ex-Queen's ... keeper whose work in the nets was of stellar variety.

Quinn beat them time after time and must be given credit for a sensational exhibition but there were occasions when they didn't even have to fool Quinn and they missed the open nets.

If the blue shirts develop an attack that will take advantage of the open ice they make for themselves the other teams in Group No. 1 will have to do some tall hustling to keep up with the parade.

Petes Had Edge

Everything else the Petes had last night, speed, stick-handling, aggressiveness, a lot of snappy combination and air tight goal minding behind steady and clever defensive tactics by both rear guard and front line.

They had the edge on the Scullers throughout despite the sensational Quinn and splendid performances by Garvie and Brown and the determined efforts of the visitors did not prevent it from being the easiest victory of the season for the S.P.A. champions.

By that it is not intended to infer that the Rowing Club were weaklings.

They were far from that. Quinn, Garvie and Brown would be welcomed on any man's team and the other boys were hard workers and gave all they had.

But they lacked the Pete's ability to work in close and their defence was far from being as steady as the rear guard of the homesteaders.

Under the circumstances the Scullers were a bit fortunate to have escaped so lightly.

Handicapped by Ice

The point out of course that the small surface and sticky ice were big handicaps to a team coming off an artificial ice arena.

That cannot be denied but the Petes have developed into a big ice team themselves and they revel in fast going, so that the conditions last night were not to their liking either.

The three outstanding stars of the Rowing Club team have already been named.

Quinn Was Brilliant

In order of their effectiveness the list should read Quinn, Brown and Garvie.

The goaler's work was a notable feature of the game. The Petes were around him aplenty and they drilled them high low and hard at him from all angles only to be foiled. Half a dozen times he spread eagled across the net to kick out a low shot to the corner that looked to have him beaten cold and he had the crowd applauding him before the night was over.

Fred Brown another ex-Kingstonian was the bulwark of the forward ... centre man ... of speed and he ... ast to the drop ... back checking ... was much the best of the five men used on the front line.

As for Garvie he was much better in attacking than he was as a defence man. The Petes went round him frequently, but when he got the rubber and came sailing down he revealed a nice burst of speed and clever stick-handling ability that made him dangerous.

The rest of the visiting crew hardly measured up to the big three but they had plenty of determination and never stopped trying.

Only One Weakness

As for the Petes it would be difficult to single out one player as deserving of more laurels than his team-mates. From Dwyer out the squad played nice hockey at all stages. Dwyer's clean sheet was well earned for although the rotund Joseph had not as many shots to handle as his Hamilton rival he had to extend himself after and he was always equal to the occasion. Parker and McLeod were good both ways, checking with good judgment while both rushed often and effectively and gave the Hamilton defence some thing to worry about everytime they went down. Upon the line all five Ranger, Bailey, Collins, Burgess and Rose played good hockey in all respects save around the nets. Whatever combination of these five happened to be out there had a big advantage over their opposition as a line, breaking faster and working together much more effectively than the Scullers' attacking division. It would be unfair to single out any one of the five.

Considering the mild weather of the last few days the ice was in good shape, although it naturally softened quickly and was a handicap to both the teams as it deteriorated. The experiment of keeping the rink closed until 8 o'clock, did much to save the surface.

A new feature was the playing of the National Anthem by the band, when Referee Rodden called the two teams together at the beginning of the game, the crowd standing with uncovered heads.

The line-up,—

Hamilton R.C.

Quinn, goal; Galbraith, right defence; Garvie, left defence; Brown, centre; Marsh, right wing; Kirk, left wing; Wright, and Goudie, subs.

Peterboro

Referee—M. J. Rodden, Toronto.

Opened on Quinn

The Petes set the pace at the opening of hostilities and it was soon seen that Quinn was in for a busy evening. Bailey got away for the first shot of the night, a bullet-like drive which was blocked neatly. Then Quinn saved on a quick shot from Collins. Garvie relieved the pressure with a rush to centre and a shot high over the Peterboro net. Bailey and McLeod worked in close, but the shot was foozled and soon after with the net open, Bailey shot wide. A Collins-Ranger play was foiled by Quinn.

The Petes were doing most of the attacking but they could not beat the Hamilton goaler until Galbraith was benched for tripping Bailey.

Burgess was sent out in Bailey's place and a few seconds after put the Petes into the scoring column. Parker rushed to lose the puck at Rowing Club's defence but Burgess trailing snapped a quick one at Quinn from outside and had the satisfaction of fooling Quinn completely for the first counter of the game. Petes, 1, Hamilton 0.

The Petes should have had several more before the period ended, losing some golden opportunities while Hamilton's attack was largely by long range shooting which Dwyer handled easily. Shortly before the session ended Galbraith drew a second penalty for chopping and was soon after followed to the side by Rose and Marsh for a mix-up behind the Hamilton nets.

Second Period

The pair were not back when the second period opened, having to complete their penalty. The pace was fast in this session despite the softening ice and the Petes gave Quinn little time to rest. A Parker to Bailey play seemed a sure goal getter but Bailey shot wide and repeated the stunt a little later. Finally after five minutes speedy work Parker stick-handled through a clump of Scullers and carried the rubber in close to slide it into the corner of the net out of Quinn's reach. Petes 2, Hamilton 0.

The next few minutes saw the fastest hockey of the night. Hamilton came to life after this set back and a Garvie-Brown rush placed them in scoring range but Dwyer pulled off a wonderful stop. Shorty Burgess recovered the rubber from the scrimmage that followed and went the length of the rink only to have Quinn make a fine save. Garvie came back with another raid but again Dwyer saved and then the Petes took command again McLeod's rush and neat pass to Rose nearly resulting in a counter. Garvie was benched for dumping Bailey, and the Scullers were hard-pressed while he was off, but Quinn saved them and the period ended with the score still 2 to 0.

Third Session

The Petes lost a great chance early in the third period when Ranger shot high from the wing and then with Quinn out of the net hit the post when he tried to bat in the rebound. Bailey also missed an opening but made up for it a few seconds after when he grabbed the puck at centre and ghosted through the scullers' defence carrying the rubber in on top of Quinn for a pretty goal. Petes 3, Hamilton 0.

That ended the scoring for the night. The Petes left a three-man defence working for the rest of the game and easily held their lead. In fact it should have been increased but the combination of Quinn and inaccurate shooting prevented any further registering.

JUST A FEW REBOUNDS.

Three goals is the Petes' favorite score. That is the number registered against Niagara Falls, Preston, Parkdale, Sault Ste. Marie, Aura Lee and Hamilton.

You can't beat the blue shirts for consistency. Here is the season's record:

Peterboro 3; Niagara Falls 1.
" 3; Preston 2.
" 3; Parkdale 1.
" 3; Soo 2.
" 2; Aura Lee 1.
" 3. Aura Lee 2.
" 3; Hamilton 0.

Total, Peterboro 20; opponents 9.

Quinn and Brown, two of Hamilton's stars last night, are both Kingston boys.

Aura Lee and Varsity clash tonight in Toronto. The game will give a good line on the Varsity crew, who have not yet played a game in the group.

Group Standing.

	Won.	Lost.	Goals for.	Agst.
Peterboro	2	0	6	2
Parkdale	1	0	3	2
Hamilton	0	2	2	6

Next game: Aura Lee vs. Varsity to-night.

Bailey had the first shot of the game and Bert McLeod the last one.

McLeod made a big hit with the Peterboro fans who regard him as a most valuable addition to the Petes. So is Bailey, whose speed and stick-handling make him dangerous always.

"Shorty" Burgess showed the crowd more speed than ever while he also uncorked a shot that was generally on the target.

The best of feeling was shown in last night's game, and there was not a single dirty action on either side.

The Petes beat Hamilton's defence cold three or four times by three man combination attacks, and did not get a goal out of any of the combined plays.

It was the first shut-out the Petes have affected this season. They came near having another one in the game with Niagara Falls, the latter scoring in the last few seconds.

UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA ADOPTS NEW FORM OF TESTS

BERKELEY, Cal., Jan. 7.—(Associated Press).—A new system of examinations has been adopted by Professor Warner Brown of the psychology department of the University of California. This department had used the essay form, requiring the student to write at length on several questions. Dr. Brown did not deem this a fair test, and so he formed a combination of tests.

One of the new methods requires the pupil to supply one word to make a sentence complete. In another he must choose among several alternatives. A third consists in giving him a number of statements, and asking him to tell of each whether it is true or false.

According to Dr. Brown, this type of test gives the student more choice of questions, because more ground is covered in less time. He says it exposes knowledge of a subject, rather than the mere ability to state things.

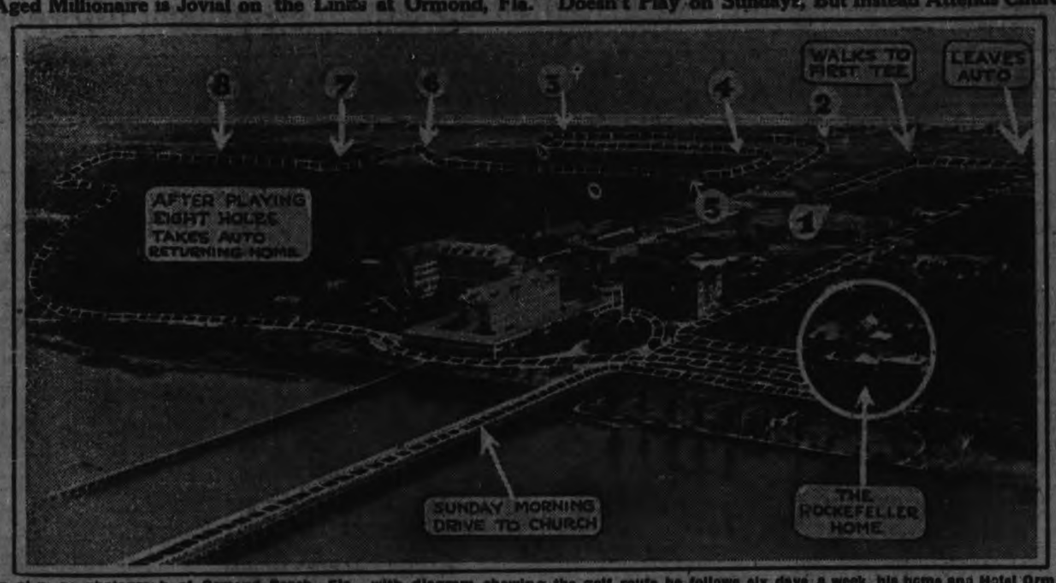
GOLFING WITH JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER

Aged Millionaire is Jovial on the Links at Ormond, Fla. Doesn't Play on Sundays, But Instead Attends Church.



An aerial photograph of Ormond Beach, Fla., with diagram showing the golf route he follows six days a week, his home and Hotel Ormond

Rockefeller on the Links.

ORMOND BEACH, Fla., Jan. 6.—The familiar figure of John D. Rockefeller once again moves across the golf links here a figure somewhat bent and infirm at 85 but one which moves with steady step.

Each day Rockefeller plays eight holes, traversing approximately 10,200 feet and averaging one and a half to two hours doing it.

His favorite costume for the game is a light gray cap, pongee coat, gray trousers and heavy tan shoes. If rain threatens he puts on rubbers, but discards them as play progresses. He usually wears dark sun glasses.

On the links Rockefeller is very jovial, keeping up a conversation with the caddies and other members of his foursome.

He does many of the holes in par and totals under 50 strokes for the eight holes, yet he is not intent on making scores so much as in making good shots. If a shot does not go true he usually asks his caddy to tee up another ball and if the following shot proves good expresses lively satisfaction.

The aged millionaire appears at the golf links promptly at 10.15 eachmorning. He is so punctual that others can set their watches by his arrival.

Hole No. 6 has a V-shaped stretch between the green and the hole. A point of pines and palmettoes forces the V and if the golfer is to make a straight drive he must lift the ball over this clump of trees. If he makes it he is likely to throw his cap high in the air like a joyful boy.

Par for No. 6 is five and he often does it in par, frequently driving 150 yards.

This golfing octogenarian usually is going stronger at the eighth hole than whe nhe started but he calls it a day there and is driven home.

Asked why he favored golf, Rockfeller answered, "Golf has helped me. You must learn your limitation and not overtax your strength. Golf brings you into contact with good, wholesome people who like the outdoors."

Every Sunday morning he drives to church. In the evening he attends the concerts at Hotel Ormond, immaculately clad in a dress suit. There he holds a sort of informal reception, throwing his arms about the shoulders of old acquaintances and telling bright yarns.

And Sunday is the only day he does not go chasing the golf ball over the links and capturing health and longer life with each step.

KEENE AND PETERBORO RINKS IN LAKEFIELD 'SPIEL SEMI-FINALS

KEENE HAS THREE.

All Otonabee Club's Entries in Semi-Finals For Dawson Cup.

LAKEFIELD, Jan. 7.—The Keene Curling Club's three rinks in Lakefield's fourth annual bonspiel reached the semi-finals of the Dawson Cup competition yesterday, and Jack Moore, the bellwether of the Keene flock, also qualified for the Charlton Cup semi-finals.

The success of the Otonabee entries was one of the outstanding features of this year's bonspiel, which brought together seventeen rinks of the most ardent curlers of the district.

Keene and Peterboro were each represented by three rinks, Campbellford sent two, Ed. Gregory skipped a rink from Lindsay, and Lakefield put eight rinks into the fray, which began Tuesday morning.

The visitors were cordially welcomed by the Lakefield curlers, and the draw for the three competitions was quickly completed. A coincidence was the presence of four Moore rinks. The redoubtable Jack from Keene was one of the stalwart skips, Sam. Moore of the Trent Valley Woollen Mills also had a rink, Ira Moore of Peterboro skipped another, and N. A. Moore of Lakefield was the fourth. These skips would have themselves composed a crack rink against any curling.

Ray Best of Peterboro survived to the semi-finals in both the major series. For the Charlton Cup he was pitted to play his club-mate, Jack Bacon, last year's winner of both the Charlton and Dawson trophies. In the other Charlton semi-final Jack Moore and N. A. Moore started this morning.

In the Dawson series Best and Stan. Taylor of Keene were to provide a winner to meet the better of the other two Keene survivors, Jack Moore and George Howson.

The ice was in fine condition, and the bonspiel has been the best of the four which have been conducted by the Lakefield Club.

5 SCHOOLS IN HOCKEY GROUP

Lindsay, Port Hope and Cobourg, with P.C.I. and St. Peter's.

GAMES POSTPONED.

St. Peter's School and P.C.I. each have a team entered in the Central Ontario Intercollegiate Hockey League. The two local teams are in the same group and are also grouped with Lindsay C. I., Port Hope H. S., and Cobourg Collegiate.

The grouping of the three northern schools S. P. S., P. C. I. and Lindsay C. I., with the two lakeshore teams is causing complications and no little dismay. Grouped thus it means that much expense will be incurred in the trips to the lake, when an overnight stay in Cobourg with difficulty be averted. Also it means a five-team group, which is unwieldly, and makes too many games. As a winner must be declared before February 7 it necessitates two games a week, one a mid-week game, which is absolutely impossible for either of the local teams when this game would be played away.

Lindsay Collegiate also finds the new plan irksome, and suggests that they and the two local schools be formed into a group, as in previous years, and that Cobourg and Port Hooe be bagged with Bowmanville and Oshawa. In fact, the Scugog school will have to drop out unless the present schedule and grouping is altered.

A meeting will likely be called in the immediate future to settle this difficulty definitely.

Meanwhile there is another change in this league which is likely causing consternation among some of the schoo's. This is Rule A of the Rules and Regulation of the league, which reads: "Players must be bona-fide pupils, in regular attendance from 9 o'clock till 4 (or 3.30), and attending recognized courses in the High or Continuation School or Collegiate Institute, and they must have been in attendance by November and must have obtained at least fifty per cent. on the total at the fall examination set by the staff of the school." It is the last clause that is meeting with disfavor in some of the schools. Some of the members of last year's team of the P. C. I. will likely be barred if this rule is adhered to. In St. Peter's, all the players are eligible under this rule, and their certificates are signed. In P. C. I. the Christmas examinations are "stickers," and some will certainly fall under the ban.

Many believe that this rule should be omitted, a player he allowed the honor of playing on his school team if the principal believes he is worthy.

The P. C. I. were scheduled to play Lindsay Collegiate at Scugogville today, but this game didn't have a chance of taking place, as the P. C. I. have not yet had a practice and the principal, Mr. Kenner, would certainly not allow a mid-week fixture.

Saturday, Lindsay C. I. were drawn against St. Peter's School at Brock Street Arena. This game is also dished, as Lindsay refuse to play until the grouping is settled.

GREASING THE TROLLEY WIRE

A number of substantial advantages have been derived from greasing the trolley wire. In the first place it prevents sparking, which is severe on the eyes of those who happen to be in the vicinity, and it also prevents much wear and tear on the wire. The idea of greasing the wire is particularly valuable when applied to electric mine haulage. One greasing of the wire serves for five or six months.

GROH TO START AT THIRD BASE

McGraw Decides Young Lindstrom Must Wait—Heinie Played Great Game in Europe.

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—The veteran Heinie Groh will start the season next Spring at his old post, third base, according to a most positive announcement made by Manager John J. McGraw of the Giants. It will be remembered that the youthful Fred Lindstrom, when called upon to fill in at the far corner owing to a leg injury suffered by Groh toward the close of last season, aroused the Polo Grounds fans to a frenzy by his brilliant playing.

Young Lindstrom did more than his share in the gaining of those three straight victories over the Pirates which practically cinched the pennant for the Giants. Then, too, during the world series this nineteen-year-old "kid" conducted himself like an old stager both in the field and at the bat. It was natural for folks to predict that the days of Groh as a Giant regular third baseman were ended.

But McGraw says nay, nay to all such prognostications.

"You should have seen Heinie play during the recent European tour of the Giants and the White Sox," quoth John J. "If ever any fellow put up a more slashing game than Groh did over there, then I know nothing about third basing. And recall, too, how well Heinie was going last season until laid low with that trick leg of his.

"I have nothing but praise for young Lindstrom. He's a mighty handy boy to have around, but he can view a few more games from the bench without doing him any harm. He's young and has lots of time to grow into a Groh. That's what they call a 'bon mot' over on the other side, isn't it.

For once youth will not be served until age has given its all.

FINN RUNNER WON 2 IMPORTANT RACES

Crowd of Twelve Thousand Witnessed Spectacular Victories.

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, New York, Jan. 7. — Paavo Nurmi, "Phantom Finn," wrote epic indoor track and field history last night when he started his American campaign with two spectacular victories, in which he shattered three world's records and conquered decisively the pick of his American and Finnish rivals.

Nurmi opened his epoch-making performance by racing to triumph in the mile race, in which he defeated by a narrow margin his greatest rival, Joie Ray. Less than two hours later he returned to the boards to run away from his countryman, Willie Ritola, at 5,000 metres, in a race fought out exclusively between the two doughty Finns.

Nurmi shattered two of his records in the mile run and third in 5,000 meter race, and in each instance he displayed standards which Ray, former king of the mile run, had put on the record books. His time for 1,500 meters was 3.55 1-5, as compared with Ray's former record of 4.01 3-5 made last year while at the mile Nurmi's time of 4.13 3-5 clipped a full second from the old mark Ray established in 1919. Nurmi concluded his unprecedented sweep when he broke the tape in the 5,000 meter event in 14.44 3-5, which bettered by ten seconds the record Ray hung up in 1923. On his way to this mark however, Nurmi failed by three seconds to equal the three-mile record which Ritola set in 1923 at 14.15 4-

Loren Murchison, sprinting ace of Newark A. C., shared the main portion of the night's laurels when he sped to the new world's sprint mark at 50 meters, 220 yards and 5 meters while Alan Helfrich, Penn State flier, established a new mark for 500 meters.

Cyril Coafee, Canadian Olympic star, running under the colors of the Illinois A. C., was third in the 60-meter dash. Phyl Granville, Hamilton, Ont., Y.M.C.A., took second place in the two-mile walk.

A crowd of close to 12,000 thronged the historic Garden to its rafters gave Nurmi an ovation such as few athletes have ever received.

Scientists show the world is five times bigger than they thought it was ....It still isn't big enough to hold an egotistical golfer who has just holed out in one.

Whether London fight fans will fall for Firpo is a question, but if Firpo gets half a chance he'll surely fall for them, as usual.

Mr. Tex Rickard thinks he would be in favor of the huddle system.... "I can't get enough birds together at a fight these days to start a huddle," he laments.

Well, it looks as if we're finally back to normalcy .....No fewer than 4876 cartoonists used an aged gent and a new-born babe to depict the changing of the years.

Even an editor must have his little joke ....We note the life story of Cyril Walker is being published.

Mr. Mussolini of Italy seems to be caught between third and home in a run-down, as the baseball writer would put it.

Harry Greb has married an actress and we hope he doesn't get up stage about it.

The secret of Joe Bush's dismissal by the Yankees has been disclosed .....Bush is a violinist.

"The good die young" .....This seems particularly applicable to good automobile racers.

It was Ban Johnson who suggested building a home for aged baseball players, but it remained for Clark Griffith to start one.

LOCAL JUNIORS PLAY FIRST GAME TO-NIGHT.

Meet Lindsay Juniors in O.H.A. Fixture at Lindsay Rink.

Peterboro Juniors play their first O.H.A. game this evening in Lindsay when they meet the Scugog boys The Petes boast a fast team and figure on having very little trouble in doing away with the Lindsay boys. Salmon will make his first appearance with the team tonight and from the showing he made with the seniors in the S.P.A. Series he would strengthen the line-up considerably. The Petes team to-night will likely line up as follows. Goal, J. LeBarr, Defence, Colling, Johnston and Cheu centre McDougal, right wing, Riddath, left wing, Salmon; subs. Maudsley and Milloy. With this line up the Petes should have no trouble in downing the Lindsay team.

FORMER PETERBORO BOY APPOINTED

W. H. Munro on the Directorate of Canadian Company Representing Vickers Limited.

W. Hamilton Munro, M.E.I.C., University of Toronto (Science), '04, has been appointed a member of the board of directors of the new company which will represent in Canada the combined interests of Vickers, Limited, London, England, and of International Combustion Engineering Corporation, New York. The company is named Vickers and Combustion Engineering, Limited, the head office is in Toronto. Sir A. Trevor Dawson, of London, is chairman, and A. J. T. Taylor, of Vancouver and Toronto, is president and managing director. Mr. Munro is also in charge of Vickers Hydro Electric Department, and will act as resident director in England for the new company.

Mr. Munro is an old Peterboro boy. For several years he was in charge of the Peterboro Radial Railway and other interests of the Peterboro Light and Power Company.

IS THE NEW SOCCER RULE A BENEFIT?

Places the Blame on the Overburdened Referee.

The following new rules adopted in the Old Country have not been adopted as yet in this country, but are regularly at the D.F.A. annual meeting. Read and study the following:—

'These new rules are a great mistake. They are throwing far too many responsibilities on referees, who had too much to attend to as it was, and the result is that refereeing is becoming less satisfactory that it used to be." Thus a leading football official's views on the new rules and their application—and he is not alone in his opinion. Many share the view that the new rules introduced at the beginning of this season are largely a mistake. Few find fault with the decision that a goal may be scored direct from a corner kick. That happens so seldom that it is scarcely worth worrying about, and the winger who can put sufficient screw on a ball to net it direct from a corner kick deserves all the goals he can get. But when it comes to the ruling that when a man is injured, play must continue until the ball goes 'dead," that is another story.

Opinion Expressed.

Though an accident may be quite a serious matter to the player involved, the game continues until the ball is out of play; and there are not lacking those who protest that the game is being brutalised by this new departure. That perhaps is stressing the thing unduly, but certainly it is not pleasant to see a man falling and lying in pain while the game goes on around him. There is something not altogether to the liking of the true sportsman in the new order of things. True, there is nothing to prevent any player from ignoring the play and rushing to the help of an injured comrade, but when the tussle is keen few players care to run such an obvious risk of letting their side down, and opponents are too intent on pressing home any advantage they may have gained to be immediately concerned about the 'crocked" one.

Offside Complications.

The complication of the offside rule, too, has proved puzzling to many, and has given rise to considerable heartburning. 'Can a player be on the field of play and yet not interfering with the play?" a goalkeeper asked me in all earnestness the other day. He instanced a concrete case of a winger who was obviously in an offside position when an attack was developed. The winger stood stock still, the goalie said, and so, according to rule, did not interfere with play. But the goalkeeper could not get the man out of his mind, and, though not interfering with actual play, the winger distracted the attention of the custodian; and a goalie in two minds is not what a team yearns for.

Question of "Interference."

Then, again, i tis upon the referee that the responsibility devolves of saying whether a player is or is not interfering with play. Some referees who favour prompt decisions whistle immediately they see a player ying offside and the ball going in his direction. They do not take the risk of waiting to see whether the player means to interfere with play; and if the player has made no endeavour to touch the ball and the whistle goes against him, he feels aggrieved, his team sympathise with him, and the spectators are hardly complimentary towards the knight of the whistle. On the other hand, if the referee does not signal offside, the other team have their grouse—and so the tootler is between the devil and the deep sea.

Where Improvement is Wanted.

It is questionable whether it is altogether wise to bamboozle referees by introducing new complications into the game. Already the duties of the man entrusted with the whistle were sufficiently varied and arduous. He had ample responsibilities without adding to them; and experience so far has not shown the new rules any advance on the old in the way of brightening up the game or securing greater continuity of play. Where clearer elucidation is needed and some new provisos necessary is in the demarcation line between 'foul" and 'no foul" when the ball is handled inadvertently, and the referee's mind might be eased by starting and ending games by gunshot signals in the manner of five-a-side tournaments.

BANDIT CHASER

This little thing-a-ma-jig looks like a tape line all rolled up. It isn't. It's stressnal, a new device to rout bandits. You can hold it in either hand or throw it away from you when you press the button. It automatically explodes 22 blank cartridges in succession. The explosions, according to the inventor, can be heard half a mile. Elsie Sulkop of Cincinnati is seen here trying it out.

CHANGE IN CRICKET URGED BY CANADIAN

Rev. R. F. Dixon Suggests That It Should Be Speeded Up.

That certain modifications in the playing rules, aimed to speed up the game, would do much to add to the popularity of cricket in America is the opinion of the Rev. R. F. Dixon, head of the Wolfville (Nova Scotia) Cricket Club, honorary life President of the Annapolis Valley Cricket League and one of the outstanding figures in the sport in the Dominion. Writing a review of the sport in Canada in The Montreal Star, in which he comments upon the steady decline of cricket in the Dominion for a period of twenty years and then its sudden restoration to popularity and revival of interest within the last few years, Dr. Dixon also urges as a means of further developing the sport a linking up of cricket with baseball.

"There is a pretty general objection, I find, that cricket is too slow a game, and consumes too much time, and I am free to admit that there is something in this. Most people, it is urged, find it impossible to spend half or a whole day, and sometimes even longer, watching a match between really expert teams. The game, it is claimed, if it is ever to regain a substantial measure of its old popularity in Canada, needs quickening up. With this to a certain extent I am in full agreement. I would like to see the number of balls in and "over" increased to ten. A great deal of the preliminary dawdling, that often takes place before the game begins, might be cut out in many cases to much advantage.

"The widening and heightening of the wickets have also been advocated. Their present width and height, it is contended by some, give the batsman an undue advantage over the bowler. This I think is worthy of serious consideration, especially in the matter of the height of the wicket. How often one sees on lumpy ground ball after ball delivered "dead on," clear the wicket by apparently a hair's breadth. This is hardly fair on the bowler, especially when "overhand" bowling, as we used to call it in my youthful days, has become universal.

"The underhand bowler who delivered 'grubs' and 'twists' was not handicapped in this way. His balls shot in on the level. But the modern bowler, who delivers his ball clipping balls from the shoulder at three-quarters pitch, is, it seems to me, at a marked disadvantage as compared with the old-time bowler to whom the wickets were a relatively easy mark. Some also advocate extending the practice of 'declaring innings when a very large score has been run up with a number of men still to bat, and allowing the other side to go in.

TRINITY CHURCH CHOIR CONCERT

Visiting Artists Hold High Place in the Musical World.

In view of the fact that Mme. Fern Fillion, soprano soloist, Ferdinand Fillion, violinist, and Horace Lapp, accompanist, are giving a concert in Trinity church, assisted by the choir, on the occasion of the anniversary on Monday night, January 12th, a few words of introduction will no doubt be very acceptable to the music lovers of Peterboro, this being the first visit of the above named artists to this city.

Mme. Fillion is ranked amongst the finest soprano soloists of the present day and her numerous engagements stand out as evidence of her wonderful popularity as a singer.

The following are extracts from the "press" at Hamilton, at which city Mme. Fillion fulfilled an engagement recently.

The Hamilton "Spectator" says: "Both press and public were unanimous in praise of the programme given by Mme. Fillion last Wednesday. The singer, who is a coloratura soprano, possesses a voice remarkable for its clarity, elasticity and sweetness and a distinction of style characteristic of the best traditions of the French school. She is mistress of the art of florid singing and in a varied and difficult programme displayed sound technique and interpretative ability of a high order." The Herald commented: "Mme. Fillion has a very charming gift, having not only a coloratura organ of very real merit, but the artistry to sustain it. Purity of tone, nicety of enunciation and beauty of production all mark her singing."

In Toronto also the name of Mme. Fillion appearing on a programme is sufficient reason for packing the hall to capacity.

Her programme on Monday night which is a varied and difficult one, is assured of a good reception and by her interpretation of the various items combined with a charming personality, Mme. Fillion's ability to captivate her audience is beyond doubt.

Ferdinand Fillion, whose remarkable renditions on the violin is worthy of highest praise and along with Mme. Fillion will be heard to perfection at the concert. His programme, consisting of selections from the greatest masters of the stringed instrument and others, will command the admiration and applause of the audience.

Horace Lapp, accompanist, is well known in Toronto as one of the city's foremost pianists and any words of highest commendation would fall short of richly deserved praise.

Those in charge consider themselves very fortuntae in having secured the services of these three famous musical artists and all music lovers can be assured of listening to a programme of an exceedingly high order, and disappointment will be entirely out of the question. The artists' visit to Peterborough should prove to be an inspiration to music lovers and ever remain a very pleasant memory.

Noise of Squeaky Brakes May Easily Be Remedied

When a brake squeaks it shows that it is not doing its wowrk effieiently ,as correct braking operations consists of a smooth gripping action without squeaks or chatter. Chatter is caused by an alternative gripping and releasing of the bands on the drums. This is caused partly by the design of the bands and partly by the method of fastening the linings. As the bands are open on one side they cannot conform to the shape of the drums unless they are of the right shape.

If, when the pedal is pressed, the bands start to wrap from the bottom and continue upward on both sides, the changes of chatter are not so great. But if the bands take hold first at the top, the slack on both sides must be taken up first before they will lay flat on the drums, producing chatter. If the bands are bent or kinked when the linings are attached, they will not grip the drum evenly, producing chatter and uneven wear.

Squeaks are caused by the linings becoming hard and glazed, due to the friction and the application of pressure which presses the grit into the linings. Roughing the surface of the linings with a saw blade or coarse file will usually remedy the trouble, says Automotive Digest. Probably an easier way is to apply a mixture of castor oil and powdered resin to the linings. The former acts as a softener, while the latter increases the frictional resistance.

Horse Shows Feelings Towards An Automobile

A city-owned automobile will be permanently marked with an escutcheon in which the family's heraldic arms may be placed as the result of an incident that occurred on Aylmer Street this morning.

A horse was being led behind a car, and showed a disinclination to play second fiddle to the mechanical carriage. On reaching Hunter Street, the animal became almost unmanageable and the car was stopped for consultation between the driver of the auto and the man who was holding the horse's halter.

That was the horse's opportunity. He turned away from the car, raised his near hoof and planted it solidly and forcibly on the exact centre of the front door.

There remains the imprint of the shoe in the enamel and a dint in the door itself.

AT THE ROYAL.

"SIREN OF SEVILLE" TO LEAVE ROYAL.

"The Siren of Seville," Priscilla Dean's latest starring vehicle, terminates its run at the Royal to-night.

It is a colorful production laid in the town of the bullfights and centres about the loves of a dashing Senorita and her toreador sweetheart.

The brilliant supporting cast includes Stuart Holmes, Allan Forrest, Stuart Holmes, Claire de Lorez, Mathew Betz and Bert Woodruff.

H. H. Van Loan, author of Priscilla Dean's previous triumph, "The Virgin of Stamboul," wrote the story. Jerome Storm and Hunt Stromberg directed.

LON CHANEY IN "THE SHOCK" AT ROYAL THURSDAY.

Another of the bigger productions has been secured by the Royal for the last half of this week. Lou Chaney and Virginia Valli in "The Shock," a thrilling story of San Francisco's underworld and high society, a powerful romance and adventure story with the greatest climax yet conceived in a motion picture, the destruction of San Francisco by earthquake and fire. Chaney has long been recognized as the screen's greatest character actor, and "The Hunchback of Notre Dame" proved that he is very popular locally.

A NOBLE LOVE IN MARRIAGE DRAMA.

One of the cruelest trials for a lover is to have to aid another man to win favor with the woman he loves. Self-sacrifice is the real proof of love. If a man can forget his own happiness and help his beloved to get hers, his love is truly noble and unselfish.

This was the test that Philip Cochran had to meet in "Another Man's Wife," the new James Kirkwood-Lila Lee picture which comes to the Royal Theatre soon. He had fallen in love with "Mary Trevelyn" only to find that she was Helen Brand whose husband had sworn to kill her for her supposed unfaithfulness. His love was hopeless, but because it was real he determined to do all in his power to save the woman he loved and bring her happiness. He took her aboard a ship to get her away from the murderous designs of her husband and saved her life when the ship was wrecked. When he discovered Helen's husband was also a passenger he convinced Brand that Helen was innocent of any wrongdoing. He had the pain of seeing them safe in each other's arms, but he couldn't be entirely unhappy because he had brought happiness to the woman he loved.

"Another Man's Wife" has a splendid cast. It is headed by James Kirkwood. Lila Lee, Matt Moore and Wallace Beery.

AT THE REGENT.

Lakes and Trees Appear on Mojave Desert.

The Mojave Desert which, is the background of the action in "The Code of the Wilderness," the David Smith production which will be shown at the Regent Theatre tomorrow, is celebrated for its mirages.

Many a director inexperienced in desert troubles has selected a location in the evening that showed nothing but a vast stetch of waste sand, growing nothing but a little cactus and some wild sage. The next morning on arrival on location ready to shoot has found a background of mountains, lakes, palms, which soon disappeared leaving the director puzzled.

Director David Smith and the company of Vitagraph players including Alice Cahoun, John Bowers, Alan Hale, Charlotte Merriman, Kitty Bradbury and Otis Harlan, witnessed several mirages during the production.

These mirages are caused by the lower strata of air becoming of a decidedly different temperature from the higher strata so that the sky and objects in the upper strata are seen by reflection from the plain. The sky appears like water and the clouds, distant mountain peaks and trees are distorted into queer shapes and forms oftentimes inverted.

INTRODUCED NEW SONG.

BERLIN, Jan. 7.—(United Press)—Anti-Semitics have introduced a new song, which is most popular when sung by the Fascisti in the cafes, entitled "Hurrah, the Synagogaes Burning."

AT THE CAPITOL.

"Three Women" is a Lubitsch Product at Capitol To-day.

"Three Women," the production to which Ernst Lubitsch, the well known director, has again so well applied his unusual talent, is to be presented at the Capitol Theatre, today and Thursday. Theatre-goers are looking forward with more than customary interest to the appearance of another Lubitsch masterpiece knowing that each production is even greater than the one before.

The story deals with an unusual situation of three women and one man—far removed from the trite plot of the everlasting triangle.

Mrs. Wilton, awake to the realization that she is growing older and will soon lose her attraction to men, decides to marry again, and chooses as her subject Lamont, a man about town, in love with her money rather than herself. When Mrs. Wilton's daughter returns from school, Lamont transfers his attentions to her and inveigles her into marrying him. Then come months of unhappiness when Lamont, having fulfilled his monetary desires, finds himself a sweetheart and neglects his wife. The climax is reached when Mrs. Wilton shoots Lamont when he refuses to release her daughter. After the trial and acquittal, Mrs. Wilton is reconciled to being just a mother and rejoices in the marriage of her daughter with her old sweetheart.

The cast of this Warner Bros. Classic of the Screen is the usual Warner combination of brilliant stars Heading the list are May McAvoy, who takes the part of the daughter; Marie Prevost the sweetheart, and Pauline Frederick, the mother, supported by Lew Cody, as the alluring villain, Pierre Gendron, Mary Carr and Willard Louis.

Original Demonstration of the McLaughlin-Buick Chassis

Ample demonstration that the McLaughlin-Buick Chassis is sealed from dust, dirt, ice and water was shown to the public last Saturday when a McLaughlin-Buick chassis was completely incrusted with a mass of ice including the motor which performed so ably inclosed in a block of ice. This proves that "Canada's Standard Car" is so constructed that it will perform efficiently under the most adverse weather conditions. That dust and dirt is one of the greatest enemies of any machine is widely known. All McLaughlin-Buick parts are sealed behind iron and steel housings. This is a guarantee of longer life to all working parts

That great interest was taken in this unique demonstration was proven by the great numbers gathered round to see the McLaughlin-Buick chassis where ever it chanced to stop.

This chassis is now on display at the Show Rooms of the local dealer Mr. A. Brown, 383 Water street, where all are invited to come and see it, whether you are a prospective purchaser or not it will be to your interests to see the many exclusive features that makes the McLaughlin-Buick "Canada's Standard Car".

We will be open from seven to nine o'clock the balance of this week for your convenience. 1d

French Finance Minister Lays Blame on Britain and United States.

INFORMAL TALK.

British and French Ministers Agree to Hold Allied Conference.

PARIS, Jan. 7.—A highly important talk between Finance Minister Clementel of France and Winston Churchill, British Chancellor of the Exchequer, was held this afternoon in advance of the opening of the Finance Ministers' conference.

A communique on the subject issued after the meeting threw little light on the discussion, merely declaring there had been an unofficial exchange of views on the general aspects of the inter-allied debts. It is understood, however, that Mr. Churchill opened the discussion by setting forth the well known British standpoint that Great Britain must receive from her war debtors sums equivalent to those she must pay the United States.

The French Finance Minister's reply was that the French were obliged to take exactly the same attitude—that France likewise could not forgive her debtors while obliged to pay her creditors.

Up to that point it appeared the conversation was easy in tone. It grew more difficult when Clementel began to place the responsibility for the diminution in reparation payments which France may expect from Germany, charging it to the other allied and associated powers.

France, in his view, had yielded to the demands of Great Britain and the United States in accepting a reparation settlement which reduced her share by more than half without obtaining any absolute assurance that she would be able to collect even that reduced claim.

Mr. Churchill averred in substance it is declared, that the Dawes plan was freely accepted by all the allies as a necessary measure to restore the economic situation not only in Germany but in all Europe and that France was not the only power that made a necessary concession.

M. Clementel is understood to have suggested, as an alternative measure to the payment of war debts proportionately to receipts under the Dawes plan, an agreement by which the French percentage or reparation payments fixed at the Spa conference in July, 1920, would be ceased through the elimination of pensions from the war damage claims.

Churchill was unable to accept this proposition. He proposed according to unofficial acounts of the meeting a general war debt conference. The French Finance Minister is understood to have expressed himself as being quite willing to take part in such a conference, although he regarded it as unlikely to produce any definite results in the absence of the representatives from the United States.

MRS. CHAPLIN STILL ATTENDING SCHOOL

An Heir to the Throne of the King of Mirth is in Prospect.

LOS ANGELES, Calif. Jan. 7.—(United Press). — An heir to the throne of King of Mirth is in prospect, according to a statement published this morning by the Los Angeles Times. Mrs. Charlie Chaplin known on the screen as Lita Grey, whose marriage to the fun-king a month ago in Mexico was a sensation, is quoted as saying that both she and Charley "hope it is a girl," the time will be some time this summer", Mrs. Chaplin is quoted as saying.

Elaborate preparations for the "greatest event in my life", reported to be in progress under Mrs. Chaplin's direction.

Mrs. Chaplin is also quoted as saying that the Los Angeles Board of Education continues to insist that she pursue her studies under the law requiring persons under 18 to attend school. Mrs. Chaplain is 16. "I think they are harder on me than on the average girl" she said. The Chaplins are living in the palatial home which Charlie built not long before his marriage in which there is plenty of opportunity to build a nursery one of the things it it understood is being planned.

BIG CROWD AT POULTRY SHOW

Many Features on the Programme To-night—Large Entry List.

The Poultry Show at the Armories had a fairly good attendance for their opening session last evening, and a big crowd is expected tonight. Bird lovers and fanciers have an excellent opportunity of seeing, in the eleven hundred birds of different species exhibited in the big building, the latest and best in the poultry world. This year's show surpasses that of last season by about one hundred entries, and the stage is all set for a large patronage to-night. Many of the coops are ornamented with the red, blue and gold ribbons that indicate prize winners. The new variety, the "Chanticler," has a first prize ribbon attached to each entry. As if in comparison to the benefits to this breed of absence of comb and wattles in a cold northern land ,the next coop contains a lordly rooster with a badly frosted topknot.

The fowl are all in excellent condition and no casualties have yet occurred in their ranks. Special precautions were taken as to their care this year, and much disinfecting done of the water-cups that supply their drink. Several of these cups contain a purplish fluid a medicine that is absorbed with their potations. One Cornish lady with a cold that closed both of her eyes yesterday, has been imbibing enough of the healing stuff to make her quite perky today. The Pitt Game cock, however, with a beautiful, variegated coat of feathers, who slept heavily yesterday is just as drowsy today. His little grey-garbed partner guards him carefully, as he languishes with down-dropped head.

This afternoon, the waterfowl were taking a little siesta. They slumbered peacefully, lustrous - coated Cayuga ducks fronting the big coop when an African goose slept in the most uncomfortable position imaginable, head thrust back into downy back feathers, one leg doubled up beneath it. One light eye peeped from the ruffled neck fathers that surrounded the head of the white Jacobin pigeon above it. Over at the far end, above the gobbling turkeys, are the downy white Angora bunnies and a lonesome little brown Belgian hare.

Several exhibits are on view against the side walls. There are bags and pans full of poultry food, shown by the Maple Leaf Milling Company, Frank H. Dawson's attractive exhibit of egg mash, the Governmental egg-candling demonstration, with its literature, a nicelooking lot of eggs, in brown and white, and half a dozen dressed fowl with their heads askew. Gerald A. Wood has a large pen containing his laying beauties, spotless White Leghorn with a brisk, busy look that contrasts sharply with the languid demeanor of the lazy sisters of the barnyard, the brown Cornish ladies, who do not care much about increasing the egg production of the world, and rely on their reputations as a toothsome pot bird to get them by.

At a little table near the entrance, representatives of The Poultry Tribune and the Canadian Poultry Journal of Toronto sell copies of their publications.

This evening, the demonstrator of the proper method of killing fowl will be on hand and exhibit his skill. Tomorrow evening, cups and special awards will be distributed by Mayor Turner. The judges, Messrs. J. E. Bennet of Toronto and H. T. Lush of Peterboro', are getting through their work with speed.

This morning pupils of the Prince of Wales School, with their principal, G. S. Mattice, visited the Show.

PROPOSED IMPERIAL CONFERENCE FAILED

Intense Disappointment in British Circles To-day.

(By Herbert Bailey.)

LONDON, Jan. 7.—(British United Press.)—There is intense disappointment in British official circles over the collapse of the proposed imperial conference. There is a feeling in the ministry that the Dominions have not grasped the world importance of the Geneva protocol and of Austen Chamberlain's alternative policy. It is essential for reasons of the world policy as well as for the Imperial policy that the Home Government and the Dominions should have some effective system of consultation on vital questions of this nature and it is realized that some means other than the irregular Imperial conferences must be devised for the Imperial consultation.

While the official decision with regard to the proposed conference will not be announced until after Colonel Amery's return from Geneva, the ministers have come to the conclusion that in view of the unfavorable attitude of the Dominions towards the suggestions, the project must be abandoned altogether and other existing means for consultation with regard to the current issue be issued. In the meantime Hon. P. C. Larkin and the High Commissioners from the other Dominions, are watching with interest the experiment of Australia, in establishing a liaison officer to keep the foreign office in continual touch with the Australian headquarters here. The experiment raises questions within the office of the commissioners which are very delicate and difficult to solve. It is altogether likely that the situation will develop into the formation of an Imperial secretariat in London which will report direct to the Dominions.

REAL ENTERTAINMENT.

Love, Pathos and Genuine Humor For Those Who Hear Herbert W. Piercy.

The effort to find something that is new in entertainment seems the most important thing these days. The shows must have startling features or they do not attract. The old time style of entertainment that was good enough for the parents and grandparents in their youth, are now passed by without a thought of how really fine they are. The next day, when we hear from those who attended a good lecture or concert, how much they enjoyed it, is too late to be sorry we did not go. We realize then that modern people are still capable of appreciating that kind of entertainment and we are willing to try it at the next opportunity.

Well, there's such a privilege ahead of Peterboro' people right now. A few months ago Herbert W. Piercy was at Murray Street Baptist Church, and told in most interest-holding style ,the story of Jean Valjean, interspersed at intervals with the richest humor talks, that kept his audience in perfect good nature for the entire evening.

He is to be here again on Tuesday, January 13th, in the same church, and his subject this time will be "The Greatest Love Story in History." Don't wait till next day and have your friends tell you how fine he was. Secure tickets now, and make a point of being there this time. You certainly will get big value for your 35c.

MONTREAL RUGBY STAR HELD FOR MURDER BY ILLEGAL OPERATION

Art Evans, of M. A. A. A. Team Implicated With Others by Coroner's Jury.

FIVE ARRESTED.

Alexander Sweezey Alleged to Have Performed Operation on Hamilton Girl.

MONTREAL, Jan. 8.—(Canadian Press).—"Art" Evans, football star of the Montreal Amateur Athletic Association, and Alexander Sweezey, a brakeman, whose family is resident in the United States, are held here on the charge of murder by illegal operation performed on Mary Kelly, 23-year-old Hamilton girl, who died in a St. Matthew Street Apartment on Monday afternoon. Three others, T. Hicks Miller, director of Athletics of the Montreal A.A.A., Jack Corrigan, manager of the M.A.A.A. Rugby Squad of 1924 and Imilda Borugeau, telephone operator in the Medical Arts building, are held as accessories before the facts.

Arrests followed the enquiry by Coroner McMahon and a jury into the death of Miss Kelly, and warrants were immediately issued, preliminary enquette being set for today.

Mary Kelly, whose home was at Redhill, Bartonville, near Hamilton, Ontario, was found dead in the St. Matthew apartment—the regular resident of which was Imilda Bourgeau, the one woman under arrest—when Dr. Frank Scully, of the Medical Arts Building was summoned there about noon on Monday.

Dr. Scully gave evidence yesterday stating that he had been requested by the switchboard operator of the Medical Arts Building to rush to the St. Matthew Street house and when he arrived there he had been met by Sweezey who according to the doctor, informed him that Miss Kelly was unconscious on a bed in the living room. At that moment Evans appeared and gave Dr. Scully the details of the case. Upon examination it was found that the girl had been dead for twenty minutes. The men, witnesses testified, had asked for a medical certificate but this had been refused. Witness advised Evans to report the matter to the police and Evans did so.

Statement By Evans.

Sergeant O'Neill, of the city police, proceeded to the St. Matthew Street house after which he called Detective Sergeant Pusie, of the coroner's court. According to the testimony of Pusie, Evans told him the whole story. He told of how Miss Kelly, whom he had known for several months, had come to Montreal from Hamilton last Friday and how he had met her here. Evans admitted, according to Sergeant Pusie, that the intention was to have an abortion practiced on Miss Kelly and claimed that Sweezey performed the operation. Evans took Miss Kelly to the St. Matthew Street house on January 2 when she was examined by Sweezey. On Monday morning, January 5, the operation was performed, and a few minutes later Sweezey told Evans, who was in another room, that Miss Kelly was sick. Dr. Scully was at once called, but the girl died before medical help could reach her.

Pusie questioned Sweezey as to who was the regular occupant of the apartment and was told that it was rented by Imilda Borgeau, who was then in Ottawa. Pusie went to Ottawa and arrested the girl on Tuesday night.

To Protect Good Name.

The connection of Corrigan, Miller and the Bourgeau girl with the case was then explained. Corrigan, on the stand, declared that Evans had confided in him that he had got a girl into trouble. To help out Evans and protect the good name of the girl, Corrigan said, he called Miller into counsel. Witess said he had no thought of an illegal operation, but that he considered there might be some way of having Miss Kelly confined without anyone being the wiser. He received $25 from Evans which he gave to Miller, who in turn—according to Miller's testimony later—gave it to Imilda Bourgeau, to cover the initial expense of the confinement. Previous evidence by Evans showed that he had been directed by Corrigan to leave the $25 at the office of an athletic organization, while Evans had shown Detective Pusie a letter in which he was directed to the house on St. Matthew Street.

Imilda Bourgeau was called to the witness stand, but on the advice of her counsel did not testify.

Jury's Implication.

Coroner McMahon, in his summing up, pointed out that the evidence clearly implicated Sweezey and Evans. Imilda Bourgeau was not so deeply involved, Miller still less and Corrigan did not have close connection with the affair. On the other hand there appeared to be enough for the jury to consider carefully whether Corrigan and Miller should be arrested. After ten minutes deliberation, the jury named Sweezey first, then Evans. The Bourgeau girl was named as an accessory before the fact, as also were Corrigan and Miller.

ESTIMATES BEFORE CABINET COUNCIL

Federal Budget Will Be Submitted Later This Year.

OTTAWA, Jan. 8. — (Canadian Press).—The Cabinet Council met yesterday for the first time since the holidays, finding many matters of importance awaiting its consideration, varying from Senate vacancies to water levels in the Great Lakes. The Prime Minister had no announcements to make at the end of the meeting. It is understood that the report of the Royal Grain Inquiry Commission was considered, in part, and that a program of pre-sessional work was mapped out. The preparation of estimates is under way, but less progress has been made in this direction than had been made at this time last year, so that the main estimates probably will be brought down in the House of Commons this year somewhat later.

The Campbell report on coal supplies to the Tuxedo Barracks in Winnipeg remains to be considered in Council. Nothing definite has been done about filling the five vacancies in the Senate. The question of the diversion of water from the Great Lakes by the Chicago drainage canal remains in statu quo, so far as Canada is concerned. The whole matter is being threshed out in the United States courts and Congress, with Canada's attitude plainly on record as one of opposition to a continuation of the levy being made by the city of Chicago on Great Lakes waters.

SOLDIERS GET FARMS.

WINNIPEG, Man. — (United Press).—Free homesteads and farm grants taken up by soldier settlers brought more than half a million acres of new land under cultivation in the four western provinces in 1924, according to the Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

The total number of homesteads taken up in Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia in 1924 was 3,151, compared with 2,749 the year before, an increase of about 10 per cent. Soldier settlers taking up farms in this area under the provision of the Soldier Settlement Act numbered 653 compared with 462 in 1923. More than 30,000 veterans of Canada's war-time army have been placed on farms since 1919.

POOL TO SUE FARMERS ON BROKEN CONTRACTS

Legal Action Planned By Trustees of Alberta Pool.

CALGARY, Alta., Jan. 8.—That action will be taken against pool farmers who have broken their agreement, was the statement made to the Canadian Press on Wednesday by H. M. Wood, Chairman of the Board of Trustees of the Alberta wheat pool.

The question was put to Mr. Wood if it were the intention of the pool here to adopt similar methods to those employed by the Saskatchewan pool in tetsting its powers in the courts, when a farmer after signing an agreement with the pool, shipped his wheat by some other channel.

"We will cerainly take action," said Mr. Wood, "but the difficulty is to separate rumors from actual facts."

He would not state how many farmers had broken their contracts.

MANITOBA FARM UNION REPORTS FEWER MEMBERS

Trembling on the Brink by Spring Unless New Members Are Enrolled.

TO PUSH CAMPAIGN.

Loss of Revenue Followed Decline in Membership—Egg Pool a Success.

BRANDON, Man., Jan. 8 (Canadian Press).—Officers and committees of the United Farmers of Manitoba reported yesterday to the annual convention on the work of 1924 and their hopes and prospects for 1925. Two busy sessions disposed of a great deal of business. The reports declared that in its results the year had been notable ,but it was pointed out that membership standing on December 31, at 5,326, had suffered a slight decrease, with consequent loss in revenue. The central staff had been reduced, and the regular work had been carried on with some difficulty.

The report of the auditors showed total receipts in the year of $11,438 of which $5,333 came from membership fees, and $3,000 in a grant from the United Grain Growers, Limited. The deficit of the association, which stood at $1,266 a year ago, was increased by three dollars.

Drive for Members.

The necessitiy of doing something to increase membership and receipts was emphasized by M. R. Wood, former secretary of the association, who declared that they would be "on the brink of things, pretty hard up," by the coming spring unless something was done. He suggested, and it was decided by resolution, that every local should make a determined drive for new members in the next two months by which, Mr. Wood suggested, $1,500 might be secured for the central office and financial difficulties somewhat relieved.

The presidential addresses of A. J. N. Poole and Mrs. James Elliott commented on the development of the co-operative spirit, and a report from the marketing committee told of the organizaztion of an egg pool with considerable success. There will be a general discussion of co-operative enterprises today, when C. H. Burnell,a president of the Manitoba wheat pool, will speak.

Standard Poultry Grades.

The convention requested the Dominion Government to establish standard grades for dressed poultry and appoint necessary inspectors. It was explained thata there are now no legal grades, although there are grades which are recognized by produce associtions, though not necessary by the retail trade.

John W. Ward, secretary of the Canadian Council of Agriculture, outlined the work of that organization during the year, and claimed that many of their requests to the federal government had been met partially or wholly.

APPROPRIATIONS FOR ENGINEERS OMITTED

Blow at St. Lawrence Project By U. S. Committee.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8 (Canadian Press).—Uncertainty prevails here as to whether the refusal of the house appropriations committee to provide for the board of engineers, which is considering the St. Lawrence project, will cripple, or perhaps block the work of the board. The committee in reporting the deficiency appropriations bill eliminated the item providing for the cost of the board.

Efforts will be made by friends of the St. Lawrence Waterway to get a resolution through the house of representatives allowing the necessary money or to include a provision for it in the Rivers and Harbors Bill. It was reported on good authority yesterday that Secretary of Commerce Hoover will aid in the effort to have Congress provide the needed funds. Nevertheless, the supporters of the project here are anxious, fearing its opponents in Congress will make a fight on the floor of the house and senate to deprive the board of the needed money.

STIRLING MAN DIED IN STORE

W. E. Bailey Stricken in Street and Died Few Moments Later.

HURT IN DECEMBER.

STIRLING, Jan. 8.—A great shock came to the people of Stirling and vicinity yesterday, when it was known that Mr. W. E. Bailey, a well-known citizen was dead.

He had done some work in the barber shop, and had gone across the street for a few minutes, on his way back he was seen to fall, and when carried into Mr. McGuire's store only breathed once or twice, and was gone.

On December 13th, 1923, he met with a serious accident, breaking his leg below the knee. He had been a sufferer from asthma for some years, but seemed better of this, when he recovered from his accident and resumed his work as usual in the barber shop which he and his brother, George, ave conducted for years. The old malady returned and he suffered greatly at times, but kept going as well as he could. He leaves a widow and three children to mourn his loss.

JEW CALLS UPON FORD TO RETRACT CHARGES

Aaron Sapiro Threatens $1,000,000 Suit Over Articles.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—Aaron Sapiro, Chicago lawyer and co-operative expert, sent a formal demand to Henry Ford, E. G. Leibold, vice-president of the Dearborn Publishing Company, which prints The Dearborn Independent, the Ford periodical; W. J. Cameron, editor of The Dearborn Independent,the Ford Motor Company and the Dearborn Publishing Company, for a retraction of statements which appeared in The Independent intended to show the existence of a conspiracy on the part of an international group of Jews to exploit American agriculture.

It was reported that if the retraction was not forthcoming Mr. Sapiro would enter suit against Mr. Ford and the others named for $1,000,000 damages.

A statement in Mr. Sapiro's behalf says in part:

"The Ford attacks have been in progress since last April, when the first of a series of articles which are alleged to charge a conspiracy on the part of certain prominent Jews appeared in The Independent. These attacks stirred wide discussion in agricultural and financial circles and brought in the names of such figures as Sapiro, Otto H. Kahn, Julius Rosenwald, Albert Lasker and Bernard M. Baruch. Mr. Sapiro now served formal notice that he intends to hold Ford and those who are alleged to have aided him responsible for the injury he says he has suffered as a result of the long crusade."

U. S. CLAIMS ADJUSTED.

Anglo-American Differences Were Quickly Smoothed Out.

PARIS, Jan. 8.—The Anglo-American differences over the payment to the United States of war damages and claims were practically settled on the first day of the conference of the allieid finance ministers, which met here yesterday in an inaugural session lasting forty minutes. Both countries made concessions from the viewpoints they had expressed in an exchange of diplomatic notes, and a private and informal conversation between Winston Spencer Churchill, British Chancellor of the Exchequer, and James A. Logan, United States representative, harmonized the respective positions, which appeared very far apart, if not irreconcilable, prior to the conference.

LEGS SEVERED BY COAL CAR, INDIGENT IS DEAD

Familiar Character Thrown Off Car by Shunter.

CHATHAM, Ont., Jan. 8.—(Canadian Press).—John Dowling, aged 51, well-known because of his practive of gathering up papers from the streets, succumbed to injuries suffered yesterday afternoon when a freight car passed over him.

Dowling, it is thought, was in the act of taking coal from a freight car standing on a siding near Wellington Street. Operators switching freight cars failed to see him. When a switching train crashed into the standing car, Dowling was knocked down by the impact, rolling to the rails. He was unable to scramble out of the way of the wheels, which severed both his legs. He was rushed to a hospital, but died shortly afterwards. An inquest will be held. So far as known, Dowling had no relatives.

HOBBS ON TRIAL FOR POSSESSING STOLEN CHEQUE

Sequel to the Rajah Case Opens in London Police Court.

NEWTON A WITNESS.

Gives Evidence Against Hobbs Because of His Accusation of Forgery.

LONDON, Jan. 8.—(Canadian Press Cable).—Yesterday's hearing of the charge against William Cooper Hobbs of being concerned in receiving or having in his possession a cheque or order for the payment of £150,000 by the Midland Bank Limited, knowing it to have been stolen, was devoted to the cross-examination of Noel Montague Newton who "discovered" Mrs. Robinson and Sir Hari Singh, heir to the Maharaja of Kashmir, together in a room in a Paris hotel. Newton is appearing as a witness for the Crown in the prosecution of Hobbs who is named in the charge with Capt. Arthur, former A.D.C. to Sir Hari Singh, and now awaiting extradition in Paris. The charge arises out of the recent action of Charles Ernest Robinson to obtain £125,000 from the Midland Bank as the result of an alleged blackmailing conspiracy, and is being heard by Sir Charles Biron in the Bow Street Police Court. The testimony of Newton was marked by accrimonious interchanges with defence counsel St. John Hutchinson and Ignatius Kelly.

When one of the defence counsel told Newton that he need not be afraid to speak the truth the witness retorted: "You cannot catch me, so leave that out."

Passport Withheld.

Replying to Roland Oliver for the prosecution, who put a series of questions designed to elucidate the part which witness played in the affair, the witness said that he never signed any cheques in the name of Robinson. He had only used that name once and that was when he applied for a passport to go to India to see Sir Hari Singh, but the passport was never issued.

Newton asserted that the real reason he came from Paris to give evidence in the Robinson-Midland Bank case was because Hobbs had been accusing him of forgery. He was not going to let Hobbs swim out on his back. The £3,000 paid to him by the bank was a side issue.

A Closed Chapter.

The interrogations of counsel for the prosecution regarding Newton's aliases produced a breezy passage. When the witness admitted that he had once use the name of Berkeley in connection with a lady living in Berkely Square he closed the incident with the emphatic assertion: "I am not giving you any further particulars because the lady does not come into this case."

Responding to further questions about his antecedents the witness admitted that he had a friend named Lemoine who worked for a continental power. Lemoine was sentenced to imprisonment in Germany, but Newton did not know whether or not the charge was one of card-sharping. Lemoine went to India for Hobbs. Arthur and Newton and extradition proceedings were taken against him when Germany wanted to bring him back. Newton asserted that the main reason why Lemoine went to India was because Capt. Arthur was going to get him a job.

GOUGH MUST HAVE KNOWN BANK'S CONDITION PROSECUTION ASSERTS

D. L. McCarthy, K.C., Opens Address to Judge Coatsworth as Evidence Closes.

"DEFENCE AMUSING."

Affairs of the Home Bank Brough to Gough's Attention in 1918—Did Nothing.

TORONTO, Jan. 7.—Evidence in the trial of R. P. Gough, vice president and director of the Home Bank which failed in August 1923, on charges of making false statements of the bank's affairs to the Federal department of Finance was concluded yesterday afternoon and D. L. McCarthy, K.C., crown prosecutor, got started on his address to Judge Coatsworth, who is presiding.

"The accused has two strong points in his favor", said Mr. McCarthy. "The first is that the persons he accuses of being rogues and rascals are dead and not in a position to give evidence and the second is that he is gifted with a remarkably convenient memory forgetting all points which are to his disadvantage and having a clear recollection of the points which are to his advantage."

Mr. McCarthy spoke for about an hour and continues to-day. W. N. Tilley, K.C. defence counsel, stated that he would have called other directors of the bank as defence witnesses if they, too, were not facing trial.

"The line of defence the accused has taken is amusing", said Mr. McCarthy starting his address," and might be original if it were not that is but a slavish following of the former defences in these trials. The accused was approached by M. J. Haney in 1916 to go on bank's board and after some hesitation and with a little fear he consented to join. He was flattered by the invitation, and took his duties seriously as his consistent attendance at board meetings shows. He relied upon persons who he thought were honest, but who, he finds out later, turn out to be rogues and rascals, and he was deceived by them and is therefore to be excused."

Gough Knew Conditions

Mr. McCarthy contended that the accused had not been long on the board until he found that the bank was in a serious condition. Mr. Haney had not rehabilitated the bank by all he could do. Gough, he continued, had made it his business to find out about the rupture between the eastern and western directors of the bank and had long talks with Hon. T. A. Crerar, at that time a director. It was inconceivable that Mr. Gough should not have heard Mr. Crerar's complaint about bank policy and management, said Mr. McCarthy. The western directors wanted W. A. Machaffie brought down from Winnipeg and given a high position in the head office.

"He was to be the new broom that would sweep clean," said Mr. McCarthy, who contended that even in 1918 the larger amount of the bank's business was in bad and doubtful debts.

"The defence is that he had no knowledge of what went on and that he was deceived. He has to paint these men in glowing colors until he finds that he was deceived by them. But I want to submit that the affairs of the bank were called very forcibly to his attention in no uncertain way especially in 1918. In view of what happened then the accused cannot complain that the affairs of the bank were hidden from him."

Used Bank Funds

Mr. McCarthy said that in 1917, Haney, Barnard and Stewart, the latter not being a director at the time, were carrying on transactions with bank funds on which they were making a profit and paying part of it

CAUGHT.

Clifford S. Heller of Mount Holly, N.J., "dead" 14 years, was brought back to life when a former business associate recognized him on a busy street in Detroit. The friend recalled a shortage of $18,350 was found in the funds of the National Bank of Mount Holly, where Heller had been cashier, shortly after his sudden disappearance. Heller, though denying his identity, is to be taken back to New Jersey for trial.

MARKET INCREASES HOSPITAL BEQUEST

Clear Gain of $70,000 For Kingston General Hospital.

KINGSTON, Jan. 8.—(Canadian Press). — The Kingston General Hospital was some time ago left a large bequest under the will of the late C. S. Campbell, of Montreal, a son of the late Sir Alexander Campbell.

At the time it was estimated that the bequest was worth approximately $280,000, free of taxes, being almost all made up of American securities. But as good fortune would have it, following the election of President Coolidge in the United States, the stock market there has had a phenomenal advance, and just when this advance seemed at its height the local trustees of the bequest took advantage of it to dispose of all the American securities in the Campbell bequest, with the result that they realized over $350,000 and interest, as against the early estimate of $280,000, a clear gain of fully $70,000 for the hospital.

At the same time the funds so realized were immediately invested in Canadian bonds, which at that time had not enjoyed any appreciable advance, but which since then have made an excellent gain, and thus it is that the trustees "caught" the market coming and going.

WORST STORM IN SWEDEN SINCE 1902.

STOCKHOLM, Jan. 8.—The most violent and devastating gales since 1902 have swept over Sweden in the past few days, causing extensive damage, especially in the vicinity of Gothenburg. In Western and Southern Sweden telegraph and telephone lines were broken and vast tracts of land were flooded. Several electric power stations were put out of commission and in Skaane the Government airplane hangars at the Ljungbyher flying field were overthrown by the wind.

TOBOGGANS MADE IN PETERBOROUGH

New Line of Manufacture Added by Peterborough Canoe Co.

Four thousand toboggans have been sold this season by the Peterboro Canoe Co., who have taken up the manufacture of winter sport goods in order to give all the year round employment to their workers. Thousands of pairs of skis are also among the company's products this season.

These lines are produced in Peterboro in a variety of finishes and materials that has commended them to the buying public, carrying the name "Peterboro" into all parts of the country as the famous Peterboro canoe has carried it to all parts of the world.

This is in line with the forward policy adopted by most of the factories in Peterboro in anticipation of good business in 1925. The outlook appears optimistic, improvements and extensions being in progress or meditated by several factories.

A TUNIC DRESS.

It's no wonder printed silks are so fashionable, because they are so very adaptable to the modern styles. Here we have a tunic dress of printed pussy willow made over a slip of plain color and trimmed about the sleeves and collar with bands of the plain color. The close neckline is very popular just now as are the slightly full sleeves.

The annual election of officers of All Saints' Bowling Club was held on Tuesday evening in the Parish Hall of All Saints' church.

After the usual routine of business the election of officers took place, with the following results:

President: Mr. G. B. Richardson.
Vice-President: Mr. Runnett.
Secretary: Mr. J. F. Thomas.

The Bowling Club, which has gone in for both Lawn Bowling and Carpet Ball, was a huge success last year and from present indications will be even better this season.

LOST ANOTHER CROWN.

NEWARK, Jan. 8. — (Canadian Press). — Mickey Walker, welterweight champion of the world, would be holding another crown had he boxed Mike McTigue, world's light heavyweight champion, in New York State last night. Walker defeated the king of 175-pounders in the opinion of newspapermen at the ringside in a tame 12-round no decision contest and his margin was wide, but the boxing law of Jersey forbid a decision.

DISCUSS WAR DAMAGES.

PARIS, Jan. 8. — (Canadian Press.)—British Chancellor of the Exchequer, Winston Churchill, and James A. Logan, Jr., of the United States' delegation to Inter-Allied Financial Conference, had another talk this morning in an attempt to iron out the Anglo-American differences over the United States' claim for payment of occupational army costs and war damages from Dawes plan proceeds. Negotations to be proceeding normally.

TO IMPROVE THE NAVY.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—(Canadian Press.) — The House Naval Committee was called to-day to delve into much talked of condition of the United States' navy and to receive from Secretary of the Navy Wilbur any recommendations he might consider necessary to put the battle fleet in first class fighting trim.

SCALD ALMONDS.

When blanching almonds time can be saved by putting them into a wire frying basket and plunging into hot water a few times, then lifting out by the handle.

SECOND MEETING.

The second meeting in the teachers' training course for leaders of 'teen-age girls, in connection with the Canadian Girls in Training programme, was held last night at the Young Women's Christian Association. Miss Mary Allison of Toronto, Dominion Girls' Work Secretary of the Methodist church, was in charge of the meeting, and will take charge of the four monthly meetings which will form the completion of the course. The meeting was held under the auspices of the Peterboro Girls' Work Board, and had a large and enthusiastic attendance.

Those who attended for the preliminary supper hour enjoyed an informal discussion of local problems in connection with girls' work.

Rev. N. R. McLeod of Park street Baptist church, took the half hour Bible study period on "Christ's Programme," and Mrs. Neil Porter gave a demonstrational devotional period, suitable to 'teen-age girls. This was followed by a discussion on what is required for a registered, a recognied ed or a standard C.G.I.T. group.

Miss Allison led the couse in Story Telling, and two of the class leaders gave demonstrations in telling stories.

THE CHANGING PRESS.

Only a few years ago there was hardly a paper in Canada that didn't first find out what "the party" wanted before it had an opinion. Today the newspapers, with a few rare exceptions, wholly ignore partisan interests. The press is getting to see that the serious business of Canada is the development of the country, and this is particularly noticeable in the editorial columns of the country dailies. Canada has everything to gain from this common sense newspaper attitude.

We recall recent editorials in the papers of St. Thomas, Kitchener, Peterborough, Kingston, Brantford and Woodstock that have made us proud of the Ontario press—utterances that were forceful and Canadian to the limit. These editors know that our homeland isn't getting a square deal—it can't be made greater and stronger by shipping out our own people. —Sault Ste. Marie Star.

WHERE THE READER CAN HELP.

The London Advertiser calls attention to a problem of the newspaper field that should be of general interest, and that is the fact that both daily and weekly journals have to continually notify subscribers that their subscription is due.

It should be remembered that papers, such as the Examiner, are under a system of inspection through an independent audit of their circulation.

And, of course, upon its circulation depends the paper's power to secure revenue, for advertising is naturally based upon circulation.

The point that the general public should remember is that this independent audit gives no credit for circulation that is not paid in advance.

Subscriptions in arrears are a dead loss to the newspaper from a circulation viewpoint.

It is of the greatest importance, therefore, that this matter of paying up subscriptions should be attended to in justice to the paper, which suffers not only the loss of the subscription charges but also loses credit for that much circulation.

Citizens who pay promptly are helping to make a better newspaper in their community and are encouraging the whole organization that supplies them with news to do better work.

HOW PORT HOPE DID IT.

Port Hope is one municipality that seeks to have solved the problem of getting the electors interested in civic affairs.

The town down by the lake had the hottest municipal election in years on Monday, and one of the largest votes on record was polled.

The organization of a wide-awake Ratepayers' Association, on non-political lines and with the object of promoting the betterment of civic affairs, was the agency that aroused Port Hope out of its apathy and precipitated much excitement into the annual campaign.

In fact, it did more than that, for the association was successful in having its entire slate of candidates elected, its nominee for Mayor and for the six positions on the Council Board, making a clean sweep.

Peterborough organized a similar association some years ago, but apparently it has ceased to function, possibly because such a body in a city of this size has not the same chance to get results as in a smaller field.

The Examiner's suggestion some time ago that instead of one association for the whole city there should be a ratepayers' association in each ward, might have had better success, inasmuch as it would have been easier to keep up the interest with five bodies working than to maintain a city-wide organization.

Port Hope's experience shows that there is a place for an association of this kind.

WHEN DOES OLD AGE BEGIN?

A man reaches the prime of life at 27 years. But even then his hearing is on the down-grade, as that sense is more acute at seven or eight years. Such is the belief of Professor Karl Pearson, distinguished scientist.

A few years ago Dr. Eugene Lymann Fiske expressed his opinion that our bodies begin wearing out at the age of 12.

So authorities disagree.

But the average man undoubtedly reaches the pinnacle of his physical powers before he is 30. Thereafter he slowly deteriorates. His health may be good. But the endurance of youth is on the wane.

Old age really begins in the cradle. That is, our care and environment in infancy determine, to considerable extent, the number of years of strength and health that will be available to us before we begin to go downhill physically.

Yet, despite all we can do, the summer of life is brief. In his early thirties a man begins to realize instinctively that he cannot stand exposure and strain as he could in his teens and twenties.

Of men between ages 21 and 31 who were called up under the Selective Service Act in the United States, 38 in every 100 were rejected on account of physical defects. Old age—deterioration, which is the forerunner of physical dissolution—had sunk its talons into them.

However, man is in the late autumn or winter of physical condition before he reaches the summertime of mental development.

It is a rare man whose brain has any pronounced degree of wisdom and good judgment before he is 35 or 40, at the earliest.

In this way nature compensates us. As our physical powers weaken, our intellectual powers strengthen. But only up to a certain point. Ultimately comes senility, when mental faculties lose their powers and brilliance.

Light-heartedly man squanders the best part of life. Old age begins to overtake him usually before he really "gets down to business." Small wonder, so few reach the top of the hill of success. For, youth, while it may work hard, rarely exerts itself to the limits of its powers.

The years that are wasted are the most important of all.

THE OVERHEAD COST.

The Citizens' Research Institute, continuing its investigations into public expenditures in its latest bulletin received by the Examiner, gives some interesting statistics on the question of the amount paid by municipalities, Provinces and the Dominion on salaries and wages to employees.

The difficulty that exists in accurately arriving at the expenditure for wages is lamented by the institute, which points out that this is a matter of fundamental importance, and the information if kept over a term of years would be a valuable index of public expenditure and would largely explain increases or decreases.

In some cities payments for the services of persons may exceed fifty per cent. of the total expenditure on regular civic services.

In others it may fall as low as forty per cent., or even thirty per cent., but in practically all cases salaries and wages constitute the largest, or one of the largest, objects of public expenditure.

The recent report of the Senate Special Committee on the Civil Service of Canada gives the number of Dominion Civil Service employees (1923-24) as 42,238, with a corresponding payroll of $48,206,257.

These figures, which do not include rural postmasters, work out at an average annual wage of $1,141—certainly not a large amount.

The average expenditure for the Provinces is probably somewhere about one-fourth of the total current expenditure of the Dominion.

Perhaps, therefore, $12,000,000 would not be an unreasonable estimate of the amount spent by the Provinces on salaries and wages.

If the average salary is taken at $1,200, this would provide for 10,000 Provincial employees.

The tax revenue of the municipalities is at least $175,000,000 per annum.

The amount of municipal taxation which goes to salaries and wages probably varies between 25 per cent. and 50 per cent.

If the average be placed at 33 1-3 per cent., $58,000,000 would represent the amount spent on salaries and wages from municipal taxation.

If the total revenue and expenditure for ordinary services were included and not simply tax revenue and exenditure, the total spent on salaries and wages would undoubtedly exceed the estimate of $58,000,000 by several millions.

If the average municipal salary be $1,400, the minimum number of municipal employees would be 41,500, so that, without including publicly-owned utilities, at least 93,000 people in Canada, representing an annual payroll of $118,000,000, look to the public for employment.

There is little doubt that there are under-estimates rather than over-estimates, and if civic, Provincial and national utilities were included, the totals of employees would be vastly increased.

CANADIAN NAVAL DEFENSE.

Alan W. Neill, member for Comox-Alberni, has given notice that he will move at the coming session of Parliament a resolution "that Canada should prepare to bear some part of the naval defense of our sea coasts and of our ocean-borne lines of commerce."

Mr. Neill is an independent in politics. When the present House of Commons first assembled, early in 1922, he had been tentatively classified with the Progressives. His first speech removed him from that category. It appeared that he had a keen sense of humor, and the House found in due time that his viewpoint on various important matters was entirely his own, and did not coincide with that of the Prairie Progressives. Mr. Neill is a native of Scotland, was educated at Edinburgh and married a wife from Dundee. Resident in Canada for 33 years, he has also lived in New Zealand and visited South Africa. He is a merchant and farmer.

The naval resolution, one may be sure, will not be called any earlier in the session than the Government can help. When it does come up, it will probably be talked out, with a view to avoiding formal division. Nevertheless, the debate itself will be of interest. Mr. Neill, even if he collect only as much material as he did on oleomargarine, will come well prepared. Furthermore, there are several Western Progressives of old country birth who entertain certain views on naval defense differing sharply from those of their colleagues. Like Neill, they have first-hand knowledge of the Empire's problem. Then there is the Conservative party, which some years before the war proposed to add three dreadnaughts to the British fleet by what Senator Dandurand called a "paltry" contribution of $35,000,000.

The debate is bound to be upon premises somewhat altered from those of the pre-war argument. For example, nobody is now likely to quote Goldwin Smith, who in his book, "Canada and the Canadian Question," wrote: "Canada will never contribute to Imperial armaments at her own expense. . . . The most likely antagonist of England is France, and in a war between France and England the hearts of the French-Canadians, if not their arms, would be on the wrong side. . . . That England can derive no military strength from a dependency 3,000 miles away will surely be admitted by all." The Great War refuted these statements as to the sending of troops, but when it broke out, Canada, in spite of long and heated arguments of previous years in Parliament, had made no contribution toward defense of her coasts and commerce. The cruisers Niobe and Rainbow, given by the Admiralty for training purposes, had been dismantled. The Dominion became dependent upon the United States for defense of her Atlantic coast and upon the Japanese for protection of the Pacific coast. Her troopships were escorted across the Atlantic by British warships. Meantime, the Australian navy, begun at the same time as Canada had been furnished with a nucleus, was covering itself with glory in the Southern Pacific.

In 1922, the King Government put through estimates providing for the irreducible minimum in the way of a Canadian navy. Three trawlers formed a big part of it. Last summer, when Vice-Admiral Sir Frederick Field, commanding a touring naval squadron, ventured his personal opinion that Canada ought to equip and maintain four cruisers, the Government was very wroth. It is sensitive on the subject, and does not want to hear it discussed. The King Government, nevertheless, is a stickler for status. It insists on signing its own treaties; seeks a higher status for its representative at London, and is considering the matter of an ambassador at Washington. As Stratford Beacon-Herald expressed it at the time of the Field incident, Canada "claims equality with the other dominions and the mother country, but apparently does not like to be reminded of the responsibility naturally and properly associated with such status. It is 'three cheers' for anyone who tells us we are a free and independent people, but it is 'mind your own business' to anyone who seeks to remind us of our responsibility."

But if and when any of these increasing diplomatic ramifications involve Canada in trouble, she will no doubt, as ever, promptly step behind John Bull and his "sure shield"—the navy, including that of other dominions.—London Free Press.

HUNGER

Starvation still menaces many parts of the world.

The world wheat crop in 1924 was 440 million bushels less than it was the year before, Department of Agriculture estimates. That means only 88 bushels of wheat for every 100 in 1923.

Nearly half of the loss was in Canada. Higher price partly compensates the grower. But to the consumer the loss is definite. It brings hunger to a world which, still weakened by the great war, needs an excess of nourishment to regain its strength. Hunger, too, is a breeder of war.

When You Catch Cold Rub on Musterole

Musterole is easy to apply and it gets in its good work right away. Often it prevents a cold from turning into "flu" or pneumonia. Just apply Musterole with the fingers. It does all the good work of grandmother's mustard plaster without the blister.

Musterole is a clean white ointment made of oil of mustard and other home simples. It is recommended by many doctors and nurses. Try Musterole for sore throat, cold on the chest, rheumatism, lumbago, pleurisy, stiff neck, bronchitis, asthma, neuralgia, congestion, pains and aches of the back and joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frosted feet—colds of all sorts. Seldom fails to deliver results. 40c and 75c, at all druggists.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, Jan. 8.—Sales of cattle at the Union Stock Yards on Tuesday totalled 1,727, and receipts were 1,708. The carry over on Tuesday night was around 800. Receipts this morning were 80 cars, 874 cattle, 207 calves, 3,045 hogs and 311 sheep and lambs. A couple of steers were bought at $8.25, and a number of heifers cost $6.50 to $8.00 a cwt. These prices were easily steady with Monday as the cattle are being carried till next week. Two blocky bulls, 1,800 each, were bought by H. P. Kennedy at $5.50 a cwt.

Several bulls were taken for Antwerp at $4.00 to $5.00 a cwt. For a bunch of mixed butchers near 1,200 lbs. each one packer paid $7.25 a cwt. The market was just a little overloaded as usual with medium cattle. For the Old Country, short keep steers 1,000 lbs. each up, were bought at $6.75 to $7 a cwt. Good handyweight butchers sold steadily at about $6.75 and good medium at $6 to $6.25 a cwt.

Calves remained steady today, with anything choice up to 13 cents, and good calves sold from 11 to 12 cents. Mediums are just a little easy from 8½ cents up. Common calves are around 7 cents. One Buffalo buyer was operating in medium and good calves today

The lambs market is about steady, with the actual demand concentrated on the light kind. These are selling at 15 cents, but heavy lambs are draggy.

There was a good sized run of hogs today, and the quality was above the average. Packers are trying for a lower level, but this is not easy to accomplish, but some sales may have to be made at $9.75 a cwt. f.o.b. today.

WINNIPEG LIVESTOCK.

WINNIPEG, Jan. 7.—(Canadian Press).—Arrivals, 920 cattle and calves, 5,950 hogs, 163 sheep and lambs.

Under the influence of a large volume of offerings, trading on the cattle market this morning developed a weaker tendency. Prices were around 25 cents below yesterday's close.

The hog market was unsettled, with thick smooths selling at $9.40.

Firm prices prevailed on the sheep and lamb market, lambs going from $12.50 to $13.00, while sheep were quoted at $8.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, Jan. 7. — (Canadian Press).—Active general buying carried wheat prices upward to-day until the May delivery commanded 1.80 per bushel, but then selling to realize profits forced a re-action. The closing for wheat was unsettled at 1-8 cent net lower to 1 7-8 higher, May 1.79 5-8 to 1.79 3-4 and July 1.55, with corn 1 1-8 to 1 5-8 up, oats showing 7-8 to 1¼ gain and provisions at a rise varying from 17 cents to 30 cents.

Although wheat trading began with business well divided and of only moderate volume, several strong commission houses soon took an aggressive stand on the bull side of the market and were successful in attracting so many followers that prices went soaring. Meanwhile gossip was current that a prominent exporter would issue a statement outlining notably British views regarding world supply and demand conditions. Besides the world's available stock of wheat and flour had decreased 3,632,000 bushels this week. Talk was also heard that wheat shipments from Omaha to the Pacific Coast were being made. Export demand, however, failed to respond much to new advances in price.

Before the day's top level for future deliveries had been reached in the wheat markt, cash wheat, both at Kansas City and Minneapolis, was commanding the highest prices yet this season, and the Chicago May delivery was about 6¼ cents over yesterday's bottom figures. Despite the subsequent sharp re-action, a fresh upturn was in progress as the day approached an end. Reports of further purchasing of flour for Russia appeared to be chiefly responsible.

STERLING RATES.

The market for cheese was quiet and prices unchanged, with current receipts of No. 1 goods quoted at 18½ to 19 cents per pound, and No. 2 grade at 17½ to 18 cents per pound.

The trade in crop beans continues quiet but prices were still quoted at $2.70 and $2.80 per bushel.

A THOUGHT.

Why YOU Should Purchase a Canadian Government Annuity

Because in old age it will free you from the dread of poverty or of becoming a burden upon others;

Because it will bring you comfort and independence in your later years;

BECAUSE IT WILL GIVE YOU A LARGER RETURN FOR THE AMOUNT INVESTED THAN ANY OTHER LIFE INVESTMENT OF EQUAL SECURITY.

For example, if a man of 20 will pay to the Dominion Government the sum of $5.31 a month until he is 60, the Government will agree to pay to him from 60 as long as he lives $50 a month—a return equal to over 23⅓% on the total amount paid.

If he dies before 60, every dollar that he paid in, with 4% compound interest, would be returnable to his heirs. If he should die between 59 and 60, the amount so returnable in a cash sum would be $6,230.00.

Such an Annuity may be of any amount from $50 to $5,000 a year, the cost being relatively the same. It is non-forfeitable, cannot be seized for debt, and is free from Dominion Income Tax. For full particulars fill out this Coupon and address it as directed.

STEWART TESTIFIES IN R. P. GOUGH CASE

Former Vice-President Must Have Known of Workings of the Bank.

TORONTO, Jan. 8.—D. L. McCarthy, K.C., special prosecutor, in commencing argument for the Crown yesterday afternoon at the trial of Richard P. Gough, maintained that had the former vice-president of the Home Bank taken proper action in 1918, following the charges made during the presidency of H. J. Daly, it would have been averted. Instead of this, the accused had chosen to take a share in speculative ventures financed with the bank's money and to have taken the leading part in an attempt to get W. A. MacHaffie, the man who had made the charges, out of the way by payment to him of $15,000 out of the treasury of the bank; when the only logical course to have taken had Gough believed the charges to be false, would have been an immediate step for MacHaffie's dismissal under the pain of criminal prosecution.

The evidence for the defence came to an abrupt termination yesterday afternoon, after a brief cross-examination by the Crown of Major A. E. Nash, who followed J. F. M. Stewart Toronto director, called to the witness box in behalf of the former vice-president.

NEW LAMP BURN 94% AIR

Beats Electric or Gas

A new oil lamp that gives an amazingly brilliant, soft, white light, even bettert than gas or electricity, has been tested by the U.S. Government, and 35 leading universities, and found to be superior to 10 ordinary oil lamps. It burns without odor, smoke or noise—no pumping up; is simple, clean, safe. Burns 94% air and 6% common kerosene (coal oil).

The inventor, F. S. Johnson, 246 Craig Street W., Montreal, is offering to send a lamp on 10 days' FREE trial, or even to give one FREE to the first user in each locality who will help him introduce it. Write him to-day for full particulars. Also ask him to explain how you can get the agency, and without experience or money make $250 to $500 per month.

MENU FOR FAMILY

Breakfast —Winter pears, cereal, thin cream, creamed codfish, crisp toast, honey, milk coffee.

Luncheon—Bacon and tomatoes, raised corn bread, canned peaches, Ella's marble cake, milk, tea.

Dinner — Broiled porter house steak, mashed potatoes, baked onions, apple and celery salad, whole wheat rolls, jelly, nut and date pudding milk, coffee.

While some families never seem to tire of the same cereal morning after morning other housekeepers find that if the breakfast "porridge" is varied it receives a warmer welcome. Serve oats in some form twice a week and use the wheat cereals, rice and corn products to gain variety. Cooked cereals are preferable for the winter months although the ready-to-serve cereals are well suited to a hearty breakfast of meat and potatoes in some form.

Bacon and Tomatoes

Eight or ten slices of bacon, 1 onion, 2 tablespoons flour, 2 cups canned tomatoes, 1-2 teaspoon pepper.

Broil bacon in a hot frying pan. Reserve two tablespoons of the fat. Stir flour in the fat. Add tomatoes and minced onion, stirring constantly, and cook until thick and smooth. Season with pepper. Arrange bacon on a hot platter and pour over sauce. Serve very hot.

DRINK WATER IF KIDNEYS BOTHER

Take a Tablespoonful of Salts if Back Pains or Bladder is Irritated.

Flush your kidneys by drinking a quart of water each day, also take salts occasionally, says a noted authority, who tells us that too much rich food forms acids which almost paralyze the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken; then you may suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To help neutralize these irritating acids; to help cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste, get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here. Take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days, and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts Salts is inexpensive; can not injure and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

SPANISH DICTATOR MAKES STATEMENT

Troops From New Lines— A Fete for the King This Month.

PARIS, Jan. 8.—(United Press).—General Primo Rivera has completed the establishment of new lines in the Eastern zone of Morocco, the head Spanish dictator announced in a telegram sent yesterday afternoon from his headquarters at Tetuan to the United Press. "Our troops are now placed on a definite line," the telegram said. "From time to time they are fighting skirmishes, guarding the lines of communication, which are normal between Tetuan and Tangiers, Ceuta Rio Martin and Ben Karrich.

"At the moment the problem is to prevent smuggling into our zone. Rebels are receiving munitions from Tangiers. However, Spain will courageously continue her work with confidence in King Alfonso and the Government, and will demonstrate her popular affection for her King in a fete on January 23rd.

"No nation except Spain can today guarantee tranquility and prosperity in Morocco because Spain has no other troubles, and this one is being settled rapidly."

(Signed) Primo Rivera.

When Webb Miller, United Press staff correspondent, visited the Spanish headquarters at Tetuan recently, a staff officer informed him that General Rivera was considering erecting a high wire fence around the Tangiers zone, charged with electricity, to prevent incursions.

CHIEF MAKES ARREST.

Campbellford Man Gets Three Months for Breaking Into a Store.

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 8. — Alfred Cook, laborer, aged thirty, was found in J. A. Irwin's store on Front Street by Chief John Brown. The Chief saw a man going through the passage-way beside Irwin's store at half-past 4 on Wednesday morning, and followed him. He at first thought he might be a baker, as he found the back door of the store open. When he put his light on the man he saw that something was wrong. He asked him what he was doing there. The man admitted that he was there to get some meat for his family. He also admitted to the Chief that before Christmas he had taken a lot of goods from the same store as the Cook family live across from the store, up over A. L. Riendeau's office.

Cook had put his arm through a broken pane of glass and unbolted the door.

The chief went to his home and found that he had taken a hundred pound bag of brown sugar, a large pail of candies, a fifty poung bag of flour, a case of raisins holding forty-eight packages, a whole case of corn, a pail of syrup and a seventeen pound ham.

Chief Brown has recovered most of the goods but some had been used. Cook was brought before the Police Magistrate and convicted on two charges breaking into the store and stealing goods.

He was sentenced to three months in Cobourg jail with hard labor on each charge the term to run concurrently.

Cook has lived in this vicinity most of his life. He has a wife and three children, the oldest one being only four.

ECCENTRICITY OF ONE GENIUS.

Leonardo da Vinci was a very accomplished person, as most every one knows, but was versatile to the last degree, but his communications were very difficult to read, or rather to translate, which seems to be the word better suited for his case. He wrote from right to left after the fashion of the Semitic group and the letters were reversed as well. His writing is what is known as mirrored, such as would be observed when examining a normal script through the reflection of a mirror. He had his own system of abbrevation and used no punctuation whatever.

The scene of this little incident was laid in a mining town "out west." It was one of those little groups of shacks that spring up so rapidly, almost overnight, when any new deposits of gold are discovered.

Two prospectors had met to have a drink and a chat when the day's work was done.

"I hear that Black Jake went to Casey's saloon last night and shot four men," remarked one man to the other.

"What for?" asked the second man.

"What for?" said the first. "Is this town gettin' that civilized that fellow's got to give a reason for every little thing he does?"

This Lassie Has Her Colds "Rubbed Away"

The mother of this attractive little girl, Mrs. E. E. Emmans, of 215 Seventh Ave., N.E., Portage La Prairie, Man., is one of the many Canadian mothers who are enthusiastic about the vaporizing salve, Vicks Vapo Rub, for treating children's colds. Mrs. Emmans writes: "My little girl had croup at night pretty badly and Vicks did her a lot of good. I have also used it with very satisfactory results for head and chest colds."

Vicks is just "rubbed in" for sore throat, tonsilitis, bronchitis, croup or deep chest colds. When so applied, Vicks has a double direct action; internally medicated vapors are inhaled while, at the same time, externally, it is absorbed through and stimulates the skin into the bank. This was Haney's scheme of rehabilitation. It was because of these transactions which were not regarded as good banking practice that the trained banker Machaffie could not get along with Haney after coming down to the head office in 1918. Mr. McCarthy declared that actual knowledge of the bank's affairs was imparted to Gough by Machaffie through his letters. "Machaffie complained of the practices in the bank to the vice-president, the accused, Machaffie was assistant to the president, and right under the gun, and, if there was no truth in the charges he made then the obvious and only thing that could have been done was to have fired him. But instead of being fired after he had made his charges Machaffie was given leave of absence. If the accused had heeded the Machaffie warning, he would have ascertained the true condition of the bank, and the trouble that followed would have been avoided. Four or five millions was tied up then in loans upon which no interest was paid and no revenue received. The liquid assets of the bank were only ten millions and the liabilities to the public were eighteen millions. This all would have been exposed by the inspection which Machaffie so much requested.

GOUGH MUST HAVE KNOWN

Took No Action

"What account of his stewardship could the accused render to the shareholders? What steps did he take to inform himself of the true condition of the bank? He took the assurance of the president and Mason the general manager that the accounts were inspected and were all right. There is not a particle of evidence that he ever took any individual action to find out anything as a result of the warning by Machaffie.

"One would have thought that Machaffie having made such serious charges, (and he even quoted the criminal penalty for what he charged), would have been faced with the letter and made to prove his charges or withdraw them. Every charge in the letter was subsequently proved true. As vice-president the accused could have asked for an inspection of the Toronto office and got it. He could have insisted to the board upon an inspection. Nothing was ever done during the six years the accused was a director and when it was done it was too late."

Mr. McCarthy declared that Gough was fully aware that unpaid interest was being added to accounts and included in the bank's profits. Machaffie, continued crown counsel, had even offered the proposition of having an independent bank man make an inspection. It was also significant that when Machaffie did leave the bank's service that he was given $15,000.

"One would have thought that if his charges were false that he would have been dismissed instead of being presented with $15,000. The only conclusion is that the accused made himself familiar with the accusations and decided that the only thing to do was to get rid of Machaffie."

Crown counsel said that even after that, Machaffie had made charges including the warning that important matters were being concealed from the board. "That should have been sufficient to make the accused seek information independently," said Mr. McCarthy instead, he continued, the accused had joined syndicates which used bank funds with security to finance big business deals. "Either the accused disbelieved what Machaffie had said or he had proved him wrong or he satisfied himself that Machaffie had stated the true condition of the bank but was persuaded by others that the practices complained about were good banking and asked why he shouldn't join in."

THE MEAT PRICES.

Meat Director Suggests People Eat Less in Order to Lower Prices.

LONDON, Jan. 8. — (Canadian Press).—When Sir, Philip Proctor, who was meat director of the War Time Ministry of Food, appeared as a witness yesterday before the Royal Commission investigating the prices of food in Great Britain, he was asked to "get down to brass tacks" and say in what way the meat prices could be reduced. But the only suggestion he could offer was for the people to eat less meat until the demand fell below the supply. Poorer people, he said, largely refused to buy cheaper classes of meat. Tons of coarser varieties went to the soap boilers.

POLICE FIND $100,000 HID IN NEW YORK HOUSE

Gold, Jewelry, Bank Books, Deeds and Bonds Hidden Away.

NEW YORK, Jan. 8.—(Canadian Press). — Gold, jewellery, bank-books, deeds and bonds, with a total value of more than $100,000, were found last night by the police in a dilapidated house at No. 125 Madison Street, where Mary Zunino, aged fifty, fought three policemen early yesterday morning in an attempt to prevent the removal of the body of her father, John B. Zunino, eighty-five, who had died hours before. In one of the rooms the police found a can containing $65 in gold coins. Hidden nearby was a large quantity of valuable jewellery. The deeds of three large Hoboken tenements, three bank-books, Liberty bonds and other securities also were discovered.

Miss Zunino was taken to the county jail for a mental examination.

NEW ARMORED PLANES.

Accommodations for Crew of Twelve—Can Carry Food to Last a Month.

LONDON, Jan. 8. — (Canadian Press).—Some formidable aerial auxiliaries to the British navy are promised as a result of experiments, now nearing completion, which are being conducted by the air ministry and naval experts.

The most remarkable of the new types, according to critics, is the huge armored "flying boat," which will be able to dispense with the assistance of airplane depot ships, and which will act as a single fighting unit. Sleeping and living accommodation for a crew of twelve, with food supplies for a month, are among the features of this monster, which is to be fitted with two marine engines, enabling it to progress under its own power when forced to descend to and alight on the surface of water. All vulnerable parts are thoroughly armored, and the design permits nests of machine guns on the wings as well as in the hull, fore and aft.

FOOD

Talk about over-production of food in our country apparently has been a case of barking up the wrong tree.

Department of Agriculture reports that, while food production has increased 13 per cent in 12 years, there has been a decrease of 5 per cent in the amount produced for every man, woman and child. Crops are not increasing as rapidly as population.

IN MILLBROOK AND DISTRICT

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Brock Celebrate Wedding Anniversary at Zion.

MILLBROOK, Jan. 7—A very pleasant event took place on Saturday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Martin, at Zion, when a sleigh load drove out from Millbrook and surprised them, the occasion being the twenty-fifth anniversary of their wedding-day.

Hearty congratulations were extended to the "bride and groom" of a quarter of a century, and a delightful evening spent with games music, reminiscences of former years being a feature that created merriment, an element of sadness occasionally finding entry as must inevitably be the case when the "years that are gone are reviewed."

Midway in the evening's enjoyment an address was read by Mrs. C. W. Richards, and Mr. and Mrs. Brock were presented with a handsome pyrex pie-plate and casserole each set in chased silver, and a dainty jardinere, Mrs. Henry Hubbeard and Miss. Maud Fee handing the gifts to the recipients. The entire gathering took Mr. and Mrs. Brock completely by surprise, and following the presentation, Mr. Brock, on behalf of his wife and himself, made a brief and appropriate reply.

The "bride's cake" occupied the place of honor in the centre of the supper table which was laden with good things, and round which the guests gathered for further enjoyment of the happy occasion.

Miss. Amy Brock, the daughter of the home, made a capable and most hospitable hostess.

The guests included, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Brown, Rev. F. W. and Mrs. Howard, Mr. and Mrs. George Brown, Mr. and Mrs. W. Mullen, Mrs. C. W. Richards, Miss Maud Fee, Miss. Jennie Brock, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Hubbeard, and Mrs Henry Hubbeard.

Greetings were received from Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Strong, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Brock, Miss. Alberta Brock and Mrs. G. W. McKim, Peterboro', Messrs. C. W. Richards W. H. Coombe and H. Hubbeard, Millbrook N. F. Coombe, Calirornia who were unable to accept the invitation to be present.

Hearty good wishes for "many happy returns of the day" were extended before the guests left for home.

St. Thomas' Church.

The anniversary services of St. Thomas church were attended by good congregations morning and evening on Sunday, January 4th, Rev. Provost Seager, of Trinity College, Toronto, preaching at both services.

Mrs. McKee Bingham of Peterboro was the soloist for the day, her selections, which were listened to with much pleasure by the congregation, included, at night, 'Nazareth,' and "Ring out Wild Bells." Mrs. McKee Bingham also assisted with anthems rendered by the choir. Mrs. (Canon) Allen presided at the organ the voluntaries played adding much to the attractiveness of the musical part of the services.

The Christmas decorations of ever green and holly with vases of dainty narcissus on the altar, had been left in place until after the anniversary occasion. The present church was opened on December 16th, 1885, the difficulty of securing a clergyman from some outside point who had that date clear last month, making it necessary to postpone the special services until the first Sunday in the New Year. The first Anglican church in the village was a red brick edifice which, growing considerably out of repair, and becoming unsuited to the needs of a growing congregation, was replaced by the present white brick building, occupying the same site.

Provost Seager chose the somewhat unusual text from 2 Chronicles 3:14, "And he made the vail of blue, and purple, and crimson, and fine linen, and wrought cherubins thereon," stating that he intended his sermon to deal wholly with the missionary work of the Anglican church though some might question whether it was an appropriate subject for an anniversary service. Missions are unpopular because we unfortunately associate the matter of allotments, financial appeals, and deficits with their study, unconsciously becoming entangled with the machinery and forgetting the thing itself. "Think, instead, of the thing the machinery is producing, fixing attention upon the pattern God is weaving, like a veil in the temple of God with the glory of Heaven wrought into it—"cherubine wrought thereon."

"As a whole the Anglican communion is much larger than the Church of England, either here, or in the Old Land. It has fifteen hundred years of clear history behind it, and is a great Christian fellowship, rooted and spreading in twelve nations—like seed shoots in great areas, bearing harvest in years to come. We may speak of it as a vail of many colors taking in men of every tribe, race and nation, from Liverpool to Shanghai, and from the Herschel Islands in the Arctic Circlie, to the southermost point of the continent. One hundred and ninety-three languages are spoken throughout this communion, and six different Prayer Books are in use, constituting a new family in liturgy. Truly, the sun that bids us rest, is waking our brethren 'neath the wetsern skv."

In the warp and woof of this constitutional life the Anglican communion has woven colors varied, and beautiful, striking a happy balance between liberty and authority. "When this is done, the problem of civilization has been solved—the millennium has come." It is the the freest ecclesiastical communion on the face of the earth today, and yet it does succeed in holding together, because of its principles of liberty, men of the widest viewpoint as to doctrine, authority, etc. Fellowship may be strained sometimes, "but better strain than death—better torpidity than mechanical supidity." In over a century there has never been anything like a seccession except the Reformed Anglican Church in the United States fifty years ago.

"We believe that the unity of Christ's church is not a question of doctrine at all, except as expressed in the Apostles' Creed, the only creed required from all people. Fellowship and brotherhood finds expression at the Lord's Table, in the inflowing life of Christ. We believe in diversity and liberty, as in the term 'Holy Catholic Church'."

On its practical side, the Anglican communion has a beauty of worship which makes a simple, straight appeal to the actual needs of men, such as sorrow, pain, loss, temptation, tragedy. It possesses a power of detachment from waves of emotion that rise at times and sweep democracy off its feet. It preserves a balanced witness to the beauty and sovereignty of Jesus. The machinery has grown worn and rusty at times, occasionally seeming almost to have stopped as in the eighteenth century. Nevertheless, look at the thing produced. Growth began with the colonial expression of the British Empire, and is extending to the uttermost parts of the earth. The Weaver is working still. Think of the raw material yet to be brought in and wrought into the "curtain of blue, and purple, and crimson, and fine linen."

In spite of imperfections in workmen and material, the Weaver is producing a wonderful pattern. The missionary society of the Church of England in Canada is a going concern developing with amazing rapidity, and its propogation means something worth while in a man's life, and a woman's life. The congregation of Millbrook is one small, vital link in the golden chain encircling the earth. The kingdom of God is not some dim, far-off, divine event, but rather the culmination of St. Paul's marvelous conception, "the fulness of Him that filleth all in all" is being fulfilled.

ONCE AMONG NOBILITY—NOW A STOREKEEPER

Lady Decies Finds Tuppeny Tips for Tea More Useful Than Medals for Bravery.

BROKE AND ALONE

Once Presided Over Castle—Now Glad of Shelter of Old House.

By MILTON BRONNER.

DANE HILL, England, Jan. 7.—Gertrude, Dowager Baroness Decies—and thus connected by marriage with one of the oldest families of the British nobility and with the purse-proud, millionaire Gould family of America—serves hot tea to thirsty motorists and is thankful for a tuppenny tip.

She told me so herself. And judging by her looks, the appearance of the house, and everything connected with it, there was no faking about it.

The woman, who once presided over a castle, is now very glad to have shelter in an old house—and once didn't even have that. When her husband, the fourth Baron Decies, died, as their little son was also dead, the title and estates passed to her husband's brother, the present and fifth Baron Decies.

The latter a year later married Helen Vivien Gould, daughter of George Jay Gould of New York.

She is Forgotten.

Decies and his American bride are in high society. Their sister-in-law is buried in this isolated little place in the Sussex hills, nine miles from the nearest railway.

The Decieses regale themselves with opera in the season. Their sistr-in-law, when she has time, listens to the music of an old phonograph.

Lady Decies' one helper says her rich relatives have done nothing for her. But she is mistaken.

They once sent Lady Decies a picture of the pretty Gould girl who became the fifth baroness!

As I entered the poor little parlor I saw the photograph on the centre table in a silver frame set with brilliants. That parlor itself told the whole story of the tenant of the house.

Carpet — old and faded. Wall paper—stained. Chairs — sagging. But here and there were the relics of the owner's former prosperity. A rich gilt-framed mirror, a tabouret inlaid with mother of pearl, costly miniatures of Cecil Rhodes and other famous men and women she had known years ago. And medals, lots of them, that she had won when she exhibited her prize Pekinese dogs in the days of her affluence.

LADY DECIES IN HER LITTLE STORE WAITING ON THE CHILDREN OF THE NEIGHBORHOOD.

"There's no use grousing," said Lady Decies, a sad smile wrestling with the wrinkles of care in her face. "I am broke and alone and have to do just the best I can. Everything has gone wrong since I lost my husband. I had a small fortune, but lost it helping a friend. I know a great deal about dogs, so I started a London shop for the sale of Pekinese. That failed. I opened a hat shop and that failed.

"Then came the war and I went to France as a nurse and was wounded in the shoulder by shrapnel. When I recovered I went with the London Scottish into Russia and was with them in their retreat. That got me some aches, some wounds and some war medals, but no pension. And you can't live off of your medals. I started a hotel and that failed.

Slept in Field.

"Then I was really down and out. I lived for six months in a hut in the corner of a field and had to sleep with a raincoat on when the rain poured through the roof. Then I came here and took this place. We sell hot tea to motorists and cyclists, candy to the neighborhood children, and take care of valuable dogs of London people who want them out in the country for a bit. They know I know all about dogs and love them.

"Things go quite well in summer, but in winter when there are not many people travelling the roads it's hard. I would like a job if possible this winter. I could be companion chaperon to some young girl whose people want her to travel a little."

Here Lady Decies — who often makes the tea, butters the toast, washes the dishes, and waits on table—was called away to see what a cyclist wanted. He wanted tea, and lots of it.

"And plenty 'ot water," he added peremptorily.

When he finished, he complimented her:

"You're an energetic sort o' body. Hope you get along all right. Here's tuppence tip and good luck to you."

"I need it," said Lady Decies fervently as she pocketed the pennies.

HANDSHAKE

France's purchases from Germany have more than doubled in a year. French exports to Germany correspondingly increased almost fourfold.

This is the report from Paris. Unfortunately the gains are measured in terms of francs, whose value has fluctuated so much that they are very unreliable for measuring volume of trade. However, despite all this, trade between these two enemy countries is undoubtedly gaining. Which helps bury the ax.

The four winners at the last social evening played off for a five-dollar gold piece, which was won by Mr. Martin Coughlin. A five-dollar gold piece, offered for the most popular young lady, was won by Miss Rita McMurray. The valuable gentlemen's companion, for the most popular young man, was won by Mr. Frank Moher. A few concert selections and an hour's dancing completed an enjoyable evening.

Many small house parties made the festive season gay for the young people, and despite the bitter cold, they were well attended.

The Young People's Club has taken on a new lease of life, having been again re-organized. A meeting is to be held on Friday evening in the school house at S. S. No. 7.

MYSTERIOUS MALADY KILLED WILD BEASTS IN OLDEN DAYS

One Hundred Thousand Years Ago Mammoth Tigers and Horses Roamed About.

WERE NOT SLAIN.

Some of These Creatures Lived Into Post-Glacial Times, Says Professor Stauffer.

MINNEAPOLIC, Jan. 8 (Associated Press).—Mammoths and mastodons, numbering thousands, which once roamed the western plains of America, penetrating to Alaska and as far east as New York, died under the blight of some mysterious power of nature, something that the science of man has has not yet been able to discover, according to Prof. Clinton R. Stauffer, geologist at the University of Minnesota. Not only the elephants of North America, but the horse and the fierce saber-toothed tiger, his early contemporaries, died and vanished in a way that has not been explained.

Three natural assumptions, that they died because of climatic changes; that their proper food vanished, or that man slew them must all be abandoned, Dr. Stauffer declares.

"At least some of these creatures lived into post-glacial times when the climate was much what it is now, and all could stand temperatures even colder than those of the modern age," says Dr. Stauffer. In the stomach of a mammoth found frozen in Siberia, where he had died, was a meal of vegetation such as still grows. He was the same type of animal that lived in North America. Primitive man lived when these creatures did, but with his small numbers and crude weapons, he stood as much in danger of them as they did of him. He did not slaughter them as his successors did the bison.

"The only modern parallel for such a disappearance in North America is that of the passenger pigeons. Man slaughtered these by the million, but it has never been established that this carnage alone caused their final extinction."

Dr. Stauffer inclines to the belief that a pestilence caused the disappearance of the mammoth, tiger and horse, although he sees no reason why all should have succumbed to the same disease, nor does he think they all passed at the same time. But they did all live at the same time, and all vanished, possibly 100,000 years ago. The horse alone repopulated part of North America after escaping from Spanish invaders in the sixteenth century. He then proceeded to flourish greatly.

Since last summer when the discovery of several Jeffersonian elephants in Minnesota was reported by geologists, the number has increased to 30. Formerly only about half that number had been known in Minnesota.

American elephants were visitors from far away Egypt in the first instance, Dr. Stauffer says. From Egypt they spread to France and throughout Europe and Asia, finally crossing Behring Straits to Alaska. Thence they wandered over North America. North American types included the mastodon and two mammoths, elephas jeffersoniensis and elephas boreus. Still another type was found in South America, to which it had wandered from the Northern continent, Dr. Stauffer asserts.

LIVING COSTS OF AMERICAN FARMERS

Total Cost For Average American Family to Live for One Year is $1,600.

WASHINGTON Jan. 8 (United Press).—Living costs the average American farmer with a family $1,600 a year.

A survey by the U. S. Department of Labor of typical farm families, the man, his wife and two or three children, in Iowa, Ohio and Alabama, arrived at this approximate figure, according to statistics just made public.

The average cost of living for Iowa farmers who owned the land on which they lived, arrived at by a survey of 212 families, was $1,875.90, of which the farm furnished $756. The average of 239 tenant families was $1,506, of which the farm furnished $645. Families with hired men spent $1,431, of which $589 came from the land.

In Ohio, 283 land-owning farm families averaged $1,586, the farm furnishing $663 of this. Tenant families averaged $1,444, families with hired men $1,243.

In Alabama, where 147 land-owning families were studied, it was found an average of $1,695 was consumed, $819 being furnished by the farm. Alabama's tenant families lived on only $1,094, and the "croppers" (people working the land for a percentage of the products) took only $819, of which $476 came from the farm.

In the case of the $1,875-a-year Iowa land-owning farmer, the farm was credited with $415 in food, $304 in rent and $37 in operating expenses. The $1,119 he actually spent was divided as follows: Food, $235; clothing, $283; furniture, $38; operating expense, $225; health, $86; advancement, including school, organizations, vacations, churches, sports, $152; personal, $28; insurance on life and health, including savings, $70.

The costs in the other groups were similar except that a larger percentage was spent on food by the farmers who spent less per year.

Another series of surveys covering seven states taken during the last four years, gives somewhat similar figures over all classes of land-owners and tenants studied together.

Delaware county, Ohio, where 383 families were studied, showed an average annual expenditure of $1,540 41.5 per cent. of this coming from the land.

Mason county, Kentucky, where 360 families were studied, had an average of $1,618, the farm furnishing 40.7 per cent. Other selected Kentucky families averaged $1,801.

In New York, an average of 402 farm families in Livingston county was $2,012, with 36.2 per cent. coming from the farm.

Selected localities in Iowa averaged $1,669, the farm furnishing 41.5 per cent.

Selected localities in Tennessee averaged $1,122, of which the farm gave 41.1 per cent.

Selected localities in Texas, covering 322 families, gave an average of $1,452, of which the farm furnished only 33 per cent.

GOOD EYES ARE RARE

The Eyesight Conservation Council of America has issued an announcement showing an alarming state of affairs as far as our eyesight is concerned. The object of the council is to arouse general interest so that people will be impelled to give the care to their eyes some proper attention. Nine out of ten persons over twenty-one years of age have imperfect sight; above forty it is almost impossible to find a man or woman with perfect sight. A survey of 100,000 employees of factories and commercial houses in a large city showed that 53 per cent. had uncorrected faulty vision and 13 per cent. had the defects corrected, making a total of 63 per cent. defective eyes.

DUTCH ENCOURAGED THE ROTOR BOAT

Flettner Made His Experiments in Amsterdam—Germans Rallied at Last.

My only objection to Flettner's substitute for sails in his Rotor Boat is æsthetic; his revolving towers look dreadfully ugly and top-heavy on a ship On the experimental ship "Buckau," which may ultimately become a classic like the "Comet," two of those wind-trapping towers stand up as formidable as factory smoke-stalks. They fit in with none of our ideas of beauty in sailing craft, and I find it difficult to believe that ocean liners would care to introduce such a feature even as an auxiliary. It is on land, mainly, I fancy that the Flettner invention will be most useful, as a super-windmill. With a Flettner tower, which can't possibly cost much, and a small oil-engine to revolve it, we can have power and electricity in any part of the country at a very much cheaper rate than any existing appliance gives us.

On reading an address given the other day by Fletter in Berlin, it appears he began by experimenting with ordinary sails, only to discover that any constructional improvement in sails, from a technical point of view, came to a standstill more than a thousand years ago, and that any improvement which has taken place since then related chiefly to the methods of handling them. He was forced to the decision that from the aerodynamic point of view the old-fashioned sail could not be made more effective than it is, for the shape of sails, and the spaces between the different canvases had been selected by experience in such a manner that they were completely in accordance with the scientific laws relating to air currents.

Einstein, in The Berliner Tageblatt, declares that Flettner has, in his Rotor Boat, done the same thing as Columbus with the egg. The "Buckau" can sail as close up to the wind as a modern small yacht, a thing which hitherto has not been in the remotest degree possible in a sailing ship of her kind. She goes within about two points (23 degrees) of the wind. The power required to actuate the two rotating towers is about 20 h.p., while anything up to 1,000 h.p. can be taken out of the wind by the rotors.

It must be rather startling to the old shell-back seaman to find what this involves. All the difficulties which are associated with sails for the utilisation of wind power for navigation are removed. No longer will the seaman have to keep an anxious lookout to see what sort of weather conditions are to be expected, or compelled to reduce canvas when a storm is coming. "It will be possible," says Flettner, "to arrange that even in the case of the largest ships one man will be all that is necessary to serve the rotors, thus dispensing with the need for perhaps a hundred men in the largest sailing vessels."

Flettner is now regarded in Germany as quite as much a scientific wizard as Edison or Marconi. Yet the Germans gave him small encouragement to start with. In spite of the use they made of an amazing new principle of his in aeroplane rudders, they had no interest in his other aerodynamic theories, and he went to Amsterdam. There he applied his aerial experience in steering-gear to craft in water. From the Dutch he got a sympathetic understanding and financial help he was refused in his own country. But even while he was director o the Amsterdam Institute of Aero- and Hydro-Dynamics, he kept up experimenting in a technical laboratory at Gottingen. It was here the rotor-tower principle took shape, and the Germans, finding how portentous it was, rallied round Flettner with all the sympathy and cash he wanted.

AMERICANS HAVE LOVE OF ART, AND SHOW IT AT THE CAPITOL

(By ROBERT H. HORAN.)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8, (United Press).—America is developing a national viewpoint in art, distinct from that of the old world, and too little understood by critics, who charge the interest in art displayed by Americans is only another expression of "Yankee curiosity."

This is the conclusion of artists restoring priceless art objects and of guides employed at the Capitol building who show thousands of Americans its corridors. It is true, they admit, that the American viewpoint is not unalloyed with a considerable interest in the monetary value of art objects, but this is overshadowed by a deep appreciation of simply beauty.

Americans hold no reverence for "art with a high hat." Modernistic art that passes into the fourth and fifth dimension finds little response other than "Yankee curiosity" in the typical American, they state. To an American, art must be sincere and in keeping with Emerson's epigram that "Beauty is its own excuse for being."

"There is an honesty in the American viewpoint, earnest and rugged as the pioneer spirit which founded America," William Whipple, famous throughout the world for his restorative art work, describes the appreciation of thousands who have watched him at his work.

This is further attested to by the guides who point out that the famous painting of "Westward Ho!" in the House wing of the Capitol, is one of the most genuinely admired of all the paintings in the Capitol building.

No nationals could show greater reverence for the highest form of art, as displayed in the decorations on the corridor walls and rooms in the Senate wing, than Americans who visit the Capitol, Whipple believes.

The art work throughout the Capitol is principally that of Constantino Brumidi, an Italian exile, who, working under inspiration of a country dedicated to liberty, painted some of the most wonderful mural and decorative art in the world. It is, comparable to only that of the Vatican, critics declare.

It is here, artists and guides say, that Americans display their love of art. Typically American in subject matter and painted after the Raphael and Rennaisance conception, the decorations bring forth the highest appreciation of art known, according to artists—meditative silence.

No two panels or ceilings are alike, yet blend into a composite whole that masters from all parts of th worlde have studied to gain a similar effect in their work.

It is said that Brumidi studied ornithology and horticulture constantly for twenty-five years to gain the knowledge necessary to have painted into his murals practically every species of the birds and flowers native to America. The work is so minute in detail and so wondrous in its harmony of color that it is marvelled at, not only for its beauty, but its masterful technique. And, it is this appreciation which Capitol artists base their insistance on that Americans have a very highly developed sense of what art really is.

"Americans may not know the technical terms of art, nor readily identify the period of paintings, but, believe me, they do, in the mass, agree with most of the famous artists, who visit the building," one guide recently declared. "I have been here for fifteen years and I never take a group into the Rotunda but what somebody perceives the difference in the fresco of the Dome, painted by two different artists," he said.

The fresco was started by Brumidi, but he did not live to complete it. An artist of lesser genius than Brumidi took up the work later, but failed to catch the inspiration of Brumidi. As a consequence, there is a slight difference in the worthiness of the work, artists declare, yet it is not believed that the work of Brumidi's successor was not a great work of art.

The detection of this is pointed to by observers as one of the keennesses of Americans in matters of art.

It is hardly conceivable, all agree, that one who has viewed the masterful work of Brumidi would not be intensely "curious" about the man and the human background from which so great an art sprung. Into such a curiosity may enter the question of what the Government paid Brumidi for what is now priceless labor. It is only incidental. However, it is answered by guides in a brief word—"liberty."

Brumidi, a young genius at 27, was chosen nearly a century ago by an art commission to carry on the work of decorating the Vatican at Rome. For years he labored faithfully and became known as one of the greatest masters of the old world. At forty, persecuted for his tireless zeal in behalf of liberty, he threw away his brush and career and was driven out of the country, an exile. Brumidi sought refuge in Mexico, but

GOOD NEWS FOR

BRONCHITIS SUFFERERS!

Deep-Seated Chest Troubles Yield to PEPS.

BRONCHITIS lays hold of the chest in a slow insidious way. Do not, therefore, neglect to take prompt measures to counteract the first symptoms of this ravaging ailment—the first difficulty in breathing, the occasional made-up feeling in the throat with its accumulations of phlegm. Be warned by that irritating cough and those frequently-returning colds.

Get a box of Peps, the well-known breathing remedy. After removing the silver wrapping place a Peps tablet on the tongue and breathe in the healing fumes as the tablet dissolves.

Peps are simply invaluable for allaying that teasing, tickling cough; for softening and loosening the phlegm, and soothing the irritated and semi-inflamed bronchial tubes. Every day as you breathe in the powerful germicidal fumes which are emitted from these Peps, a healing influence is extended deep into the lungs where liquid cough mixtures cannot penetrate.

The regular use of Peps at bedtime will ensure healthy slumber undisturbed by bouts of coughing. By day, the treatment should be continued on the assurance that the throat, bronchi and lungs are all being healed and strengthed by this medicine.

Peps are guaranteed to be absolutely free from opium, laudanum, chloral, morphia and any harmful ingredients of the old-fashioned cough medicines.

Dr. GORDON STABLER, M.B., C.M., writes:—"Fear every little cold. Keep Peps handy and you will ride triumphantly clear of bronchitis. Peps are invaluable for soothing and healing semi-inflamed bronchial tubes. Peps tablets are more of an inhalation, and go directly to the seat of injury."

Whilst PEPS are an expensive remedy to produce the demand has become so great that it has now been found possible to have the price reduced from 60c. to 35c. Get a box to-day! All druggists.

ASIA FOR ASIATICS IS DEMAND OF CHINESE MOVEMENT LEADER

Dr. Sun Yat-Sen, Leader of South China Movements, Told United Press Representatives in Bold Tongue That He Denounced Oppressive Attitude of the White Nations Against the Colored Peoples.

By MOTO TAKATA.

OSAKA, Japan, Jan. 8.—Before attending to the Re-organization conference in China, Dr. Sun Yatsen, leader of the South China movements, visited Japan to ascertain what is Japan's public opinion regarding China and to voice the necessity of greater unity of Asiatic nations.

He stayed in Kobe for a week. Before leaving Japan, he was interviewed by a representative of United Press, and in the most frank and bold tongue, he denounced oppressive attitude of the white nations against the colored peoples and urged for the establishment of Asia for Ariatics. He said:

"During the last 20 years, there has been strong movement among all Asiatic nations to get free from the yoke of oppression by the white nations. The common idea of independence among these colored nations bound them together. The white nations regard this movement as a revolt against the world's civilization. A certain American author published a book on this subject and warned the white nations against this Asiatic movement. The campaign against the movement was carried on and is expected to be continued in a more vigorous way. We must repulse it with united power of all Asiatic nations. This is the time to realize closer unity among colored nations and establish Asia for Asiatics.

"But even among Asiatic nations, we have many who hold a wrong idea and it has been extremely difficult to attain our cherished aim. For instance, Japan herself, as represented by the past governments, did harm and injustice towards China and Chinese people. The friendship between Japan and China has been repeatedly urged by many influential people, both in Japan and China, but we had no real friendship. Japan, with many other Western countries, was following the bad example the Britishers had set. Even now some Japanese are under the influence of the oppressive policy of the Western countries, particularly of British Government. The Japanese Ambassador in London, judging from his recent public speech, seems to think that Japan committed a great mistake in not supporting General Wu, the pet of Britain.

"It is the Britishers in China who are always creating trouble there. Americans and other foreigners are not entirely undeserving of censure, but the Britishers are the worst lot. The British Foreign Office is pulling the wires fastened by British residents in China. If the Britishers continue their haughty attitude, they will have to reap a harvest of their own sowing. The oppressed Chinese are contemplating a universal boycott of Britishers, not in a limited region like Shanghai and Hongkong, but throughout the country.

"There is no denying that when the Chinese once organize against them, the large British trade, banking and shipping interests in China will suffer terrible consequences. I do not hate every British subject, but in general, have intense hatred for the doings of Britishers in the Far East. Individually speaking, I have many intimate British and American friends. But when I think of the poor 400,000,000 Chinese constantly oppressed by them, the fact that I have many friends among Britishers should not blind me to British injustice to my countrymen.

"China is today suffering from the curse of foreign control and oppression. If Japan in particular wishes to gain the real friendship of her neighbor she should not follow blindly the policy of the British Government and render her sincere aid to put China on her feet.

"I hope I can repeat this in near future in America and Europe. I am going to visit America and Europe as soon as my task is over at the reconstruction conference in Peking. I will make them understand why we cry for Asia for Asiatics."

GOLD-BEATING AN ANCIENT ART

The spectacle of a gilder at work is one that scarcely ever fails to collect a crowd. Who has not lingered in front of a shop window watching and admiring the manner in which the golden letters are formed on the glass?

Yet for as much as it is to be seen on the windows and decorations of our shop fronts, very few people know anything of the characteristics or the history of "gold leaf," the yellow material the gilder so skilfully uses.

The average person has perhaps observed that it is very thin, that although on the flat surface of a window it is as dense as a sheet of metal, when held up to the light objects can be easily seen through it suffused in a pale-greenish hue, but we doubt if his knowledge extends any further than this.

Nevertheless, "gold leaf" is one of the oldest and most remarkable of man's productions. Incredibly thin — three hundred thousand "gold leaves" would make a pile only one inch high—it is so fragile that a portion rubbed between the fingers disappears, being utterly destroyed by the friction. Peculiar though such an assertion may seem, it is both visible and invisible. Easily seen if looked at with the surface facing the vision, it is quite invisible if held so that the edge of the sheet is towards the eyes, for the human sight is not nearly fine enough to note the minute thickness of "gold leaf." For all its delicacy, however, it is practically indestructible by time, as the paintings and decorations on tombs and temples thousands of years old serve to show.

The extremely knowing individual who insists that "'gold leaf' is half brass" is contributing to a popular fallacy. Gold is the only metal known that can be beaten so inconceivably thin that the minute quantity of the metal required renders is a reasonably cheap commodity. Some one has estimated that an ounce of gold in the form of "gold leaf" would cover an area of 146½ square feet. It would be even cheaper were it not for the fact that "gold-beating" is a highly-skilled and therefore well-paid profession, for, in common with piano-tuning and plastering, "gold-beating" can only be carried out by hand. The machine that will supplant the human muscles in these three trades has yet to be invented.

The "gold-beater" is one of the few craftsmen who exercise their art in much the same way to-day as did the ancient Egyptians many centuries ago.

In the process pure gold is melted with a very small quantity of silver or copper in a crucible, and poured into an iron mould six inches long, one inch wide, and an eighth of an inch deep. This slab of gold (23 carats pure) is squeezed between jeweller's rollers until it is only one-thousandth of an inch thick. The metal ribbon is then cut into pieces an inch square, containing six grains of gold each. These are made into a pack of 200 pieces, interleaved with little sheets of parchment, and pounded with an 18-lb. hammer until the golden squares have flattened out from 1 inch to 3⅜ inches square. The 200 sheets of beaten gold are made into 800 by dividing each sheet into four quarters and formed into another pack, being interleaved this time with "gold-beater's skin."

This second pack is now beaten with a 12-lb. hammer until the squares of gold are 4¾ inches on each side. This operation generally takes about two hours, the beater distributing his blows evenly over the surface, and working from the center to the outside.

Now very thin, the films of metal are again divided into four, giving 3,200 films from the original 200 pieces of rolled ribbon. A final pack is made of 1,000 films, interleaved with "gold, beater's skin" as before, and beaten with an 8-lb. hammer until they have spread from 4¾ to 5 inches square. This last beating usually occupies about 12 hours but a lot depends on the steadiness of the eye and hand of the beater, and also to a certain extent on the weather.

The fragile membranes are now laid on calfskin cushions, and cut with a device resembling a toy sledge made of Japanese cane, and equipped with Malacca reed runners. These runners act as the cutting edges. Great care must be taken during this operation, as even the breath blown gently across "gold leaf" tears it to shreds.

For commercial purposes the "leaf" is sold in tiny books containing 25 pages of tissue paper, on which the delicate films of gold rest.

"Gold-beater's skin" is a wonderful substance in itself, and well worthy of mention. Obtained by skinning the large intestine of an ox, it has a rough and a smooth side, and is very fine. Two skins are placed together with the rough sides facing each other, stretched on a frame, and joined to make a single "gold-beater's skin." It is then varnished with a special varnish which gives it a golden yellow color, and after being cut to a suitable size is ready for use.

The toughness of "gold-beater's skin" is extraordinary. No other material has been found that will resist the pounding of the heavy hammers to such an extent.

According to a legend, it was an accident that led to its discovery. A workman four or five thousand years ago was beating a piece of gold with a round stone in the crude method of the age, when he inadvertently let his goat-skin apron over it. To his astonishment he discovered that the gold beat out much finer when covered by the skin. This led the "gold-beaters" to experiment with various substances, until finally "gold-beater's skin" was evolved.

Voice Of The People

Editor of the Examiner:

Sir,—Rev. A. H. McConnachie, of Centreville, preaching in St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, on Sunday evening, January 4th, admitted that the Westminster Confession of Faith was a wonderful document, drafted at the time it was, but went on to state that conditions had so changed since this great statement of faith was prepared that it no longer fittingly expresses the faith of the church today. It was in his opinion unthinkable that Presbyterians would continue to be bound by certain of the theological views set forth in the Declaration of Faith. As Rev. Mr. McConnachie is not the only Presbyterian who is speaking in this way, it is desirable that the attention of the Presbyterians should be called to what is involved in such a statement.

Presumably when Rev. Mr. McConnachie was ordained as a minister of the Presbyterian church, he was asked the questions at the time of his ordination or induction that according to the Blue Book of the Presbyterian Church, should be asked of every minister. Question two reads as follows:

"Do you believe the Westminster Confession of Faith, as adopted by this Church in the basis of union to be founded on and agreeable to the Word of God, and in your teachings will you faithfully adhere thereto?"

At Rev. Mr. McConnachie's ordination or induction he was supposed also to sign a statement to the following effect:

"I hereby declare that I believe the Westminster Confession of Faith, as adopted by this Church in the basis of union to be founded on and agreeable to the Word of God; that I own the purity of worship at present authorized by this church; and that I engage to adhere faithfully to the doctrine of the said confession to maintain and defend the said government, to conform to the said worship, to submit to the discipline of this Church and to follow no divisive course from the present order established therein."

Will Rev. Mr. McConnachie kindly answer the following questions?

First: Was he asked at the time of his ordination or induction if he accepted the Westminster Confession of Faith as being founded on the Word of God and if, in his teachings, he would adhere faithfully thereto? If so, and he then stated his acceptance of it and announced his intention to adhere to it, how can he harmonize his promise with his sermon Sunday night?

Second: If Rev. Mr. McConnachie no longer believes that the Westminster Confession of Faith is in harmony with the Word of God, and if he no longer intends to adhere to it, should he not, in all honor, resign as a minister of the Presbyterian Church, stating his reasons therefor and leave it for the members of the church to decide whether or not his action in so doing was justified?

We are being told that ministers of the Presbyterian Church accept the Westminster Confession of Faith with "mental reservations." Writing on this point recently, in a Toronto paper, Chief Justice Jas. Craig of Toronto said, "Any witness who entctred a civil court and confessed to taking the oath with a mental reservation would be arrested for perjury and sent to jail." It is hardly to be supposed, therefore, that Rev. Mr. McConnachie accepted the Westminster Confession of Faith with such a mental reservation.

In what has been said I am not discussing whether or not the Westminster Canfession of Faith should or should not be changed. That is another matter on which there is room for an honest difference of opinion.

The point at issue is can ministers who have publicly declared their belief in the Westminster Confession of Faith and promised to adhere to it in their teachings honourable stand up in a Presbyterian pulpit and attack the same Westminister Confession of Faith?

It is said that many Presbyterian ministers are seeking to enter the new United Church so that they will not have to declare themselves definitely as to what they believe, in the manner that is expected of them in the Presbyterian Church. Sermons such as that delivered by Rev. Mr. McConnachie indicate that this is the case. It is hoped that Mr. McConnachie will answer the foregoing questions clearly and simply. It should not be difficult to do so.

MENU FOR FAMILY

Breakfast — Tangerines, crushed oats cooked with chopped figs, creamed eggs on toast, graham muffins, jelly, milk, coffee.

Luncheon— Casserole of vegetables, jellied tomato salad, steamed pudding, rye bread, milk, tea.

Dinner—Lamb stew, baked squash grapefruit and cabbage salad, nutted prune pudding, bran rolls, currant jelly, milk, coffee.

When a little bit of this vegetable and a little less of another is left after a meal one usually thinks of a salad, but in the winter time a hot dish at noon tastes so much better than a cold one that this casserole of vegetables has a strong appeal. If care is taken when cooking the vegetables in butter that the butter does not turn brown and sizzle a child of four years can partake of the dish.

Children under ten years of age should not be allowed to eat the pulp of the grapefruit with the cabbage but may have the juice sprinkled over the finely shredded cabbage.

There are no other dishes mentioned on the day's menu that all members of a family who go to the table can not eat.

Casserole of Vegetables

One cup cooked canned peas, 1 cup cooked diced beets, 1 cup diced cooked carrots, 1-2 cup diced celery 1 tablespoon minced onion, 1 small head cauliflower, 4 tablespoons butter, 3 tablespoons flour, salt and peper, 2 tablespoons grated cheese.

Melt butter in a frying pan. Add diced vegetables and shake over a low fire. Simmer, covered, for five minutes. Sift flour over vegetables and mix well, stirring with a fork. Put the cauliflower, which has stood for an hour in cold salted water in the centre of a buttered casserole. Surround with vegetables and add enough boiling water to barely cover. Season with salt and pepper and cook in a hot oven for 40 minutes. Remove cover of casserole, sprinkle with grated cheese and return to the oven long enough to melt the cheese.

Nutted Prune Pudding

Twenty-four medium-sized prunes 2 cups cold water, 3-4 cup sugar, 1-2 teaspoon cinnamon, 1-4 teaspoon cloves, juice, 1 orange, 1-2 cup hickory meats, 2 eggs (whites), 4 tablespoons cornstarch, few grains salt.

Wash prunes well through several waters. Cover with cold water and let stand two hours. Cook in the same water until tender but not broken or mushy. Remove stones from prunes and measure juice. Add enough boiling water to make 2 cups Put stoned prunes, sugar, spices and juice in sauce pan and simmer ten minutes. Add enough cold water to the cornstarch to make a smooth paste that will pour easily. Stir into the prune mixture and cook, five minutes, stirring constantly. Beat whites of eggs until stiff and dry. Add nuts and salt to thickened prunes and fold in whites of eggs. Turn into a mold and put in a cold place to chill and become firm. Serve with or without whipped cream.

The yolks of eggs can be used in a salad dressing.

Grapefruit and Cabbage Salad

Arrange sections of grapefruit on a bed of finely shredded cabbage. Sprinkle with salt and pour over oil about 1 tablespoonful for each serving. Let stand on ice for half an hour and sprinkle with paprika before serving.

The cabbage should be crisped in cold water and the sections of grapefruit free from membrane and skin.

After shredding the cabbage put it in a bowl of salted water. Let stand one hour. Rinse in cold clear water and drain well. This treatment improves cabbage immensely and is worth the effort.

TATTOO.

It's doubtful if any individual in history ever got Uncle Sam's goat in a petty way quite as much as the young feiolw who has enlisted and deserted 41 times in army, navy or marine corps.

Officers are so riled at his elusiveness that every recruiting station has a standing order to examine all applicants in hope of finding a tattooed cat on the left forearm. This is the champion deserter's "trademark." Telegraph news will tell you when he's caught—if.

The new minister was invited out for his tea. He was a bachelor, and when he helped himself to the cake for the third time he looked across the table at his hostess's little girl.

"I don't often have such a good tea as this," he said in his most appreciative tone.

"We don't either," said the little girl, smiling. "I'm awful glad you came."

FINANCIAL NEWS AND VIEWS

Market Quotations Supplied By Hawley and Howland, 'Phone 1662.

News in wheat at Chicago was not specially bullish to-day, but there was no disposition to press the selling side. Cash wheat sold on a firm basis relative to futures, and oats were steady to a half high.

Cash wheat continues strong in most domestic markets and there were reports of a good business to the Pacific Coast from Omaha. Commission-house buying of corn was sufficient volume to absorb offerings in the pit, while leading shorts were supposed to have covered. Primary receipts of oats were about double those of a week ago. The shipping demand was only fair.

Foreign advices of the U.S. Department of Agriculture estimate the world's production of wheat in 1924 at 3,300,000,000 bushels, against 3,470,000,000 in 1923.

Industrials were not particularly active.

December ingot steel output in United States reached 3,551,825 tons, against 3,107,221 in November and 2,963,266 in December a year ago. The production for 1924 was 36,645,444 tons, against 43,465,065 in 1923.

DOGS BIG AND LITTLE IN WORLD

Pekingese, Alsatian and Papillon the Favorites.

AMERICAN DEMAND.

Sixty-nine different breeds or varieties of dogs appear on the registers of the Kennel Club, London, which implies that they are sufficiently strongly represented to receive distinct recognition. As if this wide choice were not enough for all practical purposes, most big dog shows provide classes for any other foreign varieties not so classified. Many of the most popular and costly breeds have made their first bow to the British public in this modest way.

For some years Pekingese were exhibited in these foreign classes without attracting much attention, although a few had been in England since 1861, being owned by the family of the Duke of Richmond. Of the five or six brought home after the occupation of the Summer Palace in Pekin by the allied forces, one went to Queen Victoria at Windsor, and a little beauty it was. To-day it would have been worth no end of money, but very little was known about its identity then.

The Alsatian wolf dogs that are all the craze just now came in single spies, so to speak, before the war; now they are in battalions. They are to be met everywhere. Since peace was signed British breeders have spent thousands of pounds on the Continent in buying up the best specimens procurable, with the result that the finest in Europe are to be found within British shores. The Americans will be going there for them directly instead of going to Germany.

At the other end of the scale one of the tiniest breeds known is being pushed energetically. This is the Papillon or "Butterfly" dog, so called because his upright ears are supposed to resemble the partially-opened wings of a butterfly. They are dainty mites, pretty in marking and charming in their ways. Several enterprising ladies have paid visits to Belgium in search of breeding stock, so that within a few years they may be among the common sights.

It must be confessed, however, that these little exotics are luxuries for the rich, or a source of livelihood for those who meet the demands of the wealthy. Ordinary people will go on being content with the many excellent companions to be had at a more moderate cost, and which are no anxiety to their owners so long as a little reasonable care is bestowed upon them.

The various firms which specialise in the manufacture of dog biscuits have abolished all troubles in connection with feeding by providing dog and puppy biscuit, hound and terrier meals, etc., that satisfy all nee s at a modest outlay. Of course it is necetrary to use a little discretion. One would not give big biscuits to little dogs or pups. Special kinds are made to meet their requirements, and there are enough to give variety. Dogs dislike monotony, and appreciate a change of diet as much as human beings. It is not a bad idea tn let them have one sort in the morning and another at night, varying them with hound or terrier meal. All can be mixed with gravy and bits of meat, without being softened too much. I believe in making a dog gnaw his food. It keeps him occupied prevents him bolting to, and is good for his teeth and jaws. Bread and milk or bread and gravy are not to be recommended. They are far too soft.

FABLES ON HEALTH

BLOOD CIRCULATION.

The operation of the blood was the next lesson Mr. Mann was to learn in connection with bodily functionings.

When proper respiration has supplied oxygen to the blood circulating through the lungs and for the carrying off of carbon dioxide, it is necessary that the blood transport these gases to or from the lungs. As much as 18 cubic feet of oxygen must be carried by the blood each 24 hours.

Hemoglobin, a special substance, has been developed by nature and it is this that contains the red corpuscles. It can combine chemically with oxygen. Hemoglobin is not dissolved in the liquid of the blood, but is packed in the red corpuscles. These are very minute, being several million to a small drop of blood.

When the blood has flowed back to the heart from which it has started, considerable of the oxygen has been removed. The heart sends the blood into the lungs and there it is minutely divided.

FRIENDLY ENEMIES.

A man's idea of a good meal is steak, fried onions, and pie. His wife's idea of the same meal is chicken patty, fruit salad, and a cream-puff.

From the standpoint of food alone, isn't it wonderful how many happy marriages there are!

A man's notion of a pleasant evening is to lie on the davenport smoking while his wife reads a mystery story aloud to him.

LACE TRIMMING.

Since lace has staged such a comeback for gowns it is not surprising that it has found its way into millinery and the lace picture hat as well as the lace trimmed satin hat are very smart.,

METALLIC BRAIDS.

There is a tendency to use upholstery fabrics and design for fall coats and gowns, and metallic braids and galoons such as are found in house furnishing departments.

SATIN TURBANS.

Black satin turbans closely wound and draped very low over each side are much liked in Paris.

BROCADE FOX FUR

This very attractive evening ensemble costume is a combination of gold brocade and fox fur. The gown and wrap are of the same material and the coat is lined with emerald green velvet, which harmonizes most beautifully with the dull rose, blue and green shades that appear in the brocade.

FIGHTING BIRDS OFTEN DANGEROUS

Queer Stories of Feathered Ferocity Are Told.

To be actually attacked by a bird must be a very rare occurrence indeed, yet it occasionally happens.

Last autumn there came from Scotland a story telling of a thrilling duel between a resident of Ballater and an eagle. The man was walking on the hills, when he was attracted by the peculiar manner in which an eagle —not an uncommon sight in the district —alighted and rose every few yards, and by a metallic sound given forth when it touched the ground. On cautiously approaching the bird the man saw a rabbit trap hanging from one of its feet. It had obviously been entrapped. With the object of getting a hold of it by flinging his jacket over it and releasing it of the encumbrance, he followed it for some distance; but at length the eagle made a great effort, rose in the air, and swooped down on its would-be benefactor. The latter promptly fell flat among the heather, and saw the enraged bird just miss him, with the talons of one foot set for a catch, and the rabbit trap dangling from the other. On regaining his feet the man saw his assailant circling for a second attack, with the feathers bristling along its neck. Getting hold of a branch, he waited his opportunity, and when about four feet away he struck the eagle a blow which sent it dead to the ground. The eagle was a male bird in good plumage, and its wing stretch was six feet six inches from tip to tip.

A visitor recently went to examine an owl's nest in a cleft of a tree. All the time he spent upon this the owl was screeching on the top of the tree. After finishing the inspection the visitor turned his back on the tree and walked away quietly and without concern. The owl ceased its calling and all seemed well. But the cause of the silence soon appeared. The owl swooped down from the top of the tree, and with no small thud struck the back of the visitor's neck, drawing a little blood with one of its claws.

A man who was idly strolling through the policies of Hamilton Palace some years ago noticed on the ground a few yards from the path, under a beech tree, three young owls. They stood in a row, very callow and fluffy, and with an expression of great wisdom, making no attempt to escape, but snapping viciously at the hand which was stretched out to lift one of them. The parent bird—there appeared to be only one—was meanwhile making much noise in the branches overhead. The passer-by was just stooping down, and in the act of putting his cap over one of the young birds, when he received a stunning blow on the back of the neck from the parent. Before it could recover from the force of the swoop and fly back to the tree it sprawled for a moment on the ground with outstretched wings. The skin on the back of the visitor's head was broken, and his head was bleeding slightly. The young bird was afterwards secured without interference.

Oyster catchers when with their young are sometimes very pugnacious. Fishermen have frequently known the parent birds fly time after time straight at their heads, uttering piercing cries and only swerving at the last moment to pass close over—sometimes so close that their wings touched the angler's head. On one occasion an oyster catcher was entangled in a fisherman's line—not in the cast, but in the cord—and after much splashing was "landed." When it came to the net it was a bedraggled creature, exhausted with the "playing" which had been required to capture it. It was liberated, of course, but it continued to scream at the invader of its seclusion, though it kept a safe distance away.

LOSS.

Thirty-six cents on the dollar. That's what the American War Department has realized from the sale of surplus army supplies during 1924, which originally cost Uncle Sam 128 million dollars. About half of this stuff, however, was second and materials and broken-up ammunition, so junk prices had to be expected. Considering how the government was an easy mark during the war, a return of 36 cents on the dollar means that the War Department has real salesmen.

ARTICLE No. 14

There are certainly wide differences of opinion as to the so-called "conventions" of auction. Some players advocate conventions and rules to fit every case, which would convert the game from an amusement into a study, from a pastime to a lesson. Every one who wanted to play a better game would have to learn and observe these numberless conventions and rules. There would always be a right and wrong way of playing and bidding every hand and the burden of too many conventions would be heavy on the game. They are becoming too complex and unless the tendency is stopped, they will spoil the finest card game ever invented. Certain conventions are undoubtedly necessary for they convey information to partner that makes a full understanding possible. Such conventions as recognized leads, for example, give absolute information to partner and enable him to play the hand and obtain much better results than if there were no conventional leads. Conventions of this type are a necessary and component part of the game for it is impossible to have any intelligent play by partners without having some conventional way of communicating to your partner so far as you can what cards you hold and what you want him to do. The more meaning there is to every lead or every play, the greater pleasure there is to those players who understand and appreciate it. The writer thoroughly believes in necessary conventions, both of bidding and play, but is unalterably opposed to the modern tendency to graft on the game new and illogical bids.

The following hand shows the value of an understanding, between partners, of the conventional leads:

	Hearts — J, 10 Clubs — K Diamonds — K, 10, 6, 2 Spades — A, J, 8, 6, 5, 3
Hearts — A, Q, 9, 5, 3, 2 Clubs — Q, 8, 3, 2 Diamonds — None Spades — 9, 7, 2	Y A B Z	Hearts — K, 7, 6 Clubs — A, J, 10, 9, 6, 4 Diamonds — 9, 7, 4 Spades — 10
	Hearts — 8, 4 Clubs — 7, 3 Diamonds — A, Q, J, 8, 5, 3 Spades — K, Q, 4

No score, rubber game. Z dealt and bid one diamond, A one heart, Y one spade and B two hearts. Z two spades, A passed, Y passed and B bid three clubs. Z three spades, A four clubs, Y four spades and B five clubs. Z passed, A passed, Y five spades, B doubled and all passed. B opened the king of hearts. His partner A, a very fine player, knew that if B held four or more hearts, he would open his fourth best card and therefore, must hold three hearts or less. A played the ace and then the queen of hearts. He now led the deuce of clubs which indicated to his partner exactly four clubs. B won the trick with the ace of clubs and instead of leading another club and letting Y trump, led the diamond, hoping that A either had the king or could trump it. A did trump and therefore, defeated the hand two tricks. If A and B had not used the conventional leads, they never could have obtained this result. It is a good example of the value of sticking to necessary conventions of play.

Answer to Problem No. 6

	Hearts — 9, 5 Clubs — K, 5, 3 Diamonds — None Spades — 7, 3
Hearts — Q, 10 Clubs — J, 9, 7 Diamonds — None Spades — 10, 4	Y A B Z	Hearts — K, J, 2 Clubs — 10 Diamonds — None Spades — 9, 5, 3
	Hearts — None Clubs — 8, 2 Diamonds — 10, 2 Spades — K, Q, 8

If diamonds are trumps and Z is in the lead, how can Y-Z win six of the seven tricks against any defense? Z should lead the deuce of clubs and let B win the trick with the ten. B can now lead either hearts or spades. (a) If B leads the deuce of hearts, Z should trump it and lead his remaining trump. A cannot discard a spade for if he does, Z can lead his king of spades, throw Y in the lead with the king of clubs and lead the spades through B's nine and so score all the tricks. If A discards a club, both of Y's clubs are good. Therefore, A must discard a heart, Y should discard a club and B a heart. Z should now lead the eight of clubs which Y wins with the king. B must now discard either the king of hearts and make Y's nine good or discard a spade and make Z's spades good. In either case Y-Z win the balance of the tricks. (b) If B leads a spade at trick two instead of a heart, Z wins the trick with the king and leads the ten of diamonds, on which all three players must discard hearts. Z then leads the deuce of diamonds and the same question arises as when B led the heart and Z trumped it. In either case, therefore, Y-Z win the balance of the tricks.

YOUNG PETES WIN OPENING GAME IN O. H. A. SERIES FROM LINDSAY

Referee Cummings Hands Out Seventeen Penalties —Petes Get Ten.

SCORE WAS 5 TO 1.

Harold McDougal Scores Three of His Team's Goals on Beautiful Lone Rushes.

Getting the jump on the Red and Yellow, by scoring three goals in the first period, the Peterboro Juniors rang on and kept their lead and the Lindsay Juniors were beaten by the score of 5 to 1 in their own ice box last night.

It was the first O.H.A. game of the season, and the Lindsay fans were tickled to death with the Petes 1925 team, saying that with this bunch of kids they should go a long way in the O. H. A. race for the championship honors.

The pace set in the first period was fairly fast but was composed mostly of individual rushes by the Petes' forwards, the Scugog boys being checked to death and held in their own end of the rink for the greater part of the stanza. After this period the ice was like glue, both teams being bothered considerably, and the pace was rather slow, caused by numerous kicks and off sides.

The Greybirds have a hard working team, but lack of combination and doggedly checking by the Petes kept them down to the one lone tally which Morin scored in the second period, when Collins was in the penalty box.

McDougal Stars.

"Shrimp" McDougal, the flyweight centre man on the Peterboro team, and the much-sought-after boy by teams from far and near, who was responsible for several junior victories last season, again played the role of the hero, netting three of his teams' five goals. None of these goals were aided in any way by Lady Luck, but were well earned, and came after the wizard stick handler had set the whole Lindsay team on their heads. Even the goalie was dazed by the zig-zag course taken by the local star as he dashed down the ice and right in on top of the nets.

Peterboro had the majority of the play and also the penalties, they being credited with ten of the seventeen penalties handed out by Referee Cummings, who certainly made sure that the game was not going to get out of his control. Out of the seventeen penalties issued by him there might have been ten players who deserved the fence but he sure did hand them out to both teams for little or nothing.

The bell which he carried was never at rest and if there was one face-off during the game for off-sides and kicking there were fifty. This was the main factor in the pace being slowed up.

The Petes were never headed, leading by 3 to nil at the end of the first, 5 to 1 at the end of the second and 5 to 1 at the close.

When it came to shooting, Lindsay were helpless, LeBarr in the Peterboro nets having very few hot shots to handle, but any that the homesters did manage to get at him were dashed to the sides cleverly. He had plenty to do, but most of the shots were easy ones.

The locals were given several exciting moments in the second and third periods when the Scugog boys held them in their own corner of the rink for the majority of both periods and gave LeBarr plenty to do. The Petes showed that they were far from being in shape, and lagged and fell over themselves considerably, while the whole Lindsay team except the goal-tender did likewise.

Combination Scarce.

Any signs of combination on the part of either team were few and far between. The Petes forwards checked well and were always aggressive, but failure to pass the puck spoiled their chances to register on several occasions. McDougal, who has been mentioned before, was the big man of the night, while Salmon did not make the showing that was expected of him. He was always dangerous on the attack, but the small ice surface played havoc with him and he did not get going at all. He used his weight to good advantage in breaking up Lindsay rushes, but used it too effectively several times and was chased to the penalty box on three occasions. Ridpath and Milloy gave a good account of themselves and uncorked plenty of speed, while on the defence, Collins and Cheu worked well together, both defensively and offensively, and Johnston, who was subbed on the defence, ably filled his position. Jack LeBarr, as the small score indicates, turned in a good performance in the nets, turning aside a flock of shots.

Morin at centre ice and Cook on the defence were the big men for the losers, both showing a nice trial of speed and stick-handling ability. H. Tripp, at right wing, also rushed and checked nicely. The rest of the boys worked hard but failed to show any signs of combination, and were never very effective on the attack.

First Period.

Three minutes after the period opened, Salmon took hold of a loose puck in front of the Lindsay nets after a face-off and slipped it into the corner of the goal for the first counter. The goalie made a nice save on a swift shot by Cheu. McDougal took the puck at his own end of the rink, outskated the Lindsay forwards, slipped through the defence and when close in, slipped the puck neatly past the goalie. Collins got away at a fast clip, sailing down the boards at a speed that left the Lindsay forwards far behind him. When he came to the defence he let fly a bullet-like shot and it nestled in the corner of the net. The rest of the period was featured by rink-end rushes, with both goalies, having plenty to do. When the stanza ended, four penalties had been handed out, and the score stood Peterboro' 3; Lindsay 0.

Second Period.

Lindsay forced the play for the first few minutes, but with nine minutes to go McDougal started off on another of his rampages down the ice, and slipping another beauty past Tripp in the nets. Six minutes later Morin registered Lindsay's lone tally when he batted in a rebound. With thirty seconds to go, McDougal took the puck once more and after eluding the entire team with his wizardly stick-handling he landed the puck behind Tripp for the Pete's fifth and last counter.

Third Period.

The third stanza was jammed full of penalties and face-offs, with neither team showing any spectacular playing. For the greater part of this stanza the Scugog boys, with their whole team up on the attack, held the Petes in their own end and several times had them cornered up in behind the blue line. Lindsay had a dozen wonderful opportunities to hang up a tally, but they were so far spent that they fell over the puck when they attempted to shoot and the Peterboro goalie handled all their shots with ease. There was no scoring in this period and the final count when the period ended was, Peterboro 5, Lindsay 1.

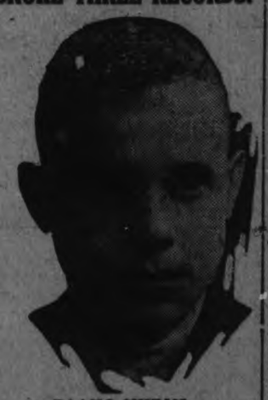
BROKE THREE RECORDS.



PAAVO NURMI

Regarded as one of the greatest runners of all time the phenomenal Finn established three new world's indoor records Tuesday night at Madison Square Garden which was packed to capacity by a frenzied crowd of 8,000 enthusiasts of track athletics.

Finland's Olympic hero defeated Willie Ritola, his fellow countryman, by forty yards in the 5,000-metre race which he finished in 14 minutes 44 3-5 seconds, clipping exactly ten seconds from the world indoor figures set by Joie Ray on March 7, 1923, in New York.

Nurmi, running the great little Joie Ray of the Illinois A.C. into the ground, covered the mile in 4 minutes 13 3-5 seconds, clipping one full second off the mark of 4:15 3-5 made by Ray almost six years ago in Chicago. On his way to the mile victory and record, Nurmi established an indoor record for 1,500 meters. He passed this point 3 minutes, 56 1-5 seconds, displacing the mark of 4 minutes 1 3-5 seconds made by Ray a year ago.

Though defeated, Ray also came home under the world's indoor record for the mile, for the wonderful little Kankakee flier was clocked as he threw himself over the finish line about three yards back of the great Nurmi in 4 minutes 14 seconds.

HEAVY PROGRAM FOR FLEET FINN

Murmi to Compete Again Next Wednesday and in Chicago Next Night.

BUSY TWO MONTHS.

NEW YORK, January 8. — Not content with reaching heights of fame and brilliancy such as no other star in track history has ever reached, Paavo Nurmi, the erstwhile paper hanger of Helsingfors, who raced to world's record glory Tuesday night in his American debut, has mapped out a campaign which will carry his flying feet through a good portion of the east and middle west during the next few months.

The "phantom Finn" will make his next appearance on Wednesday when he competes in a special race at the Municipal A. A. games on the Madison Square Garden track which he trod Tuesday night in conquering his foremost rivals Joie Ray and Willie Ritola, and smashing three world's marks in two races.

With only a train ride intervening, Nurmi will shift his course to Chicago the following night, January 16, when he has agreed to race at the Illinois Athletic Club meet and again match strides with Ray.

Nurmi will complete this month's programme by running on successive night at the Millrose A.A. carnival here, January 27 and 28.

OTTAWA'S WIN FROM CANADIENS

MONTREAL, Jan. 8.—(Canadian Press).—Ottawa upset all calculations here last night when they defeated the world champion Canadiens 2 to 0 in a scheduled N.H.L. fixture played before a jammed arena of 6,500 fans. It was a listless game, with the Canadiens playing away below form, and showing every indication of being stale. Ottawa scored once in the first period and then resorted to a defensive game. Near the end of the second session the Canadiens were short of Coutue on the defence, and the Senators opened up again and notched their second and final goal through Dennenay.

BRITISH GOLFERS SPEND FORTUNES ON THE LINKS

LONDON, Jan. 8.—Britain's one million golfers spend $250,000,000 annually on the ancient Scottish game, it has been estimated.

Golfers spend $40,000,000 annually in fees and club dues and $30,000,000 more for golf balls and other supplies.

Caddies, railway and motor car travelling, special golfing clothes, instructional fees and prizes cost the enormous sum of $180,000,000 annually, it is figured.

PETERBORO RINKS DEFEAT MOORE OF KEENE IN TWO FINAL GAMES

Ray Best Wins Dawson Cup and Jack Bacon Retains Charlton Trophy.

BONSPIEL ENDS.

Jack Strickland Defeated Ed. Gregory, of Lindsay, in Lawless Cup Final.

Lakefield, January 8. — The major trophies of the Lakefield bonspiel returned yesterday to the Peterboro Club, Jack Bacon retaining possession of the Charlton Cup and Ray Best winning the Dawson Cup, Jack Moore of Keene being the unsuccessful finalist in both competitions.

Jack Strickland of Lakefield won the Lawless trophy, defeating Ed. Gregory of Lindsay by 13 to 12.

Bacon handed Moore a rather decisive trimming by 13 shots to 6, but the Keene skip crowded Best's crack rink to a final score of 13 to 12.

The Otonabee contenders curled splendidly throughout the bonspiel, and although their double defeat in the final round of the two primary competitions was a disappointment to themselves and their fellow clubmen, they were by no means disgraced. They met two first string Peterboro skips assisted by the veterans Harry Foote and George Boucher as vices, and with capable curlers in the two pairs of front men, Clegg and Downey, for Best, and Cyril Giroux and George Cairns, with Bacon. They had the satisfaction of taking home two second prizes, but one first first with either trophy would have been preferable to Moore and his helpers. However, the younger players leading for Moore gained a lot of valuable experience in their two days' struggle, in addition to a large measure of confidence that will help them in other contests this winter.

With the Charlton Cup Bacon and his rink received four auto rugs and the second prizes to Moore were four tams. Ray Best was presented with four Thermos bottles and the Dawson trophy, and Moore's second prizes were flash lights.

Jack Strickland won the Lawless Cup for the Lakefield Club and was awarded four hams, while Gregory of Lindsay took home four sides of bacon.

SENATORS DECLARE DIVIDEND OF 40 P.C.

Washington Club Has Spent $124,000 For New Talent.

WASHINGTON, January 8. — In strengthening the team for its world's championship achievement, and for the supreme effort to repeat this year the Washington American League Club parted with $124,00 in hard cash last year for new talent.

The treasurer's report to the annual meeting of the stockholder's Tuesday, at which a 40 per cent. dividend was declared, showed that $15,000 of the total outlay was recovered in the sale of players.

Of the total outlay, $50,000 went for the purchase of Earl McNeeley, the outfielder who made the "hundred thousand dollor" two base hit that won the final game and the world series from the Giants.

The figures show that the Senators paid Seattle $10,000 for its veteran hurler, Vean Gregg, and Brooklyn $8,000 for Dutch Ruether.

Former Wall Street Page Now Full-Fledged Member.

NEW YORK, Jan. 8. — (United Press).—Four years ago, when Reeves Taylor started his Wall Street career as page, his friends admitted he was a "bright kid," but when he told them his ambition was to become a partner in a stock exchange firm, they laughed up their sleeves and said he must have been reading Oliver Optic. At 23 the youth has realized his goal, for he has just been made a member of Tefft, Halsey and Company, one of the most influential brokerage houses in the financial district. He will represent that firm on the curb exchange.

A TONG WAR DEATH.

Member of Dental Clinic Found With Knife in His Neck.

NEW YORK, Jan. 8 (United Press).—Death resulting from bloody tong war hatred that had already caused the murder of two members of his family within a month, last night claimed Dr. Wah S. Chan, graduate of the Vanderbilt Dental Clinic, Columbia University. Chan was found in his office with a Chinese seaman's stilleto through his neck. Chin Hing and Chin Song, cousins of the victim, were recently slain in similar fashion.

The police believe that Chin Jack Lem, another member of the family, was largely responsible for the tong war. He is alleged to have led the exodus of on Leongs to Cleveland after reported discovery of a shortage in tong accounts. It is believed these On Leongs became Hip Sings while in Cleveland.

HAMILTON, Jan. 8.—(Canadian Press).—Punch Broadbent went on a goal-getting expedition against Hamilton in an N.H.L. fixture here last night, and the Montreal team, of which he is a member, defeated Hamilton six goals to two. Broadbent was an important factor in the victory with his five counters, but it remained for Reg. Noble, Alf. Skinner and Clint Benedict to star for the invaders defensively. This trio took care of what little team play the Hams showed in championship style.

SO MUCH DEPENDS ON THE LIGHTING

WHAT is more comfortable than good light—and what other comfort so cheap in cost?

A 75-watt Edison Mazda Lamp gives two and one-half times as much light as a 40-watt Edison Mazda Lamp, yet the difference in current cost averages only a third of a cent an hour.

Use light freely—and use it rightly. A living room without a floor or table lamp cannot possess the charm of one containing either or both. Put white or frosted Edison Mazda Lamps in portable floor or table lamps, and clear Edison Mazda Lamps in fixtures that do not permit the eye to see the lamp.

Near you is an Edison Mazda Lamp store, recognizable by the yellow and blue cartons. There you can obtain real information about good lighting.

75-watt gas-filled Edison Mazda Lamp for use in semi-indirect fittings, and fixtures that do not permit the eye to see the lamp.

Two Games Played Yesterday at Charlotte Street Rink.

Peterboro' players were too much interested in the bonspiel at Lakefield yesterday to bother with their league games, and as a result, only two of the six scheduled games were played. T. O. Donaldson's rink had little trouble in doing away with Hall's quartette, handing them an 11 to 4 trimming, while Menzie and his rink fell down to defeat at the hands of Cruthers' rink by 15 shots to 8.

MAY RELEASE WOMAN.

Mrs. Lovick Thompson is Serving Life Sentence at Kingston.

KINGSTON, Ont., Jan. 8.—(Canadian Press.)— An effort is being made to have Mrs. Lovick Thompson, of the Township of Kennebec, who is serving a life sentence in the penitentiary here, released on parole. Mrs. Thompson was arrested on March 11th, 1919, on the charge of murdering her infant child. The body of the child was found about five hundred yards east of the railway station at Sharbot Lake, by section men. A handkerchief was found over the child's mouth, showing that death was due to suffocation. When the body was located by the railway men, the provincial police were notified. Inspector Boyd worked on the case, and placed Mrs. Thompson under arrest. It is expected that some action will be taken on the petition to give the woman her liberty. Mrs. Thompson was tried at the assizes in 1919, found guilty and sentenced to be hanged, and a short time before she was due to go to the scaffold, word was received from Ottawa to the effect that her sentence had been commuted to life imprisonment.

CLAIMS WAR LOSSES.

Paris Conference Meets in Unfavorable Atmosphere.

LONDON, Jan. 8. — (Canadian Press.)— Dissatisfaction with America's claims for war losses crops out again in to-day's newspaper comment on Paris financial conference although several of editorial writers remain silent on the subject. Westminster Gazette, regretting that conference meets in unfavorable atmosphere, says: "Attitude of United States so easily lends itself to distortion as buckstering that it is difficult to expect very favorable consideration for it." Admitting that if a long period for paying the United States' claims is conceded, it is hardly worth while troubling overly much about them. The paper nevertheless contends that the United States does not seem to have legal claim, inasmuch as she did not ratify the Versailles Treaty.

CONCERT ST. GEORGE'S.

Pupils of the Sunday School Gave a Good Programme Last Evening.

A very enjoyable concert took place in St. George's Church hall last evening, when pupils of the Sunday School were responsible for an entertainment which was much appreciated by a large and attentive audience. Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Hughes, who were responsible for the training of the juniors taking part and for the direction of the programme, deserve much credit for a very interesting evening. Ven Archdeacon Davidson of Toronto, was present and presented the Sunday school prizes for the year, also giving a brief, appropriate address to the pupils, reviewing the work of the church and the call being made for greater effort in the future. Prizes were awarded to twelve members of the primary department; seven boys and five girls, and to twenty-nine members of the main department; fifteen boys and fourteen girls. Awards to the main department took the form of Bibles and prayer-books.

The programme, which was in two sections, included the following numbers,—pianoforte solos by the Misses Polly Parkes, Marjorie McCormack, and Velma Duffin, Harold Sowden and Jack Cuffe. Recitations—by the Misses Hilda Curtis, Nellie Shaw, Beatrice Curtis, Marjorie Sim, Marjorie McCormack and Polly Parkes, and Reggie Stevenson, a violin duett by Miss Elsie Parkes and Mr. Alec Robertson and a violin solos by Mr. Robertson, several choruses, entitled "What Game is Best for Playing," "You Dirty Boy," in which the principal parts were taken by Miss Elsie Parkes and George Howden, a pianoforte duett by Tootsie Allen and Charles Allen, a vocal duett, "The Village Chorister," by Clarence Hopkins and George Howden, an action song, "The Sweeping Brush Brigade", in which those who took part were the Misses Polly Parkes, Eva Scott, Phyllis Simmons, Gertie Adams and Isabel Simmons, a humorous song "An Awful Little Scrub", by George Howden, a dialogue, "Killed by Kindness", coached by Miss Blake and acted by the Misses Polly Parkes, Eva Scott, Mary Simons, Gertie Adams and Isabel Simmons and a final chorus, "Good Night."

Accompanists for the entertainment were Miss Margaret Andrews, Miss K. Robertson and Mr. R. J. Devey. The financial returns of the evening occasioned much gratification to the Sunday school treasurer.

Rev. Mr. Hughes mentioned with regret the absence of the Sunday School Superintendent, Mr. A. Bread man, who is ill in St. Joseph's Hospital, but is expected home shortly.

AWARDS WILL BE DONATED TO-NIGHT

Grand Wind-up to the Peterborough Poultry Show—Children Interested.

This year's Poultry Show ends this evening, with a grand wind-up when silver cups and special awards will be presented to the prize-winners. The attendance this year has been rather disappointing, and the directors are hoping that this evening's total will be larger than that of the two previous nights. The farming community, to whose interest it would seem to be to learn something relative to the proper grading and candling of eggs, and the better grades of fowl, have not been patronizing the show to any extent. The children who come in from the schools seem to take the most interest in the demonstration which the government expert is making of egg candling and grading. Pupils from the King George School were interested visitors to the show this morning.

Better quality in all exhibits and good, clean competition in all classes have been features of this year's show, which was pronounced by J. E. Bennett of Toronto, the outside judge, as being a splendid exhibit in every way, surpassing in his opinion all the minor Toronto poultry shows rolled into one. He was particularly enthusiastic about the wonderful showing of water-fowl.

This evening will see the awarding of silver cups and special awards to the victorious winners; Mayor Turner officiating. Local exhibitors have captured most of the awards, although Port Hope and Cobourg men each take a silver cup; the Association cup for the best male bird shown going to Dr. Hayden of Cobourg, with a buff Orpington, and the Schneider Brothers' Cup for the most points in Anconas going to F. G. Bouskill, of Port Hope.

H. S. Van Allen of Stirling, with nearly a hundred and eighty entries, received a large number of firsts. L. Hutchinson of Warkworth was strong in the water-fowl showing; F. G. Bouskill of Port Hope was preeminent in Anconas, and Dr. Hayden of Cobourg in Orpingtons; W. J. Abernethy of Campbellford shone with his Columbian and Black Wyandottes, and Mr. Patterson of Agincourt had a splendid exhibit of brown Leghorns, Bantams and water-fowl. In the small pheasant showing, both exhibitors, Messrs. Geo. Crowe and F. Meeks received first awards. Pigeons were plentiful this year, and of varied types, from the proud fantails with puffy chests to the meek homers. First prizes in fantails and in collection of pigeons were won by W. J. Outram, 198 Edinburgh Street; F. Meeks secured second and third awards for fantails; Chief Newhall's homers, a large group, received awards of first, second, third and fourth; W. J. Nesbitt with Jacobins got second prize, and W. Hagerman, Victoria Street, the first award.

All entries in the dressed fowl competition were made by A. R. McNab, R.R. No. 3, Peterboro; first, second and third prizes going to him.

Prizes for eggs, exhibited in dozens, were as follows:

First in brown to E. L. Bell, R.R. No. 7, Peterboro; second, F. G. Carpenter, R.R. No. 7, Peterboro; third, G. A. Bendelow, R.R. No. 1, Ida.

First and second in white, A. R. Hillman, 116 Hilliard Street; third, A. Long 458 Driscoll Terrace.

The fowl-killing expert will also be on hand for a final demonstration this evening.

TALK OF SEPARATION.

LONDON, Jan. 8. — (Canadian Press).—There is talk in Canada of the Dominion separating from the British Empire, according to the London Morning Post. The Post says: "Canada is a strong and independent nation in proportion, and only in proportion as she is associated with the others nations of the Empire, we do not believe that the policy of the Canadian Government tends toward separation, but its tenor undoubtedly has aroused some uneasiness in this country."

TEN ROUND BOUT TO-NIGHT.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Jan. 8. —(Canadian Press.)—Tommy Gibbons, St. Paul heavyweight, and Jack Burke, Pittsburgh heavyweight, each declared himself in fine shape for their 10 round boxing contest here to-night. Both expect to weigh in at approximately 180 pounds.

BANDITS ROB BANKS; BURN TOWN

Bank bandits, after looting two Valley View, (Tex.) banks of $10,000, started a fire which destroyed two blocks of business buildings, causing a loss of 250,000. The bandits blew open two safes, started the fire by use of a slow fuse, and escaped before the blaze was discovered. The picture shows the havoc wrought by the bandits and the fire.

"The Code of the Wilderness" Offers Strong Appeal.

A stirring picture of life on a ranch in the great West "The Code of the Wilderness," from the novel by Charles Alden Seltzer will be seen at the Regent Theatre in this city today. John Bowers and Alice Cahoun have the leading roles, and Alan Hale, Otis Harlan, Charlotte Merriam, Kitty Bradbury and Joe Rickson complete the cast. This is the first production in which John Bowers, one of the most popular of leading men in Western parts, has appeared for Vitagraph. The picture as directed by David Smith, who gave to the screen that epic of the West, "Pioneer Trails."

Ruth Harkness, an orphan living in New York, inherits a ranch in New Mexico. Accompanied by her aunt, Martha, and Jephon, her uncle and Willard Masten, her finance, she takes possession. In charge of the property is the ranch boss Rex Randerson, to whom Masten takes an immediate dislike. Animosity between the men is accentuated by Randerson's affection for Ruth. Masten hires a two-gun man to pick a quarrel with Rex, and Rex kills him. Masten tells Ruth that Rex started the fight and shot the man down in cold blood. Ruth, shocked by the occurrence, withdraws her friendship from the range boss.

Near the ranch lives Catherson, a squatter, and his daughter, Hagar. Rex, an old-friend, is a frequent visitor at the cabin. Masten makes love to Hagar and betrays her. Rex thrashes Masten when he suspects the truth. Masten intimates to Ruth that Rex has ruined Hagar. Catherson also believes Rex is guilty and goes to avenge his daughter's honor. Ruth rides to save Rex and arrives just as Catherson finds the ranch boss. Catherson pursues Masten into the desert and when Masten offers his life forgives him and takes him back to Hagar, whom he marries. Rex and Ruth are united.

David Smitih shot the exterior locations on a huge ranch in southern California. Other episodes were shot in the Mojave Desert and included scenes taken at floodwater following a cloudburst. The part of Ruth Harkness, in which Alice Cahoun will be seen, is said to be one of the finest this beautiful young screen star has ever played. It is full of dramatic moments or real emotional power and lightened with touches of comedy throughout. John Bowers is an admirable choice for the role of the ranch boss, Rex Randerson. He is one of the most real Western types now on the screen and an actor of unquestioned ability. Alan Hale, who plays Masten, the heavy, Charlotte Merriam, as Hagar, Otis Harlan, as Uncle Jephon all have roles particularly suited to their abilities. The interiors include scenes in an old-fashioned ranch house and the details of settings are accurately carried out.

AT THE CAPITOL.

"Three Women," the feature picture at the Capitol Theatre for Wednesday and Thursday of this week, is an Ernst Lubitsch production. Regular movie 'fans' soon learn to recognize the differences in methods used by different producers. Lubitsch seems to lean to the society drama, with backgrounds of New York life among the rich idlers of the gay city, and plots that involve two or three of these rich idlers in circumstances which arise from their own weaknesses.

Lew Cody is the villain of the piece. Just why the three women, or rather two, as the third is rather a negligible factor in the story, should become so infatuated with this sleek, unlikable gentleman is not very apparent, but they both fall for him very hard, and he proceeds on a philandering progress that finishes him at least with a bullet through his heart, which seems a perfectly proper finale to his career.

Pauline Frederick gives a splendid portrayal of the mother, the woman who loves Lamont, and then is ousted in his affections by her own daughter. She has some stage-like mannerisms, and her make-up for the screen appears to be based on stage methods, instead of those in use for the silver sheet, but she gives a fine characterization of Mabel Wilton, the widow with three millions who regards her young daughter as an incubus and repents later when Jeanne goes her own way and winds up as the wife of Lamont.

May McAvoy is a fresh and whole some Jeanne, with a curious resemblance to her picture mother, and does some extravagant acting in her tragic moments. When Lamont dies she returns to her young college lover, the ingenuous youth, Fred, and lives happily ever after. Her mother, who has shot Lamont, in an effort to secure her daughter's freedom and her own love letters, is acquitted by a susceptible jury and is left with her memories.

It is an entertaining picture, staged in luxurious surroundings and depicting the play of human passions, which are always interesting to the looker-on. Despite its tragic undercurrents, it is light and artificial and not calculated to arouse the watchers to any serious desire to emulate the ways of the idle rich. Lubitsch seems to have an intriguing way of pointing a moral in indefinite fashion. He winds it about with so much sugar coating that it is hardly perceptible, but it is there just the same.

Boiled down to its essentials, this story might resolve itself into a sermon on the inevitable consequences to a mother of neglecting her child in her own selfish desires, to a young girl of trusting a smooth-tongued fortune-hunter, and to a philandering gentleman of unfaithfulness. But it would have to be boiled down to the last bit to reach these conclusions, and the effort is hardly worth the trouble. Taken on its face value, it is a light, entertaining picture with an excellent cast.

The comedy is one of those productions that appeal to the majority of audiences. It concerns the efforts of an unfortunate photographer whose slogan is "Smile, Please!" in arranging his various clients in engaging fashion for the camera. His efforts are complicated by a mischievous little boy, a dog and a short circuit that sends incandescent flames shooting about the head of one of his unfortunate patrons through some hilarious moments.

AT THE GRAND.

"THE WORLD OF PASSION."

On Thursday, Friday and Saturday of next week, January 15th, 16th and 17th, the big motion picture, "The World of Passion," an Oswald Stoll production, comes to the Grand Opera House, with three evening performances and a Saturday matinee.

"The World of Passion" is a stupendous spectacle, portraying a colossal empire of the East in the days of old. Produced at a cost of over a million dollars, it is said to be the greatest thing ever seen in film presentations, even rivalling "The Birth of a Nation" in interest and grandeur. Prices for this city will be on a popular scale.

There will be special music and an interesting prologue to the picture will be presented by Mrs. W. McKee Bingham, assisted by Misses May Perry, Martha Kirn, Jessie Hodgson and Helen Ross.

AT THE ROYAL.

"THE SHOCK," WITH LON CHANEY AND VIRGINIA VALLI, ROYAL TO-NIGHT.

Lon Chaney, who made such a name for himself in "The Hunchback of Notre Dame," is at the Royal to-night in "The Shock," a thriller based on the San Francisco earthquake and fire. These scenes have been pronounced by those who passed through the catastrophe as astounding in their realism. The buckling of the streets and pavements have been carefully produced.

With equal realism is shown the crumbling of the buildings, the gas main explosion and the start of the fire. The destruction of the city is shown in a way that brings home with startling realism the tremendous devastation through which San Francisco passed.

The story concerns a gangster who is enmeshed in the toils of a desperate woman, queen of 'Frisco's Barbara Coast, and his regeneration through the influence of a sweet pure girl. Chaney is now recognized as the greatest portrayer of character roles and as the crippled gangster, his work compares favorably with his Hunchback and other roles. Virginia Valli is the country girl.

"ANOTHER MAN'S WIFE" LESSON FOR HUSBANDS.

If you want to keep your wife, don't neglect her. Above all else, don't entrust her entertainment to your friend.

Tired business men, worn with the toil and turmoil of the money-getting grind, are prone to unleash their wives and send them scampering forth to find amusement as best they may. They forget the propinquity is a powerful influence toward intimacy. And so they lose them—sometimes only in spirit, but all too frequently in person also.

The danger of neglecting a wife is strikingly illustrated in "Another Man's Wife," playing at the Royal Theatre next Monday.

John Brand (James Kirkwood) is fighting for his financial existence and, immersed in business cares, entrusts his wife, Helen (Lila Lee), to the social supervision of their friend, Andre Laughlin (Donald MacDonald), who believes the best way to honor the tenth commandment is to break it. Andre, enamored of Helen's beauty and charm, imparts to her a plan to arouse the waning interest of her husband.

Helen agrees, but when she gets aboard the S.S. Alexandria for a trip to Mazatlan, Mexico, she finds that Andre expects her to travel as his wife. Then the storm breaks. Realizing she has been hoodwinked and trapped, Helen turns upon him with a fury of invective and reproach that drives him back to the dock and the ship pulls out without him.

The note she has left for John, telling him of her flight with Andre, sends the husband on their trail. Inflamed by jealous fury, he starts to drink heavily and voyages south from San Francisco with the intention of killing them both when he finds them.

Brand confides his murderous plan to Philip Cochran (Matt Moore), a naturalist, he meets on shipboard, and the latter asks him if he has a right to take the life of his wife. But Brand angrily shakes off the remonstrance. Like so many husbands, he reasons that, having given her plenty of money, fine raiment and a luxurious home, he has done all that is required of him to keep her faithful and to magnetize her devotion.

Before the photodrama ends, however, Brand realizes the fallacy of this belief and, through the agony of his soul, is given a new conception of his domestic duty. And so, in his re-union with Helen, he places a new seal of affection upon his pledge to be her comrade and her chum as well as her husband.

"Another Man's Wife" conveys a tremendous moral lesson to neglectful husbands.

TRADES COUNCIL MEET.

Financial Report Presented —Election Next Meeting.

The regular semi-monthly meeting of the Trades and Labor Council was held last evening in the Labor Hall on George Street, with a good attendance. The president, T. J. McMurray, took the chair. Reports were presented by the secretary of the Trustee Board, H. Gainey, and by the financial secretary, F. C. Wallwork. Although the Council is in good shape financially, the funds have been depleted somewhat by extensive decorations and renovations undertaken at the Labor Hall.

An enquiry from the Governmental authorities for information for their annual year-book was referred to the recording secretary, B. Halpin.

President McMurray brought up the question of the building of a Labor Hall in Peterboro, some of the members being of the opinion that it was too large a project for the Council to consider at the present time.

Election of officers will take place at the next meeting, on January 21.

TORONTO, Jan. 8.—(Canadian Press).—The Crown case in the trial of R. P. Gough, former vice-president and director of the Home Bank of Canada, which failed in 1923 on charges of making false statements of the bank's affairs, was finished at noon to-day when D. L. McCarthy, Crown prosecutor, concluded his address to Judge Coatsworth. Mr. McCarthy asked His Honor to find that Gough knew all along during his time on the board the true condition of the bank. He tried to demolish the contention of the defence that Gough was deceived by Daly and Mason.

Mr. McCarthy contended that the ambition of H. J. Daly to get control of the bank had wrecked both himself and the Home Bank.

BRASS MAKES BIG PURCHASE

Bankrupt Clothing Stock Bought at 50c. on the Dollar Brought to Peterborough For Disposal — El Volto, Mystery Man, Here Saturday.

Everybody in Peterboro' has noticed the stir Brass has made in the city with his Clean-up Sale of the Hickey Furnishing Stock. He has just brought in another Bankrupt Stock of Men's Wearing Apparel, bought at 50 cents on the dollar. The Hickey Store, being too small to contain this extra stock, the firm has secured another place, 309 George Street, just a few doors below Charlotte, the only vacant store that was available immediately. The goods are being got ready, and a big announcement of wonderful values in Men's Clothing will be made in to-morrow's Examiner. At the same time, a clean sweep of the balance of the Hickey stock will go on at 345 George Street. Brass is famed in Toronto for the exceptional values his sales present, and he is living fully up to reputation here, if not actually out-doing his Toronto record.

As an added attraction for the buyers, El Votto, the great mystery man, will appear in the 309 George Street store, on Saturday from 10 to 12 a.m., 2 to 4 and 8 to 9.30 p.m., in a series of his mystifying acts. Don't fail to see him; he's a worthwhile artist of note.

TILLEY PLEADS GOUGH DEFENCE AS TRIAL ENDS

Counsel Argues That Concurring in Statements is Different From Making Them.

WAS ASSURED

Gough Was Informed in 1918 That Affairs of Bank Were Sound.

TORONTO, Jan. 9.—(Canadian Press).—The trial of R. P. Gough, vice-president of the Home Bank on charges of making fasle returns of the affairs of the bank will be completed today. D. L. McCarthy, crown prosecutor, finished his address to Judge Coatsworth at noon Thursday. W. N. Tilley, K.C., defence counsel spoke all yesterday afternoon, and resumed this morning. Mr. McCarthy will reply. The trial of S. Casey Wood, another director, will probably be started Monday.

Mr. Tilley reviewing the banking legislation of Canada back thirty or forty years telling of the changes made until the latest legislation was framed. He contended that the law did not contain any penalty for submitting a false statement to shareholders, but it did contain a penalty for "making" a false statement. Bank statements he said were made by those qualified to make them, and not by directors who did not have the information to make them.

"The crown takes the attitude that we, as directors, make these statements complained of," said Mr. Tilley. "I submit that we do not make them. Making statements and concurring in them are two entirely separate things. By legislation previous to 1913, concurring was deemed to be making, but by the present legislation concurring in is not deemed to be making."

Must Be Willful.

Mr. Tilley contended that there was no such thing in law as "negligently paying a dividend which should not be paid." He declared that bad dividends must be paid "willfully" if there was to be action under the criminal law. "No mere director has the right to go into a bank and explore the accounts and books. I am not saying that he cannot ask for reports."

Mr. Tilley also stated that the last thing a bank director was entitled to do was to interfere with a bank director was entitled to do was to interfere with a bank auditor who was responsible to the shareholders. In this case the crown contended that Gough had been warned that the auditor was not a chartered accountant, and therefore not efficient. Mr. Tilley contended that Mr. Gough would have been making a breach of his duty if, as a director, he had interfered. He could only have acted as a shareholder. "It was his duty to leave him alone," said Mr. Tilley.

Depended On Daly.

Mr. Tilley said that no one would expect Mr. Gough to remember what went on at board meetings of seven and eight years ago and particularly what conversation went on. Daly was looked upon as the check against everything irregular.

"He was a stickler for form and I submit that the directors were entitled to rely upon Daly and Mason. Because of the circumstances which were discovered later the crown now puts us in the awkward position of making charges against these men who are dead."

Mr. Tilley said there were three great land marks in the Home Bank history—October 1918; December 1919, and February or March 1922. "From 1922 my client was entitled to rely upon everything Mr. Daly said in regard to the bank and

HIS ANNUAL DUCKING

LIQUOR SMUGGLING CASE IN MONTREAL

Captain of Barge Seized With Wet Cargo Relates Dealings.

MONTREAL, Jan. 9.— The manner in which harbor officials, customs preventative officers, rich Americans and super cargoes are alleged to have managed to get thousands of cases of liquor that had not paid duty transferred from a steamer barge and how, just when everything was going smoothly, a hitch occurred and the barge was seized by the officers of the Quebec liquor commission, only in turn to be seized from them by the federal customs officers, was partially unfolded in the trial of half a dozen people at Quebec court of sessions, which began Thursday. There were four of th accused people missing and they are alleged to be the principals in the case.

At the outset various objections were made against the crown proceeding, but eventually at the request of Peter Bercovitch, K.C., who appeared for Captain J. F. Symonds, harbor master of Montreal, it was decided to hear the case against him, defense counsel declaring that it would be shown he had nothing to do with the matter.

Had 3,000 Cases.

The crown produced as its chief witness Capt. Jos. Tremblay, the captain of the steam barge that was seized with 3,000 cases of liquor, and he told the court, after getting its protection, that on October 29 his barge had been tied up next the Gaspesia and on board the latter, met Captain Perrault, deputy harbor master, (one of the accused), George Hearn, also accused, and Neil Perrault had introduced the two men and left saying he "had nothing to do with the matter."

The three had then bargained regarding the taking off by the barge of 2,500 cases of liquor from a vessel coming from Sydney. Tremblay agreed to $2 a case, but next day wanted double, but Neil said he could buy a ship for $10,000. Eventually they agreed to pay $5,000 and witness told Perrault to give Captain Symonds a note for $5,000. The next day Neil Symonds and Perrault came to the barge and Neil gave Symonds $5,000, according to witness, to hold in his safe as a guarantee for Tremblay if he returned with the ship before November 20, otherwise it was to be returned to Neil. Neil told witness to transfer 1,000 of the cases to the yacht Sioux which would be waiting at a place where no cars could go and he was to store the balance in Montreal.

STUDENTS SPOOFED COURT IN GLASGOW

Protested in Fun Dancer's Act Because Magistrate Banned Picture.

LONDON, Jan. 9. — (Canadian Press).—Christianis Duckett, a native of Montreal, described as a Canadian Indian, a capable little dancer who learned the art of dancing in London and Paris, became the involuntary centre yesterday of amusing passages between some Indian students attending Glasgow University and Glasgow magistrates.

The students, having in mind the magistrate's reputation for prudery, and with a desire to get a "rise" out of them, waited on the latter and protested against Miss Duckett's dancing at the Little Theatre, where she has been assisting in the customary New Year's carnival. The students protested that her dances were a "misrepresentation of Indian dancing and a misrepresentation of the character of Indian womanhood."

The magistrates, however, declined to make a personal inspection of Miss Duckett's terpsichorean art, but a notice is now posted outside of the theatre stating that her dances are not Indian, but Eastern.

The students, it is said, had no real objection to Miss Duckett's performances, but made their protest out of a spirit of fun, because the magistrates recently banned the exhibition of a painting representing a slave market, claiming that the picture was immodest.

Less squeamish ciritics of the painting in question declared that the picture was no more fleshy than the spectacle which Glasgow itself presented on its streets any wet day.

THREE MEN HURT.

Chapter of Painful Accidents in Lindsay Vicinity.

LINDSAY, January 9. — John Grant, who lives a mile south of Manilla, while drawing logs out of the bush on Tuesday, met with a bad accident. The sleigh upset, crushing him against a tree. Three ribs were fractured and the lining of a lung punctured.

Byron Davis, of Franklin, while butchering beef on Tuesday, also met with an accident. He was in the act of cutting an animal's throat when he gashed his left hand so badly that Dr. Hamilton of Bethany found it necessary to put in five stitches.

James Howlett, of Franklin, who has been working in the Haliburton lumber camps, met with an accident recently, a chip striking him in the right eye, and injuring it so badly that he had to have it removed at the Ross Memorial Hospital, Lindsay.

DR. W. A. RIDDELL GETS CANADIAN POST AT GENEVA

Permanent Representative of Dominion Government to the League of Nations.

PREMIER'S LETTER

Will Advise Canadian Delegates and May Substitute for Them if Necessary.

GENEVA, Jan. 9.—In connection with the employment of Dr. Walter A. Riddell, as permanent Canadian representative to the league of nations, the league yesterday made public the text of a letter to Sir Eric Drummond, the league's general secretary general, from Premier MacKenzie King of Canada, dated at Ottawa, December 18.

The letter states that, with the object of removing certain disadvantages attending the work of the Canadian delegates to the meetings of the assembly, the international labor bureau and other league conferences promotetd by those bodies, and owing to Canada's distance from the headquarters of the league and with the object of providing more efficient means for the assistance of such delegates, the Canadian government has decided to create the position of permanent Dominion of Canada advisory officer for league purposes.

It is further explained that the holder of this position will reside in Geneva so as to establish and maintain as close relations as possible with the secretariat of the league and the international labor office. This permanent representative will keep the government of Canada informed regarding matters arising from time to time "which may be of concern to them," and generally to act in such manner in an advisory capacity to the government and the Canadian delegates, substituting for them if the occasion requires. The premier concludes his letter by crediting Dr. Riddell as the duly appointed agent of the Canadian government.

PROBLEM FOR LINDSAY.

Council to Discuss Purchase of Power Distribution Plant.

LINDSAY, January 9th. — Lindsay town council, which was elected to office early in December, will hold its inaugural meeting on Monday, January 12th. One of the big problems to come before the council is the proposal to purchase the local power distributing plant from the Hydro-Electric Commission.

It is understood that the Hydro is anxious to scrap its distributing plants in the Trent area, and sell power outright to the municipalities. The feeling among some of the citizens is that the municipality should make haste slowly.

The shortage of power in the Central Ontario area is acute at present, and it is claimed there will be no improvement in the situation until the St. Lawrence or some other power scheme is developed.

Mr. Logan presented an invitation from the Canadian prime minister for the West Indies delegates to attend a conference at Ottawa in the spring to revise the 1920 reciprocity agreement.

TWO COMMITTED IN MAIL HOLDUP

Evidence Against Montreal Men by Companion Who Was Given Immunity.

SHARED IN LOOT

MONTREAL, Jan. 9. — George Rifkin, arrested in New York about a month ago, was committed for trial by Judge Cusson Thursday afternoon on the charge of being one of the gang that held up a mail wagon and stole $35, worth of registered packages and bonds here on August 5 last. Norman Sylvestre, also charged with being an accomplice in the robbery, was also sent for trial, both to have their voluntary statements on January 15.

Evidence for the crown was supplied by George Bark, who under the promise of immunity agreed to turn King's evidence against his arrested companions. These included Nathan Goldberg, Dan and Benjamin McLaughlin, Lester Benson, Thomas Sandford and Harry McIver.

In his evidence against Rifkin and Sylvestre, Bark stated Rifkin was not engaged personally in the hold-up on August 5, but he received his share of the loott, amounting to $1,800, witness declared.

Bark also recognized Sylvestre as the man who drove a car sometime previous to the actual hold-up on the night of the robbery, according to witness, the same car was driven by Nathan Goldberg.

Electric Engine Will Weigh 340 Tons—117 Feet Long.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Jan. 9.—The most powerful electric locomotive in the world is being built for Henry Ford for use on the Detroit, Toledo and Ironton Railroad.

The giant will weigh 340 tons, will be 117 feet long and 15 feet high. It will have sixteen 250-horse power motors connected to sixteen pairs of driving wheels.

Built more for hauling power than speed, the locomotive will be capable of pulling a train of 150 or more loaded box cars. Its running speed will be 17 miles an hour with a maimum of 35 miles.

$600,000,000 TOTAL ESTIMATE OF WAR CLAIMS OF UNITED STATES

One Billion Gold Marks as Cost of U. S. Army of Occupation.

PARLEY'S PROGRESS

Private Conversations Between American and British Delegations in Paris.

PARIS, Jan. 9. — (Canadian Press).—The fixing of a lump sum and the joining together of the costs of the United States army of occupation and the claim of the United States for war damages were the subject of two conversations between Winston Churchill, British Chancellor of the Exchequer, and James A. Logan, Jr., the United States observer, yesterday.

The United States delegation expresses optimism and is declared to be ready to present at a plenary session of the inter-allied conference Monday morning a solution satisfactory to all parties. M. Clementel, the French Finance Minister, also informed the correspondents last evening that he was convinced the British and United States delegations would reach a compromise. In the belief that private conversations would be more effective in reaching solutions than plenary sessions of the conference, the delegates had only a half-hour meeting yesterday, and the only official decision arrived at was to dispense with full meetings and devote the entire time to unofficial exchanges of views until Monday.

"Did you ever see any work done in plenary sessions?" M. Theunis, the veteran of inter-allied conferences, asked the correspondents at the conclusion of yesterday's session. Two plenary sessions have been held thus far, and the avowed purpose for which the conference was convened, namely, the distribution of the Ruhr proceeds and the Dawes plan annuities, has not yet even been broached.

Deliberations Secret.

M. Clementel requested all the delegations to keep their private deliberations absolutely secret until final agreements were reached. He also asked that the experts' report be considered as a confidential document until acted upon.

The United States claims which are classed among the questions on which no agreement has been reached, are divided in the experts' report into two sections—(a) Representing the costs of the United States army of occupation for which the amount is fixed at one billion gold marks; (b) War damages, which bears the notation that the amount will be definitely fixed by a commission later. The report carries the following explanation:

"The Americans have declared themselves ready, should the (b) claims be accepted, to lengthen the schedule of payments on the (a) payments in such a manner that (a) and (b) should not total up for each annuity heavier charges than would originally have been levied for (a) alone."

Thus the entire question between the British and United States representatives is fixing the amount of the (b) claims. It is understood that the British have been informed that the United States war damage claims, listed as (b), would not exceed $350,000,000, thus bringing the total amount of reparations for the United States up to approximately $600,000,000.

Belgian Priority.

Another item on the agenda presented by the experts is the question of "the future status of Belgium after her priority is paid in full." The report considers the reduction of the Belgian percentage under the Spa agreement, from eight per cent. to a lower figure,

OTTAWA URGES FEDERAL WORK

Municipal and Labor Delegation Request Premier to Provide Employment.

3,000 MEN IDLE.

OTTAWA, Jan. 9.—(By Canadian Press).—While assuring a delegation from the city council, the allied trades and labor council and the unemployed of Ottawa, that the Federal Government was anxious to cooperate in solving the unemployment problem in the capital, Premier Mackenzie King made it clear yesterday that no money grants would be made from the Dominion Treasury.

"We have found it necessary to be quite rigid on that point," said the Prime Minister in commenting on the grant system which had been adopted in past year. The Government did not accept any obligations for unemployment resulting from the war, the Premier also told the delegation. All the responsibility of prosecuting the war had been borne by the Federal Government the result being that the Government was saddled with a two million dollar debt. None of this had fallen on the Provinces. On the other hand, under the constitution the primary responsibility for meeting unemployment rested with the provinces.

As far as the specific request of the delegation, that a retaining wall be constructed along the Rideau Canal within the city limits, that work on a new printing bureau building be undertaken, that buildings on Wellington street, the property of the government, should be torn down, and that the improvement commission should spend the maximum amount possible on work in the capital, Mr. King explained that parliament must sanction expenditures for such work. A suggestion from Mayor Balharrie that Governor General's warrants might be used to raise the money was met by the Premier's saying that this method must be used with extreme caution. However, he assured the delegation that he and the government were anxious to help, and that consideration would be given to the suggestion made.

The delegation was introduced by E. R. E. Chevrier, member for Ottawa, and the chief spokesman was Mayor Balharrie. Others who spoke were Controllers C. J. Tulley and Frank Plant, while J. Ryan represented the Ottawa unemployed. He stated that there were now 3,000 unemployed in Ottawa, that most of them were heads of families and that the distress was acute. The Mayor stated that the city of Ottawa was now supplying relief to 750 families, and that there were 1,201 registrations at the local employment bureau.

Hawaii Is The World's Champion Importer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9. — (United Press).—Hawaii has a fair claim to the title of "world's champion trader," according to reports to the Department of Commerce. The fair isle in the Pacific last year imported $350 worth of goods for every person in the territory. Hawaiian exports, however, exceeded the imports by $100 per inhabitant, reaching a total of $26,000,000.

SCHOOL ASSOCIATION.

Central Home and School Discuss Relief Work.

The regular monthly meeting of the Central Home and School Association was held last evening in the kindergarten of the school, the president, Mrs. E. H. Howson, in the chair. Two new members were received into the society.

After reading of reports by the secretary and treasurer, raising of funds for relief work were decided upon, following a discussion as to the formation of a class in Home Nursing, to be taught by Miss M. McNaughton of Toronto, a trained nurse engaged by the Red Cross Society to carry on this work.

The flag this month was won again by Miss Armstrong's room.

At the conclusion of the business meeting, a very enjoyable programme was given, including vocal solos by Mr. A. Everitt, instrumental selections by Miss Bentley, and a very interesting and instructive address on "Bread," was given by Mr. James Dutton, who traced the methods of making and baking bread down through the ages. The meeting closed with the singing of the National Anthem.

POULTRY SHOW WAS CLOSED BY MAYOR TURNER

Trophies Presented to the Winners—Special Award for the Mayor—Demonstration on Killing.

The annual exhibition of the Peterboro Poultry Association closed last evening at the Armories, with the awarding of cups and special awards to the prize-winning exhibitors. An interested visitor to the show last night was Mr. G. N. Gordon, K.C., M.P.

Mayor J. J. Turner, in happy fashion, presented the prizes with cordial congratulations and good wishes. He remarked on the large number of entries as demonstrating the increasing popularity of the show with exhibitors, but regretted that the attendance had not been more general. He made the offer of a cup or some piece of silverware for competition in some particular class at next year's exhibit, an announcement which was greeted with cries of "We'll be after you," from his hearers. The Mayor did not go away empty-handed from the show. He was the pleased recipient of two dozen fine-looking eggs which had been winners of the first and second prizes in the white class. Mrs. R. H. Hillman was the donor of the Mayor's special award.

Mr. James Ellis, president of the association, also thanked the patrons of the show the directors and the officers, for their co-operation and support.

The silver cups, which made an imposing display, along with the special awards, on a small table fronting the Mayor, were awarded as follows:

Challenge cup, donated by the Western Canada Flour Mills Company, Limited, Toronto, for the best breeding pen in the show, won by A. R. Robson, Peterboro.

Box of cigars, donated by J. Juby, Peterboro, for the best single comb dark brown Leghorn cockerel, won by A. H. Clegg, Peterboro.

An interesting portion of last evening's programme at the show was the demonstration in the proper killing and bleeding of fowl, made by Mr. Francis, the Government expert. The demonstration aroused much interest in the patrons watching the skilful exhibit of proper methods, and much loud remonstrance from the feathered friends of the victims.

A compliment to the officials of the Peterboro Poultry Association was paid them by Caretaker R. Muir, of the Armories, last evening, when he declared they were the "cleanest bunch" that uses the big building. The poultrymen, he said, leave the building in fine condition after their occupation.

A service very much appreciated by patrons and officials alike was that rendered by Mrs. R. Bugg, who provided light refreshments and hot drinks at all times.

Four tablespoons apple sauce, 1 cup clam bouillon, 1 baked potato, ½ cup creamed dried beef, 4 ounces hamburg steak (broiled), 1 cup string beans 1 cup cabbage salad, 1 baked Bermuda onion, 2 teaspoons fresh horse-radish, 2 tablespoons fresh pineapple ice, 2 tablespoons canned cherries, 2 crisp pieces whole wheat toast, 1 gluten roll, 1 pint skimmed milk.

Total calories, 1194. Protein, 315; fat, 223; carbohydrate, 656. Iron, .0222 gram.

If fresh apples are not available use dried ones. Four tablespoons apple sauce, be it of fresh or dried fruit, has approximately two calorise of protein, five of fat and 93 of carbohydrate with .0005 gram of iron. The sauce should be slightly sweetened.

The clam bouillon, baked potato creamed dried beef and canned cherries are planned for luncheon. No bread is provided as potato is served. Baked potato and creamed dried beef is a palatable combination. The cream sauce for the beef should be made for an entire family why not add more butter to the sauce for the members who are normal and save making two dishes of the same food?

The extra butter supplies the necessary richness for those who want it. Add after the "diet" portion is served.

GAIN WEIGHT.

Four tablespoons apple sauce, 4 tablespoons fish hash, 2 rice griddle cakes, 4 tablespoons maple sirup, 1 cup clam bouillon with 1 poached egg, 1 large baked potato, ½ cup creamed dried beef, 1 cup cream of celery soup, 4 ounces broiled hamburg steak, 4 tablespoons mashed potato, 1 cup string beans in cream sauce, 1 cup cabbage salad with sour cream dressing, 1 stuffed baked onion, 2 teaspoons fresh horse-radish, 2 tablespoons fresh pineapple ice folded into two tablespoons whipped cream, 1 cherry puff pudding with 2 teaspoons sugar and 4 tablespoons cream, 1 piece sunshine cake, 2 whole slices crisp whole wheat toast, 2 tablespoons croutons, 2 2-inch squares corn cake, 4 tablespoons butter, 2 pieces rye bread, 1 pint whole milk.

Curling for the Allen Cup began on Tuesday evening, the rink skipped by H. B. Allen winning by 1 point from John Allen's rink, an extra end having to be played, the former still winning out by 1 point.

A. A. Smith played against J. E. Allen and came out ahead by 1 point.

If the ice does not get too soft, play will continue every night until Friday this week.

The January meeting of the Ladies' Aid of the Methodist Church was held on Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. G. W. Sayles. Mrs. A. J. Brown, first vice-president, took the chair for the opening devotional period, Mrs. J. McKnight reading the Scripture lesson, and Mrs. W. Mullen leading in prayer.

The treasurer, Miss M. Duncan, reported a total of $255.53 taken in at the bazaar last month, and $230.00 at the fowl dinner in October. The Aid aims to raise $600.00 this year. On motion, it was decided to begin now and prepare for another bazaar to be held next fall, the same conveners of committees to act for a second year.

Some financial assistance will be given the trustee board to meet current obligations during the present month.

The president, Miss Needham, took charge of the business period, others present being:—Mrs. C. Garside, Mrs. J. McKnight, Mrs. W. G. Rowland, Mrs. G. E. Burnham, Mrs. Sayles, Mrs. A. J. Brown, Mrs. R. H. and Mrs. Ross Edmunds, Mrs. W. H. and Mrs. J. L. Byam, Mrs. Elmer, Mrs. P. Stinson, Mrs. G. Locke, Mrs. F. W. Smith, Mrs. T. H. Aiken, Mrs. Lambert, Misses M. Duncan, M. Needham, E. Krieger.

Mrs. Sayles, assisted by a committee, served refreshments during the social hour at the close.

The February meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. E. S. Burnham, the committee in charge being:—Mrs. Hugh Kennedy, Mrs. H. Skitch, Mrs. B. Raper, Mrs. J. Todd, Mrs. F. Smith and Miss Burnham.

A solo, "Somebody Knows," by Mrs. Sayles at the meeting on Tuesday, was much enjoyed.

The many friends of Miss Mary Thompson will regret to learn that her brother, Mr. Charles Thompson, passed away on Saturday evening following an operation in a Toronto hospital.

The funeral took place to Little Lake cemetery, Peterborough, on Monday, Rev. Canon Allen going in to conduct the burial service. Mr. and Miss Thompson, during their residence in Millbrook, made many warm friends, the former being for some years in Dr. H. A. Turner's drug store, and afterwards in charge of "central" at Dr. A. Russell's home in Bailieboro.

The immediate surviving relatives are one daughter, Miss Marian Thompson, a graduate of McGill University, Montreal, and two sisters, Mrs. Young, of Quebec city, and Miss Mary Thompson, of Toronto.

The late Harry Griffin, word of whose death was received here on Tuesday, was boen in Worcestershire, England, fifty-two or three years ago. Coming to Canada over thirty years ago, deceased lived practically ever since in Cavan and Millbrook, first with Mr. T. A. Kelly, later going to Mr. Keegan Brown's, and then coming to the village. For some years he was with W. H. Byam & Son, and then with Burnham Bros., afterwards for some time with Miss F. Aiken.

Leaving Springville, where he had been living with Mr. H. Baptie, deceased went to Lindsay last November, and was at Dr. Whyte's until his death occurred last Monday, following an attack of spinal meningitis. Interment took place on Tuesday in the Lindsay cemetery.

Mr. R. Stone came from the same part of England as the late Mr. Griffin and is personally acquainted with his relatives living there. The Griffin family originally lived at Banbury, and deceased, who was generous almost to a fault, used to share boxes of the famous "Banbury cakes," sent him among other Christmas gifts from the Old Land, with friends here. Educated at Eton and Oxford, he was apparently among the sons of well-to-do families sent to try his fortunes on this side the Atlantic, succeeding but indifferently well.

His genial, generous nature won him many friends, and to these he would refuse no favor that lay in his power to confer. Indeed, this trait was his undoing. A legacy received from England several years ago, which might have meant comfortable circumstances in his later years, lasted but a comparatively short time, requests for loans being cheerfully complied with, money thus put out bringing in no return whatever, either of interest or principal.

One nephew lived near his uncle while the latter was at Springville, and this was the only relative in this country to attend his funeral. Other brothers live in India and various parts of the British Empire, but none in Canada.

Miss Trembeth, of Port Britain, is visiting Dr. E. Gillott.

Mrs. I. E. Needham and Miss May Needham were guests of Mr. G. and Miss Morrow, of Peterborough, during the holiday season.

The January meeting of the Ministerial Association will be held in the Trustee Board room of the Methodist Church on Monday, January 12, at 9.30 a.m.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hatherly were visitors to Peterborough on Wednesday.

G. E. Burnham was in Peterborough on Tuesday attending the funeral of the late J. E. Firth.

Mr. C. C. Keele, of Toronto, a former manager of the local branch of the Bank of Toronto, was in town on Friday attending the funeral of the late Mr. Charles Needler.

Mrs. J. Edgar Burnham, of Peterborough, is the guest of Mrs. E. S. Burnham this week.

COBOURG AND THE DISTRICT

Canon F. J. Sawyers Accepts Invitation to Toronto Church—Appointed C.N.R. Agent.

COBOURG, Jan. 7 (Special).—To the regret of his parishioners and citizens of the town generally, Canon F. J. Sawyers has accepted the invitation extended to him by the vestry of St. Matthew's Anglican Church, First Avenue, Toronto, to become rector of that parish. Canon Sawyers succeeds the late Canon Brooke who died recently. St. Matthew's is a large parish, free from debt, with a very large Sunday school, progressive and virile in all activities of church and parish work, Canon Srwyers has been called to a wide field of service, which, however, we feel assured that he is well qualified to fill. While regretting his removal from Cobourg, and also that of Mrs. Sawyers, who has not only been actively associated with parish activities but in social life here, we congratulate them upon the larger call and the wider outlook. Many friends will join in wishing Canon and Mrs. Sawyers much happiness and success in their new home, St. Matthew's Rectory, Toronto.

Service Postponed.

A memorial service for the late Rev. C. S. Hamilton was to have been held in the Baptist Church on Sunday morning, but owing to the indisposition of the pastor of the church, it was postponed until Jan. 18.

Sold Iowa Property.

Mr. B. Jayne, Baltimore, is home after spending the last three months at Colmer, Iowa, looking after the property of his aunt, Miss Hepzibah Jayne. While there Mr. Jayne sold the homestead of 110 acres for $13,000, and also sold 10 acres of timber land for $700.

Appointed Agent.

Mr. Harris, of Trenton, has been appointed C.N.R. station agent here to succeed Mr. E. J. Wormington who was a few weeks ago notified of his transfer to the position of station agent at Port Hope. It is not known just when the change will become effective.

Counties Council, Jan. 27.

The regular statutory meeting of the Counties Council for Northumberland and Durham will convene at Cobourg on Tuesday, Jan. 27, at 2 p.m. While there will be a number of new faces at the Council Board, probably about half of the 1924 members have been re-elected.

Hockey League for Colborne.

At a meeting held last week it was decided to have a town hockey league again this season. It is composed of the following teams: The High School, the Centrals, the Belmonts and the Sheiks. Two games are being played a week and are illiciting much interest.

Preached Here Sunday.

Mr. John Curtis, of McMaster University, son of Mr. and Mrs. N. J. Curtis, Penella, supplied Rev. J. N. Norton's work at the Baptist Church on Sunday very acceptably, and preached good sermons morning and evening.

The Late Miss Eleanor Shepard.

Dr. and Mrs. A. A. Shepard, Sault Ste. Marie, have the very deep sympathy of many friends here, because of the death on Wednesday, Dec. 31, of their only daughter, Eleanor R. Miss Shepard was a granddaughter of the late Rev. A. H. Reynor, M.A., LL.D., and had been quite a frequent visitor to Cobourg. She was in her nineteenth year.

Winter School.

The Fourth Annual Bay of Quinte Conference Winter School opens here on Monday, Jan. 12, and continues to Jan. 19, for the study of the Bible, missions, young people's work, and training in Christian leadership. An excellent programme has been provided and outstanding leaders and speakers will assist.

Many Applications.

One hundred and fourteen teachers made application for two vacant positions in Belleville Public Schools

Miss Gardner, who has been in charge of the senior room in Smithfield school for the past two years has resigned.

Cooney—Carey.

The marriage took place in New York City on Monday, Dec. 29, of Mabel Elizabeth Carey, daughter of the late Andrew Carey of Hamilton Township, to Mr. John Edward Cooney, son of the late James Cooney, and of Mrs. Cooney, Vernonville. Mr. and Mrs. Cooney left to spend their honeymoon in the United States and at eastern points, before taking up residence in Cramahe Township, one and a half miles north of Colborne. The bride is a niece of Mr. P. J. Carey, Toronto, formerly of Cobourg.

NEWS OF NORWOOD.

Three Societies Celebrate Diamond Jubilee—Personal Mention.

NORWOOD, Jan. 9—The W.M.S., the Y.W.A., and the Mission Band of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church celebrated the diamond jubilee of the Women's Missionary Society of the Presbyterian Church of Canada on Tuesday afternoon last in the basement of the church. It being the regular meeting day of the W.M.S., the first of the afternoon was devoted to their programme for the same. Mrs. Peer, one of the hon. presidents, occupied the chair, and the newly appointed secretary, Mrs. W. Beckett, performed her duties for the first time. After this part of the programme was completed, the reports of the three societies were given, each one showing the good work being done by them. Vocal numbers were rendered by Mrs. N. C. Porter and Mrs. Jno. Weir. A very interesting report of the work of the W.M.S. since its foundation sixty years ago was given by Mrs. J. W. Rork. Miss Edith Tedford, of the Y.W.A., who had been sent as a delegate by the Peterboro Presbyterial to the Summer School held at Whitby in July, gave a full and interesting account of her stay at the conference.

COVER BUTTER.

Butter absorbs flavors and odors so it should always be kept in a covered stone or glass jar away from any strong odors.

WINTER FEED FOR EGG PRODUCTION

Green Vegetables, Table Scraps Should Be in Fowl Diet.

MILLBROOK, Jan. 9. — An experienced poultry man, who has kept fowl on a commercial basis for several years, gives some practical suggestions for winter production of eggs, provided good stock is kept, "but do not think that the best feed and quarters will give the best results if poor stock is the foundation built upon."

Even a small flock, according to this authority, of the right type, housed in clean, well-ventilated quarters, and fed systematically, may be counted upon to give good returns for the labor involved. "because poultry keeping is no longer looked upon as a side-line to be attended to by an overworked housewife at irregular intervals, or by the children, but a business to be taken seriously."

"As far as possible summer conditions must be substituted if fowl are to lay in the winter months, hence the necessity of a cotton front poultry house, facing directly south so the purifying sunshine may reach the interior walls, and have a good warming influence on the birds, and plenty of green feed supplied. Green cabbage, a vegetable which was very plentiful last summer, is much relished, mangels making a good second choice. These are a cheap vegetable and can be kept in a suitable storage place in sufficient quantities to carry through until spring.

Place some oats in a shallow box in a warm room, and keep moist until sprouted like a thick green mat. Cut in strips and throw to the hens—they will consider this a treat, occasionally.

Scraps from the table, and other meat, will take the place of the insects and grubs which the fowl get in the summer months, and, if possible, keep buttermilk before them all the time. Throw hard grains, such as wheat, oats, cracked corn, or barley, into the litter on the floor, giving exercise by scratching for their feed.

Warm water, or skim-milk, for the laying hens in cold weather, is somewhat of a problem, the suggestion of a large pail, placed in a box or larger wooden pail, and the space between firmly packed with straw, providing a solution of the difficulty. Have a running board round the box or pail, say six inches from the top, for the birds to stand upon while drinking. The packing straw must be kept dry, the better way being to have the top of the inner pail a little above the other container, and nail a closely fitting strip of tin, or other metal, just under its rim, cloning off a trifle, so the water is drained away from the pails altogether.

UNPLEASANT ODORS.

The unpleasant odor from cooking cabbage or cauliflower will be avoided if you drop two English walnuts in the kettle while they are cooking. The nuts must be in the shells.

POINTING OUT THE OASIS.

Has Hon. G. S. Henry, Minister of Public Works in the Ontario Government, pointed out the way by which the thirsty are to travel across Ontario's desert to the yearned-for oasis?

Mr. Henry declares that the solution of the liquor question hinges upon the repeal of the Doherty and Sandy Acts, which restrict the importation of liquor into Ontario.

"Just let the people send to Montreal for their liquid refreshment," is in effect what the Minister says, "and there will be no more complaints about the Ontario Temperance Act."

Temperance people who may object that such a policy would be a violation of Mr. Ferguson's pledge before the plebiscite, are given their answer before they raise the objection.

The Government will not ask the Federal administration to repeal the Doherty Act. Oh, no!

That is the function of the Legislature, declares the Minister of Public Works.

It was not the Government that asked for the passing of the Act in the first place, but the Legislature, and it is the function of the Legislature to ask for its appeal.

So there is a new policy and a defence for it as promulgated by a Minister of the Provincial Government.

The whole thing may be only Mr. Henry's own idea of a way out of the difficulty, but if that be the case the Premier should have something to say about Ministers who broadcast such important statements upon a contentious subject.

EDUCATION—NOT LEGISLATION.

One temperance worker who has got down to the hard pan of common sense is W. R. Wood, Secretary of the Manitoba Temperance Alliance, judging by his address to the United Farm Women of Manitoba at their annual convention.

Mr. Wood declared emphatically that the remedy for the evils of the liquor traffic was not to be found in legislation, but rather was a matter of basic temperance education.

In other words, the Manitoba Secretary has the same opinion of the problem as has been frequently expressed by the Examiner, that better results can be obtained by a persistent and intelligent campaign of education showing the folly and danger of the abuse of liquor than can be secured from legislation no matter how many police clubs may be swung in enforcing the law.

Manitoba is attempting to line up an army of local teachers and leaders of all kinds who believe in temperance to carry on a continuous propaganda against over-indulgence.

Such a campaign should get somewhere, and it should be imitated in other Provinces.

Here in Ontario the difficulty has been that as soon as the Ontario Temperance Act was passed the temperance forces demobilized their armies and stopped fighting. . . .

They made the mistake of thinking that education was no longer necessary because the law was going to stop the drink habit.

No legislation can do that.

Legislation may make it more difficult, more expensive and more dangerous to drink, it may drive the traffic into underground channels, but it doesn't eliminate the habit.

Paradoxical as it may seem, it may even make it easier and more alluring for young people to drink than it was in the days of the open bar.

The campaign of education should, therefore, be pressed with more vigor than ever, and the Manitoba Secretary has sounded a challenge to the temperance forces of this Province when he lays down the principle that "the remedy lies not in legislation, but in basic temperance education."

LAST YEAR'S ACCIDENTS.

With the thirty-first of December, 1924, industry in the Province of Ontario saw the completion of the first ten years of operation of the Workmen's Compensation Act in this Province.

During this ten-year period 442,002 accidents to workmen were reported to the board and of these 3,983 were fatal.

In the ten years $45,937,221.06 was awarded in compensation to injured workmen and their widows and children and in providing medical attention, hospital and skilled nursing services and artificial limbs and appliances.

This means that, roughly speaking, the average accident reported to the Workmen's Compensation Board has cost over $100.

In 1924 there was a decrease in the number of accidents from 1923. In 1924 there were 58,675 accidents, of which 402 were fatal, as compared with 61,109, of which 379 were fatal, in 1923.

The total benefits awarded during 1924 were $6,122,809.26, or about $50,000 less than awarded during 1923.

Industry in Ontario may feel that this toll of accidents is a heavy one, and and yet, on the other hand, an enormous amount of good has resulted from the passing of the Compensation Act over ten years ago.

The great advantage of the present system as compared with the old law are the speedy disposition of claims, the immense saving of expense to all parties concerned, the great widening of the workers' protection and the immunity of the employer from individual liability.

Although the Ontario Act is now the most liberal in the world, especially in cases of severe accidents, the rates of assessment paid by employers are very much less than under other systems in adjoining States.

Accident prevention is a common problem for both employer and employee.

The purchasing public is interested in the fact that over $45,000,000 has had to be provided by industry in the last ten years to pay for accidents, and it is a fact that nothing but good can come from a reduction in the accidents and a consequent lowering of compensation costs.

TWO FINE NUMBERS.

Simultaneously the Examiner has received copies of the centenary number of the Halifax Morning Chronicle and of the special year-end edition of the Halifax Herald and Evening Mail, two editions that reflect the greatest credit upon the vision and enterprise of their publishers.

If it were possible to place these splendid papers in the hands of every Canadian it is safe to say that the rest of the Dominion would have a much greater fund of Nova Scotian history, a wider appreciation of the splendid Nova Scotian resources and a more sympathetic understanding of Maritime problems.

The centenary number of the Chronicle, which, in association with the Nova Scotian, has been published continuously since Dec. 29th, 1924, is rich in its reminiscences of one hundred years of Nova Scotian history; outstanding are quotations from famous editorials by Joseph Howe.

The Herald's year-end edition contains a vast quantity of striking information in regard to business and industrial conditions.

The two special issues throw a new light upon Nova Scotia and its problems.

THE PUBLIC SERVICE.

Following up the article in yesterday's Examiner in regard to the extent in which the salaries and wages of municipal, Provincial and Federal employees contribute toward the cost of government, one conclusion seems to be justified, and that is that there is a tendency to increase far beyond the needs the number of positions which carry small salaries.

The average salary of all the Federal employees is under $1,200 a year, but the aggregate amount in view of the fact that there are nearly 43,000 employees is huge.

It is difficult to avoid the thought that in some cases better results might be obtained for less money if the personnel were cut down and the salaries raised.

The public services appear to be over-staffed in the lower ranks.

There are minor positions that could be abolished without loss of efficiency, and at the same time it is well known that many important administrative and technical positions carry inadequate salaries.

A re-adjustment of the personnel, eliminating those officials whose positions are merely sinecures and making it possible by larger salaries to retain the services of well qualified men for important technical positions would seem to be good business for Canada.

The same condition applies more or less to municipal public services.

There is a tendency to have too many departments involving the employment of an unnecessary number of officials.

OUR SCHOOL SYSTEM.

There are few subjects on which the average man holds more pronounced although more variable views than education. While in hundreds of cases these opinions are shallow and ill-digested, yet their holders make up in enthusiasm what they lack in soundness. This condition is probably a healthy one in that it shows that men and women who are apathetic and indifferent in politics and often in religion are nevertheless intensely interested in the education of their own and of others' children.

The Rt. Hon. H. A. L. Fisher, who was President of the Board of Education in the Lloyd George Government and is an educator of world-wide fame, has returned to England after a tour of Canada and the United States and has given his views on the standards and methods of education on this side of the water compared with those of Britain. Much of the friendly criticism which he directs against the system of the United States is applicable to Canada, which has modelled and continues to model her methods on those prevailing in the United States, rather than those of Britain.

Mr. Fisher deplores the very small equipment of culture and knowledge which most of the students bring up from the High Schools to the Universities. Seventy years ago Cardinal Newman in an essay, which is a classic, deplored what he conceived to be the fundamental error of education in England at that time—the distraction and enfeeblement of the mind by the profusion of subjects taught. There have been many changes in methods both in Britain and in the Dominions since Newman wrote, but the prevailing tendency seems always to have been in the opposite direction to that indicated by the great educator's warning. Both parental pressure and public opinion have compelled school authorities—often against their will an d their better judgment—to admit new subjects to the curriculum to meet new ideas and changed conditions.

The modern High School has a bewildering array of subjects that dazzle those who were brought up under the "grand old fortifying classical curriculum," but it is not so certain if their finished products are the intellectual equals of the older regime.

There is a persisting demand among parents that more subjects should be taught in the schools which will be of direct and money earning value when the time comes for the pupil to earn his or her livelihood. It is an exceedingly difficult thing to foretell the future career of any individual pupil, and utilitarian subjects that may fit a boy to become an excellent plumber will be of little value to the embryo physician, while they may not be utilized by the plumber-to-be himself, since the chances of life may throw him into the hurly-burly of life as minister, poet or bricklayer.

There are still old-fashioned people who hold that if a boy or girl can learn to think clearly, to take pains and to express himself logically that the utility of the subjects taught is of secondary importance. While there must be a complex of causes that make pupils come to the universities under-developed in intellectual culture, it is well not to overlook the fact that no school, however good it may be, can supply the shortcomings of a home to which no gleam of culture ever penetrates or in which the moral atmosphere is one of laxity and indifference.—Montreal Star.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

3,600,000 cars will be sold during 1925, according to automobile manufacturers. Mr. Pedestrian, watch your step!

There is something in a name after all. Sweet City, Alta., had such a surplus from 1923 that no taxes had to be levied in 1924.

Apparently many Peterborough children celebrated the Christmas holidays by contracting the mumps—and are prolonging their holidays indefinitely.

The theft of examination papers from the Collegiate Institute should be cleared up in justice to all parties.

It is charged that Red agitators are working among Toronto's unemployed. It is not to be wondered at, because men who are without work and money are ripe to fall into the hands of the glib Communist propagandists.

Wise and Otherwise.

Few Claimants For Australian Fortune

LONDON, Jan. 9.—The famous fortune of William Webber, Australian gold digger, has been claimed in part by Mrs. Mary Wheeler, 76-year-old resident of a tiny village in Wiltshire.

The Webber estate is valued at $500,000,000, of which more than half is said to be in possession of the British government, and the remainder in the United States and Holland. Mrs. Wheeler claims $40,000,000 on an alleged direct relationship.

Other claims have been lodged by William Montague Blayley and Vivian Perrien, employees of a hotel in Windsor, Ont.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, Jan. 8.—There was some inquiry from foreign buyers for Canadian grain here to-day, but as most of the prices bid were out of line, the volume of business accomplished was small. The local trade in coarse grain was also slow, but the tone of the market was steady. Ontario oats were quoted at 66 cents for No. 2 white, 64 cents for No. 3 grade, and 62 cents for No. 4 grade.

A moderate business was transacted in all grades of eggs and the undertone was firm. The demand for butter was again of a very limited character but the trend was firm. The trade in cheese was quiet, but prices were firm, with current receipts for No. 1 fodder made goods quoted 18½ to 19 cents per pound, and No. 2 grade at 17½ to 18 cents per pound.

Crop beans were quoted at $2.70 to $2.80 per bushel.

STERLING RATES.

MONTREAL, Jan. 8.—(Canadian Press). — Sterling exchange rates were quoted here to-day as follows:

Sterling demand, $4.79½.

Sterling cables, $4.79½.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, Jan. 8. — (Canadian Press).—Material set-backs in the price of wheat here resulted to-day from an unlooked-for decline of values at Liverpool and from slowness of export demand for United States wheat. Argentine competition appeared to be increasing. Chicago closing quotations on wheat were weak, 1 3-4 to 2 1-8 cents net lower, May 1.77 5-8 to 1.77 3-4, and July 1.53 1-8 to 1.53¾. Corn finished 3-8 to 3-4 cent off, oats unchanged to half a cent down, and provisions varying from 10 cents decline to 7 cents advance.

WINNIPEG LIVESTOCK.

WINNIPEG, Jan. 8. — (Canadian Press).—Arrivals, 950 cattle and calves, 7,100 hogs, and 150 sheep and lambs.

A moderately active trade was transacted on the cattle market this morning, with prices holding fairly well in line with yesterday's close. With heavy receipts on the hog market prices reflected an easier tendency, thick smooths ranging from $9.25 to $9.50.

Sheep and lambs inactive.

EGG MARKETS.

OTTAWA, Jan. 8. — (Canadian Press).—The market for fresh remains steady and unchanged. There is a tendency at many points for storage eggs to advance. Reports point to low stocks with the probability of importations of United States storage.

Toronto firm, fresh specials 76, extras 73 to 76, storage higher, extras 55 to 56, firsts 52 to 53, seconds 46 to 47. Poultry of good quality scarce and firm, dealers quoting 28 delivered for milk-fed chickens.

Montreal, fresh extras jobbing 70, firsts 65, storage extras 52, firsts 46, seconds 42.

Ottawa storage stocks low, prices higher. Fresh extras, jobbing 60, storage extras 53 to 55, firsts 48 to 50, seconds 38 to 40.

Manitoba and Saskatchewan markets unchanged. Some imported stock arriving costing 48 to 50 f.o.b. shipping point. Storage stocks low.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, Jan. 8.—(Canadian Press).—Influenced by lower Liverpool cables, the wheat market to-day suffered another mild recession with the May future at 186 7-8, closing 1¼ cents below yesterday's close. July was 1 1-8 cents down at 164¾.

On the early break there was fair buying and as offerings became light, following the opening rush, prices re-acted slightly. As the demand was satisfied, the market quietened down and prices again sagged. While export sales of wheat were comparatively small, there was considerable activity in the flour market, the Russian Government buying heavily, while Scandinavia was reported to have purchased 20,000 barrels overnight.

While trade volume was not large, the undertone continued firm. Foreigners declined to follow the advances in futures in America yesterday, and export sales of wheat at the seaboard were estimated at only 200,000 bushels.

but this is left to the decision of her friends.

Belgium contends that there still remains the sum of about one hundred million francs due her on account of her priority, although some delegations aver that the entire amount provided for in the Spa agreement has been turned over to her.

"Our negotiations with the British are progressing along a normal course," Mr. Logan said last evening. "The British and our experts are now engaged in drawing up tentative solutions, the details of which are still in suspense. There is no reason to fear a deadlock; on the contrary, we hope to be able to reach an agreement before Monday."

The British delegation maintained complete silence on the subject.

Inter-Allied Debts.

M. Clementel went on to say that should Belgium lose anything by the agreement arising out of this conference some arrangement would be made whereby she would be reimbursed by a heavier share in later annuities. Concerning inter-allied debts—a question which is dying hard—M. Clementel asserted that Mr. Churchill's conversations were dominated and directed by the Balfour theory, and had not changed since Mr. Churchill's debt speech in the House of Commons.

The Balfour theory, in the form of a circular note, was set forth in 1922, when the Earl of Balfour was acting Foreign Minister. It outlined Great Britain's position as desiring an adjustment of the inter-allied debts by an all-round cancellation and suggested a surrender on her part of her share of reparations to be paid by Germany.

M. Clementel added that any accord reached by the conference would be subject to ratifications by the respective Parliaments before final signature.

"There is no question of a special debt conference," the French Finance Minister concluded.

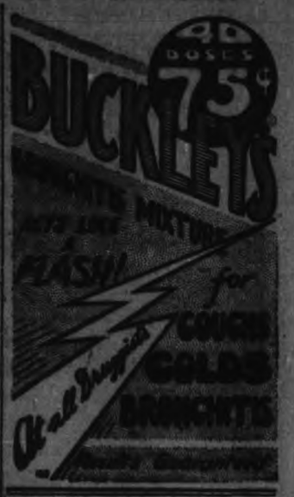
May Work Sunday.

A Communique issued after the formal session records the delegates' conviction that private talks are better than public meetings for settling differences, and suggests Sunday work in an effort to reach prompt and definite solutions.

M. Clementel said he hoped to reach an agreement by Tuesday. It is recommended by M. Clementel in the Communique that "on all questions on which no agreement is reached in the preparatory sessions, the delegates of the interested powers try to reach a compromise in private talks."

"Two days, Friday and Saturday," the communique continues, "will be devoted to these conversations, the results of which, after study by the experts, will be the subject of a new report, to be submitted to a plenary conference at the beginning of next week. In all questions interesting powers not represented on the commission, these powers will have an opportunity to be heard by this commission and to present their observations."

M. Clementel insisted upon the necessity of obtaining unanimous accord in the shortest possible time, and with this in view the delegates' work will continue even on Sunday.



LIQUOR SMUGGLING CASE IN MONTREAL

the barge which went down to Gaspe and waited news of the steamer and finally went to Metane, where they met a two-masted schooner and the transfer of the 3,000 odd cases was accomplished with the two boats lashed together in mid-stream. "They were apparently butter boxes," said Capt. Tremblay, "but I noticed one of them leaked. Each case contained five gallons and afterwards the schooner left for St. Pierre Miquelon while the barge proceeded up stream. The barge met the yacht about three days and it was decided to go off Nicolet for the transfer, but in the meantime the barge was sent into St. Sulphice to unload some cases. When they had unloaded three hundred cases Quebec liquor police arrived and seized the ship and cargo and a little later the customs officers sought to seize it. Witness was given $500 by the liquor commission police to take the barge and cargo to Montreal and had done so, and then with a friend had got from Capt. Symonds the $5,000, returned his receipt for same and in a subsequent interview with the American Stewart had declared: "They had lost the money and had been sold by Perrault." That was the last he had seen of the Americans.

In The Morning Her Tongue Was Coated Had Bad Taste In Mouth

Miss Pearle L. Zinck, Barss Corner, N.S., writes:—"I was awfully troubled with my liver, and used to get such dizzy spells I would have to sit down while I was doing my work.

In the morning, when I used to get up, my tongue was coated and I had a bad taste in my mouth and often times, throughout the day, I was troubled with pains in my stomach.

I suffered in this way until a friend of mine who had used your MILBURN'S LAXA-LIVER PILLS. told me of having taken them, so I decided to try them, and I can truthfully say that they certainly did me a lot of good.

I cannot recommend them too highly to all those who suffer as I did."

TILLEY PLEADS GOUGH DEFENCE

to accept it as gospel. The same applied to Mr. Mason. He was long enough in the saddle to have acquired complete knowledge concerning the bank." The episode of 1918 arose out of the charge made by Machaffie. Mr. Tilley said that Gough had consulted Z. A. Lash, Senator MacDonnell and M.J. Haney about the bank, and had been informed that the bank was all right, and had therefore every reason to proceed with his duties as a director in confidence.

Mr. Tilley said that the Machaffie correspondence was out of place. Mr. Machaffie had talked of the possibilities of getting another bank to take over the Home Bank and expected to find a home in the larger institution. Gough had been approached by Machaffie which was in itself to prove that Gough had an open mind and wanted to do the best possible for the bank. Gough was without prejudice in considering Machaffie for the position of general manager. However, advice was taken from others and as the bank appealed to a particular clientele it was thought better to have a Roman Catholic as general manager.

CAMPBELLFORD AND DISTRICT

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 9.—The January meeting of the Daughters of the Empire was held on Wednesday afternoon in the Public Library, about twenty ladies were present. There was considerable discussion re the monument for the war memorial. All the members are anxious to carry on and endeavor to have the memorial under way this coming summer. There was also a discussion in regard to the monthly meetings. It was decided to have some programme each time, and endeavor to have something extra to have the meetings more interesting. A reading "Buying Made-in-Canada Goods" by Mrs. E. H. Greig, was very interesting and a discussion followed. A letter from Miss M. Robertson was read by the secretary. Miss Robertson expressed her appreciation and thanks to the Chapter for the plant sent her mother, the late Mrs. David Robertson, during her illness. Mrs. Robertson was a charter member of the Chapter, and for several years held the office as one of the honorary regents of the Campbellford Chapter of the I.O.D.E. She will be missed in the society, as she was always present when able to come, and took a great interest in everything pertaining to the work of the Chapter. Much sympathy for Miss Robertson was expressed in the loss of her mother, as the two of them were alone in their home, and so much together at all times. The February meeting will be the annual meeting and election of officers, and after the business is finished there will be a social cup of tea. The Chapter has done good work and are laying aside money every year to go on the memorial.

Officers Installed.

Installation of officers in the I.O.O.F. Lodge, 248, Tuesday night, was a big night for the local lodge of the Independent Order of Oddfellows. At this regular meeting the installation of officers took place for the next term. After the business was over all the members and visitors retired to the dining room, where a sumptuous banquet was given. Bro. Percy Sherwin, retiring noble grand, acted as toast master. Among the toasts was one to the Independent Order of Oddfellows. This was proposed by District Deputy R. A. Dunk, and was ably responded to by J. E. Anderson of Lindsay, Grand Master of the Province of Ontario.

Funeral of Clifford Brown.

The funeral of the late Clifford Brown, who was accidentally shot last Saturday morning, was held on Wednesday afternoon, and was a very large one. The Orange Lodges of Peterick's and Stanwood attended and the funeral was under the Orange Order. The service was held at one o'clock at Stanwood Methodist Church. Rev. C. D. Daniel preached the funeral sermon and two former pastors, Rev. M. L. Hinton of Hastings and Rev. J. E. Glover of Cambray assisted, each one giving a short address. The pall-bearers, three from Stanwood Lodge and three from Petherick's Lodge, were: Harry Barnum, Everett Fairman, Allan Simpson, Caman and Kenneth McAlpine and Garnet Hay. Many beautiful floral wreaths were sent by relatives and friends. Those attending the funeral from outside places were Messrs. Perry and Stanley Brown of Frankford, Arthur Brown of Wooler and Mrs. Jas. Wiley and son, Russel, of Stockdale. The interment took place at Mount Pleasant Cemetery at Campbellford.

Social Evening.

A very pleasant social evening was spent at the home of Mrs. C. W. Turner, Queen Street, when her Sunday School Class of young men and women were entertained on Wednesday night. Games, contests, music and singing were the order of the evening. A special feature of the evening was a true story of the picture of Christ at Gethsamene, beautifully told by Mr. Lowry of Toronto, who is in Campbellford for a few days this week. All listened with wrapt attention and enjoyed every word of it.

Personals.

Colonel Watt of the Hydro attended the Oddfellow's banquet on Tuesday night.

Mr. M. Fraser of Frankford attended the banquet given by the Oddfellows on Tuesday night.

Mr. Lowry of Toronto is in Campbellford on business this week, and is staying at the home of Mrs. C. W. Turner.

FABLES ON HEALTH

Mrs. Mann of Anytown, after she had determined to dissipate the wrinkles which had begun to spread around her eyes, learned there were many rmedies for their removal.

A Berlin treatment if patiently followed, is said to be a permanent cure.

The treatment begins with steaming the face. Narrow strips of court plaster are then applied to the wrinkled portion, after the wrinkle has been stretched out smoothly with thumb and forefinger.

The treatment must be followed for a long time before results are seen, and even then it must be done twice a day.

Another wrinkle cream is made from spermaceti and white wax, each one-half ounce; melt and add to them two ounces of oil and sweet almonds and one ounce each of lanolin and cocoanut oil.

Stir this in an ounce of orange flower water and 10 drops of tincture of benzoin.

MODERN FLAPPER STURDY OAK, NOT A CLINGING VINE

She Has Danced in Where Mid-Victoria Feared to Tread.

CHIVALRY VANISHED

BY CYNTHIA GREY

"A young bird first trying its wings."

That's the pathetic definition of a flapper that the Century dictionary gives us. And it sounds like anything but a description of the assured young girl we slangily call the flapper.

A great many people have condemned the flapper and it's hard to see just why they have. Her virtues are so many and her faults so few.

For one thing, she's such a good pal. A girl who doesn't swim and dance and play tennis and hike these days is an exception, and a very unpopular exception, too.

The flapper is much more of a comrade than a "best girl" to her boy friend, and that's a fine, wholesome attitude, isn't it?

And then there's the modern girl's honesty. She takes her jam openly from the cupboard of life where she used to sneak it.

The flapper knows what she wants and how to get it. She's not the clinging vine any longer, but the sturdy oak. She has danced in where Mid-Victoria feared to tread. She is opening tea-shops and millinery shops. She is going to college and studying law.

Mid-Victoria longed to do these things, too, but she was afraid that if she did nobody would marry her. So she sat at home and waited for someone to come along and propose marriage to her—the only career then open to women.

There's a novel by Amanda M. Douglas that was published in this free country in the year 1899. The heroine of it is forced to earn her own living, poor thing, and this is what she says about it:

"'It is vulgar and commonplace, and yet I don't see why it should be considered so derogatory.'"

That was the attitude of women toward working outside the home only 35 years ago. But now our books say: "We women want something we can call our own, just as men do. More."

And that's precisely the attitude of the flapper, and the reason for her being what she is—greedy, but up and coming. She sees that her brother has a latchkey of his own and money of is own and that they do him no harm. So she acquires both herself—and assurance along with them.

However, she surely needs that assurance and the right to think clearly for herself in this after-the-war world of jazz and confusion.

It was much easier and simpler to be a lady a few years ago when serenaders sang "To you, beautiful lady, I raise by eyes," than now when we dance to the music of "Red Hot Mama." For chivalry has vanished along with high silk hats and formal dinners and duty calls.

The flapper is only the by-product of her day and age. And this is a time of new standards. All the old guide-posts are gone.

We have freedom, but too much of it, perhaps. Prohibition is here, but so is the midnight supper club. Sunday has become a gala day. Why should we think it unreasonable for the young woman of today to be free and easy, too?

And before you condemn her for not wearing corsets you want to remember that the splendid women of the Greek Golden Age didn't wear them either, and that the wanton women of the French court did!

And if you disapprove (as you should) of her rouged cheek-bones and her painted lips, you ought to give her the benefit of a doubt. Perhaps she's much better than she's painted.

SULPHUR CLEARS SKIN RIGHT UP

Apply Sulphur as Told When Your Skin Breaks Out.

Any breaking out of the skin, even fiery, itching eczema, can be overcome by applying a little Mentho-Sulphur, declares a noted skin specialist. Because of its germ destroying properties this sulphur preparation begins at once to soothe irritated skin and heal eruptions such as rash, pimples and ring worm.

It seldom fails to remove torment and disfigurement, and you do not have to wait for relief from embarrassment. Improvement quickly shows. Sufferers from skin trouble should obtain a small jar of Rowles Mentho-Sulphur from any good druggist and use it like cold cream.

EUROPEAN DIPLOMATS MOVING TOWARD ANOTHER DISARMAMENT

Next Conference Will Likely Be Held in Washington.

MUST SOON COME

Several Important Questions Should Be Settled.

By A. L. BRADFORD.

PARIS, Jan. 9.—(United Press).—Important moves on the checker board of international politics are paving the way for the convocation of another disarmament conference at Washington and a settlement of probably the most thorny outstanding conversation in informed diplomatic circles in Paris.

The bits of actual information that slowly have been trickling out from authoritative quarters since the conference at the Quai d'Orsay here between Premier Herriot and Foreign Minister Chamberlain, have left the distinct impression that one of the most important subjects discussed at this parley was France's security and that this question was put on the way to settlement in a manner that virtually will interest the United States.

The theory is held by diplomats of great powers that Great Britain has proposed an interesting solution of the problem of French security. This solution is supposed to be that Great Britain is ready to offer a pact to France that will guarantee this country's security.

Further, the supposition is that such a proposed solution of France's security was discussed in the Herriot-Chamberlain conference, that the British have proposed another conference to draw up a security pact, not only between France and Great Britain, but which also would include Belgium. It is said that France agreed in principle to this idea, with the reservation that the security of Poland and Roumania also must be guaranteed in some manner. France has alliances with Poland and Roumania, the latter country representing the Little Entente.

The French Foreign Office will not confirm this theory, but there is no denial. French diplomats in a position to know content themselves with smilingly stating that such an understanding seems to be very logical and that the subject of France's security undoubtedly was discussed between Herriot and Chamberlain.

The reason for the working out of such a security pact between France, Great Britain and Belgium, of course, would be that England has no intention of ratifying the Geneva protocol, under which France was ready to rely upon as a guarantee of her security in a disarmament move in Europe.

The most important thing from the standpoint of the American Government in these manoeuvres is that with the Geneva protocol out of the way and France's security settled, the United States would be free to call a disarmament meeting in Washington, with France participating, for it would be difficult for the latter power to be represented in a disarmament conference with the problem of her security unsolved.

Great Britain thus would be acting as a harmonizer in the interest of a second Washington Conference, for England, under the Baldwin favorable to disarmament negotiations at the American capital than Cabinet, is understood to be more through the Geneva instrument.

PARSONS' PARLORS ALL MONTE CARLOS IN LOVE GAMBLING

It's Blind Chance, Says "Cynthia Grey" in Advising Mothers Not to Interfere in Love Affairs.

ONE EXCEPTION

BY CYNTHIA GREY.

One of the most cruel things that parents do is to interfere in their children's love affairs.

For they're thwarting Nature.... that divine thing that doesn't care a fig about the money or social position of two people who want to marry each other. Nature is no snob.

"I wish you wouldn't see so much of Rosamund," a mother will say to her full-grown son, for instance. "Her people are odd, and she's sure to be like them."

What Mother means is that Rosamund's family have always been booky and had never had the money-making instinct. So she suggests that Son would do better to go a-courting where there was less culture and more money.

And the chances are that Son will let himself be drawn away from the one girl on earth that was meant for him. For Mother's criticism of Rosamund and her family sinks in.

One of the happiest marriage in history was that of Tom Moore, the poet, and his wife. Tom didn't let his family even know that he was in love with a humble actress, Bessy Dyke, until the wedding was safely over.

He felt sure they would try to stop it. And, of course, he was right, for they never became friends with the timid little wife who made Tom so happy.

Then there was Tom Coutts, founder of the great bank on the Strand in London. He secretly married his pretty cook, who proved to be an excellent wife honored by England's nobility.

I cannot imagine that the mothers of either of these men would have exactly smiled upon these marriages that turned out so very well, if they had known about them in time to have stopped them, can you?

Rather, I think they would have left no pebble unturned to have saved their sons from what they thought would be disaster for them. And the world would have been the poorer by two happy marriages.

Very often, no one but a lover can see why a girl is attractive and desirable.

One man may think that a certain girl is very lovely. His chum's private comment upon her may be: "Well, she'd never win a prize in my beauty show!"

So there you are. Tastes differ.

And that is why no one should try to pick out a man's wife for him—or a girl's husband for her. Parents, particularly, ought not to be guilty of this piece of folly.

For most of us have obeyed our parents from babyhood, and the habit is still strong when we are grown. A friend's advice may not matter at all. But it takes a brave person to tell his mother that he is going to be the captain of his soul and the master of his fate, in spite of her! Even if he is making a mistake!

A man may marry a fluffy-brained gaiety girl who will develop into a sober wife. And he may marry a sober girl who will be changed into a wife too gay for married life. Its' all blind chance.

The parson's parlor has seen fully as much gambling as the gilt Casino at Monte Carlo—and for higher stakes.

So if you are tempted to interfere in your child's love affairs—don't!

But when I say love affair, I do not mean the infatuation of a half-grown flapper for the prep-school hero. That is a problem of child hood and should be dealt with as such.

What I do mean is the real attraction of one grown human being for another—almost a holy thing.

MENU FOR FAMILY

Tested by Sister Mary.

Breakfast—Stewed prunes, cereal, thin cream, fish hash, graham muffins, marmalade, milk, coffee.

Luncheon—Baked cheese custard celery-apple-nut salad, whole wheat bread, peach islands, plain sponge cake, milk, tea.

Dinner—Tomato bouillon broiled porterhouse steak martinique potatoes buttered brussels sprouts pineapple salad whole wheat rolls, steamed date pudding, milk, coffee.

There are no foods suggested on this menu that are not perfectly digestible for children under school age who may appear at the family table.

Beefsteak broiled rare is an excellent food for growing bodies. Not too much, of course, and it must be finely cut or scraped before serving to 4-years-olds.

The sprouts are a valuable vegetable and should be eaten even if much tact is needed to accomplish the deed.

Pineapple with a few crumbs of cheese and bits of nuts, but without salad dresing, make the salad for juniors under school age.

A little of the pudding will not do a bit of harm, and satisfies a child's desire for sweets.

Baked Cheese Custard.

One egg, 2 cups milk, ½ pound cheese, 2 cups coarse stale breadcrumbs, ½ teaspoon salt, few grains pepper.

Sprinkle a well-buttered baking dish with breadcrumbs. Cover with a thick layer of grated cheese; sprinkle with salt and pepper. Continue layer for layer until all is used. The last layer should be breadcrumbs. Beat egg well, and beat in milk. Season with salt and pepper and pour slowly over the bread and cheese in the baking dish. The best way to do this is to use a tablespoon and moisten the entire mixture evenly. Cover and bake 20 minutes in a moderate oven. Remove cover and brown.

Toast left from breakfast can be used in place of breadcrumbs when convenient.

Peach Islands.

One pint canned peaches, 4 tablespoons sugar, 1 tablespoon granulated gelatin, ¼ cup cold water, 1 orange 1 cup whipping cream ½ teaspoon vanilla, few grains salt.

Drain peaches from sirup in can. Add enough water to sirup to make one cup. Add sugar to sirup and bring to the boiling point. Add gelatin softened in cold water and the juice of the orange. Take out four tablespoonfuls of this sirup and keep hot over hot water. Beat remaining gelatin mixture when it begins to thicken with a dover beater until frothy. Whip cream and beat into gelatin froth. Pour into serving dish. Dot with halves of peaches. Pour somen of the reserved sirup over each half of peach and put in a cold place to chill. The sirup poured over the peaches makes a thin gelatin coating.

The vanilla and salt are added to the whipped cream before combining with the sirup.

VANITY CASE.

An interesting vanity case is a circular box of highly polished black wood with a clasp of brilliants and a long black silk tassel.

CHAPPED HANDS.

Chapped hands and face are common to hundreds of women in any wintry portion of the country and frequently become quite annoying, as well as painful.

Mrs. Mann of Anytown was in the habit of mixing up a simple remedy made as follows:

Salicylate of soda, one dram; one-half ounce balsam of peru; one and a half ounces of glycerine and six ounces of rose water. Mix well and apply night and morning.

Many people claim to find relief from the simple use of camphorated ice.

A glycerine lotion can be made from one and a half ounces of glycerine, four drams of borax and a half pint of water.

OBITUARY.

WILLIAM JOHN HANBIDGE.

(Contributed.)

Quietly and without intense conscious distress, Wm. John Hanbidge was called into the presence of God, on Friday, January 2nd, 1925.

He was the son of the late William Hanbidge of Otonbee, where until recent years, Mr. Hanbidge followed farming.

On retiring from farming he took up his residence at 709 Aylmer street, Peterboro, and for some years had been employed by the "Peterboro Cereal Co.," where he was esteemed a very reliable employee.

In December of the year 1880 he was married to Mary McCamus, who has been a faithful and efficient wife, and who still survives him.

Their family consisted of three sons, William, of North Monaghan; Robert Clayton, of Cavan, and J. Wason, who with his wife, resides in the home.

Mr. and Mrs. Hanbidge lived to see their children's children—four grandsons and one grand-daughter.

Of his immediate family there still survives him one brother, Robert of Otonabee, two sisters, Mrs. S. Deyell, of this city, and Mrs. Armstrong of Ravenna.

Mr. Hanbidge was converted to God in early life, in the Bible Christion church, and up to the close of his 79th year has been a member of the Methodist church, and with a marked degree of religious fidelity held fast his profession of faith.

The words of the Psalmist in the first verse of the 131st Psalm might be appropriately adapted to the description of his character: "His heart was not haughty nor his eyes lofty, neither did he exercise himself in things too high for him."

And so he has left to his bereaved wife and children many precious memories, and a hope of his soul's eternal well-being.

Machine Shop of American Radiator Company Destroyed.

TORONTO, Jan. 9. — (Canadian Press).—Fire which broke out in the plant of the American Radiator Co., until recently known as the Dominion Radiator Company, Dufferin street, last night, caused a heavy loss and firemen had a hard battle to keep the flames from spreading to other parts of the building and to other factories adjacent. The blaze centred chiefly in the machine shop, on the second floor of the eastern section of the plant and immediately over the moulding shop and then spread to the stockroom. It is estimated that the loss to the building and contents will be in the neighborhood of $75,000 covered by insurance. The cause of the fire is not known.

MURDER ENQUIRY OPENS.

Evidence Shows that Two Men Visited Scene of Crime.

HULL, Jan. 9. — (Canadian Press).—Evidence that there were two men at Joseph ("Hermit Joe") Bouchard's camp at St. Pierre De Wakefield on the day before Christmas, the last time the old man was seen alive, was adduced at the opening of the inquest at the scene of the crime yesterday.

Jams Carey, of Poltimore, testified that he had visited Bouchard on December 24th to get a suit of clothes he had left there when he "quit his job with the hermit farmer." He had seen Euclid Courville, of Perkins Mills, also a former employee of Bouchard's, and Courville was drunk, Carey said.

Questioned regarding certain sums of money which he is said to have spent in Poltimore on Christmas Eve, Carey said that it was money he had saved up from work he did during fall and early winter.

DEVOTED TEACHERS HELPING ESKIMOS

Far North Race Learning How to Care for Themselves.

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, Jan. 9—While public schools, universities and colleges in the United States are forging ahead into the winter term's work, a widely scattered little band of pioneering educators in isolated sections of Alaska is laying the groundwork for the home education of Eskimos.

Scarcity of manual training material has resulted in the introduction of the teaching of hair cutting, ivory carving, and iron work such as the making of dog chains, skates from old sled shoes, and knives from old files.

Under a plan worked out by J. H. Wagner, chief of the Alaska bureau of the United States Bureau of Education, with headquarters at Seattle and approved by Dr. J. Tigert, commissioner of education, industrial schools are to be established at Kanakanak, Bristol Bay, White Mountain, Seward Peninsula, and Eklunta, 28 miles north of here. Courses to be taught include:

Animal husbandry—Study of reindeer problems, with special attention devoted to methods of slaughter and preparation of meat for cold storage and market.

Fishing—Operation of a small cannery, curing, smoking, salting and drying of fish.

Ivory industry—Making buttons, beads, and curios such as butter knives and napkin rings.

Tannery—Curing of skins and manufacture of leather.

Boat building—Construction of boats and operation of gasoline engines.

Tailoring—Particular attention to fur garments.

Commercial—Training of typists, stenographers and managers and clerks for native co-operative stores.

Carpentry, nursing and sanitation, household management and home making and music and folk dancing, with special attention to tribal dancing.

ENGLISH WOMAN LAWYER VISITS UNITED STATES

Helena Normanton, Champion of Maiden Names for Her Sex, in New York.

HUSBAND AGREES

Tells of Fight to be Admitted to the Bar—To Give Lectures.

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—Mrs. Helena Normanton, the first married woman to be admitted to the English Bar in her own name and wear the wig and crown in Court, arrived this week on the White Star liner Adriatic from Liverpool to spend three months lecturing upon English law and collecting information on American law. Mrs. Normanton is a barrister-at-law of the Middle Temple and practices on the North Eastern Circuit which includes the woolen and cotton manufacturing districts in Yorkshire.

Mrs. Normanton is a woman above the average height, rather portly and has a ruddy countenance with kindly expression. In speaking of her fight to be admitted to the bar in her own name instead of her husband, Gavin B. Clarke, she said that it started in 1918 when she applied to the Middle Temple and was refused. A petition to the Lord Chancellor received the same kind of reply. Undaunted, Mrs. Normanton tried again in 1921 when she broke the records in the examinations for that year and was finally called to the bar in 1922.

When she was invited to come to the United States last fall, Mrs. Normanton went to book her ticket and asked for a passport in her own name. She was told it could not be done, as the Foreign Office would not issue a passport to a married woman in her maiden name.

"I went to the passport office myself," she continued "and the clerks confirmed what the tourist agents had told me. Then I went to the chief of the legal department of the Foreign Office, who said that as I had won recognition from the benchers of the Middle Temple to be a barrister at law in my maiden name I was entitled to a passport. I received it in due course and had no difficulty in getting the document vissed at the United States Consulate."

Says "Mrs." Is More Dignified.

"Do you prefer to be addressed as 'Mrs.' or 'Miss'?" she was asked.

"I like the prefix of 'Mrs.' because it is more dignified. If people do not wish to address me as 'Mrs.' they can call me Helana Normanton, which I like very much. I think it is quite a good name for professional purposes, too. I have never given up by maiden name, and shall always use it with the 'Mrs.' before it."

Mrs. Normanton said that a woman who had made her name professionally or commercially was justified in using it. She added that Mr. Clarke, her husband, supported her claim to use her own name.

"Indeed," she said, "when I had the difficulty in getting a passport at the Foreign Office he would have legally become Mr. Normanton temporarily to help me out, but it was not necessary."

Mrs. Normanton, who is referred to in the English law courts as "our learned sister" instead of "learned brother," as the barristers are usually addressed, said that she had been treated with great courtesy by the Judges when she had to plead a case.

Praises English Judges.

"The Judges in the courts are a fine type of men," she continued, "and do not make any discrimination in their dealing with cases that come before them. The poor man gets justice, and when he wins a verdict against a rich corporation the latter has to pay and cannot swing the case from one court to another until the unfortunate plaintiff is ruined or dead.

"During the past fifty years the continuous law reports have done a great deal of good in doing away with the injustice and cruelty which existed in the early Victorian days. This will be realized 200 years from now when the people get the perspective and they will appreciate what has been done for their benefit during the past half century."

Mrs. Normanton has always taken a great interest in matters affecting the rights of women and their position before the law, and is an authority on the question of married women's property rights.

She is the Standing Counsel to the Women's Unionist Organization, a position held by no other woman in the world in relation to a political party. Mrs. Normanton takes a great interest in politics and has made speeches in England on the same platform with Lloyd George, Ramsay MacDonald, Winston Churchill and other leaders.

PRISON SHELTERS PRICELESS RELICS

Old Stockholm Prison Now Turned Into a Museum.

STOCKHOLM, Jan 9.—Once a jail for living villains, now a shrine for dead heroes, such is the change that has come to Oesternmalm prison, one of the oldest prisons in Stockholm, recently abandoned for purposes of criminal confinement and now being turned into a historical museum and depository for the royal archives.

Priceless documents now are filed on shelves in the former cells; relics of the stone age of Sweden are set up in the courtyard where prisoners once were given their exercise, and fine specimens of church furniture and decoration, together with historical treasures from all ages and from nearly every country in Europe, ar eon display in the larger halls.

The most interesting part of the collection in the Oestermalm building is an exhibit of skeletons of some of the 1,800 Swedes who fell in defense of Visby against the raider Valdemar Atterdag nearly 600 years ago. Many of the skulls and bones are still enclosed in chain mail, which is remarkably well preserved, and archeologists are showing keen interest in these skeletons in armor.

KOLCHAK SHOT WITHOUT TRIAL

Anti-Bolshevist Admiral and Gen. Pepeliayev Hurriedly Executed.

BODIES IN RIVER

MOSCOW, Jan. 9.—Vivid details regarding the execution of Admiral Kolchak and General Pepeliayev who commanded the anti-Bolshevist forces in Siberia and who were put to death by a firing squad at Irkutsk on February 7, 1920, are given in the memoirs of Sergius Tschoudnovsky, chairman of the investigation commission which sentenced the two leaders.

Tschoudnovsky relates that the execution of the officers became imperative because General Kappell's forces were approaching Irkutsk, where Kolchak and Pepeliayev were imprisoned, with the intention of rescuing the captives. The Siberian Revolutionary Committee accordingly decided that the prisoners should be shot immediately.

They were executed forthwith without trial, the memoirs state, and when the question arose as to what disposition should be made of their bodies one of the Red army officers replied:

"Treat them in the same way they treated workers and peasants at the time of their punitive expeditions. Throw them into the river."

Tschoudnovsky says that the members of the commission then repaired to the River Angara, cut the ice and thrust the bodies into a hole. The bodies were never recovered.

The Soviet Chairman describes how late at night he went to the prison to inform the condemned officers of their fate. He says he found Kolchak standing at the door of his cell dressed in a fur overcoat, apparently preparing to escape from the jail to resume command of the White Army. The writer says he read Kolchak the revolutionary commission's death sentence, and that the Admiral replied firmly:

"Why do you want to shoot me without trial? I demand to be heard in my own defence."

"Since when have you become a convert to shooting only by order of a court?" responded Tschoudnovsky.

The Soviet official then informed Pepeliayev of his fate. The latter did not take the matter quite as calmly as did Kolchak.

"Why do you want to shoot me?" he asked, agitatedly. "I've made my peace with the Soviets. I have offered my services to them in any capacity. I have addressed a petition for a reprieve to the Central Executive Committee. I beg you not to carry out this death sentence until the reply of the committee is received."

"The sentence must be carried out immediately," Tschoudnovsky answered.

From this moment until he was executed, the Soviet official says Pepeliayev continued to sob convulsively, pleading to be allowed to live.

When taken to the place where the death sentences were to be carried out, Tschmoudnovsky says, Kolchak asked to be permitted to see his wife, Princess Timirey, adding, apologetically:

"She's not really my wife; she's a good woman in charge of a laundry department for soldiers."

Tschoudnovsky says that although the gravity of the situation was great the soldiers laughed heartily at Kolchak's "joke."

The Soviet official states that he refused the condemned leader's request to see the Princess and orders were given to the firing squad to shoot. The two anti-Bolshevist leaders fell dead with the volley and their bodies were then thrown into a hole in the river's ice.

RIO PLANNING TO BUILD BETTER ROADS FOR CARS

Three-Quarters of the Cars in Rio de Janeiro Are Operated for Hire.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Jan. 9—Since an enterprising American concern started four years ago to sell automobiles to Rio de Janeiro chaffeurs on the instalment plan, the city has become overcrowded with taxicabs. Of the 8,000 machines in the city, nearly 6,000 operate for hire, and the owner-chauffeurs have constantly to work overtime to meet their payments.

Relief, however, for the hard working drivers is expected from another direction. At the present time the roads are so bad it is impossible to drive more than four or five miles outside the city with any comfort; hence long distance trips are unknown. A new and good road is being built to Petropolis, a summer resort 30 miles away, and by the end of 1925 there doubtless will be a fine highway running from this city to Sao Paulo, 250 miles to the west. These improved roads, it is believed, will make automobile riding so popular that thousands of new machines will have to be imported.

SOUNDS OF ANIMALS IS STILL A PUZZLE TO SCIENCE

Many Appear to Have No Biological Meaning, While Others Serve in Mating and for Protection—Song as Psychic Quality in Birds.

Man lives in an atmosphere of sound, much of it of his own making, a large proportion of it almost wholly incomprehensible to him. There is never in the universe a moment when the leaves are not trembling on their branches and the waves whispering on the shores. Nor is there an hour when some bird is not singing on its branch, an insect stirring, a fish swimming, a four-footed creature giving voice to its feelings.

Full of mystery and beauty are the sounds that come to man from the animal kingdom. The average human stops and listens, wonders and enjoys, then passes on his way. The scientist lingers and studies, eyes and ears alert, waiting for the cricket's chirp, travelling to the jungle that he may hear the howler monkey's chatter, frequenting the woods that he may learn the call of a bird, and even using a submarine listening tube that he may eavesdrop on the fishes.

Patient research has raised the lid a crack so that a faint inkling may be had of the meaning of the sounds that emanate from the animal kingdom. But to what extent the men of learning and letters have been able to interpret the language of animals and the noises they make and to fathom them it would be difficult to say, for it must be known that they are not wholly agreed among themselves. Have they a biological significance, and if so, how far-reaching is it? A question on which some admit their ignorance, and one which they are endeavoring to solve.

A discussion on the significance of animal sounds was held recently at the Natural History Museum, under the auspices of the New York Academy of Sciences, four of the leading scientists of the city taking part. Dr. F. E. Lutz, associated with the museum, spoke on the sounds made by insects. Many of the striking characteristics of animals and plants are of no use to their possesor, or to any other creature, in his belief.

"Whatever may be true of vertebrates, the significance of insect sounds is still an open subject and, while it is altogether probable that some of these sounds do have a biological significance, many of them have none, being merely incidental to structures that have arisen for some totatlly different purpose, or for no purpose at all.

"A large portion of the sounds made by vertebrate animals are vocal. Insects have no lungs, strictly speaking, and most of the sounds they make may, for want of a better term, be called mechanical." He explained that they produced such mechanical sounds in two ways—by striking two parts of the body together and by friction.

Sound Caused by Wings.

Honey bees and certain flies when captured seem to utter an exceedingly shrill warning note. For a long time it was supposed to be vocal, produced by the passage of air through a tube which runs throughout the body and which opens to the outside as a series of small holes sometimes provided with membraneous flaps. The source of the sound was not established until it was found that only when the insect's wings were pulled out of its body did it cease. It is now known that the shrill note is caused by the rapid beating of the wings against the body.

"It seems to me that this shrill sound about which so much has been written has no significance," said Dr. Lutz; "it is merely an incident to the extra-vigorous working of the wing-muscles under the excitement of being captured." There is a hypothesis that the bee warns its captor that stinging is about to start (a sportsmanlike trait!) and that the fly fools him into thinking that he is about to be stung. The enemies of these insects, the spiders, the toads and the frogs, pay no heed to the warning, if indeed they hear it at all. In fact, the toads and the frogs, making quick work of their prey, swallow them at one gulp. It is feeling rather than hearing that tells them whether they have devoured a bee.

Among the grasshoppers the males of a cetrain group hover over the females, serenading them by rattling their hued wings. Dr. Lutz who has spent hours in the hot sun watching the lady in the case, humorously remarked: "If human lovers received as little response to their serenades as do grasshoppers, most of them would either give up music or remain bachelors." Is she deaf? It has recently been proved that insects pay little attention to the sounds audible to human ears. Therefore, in Dr. Lutz's opinion, the ardent whispering of the grasshopper as he flutters back and forth may have no other significance than that of an incidental hitting together of his wings as he hovers to get the scent of the female hidden in the grass. He has, however, noticed that the wooer nervously twitches his long hind legs up and down as he descends to earth and approaches the object of his desire. This produces the second form of sound previously referred to caused by friction.

The most familiar of these to man is the chirping of the cricket. The male rubs a file-like rib of one front wing over a rough spot on the other front wing. If it is his mating call, Dr. Lutz has found, Mademoiselle pays little attention. "She may wave her antennae in his direction, but so will she when he is not chirping, and so will she at a stick or a stone." As for Monsieur, his adult life lasts but a month or [illegible], during all of which time he keeps up his merry chirp, spending little in mating.

Not even the silent depths of the sea are without sound, according to Dr. C. M. Breder, Jr., who is associated with the New York City Aquarium. In spite of the difficulty of studying fishes, on account of the medium in which they live, it has been established that they hear. "We also know," said Mr. Breder, "that many fishes are capable of producing sounds by various means, and it seems more than mere coincidence that fishes with definite voices generally have well-developed ears." He named as an example the Sciaenidae, of which family only the male is capable of producing a definite sound, done by vibrating a specialized air-bladed. This takes place, so far as is known, only in the spawning season.

"In so far as water is an excellent transmitter of sound," continued the speaker, "it is difficult to imagine that such noises as the fishes make are not of some direct influence, as, for instance, in the gathering together in schools and scattered individuals for the purpose of procreation. It must be admitted that we have no experimental evidence of this."

He advanced the supposition that the volume of sounds produced by the feeding of a great number of fishes might be sufficient to attract others, serving as well as a warning to those fed upon. And even the motion of swimming might, in the case of a large school, be compared in a way to the sound of a cataract, caused by the cumulative bursting of myriad bubbles. In the case of such fishes as use their eyes as primary sense organs — as most schooling fishes do—it might tend, when they are swimming at night or are making their way through muddy water, to hold the school together and to amalgamate it into a larger group. In the lower New York Bay Dr. Breder has seen two shoals of menhaden connect directly through the sewage-fouled water in a manner which suggested some such recognition.

Uses of the Frog's Voice.

Dr. Breder turned his attention to the amphibia, of which practically all are voiceless, with the exception of the frogs. Here again opinion differs, some believing that the familiar voice of the frog serves a definite purpose in bringing the sexes together, while others hold that the call is simply a product of exuberance. Dr. Breder in Central America had occasion to observe the romance of two frogs of the species known as Hyla rosenbergi. The male, who had descended from his arboreal home to a small pool at night, became aware of the presence of a female and tried to lure her with what to a frog may be sweet tones. She advanced. When they came within the range of each other's vision he ceased his music. Near by other males were calling. She moved off. In apparent concern the slighted one started to follow, then, thinking better of it, returned to his nest and began his calling da capo. She changed her course and, doubling on her track, entered his domicile from the rear.

Among the reptilia the crocodiles bellow loudly during the mating season. Lizards frequently seem voiceless but respond to sounds. Turtles seem not to hear in either water or air, and some snakes appear to be nearly deaf—even the rattler may not hear another's rattle, though he may be conscious of his own.

Of the sounds made by birds, Dr. Ludlor Griscom of the Natural History Museum said that they varied "from those of a most rudimentary kind of every conceivable state of complexity and variety. Most birds have a syrinx, and most birds apparently are endowed with an ability to hear which is particularly keen." He divided them into two categories —the call notes and the song.

Theories of Birds' Calls.

The call note is a language registering different emotions or conditions. It gives the cry of alarm, danger, anger, sociability, recognition and announces the discovery of food. It can be interpreted by humans and can be understood by birds of another species and even by mammals.

"For song," said Dr. Griscom, "no good definition exists, in spite of the fact that every one knows what is meant by it." By means of imitation and training the normal performance of a song bird can be surpassed. A mocking bird has been heard to imitate thirty-two species in ten minutes, and the jay and the house sparrow, which are normally songless, have learned to sing like canaries.

"With most birds," he continued "song is definitely associated with the breeding season, but some sing after the post-nuptial moult, others sing during the fall migration, and others sing practically throughout the year. Such cases are, however, rare outside the Oscines." It is among the Oscines that the finest songsters are found, though many of them are practically songless.

Dr. Griscom turned to the biological advantage and purpose of song. "It is generally established," Dr. Griscom said, "that every pair of birds has a territory during the breeding period, and that the males occupy it first. Song is an advertisement for the later arriving females, a notice to other males that this territory is occupied. Along with these is the stimulation to the female." (Which theme is carried out in detail in Howard's "Territory in Bird Life.")

"Another theory, the direct opposite to the last, has recently been well formulated by Professor Boker. He concludes that song has no breeding significance, but it is a product of the high psychical development of the birds, and that they do not sing when they do not feel well physically, or when special demands on their vitality use up their emotion in other directions, as for instance the cold of Winter. The relation between song and the breeding season is a concidence, due to the fact that this season is the period when physical vitality and psychic excitement reach their greatest intensity. While Bokers' studies and experiments are entirely accurate, they are based chiefly on a single species of birds—the chaffinch."

"No species of mammal is known to be voiceless," said Dr. H. C. Raven of the Natural History Museum.

Mammals have another method of making themselves heard. To all appearances they are able to communicate by so-called mechanical sounds. They pass a message along to their fellows by stamping their feet, by slapping their tails to the ground, snapping, grinding or grating their teeth, and are even able to make themselves heard by shaking and vibrating their skins.

The voices of the smaller mammals are little known to men because of their faintness, but certain studies have revealed that meadow mice understand each other's squeaks and respond to them.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

243 Rubidge Street,
Peterboro', Jan. 7, 1925.

Peterboro' "Examiner."

Dear Sir:—Permit me the use of your valuable columns to bring before our newly-elected City Council, a matter that concerns both them and the public generally, and that is the sale in Peterboro' of undrawn poultry.

Whether it be by farmers or merchants, we must admit that it is far from being sanitary, to allow the sale of fowl, chicken, geese, duck, or turkey, with the intestines left therein, and as we have not yet advanced to that stage wherein death certificates are issued for poultry, it causes one to wonder how long it might have been since any particular bird "last saw the light of day," and incidentally, has the odor of these intestines been absorbed into the flesh of the bird, which, for all we know, may have been hanging up in some farmer's barn for a week or two.

Who ever heard of a butcher hanging up a pig for sale with the entrails left therein?

Well, why do we permit it in poultry? Then there is the loss sustained by the housewife; she has to pay just as much for these intestines as she does for the edible parts, consequently many mothers are compelled to pass up poultry owing to the costs thus incurred.

How is it that in smaller centres on the lakefront only dressed poultry is allowed to be offered for sale, and then it is usually five cents a pound cheaper than it is here?

I am sure that the public would much prefer to see what they are buying in the way of poultry, and this would only be possible if our city fathers passed a by-law making it an offence to offer for sale dead poultry without it first having been drawn, and head removed.

I am equally certain also that the majority of women would prefer having birds already dressed for the oven, than to continue with present method of buying, cleaning, etc. Yours truly,

W. H. HOWARD.

Knox College, Toronto,

Editor, Peterboro' "Examiner."

Dear Sir: It has been drawn to my attention by one of your subscribers that in the January 3rd issue of your paper there appeared an account of an anti-union meeting held in All Saints' Church, Peterboro', on Friday evening, January 2, in which it was reported that:

"A student missionary from the Hall's Bridge circuit told of the peculiar circumstances there, the church and all having been lost. The majority of the members and adherents, he said, are opposed to Union, but do not know how to register their votes. The matter will be taken up by Rev. Mr. McConnell who said that unless a vote is taken the church automatically goes into Union."

Now the obvious impression created is (1) that the student in charge made this report. I wish to say I am the student in charge of the Hall's Bridge circuit and I was not in attendance at the anti-union meeting referred to in Peterboro' on the evening of Friday, Jan. 2. Who made it, no one has told me, but Dexchanged pulpits on Dec. 28 and Jan. 4 with another student, who spent his vacation in Peterboro'. He may have made the statement. If so, by speaking for the circuit, he exceeded his rights. I did not make the statement. Personally, I have not taken a public stand either for or against Union. I did not make that report, misleading as it is.

(2) Another false impression gathered from the newspaper report is that the majority of members and adherents on the entire field of three preaching points are opposed to Union and are being forced into it against their will. There are three points on the field, Lakehurst, Buckhorn (Hall's Bridge) and Rockcroft All three places have not been coerced by the Home Mission Convenor or by myself. Lakehurst, the strongest point in this field, is getting a vote. A Congregational meeting is being held to arrange for it. Lakehurst is, I believe, opposed to Union strongly. At Buckhorn and Rockcroft they have the opportunity to vote if they so wish. Nothing has been done by the Home Mission Convenor, Rev. P. L. Jull of Lakefield, or myself, to prevent a vote being taken. We have left it to the congregations themselves in these two places. So far I have not seen or heard of any strong desire expressed on the part of either Buckhorn or Rockcroft to have a vote, probably due to the fact that in these two congregations there are people of all denominations,—practically union places—happy and harmonious. Not a single member or adherent from either Buckhorn or Rockcroft has ever mentioned to the Home Mission Convenor the matter of a vote, or of any concern re Church Union. If they desire a vote, they have not expressed such desire very strongly or they would get a vote.

Trusting that you will give this letter a prominent place as it affects the field, the Home Mission Convenor and myself. I remain, very truly yours,

M. E. R. BOUDREAU, B.A.,
Student-in-charge of Hall's Bridge Circuit. In residence, Knox College, Toronto.

BRAZIL IMPORTS FRUIT FROM U.S. AT HIGH PRICE

Since Import Duty Has Dropped Quantity Has Increased 5,000,000 Pounds.

By U. G. KEENER.

RIO DE JANEIRO, (United Press).—The fresh and dried fruits trade in Rio de Janeiro has taken on the characteristics of a serious problem, despite heavy importation of North American and Argentine fruits, favored during the past two years by special exemption from import taxes, and the fact that Rio de Janeiro is the capital of one of the world's richest countries in the production of fresh and dried fruits.

With a view of assuring a supply of fresh fruits adequate to the needs of the population and at lower prices, the Brazilian Government two years ago exempted fruits from the United States and Argentina from import duty, which measure resulted in rapid increase of importations from these countries. The importation of fruits during the year following the adoption of the measure where more than 5,000,000 pounds greater than for the year preceding the adoption of the measure.

As a result of vastly increased importations of apples, pears and prunes from the United States, principally from the Pacific coast, and grapes and peaches from Argentina, prices for these fruits were lowered considerably last year and the Brazilian enjoyed for a while fine apples from Oregon and Washington, juicy prunes from California and luxurious grapes from Argentina. Before then he could only afford his native oranges, bananas and pineapples.

Something has happened this year, however, that has caused the prices of imported fruits to go back to the old level. It has been charged that the importers of North America and Argentine fruits have secretly combined with retailers to keep fruit prices up

With the ever-increasing exportation of native fruits, especially bananas and oranges for Argentine, the prices for these have also augmented considerably in the Brazilian capital city recently, and although there is no scarcity of tropical and semi-tropical fruits in this country the Brazilian is eating fresh fruits in ever-decreasing proportions.

FABLES ON HEALTH

Mr. Mann of Anytown removed his shoe, and gently touched the large toe on his left foot.

"Ingrowing nail?" queried the wife.

Flesh near where the nail touched the toe showed the slightest red tint. It was evident that as yet the pain was not severe.

"I have just read that powdered alum is good for ingrown nails," consoled the wife. "The instructions read to apply a formation of soap and water for 24 hours beforehand, and then pour the alum into the space between the nail and its bed.

"This should be tamped with cotton to keep the alum in place, and the application should be repeated daily.

"Sharp or rough edges of the nail should be removed. Sometimes the edges of the nail can be raised and held away from the flesh by a small flat piece of lint.

"Of course, if there is much soreness, the shoe should have the leather cut away from over the toe," she added.

STRAIGHT TALK ON ANAEMIA

Growing Son and Daughter Suffer Blighting Life.

AN EDUCATION

A liberal education is a fine thing; it helps us to understand the meanings of words and thus to clarify our thinking processes. Where this fails us, frequent reference to a good dictionary often plucks the heart out of a mystery. And we doubtless very often hear references to this or that person being anaemic without understanding what the term implies. Sometimes the anaemia has lasted months; sometimes it is blighting the life of a growing son or daughter. Here and there an older sufferer is under its black cloud. But more than that. So unnatural is the seclusion from sunlight and air of numbers of our fellow-citizens; so unwholesome are their conditions of living and sustenance; and so deep is their ignorance of everyday matters of health, that many, very many, sufferers from anaemia become but stunted human growths, denied of the bloom and flower which should crown all. And anaemia is derived from two Greek words which signify "absence of blood." Generally the term applies to cases where the quality of the human blood has undergone an alteration—for the worse.

The Little Red Cells.

Anaemia is, in fact, not a disease but a symptom. Certain forms have a significance which point to the presence of actual poisons in the blood-stream; other, and more prevalent cases, indicate serious deficiency in the nutriment supplied to the blood by the digestive apparatus—its own fault or that of its owner. Any cause which goes to starve the little red cells in the human blood is going to lower the health of the whole body. There is a great variety of causes from which they suffer. If we once understand how each little red cell picks up or entangles a bubble of oxygen gas as the blood passes through the lungs, we shall then realize how it is that the tissues of the whole body are kept warm and preserved from waste. That is the main work of the "red corpuscles." The white corpuscles have other duties, chiefly those of attacking disease-germs; but they do not enter so largely into our story—it is of the red corpuscles that the anæmic sufferer is generally short.

Sunshine Barring Environments.

Now, sunshine is the greatest enemy of disease and debility known to man. If we could ensure regular exercise in sunshine in the least possible amount of clothing, we should all be infinitely healthier than we are. We are learning the importance of sending the children out into the sunlight instead of locking them up for hours in the schoolroom. Unfortunately, we have not yet contrived a way of scrapping those accursed factories, offices and cells, far from the sun's access, where so many of our fellow-creatures work long hours in order to live. And worse—these same fellow-creatures have often been planted in such environment from equally dark abodes, and always at an age when they are growing and developing and making an enormous toll upon the building-up process performed by the blood. Small wonder is it, therefore, that this is—like its predecessors—an anæmic generation! that the cases which receive medical treatment number only a fraction of the sufferers from "bloodlessness."

In Early Womanhood.

The young girl suffers even more than the young man from one particular form known as chlorosis. Here we have too often the spectacle of an indoor life setting up habits which simply invite anæmia—lack of exercise (and wrong food), inducing and establishing constipation. Chlorosis comes, too, at a time when the change into womanhood is setting in; and Nature's courses are impeded and restrained. The greenish pallor, the palpitation and shortness of breath, puffiness sometimes at the ankles; the pale gums and lining of the eyes—all point to this "green sickness," which means blood impoverishment. Often the teeth are neglected and decaying, and the mouth dirty. This condition must be fought. And the medicines will be simple—plain digestible food (such as rough porridge, eggs, milk, butter, mutton), Epsom salts in a regular course, and iron.

Iron.

A word as to the taking of iron. It is a potent blood builder, and is contained in many foods; for instance, there is much in the yolk of an egg. But it is hard to assimilate, though needed in extra quantities in anæmia. Blaud's pills are a useful form, but they must satisfy these conditions: One dropped into warm water must soften and break down in a few minutes. The inside of one when cut must be dark green. Otherwise the pills are old and inferior—and certainly useless. They should be taken in increasing doses—three daily in the first week, after the several meals. Four daily the second week; and so on until some weeks have elapsed. Constipation may accompany the taking of iron, and must be regularly corrected. Constipation is a notable accessory of anæmia.

Dangers to Pass.

The younger people suffer, as we have said, from the general forms of bloodlessness. And these include the danger of heart and other damage through clots tending to form in the deteriorating blood-current. Particularly may trouble tending to form in the deteriorating in the legs thus be expected, and rest for several days should be ordered where continued leg-ache is experienced. Most anæmia troubles yield to rational methods and slight medicinal courses—they pass away as the stream of blood becomes renewed and re-invigorated. But as a spark may provoke a conflagration, so the anæmic sufferer with a predisposition towards some form of disease may "light up" with that disease—epilepsy, rheumatic fever, tuberculosis, for a few examples.

What Anæmia May Mask.

Long-continued debility or ill-health—chronic colds and sallow faces—the lips a whitey pink inside; these symptoms are an indication of anæmia. But attention must not be concentrated alone upon the machinery which manufactures the blood. In the adult, anæmia is often the sympton of serious organic disease—consumption, cancer, cirrhosis of the liver, and the so-called "pernicious anæmia." The seat of the trouble must be closely sought for. In complex cases of ill-health, where nothing apparently is wrong organically, a neglected and obstructed pharynx or unhealthy tonsils may be to blame. And a mouth containing foul stumps or unhealthy gums is the source of so much chronic debility—small wonder, with the germs of rot and decay unceasingly pouring into the system with the saliva.

BEAUTY PARLOUR SUGGESTIONS

How to Make Your Own Powder and Lotion.

Complexion Sachets.

Those who find ordinary toilet soap unsuitable for the face should try these sachets.

One-half lb. fine oatmeal, ½ lb. bran, 3 oz. powdered castile soap, and 2 oz. of powdered orris-root.

Mix well together, and put a tablespoonful into little muslin bags; tie with a piece of thread firmly.

Place one of these in the water, allow to soak for a few minutes, then use the bag as you would a sponge.

Home Made Complexion Powder.

Roses (strongly scented), violets, malmaison carnations or other flowers can be used for this, and, while a novelty, is also economical.

Gather the flowers when perfectly dry, and, after detaching the petals, put them into a wide-mouthed glazed jar with rice starch and orris-root to thoroughly cover them (in the proportion of 3 parts of rice starch, and renew the flowers every day for a week.

This is best done by emptying the contents of the jar into a coarse wire sieve and shaking well to remove the powder from the petals so that none be lost.

At the end of the week the powder will be fragrant with the perfume of whatever is your choice of flowers, and is now ready for tinting and putting into pots.

For the girl who can use a pure white powder no tinting is required. Show ho likes a pale pink powder can have this by adding a very little red coloring in powder form, obtainable from any chemist. Equal quantities of ochre, gamboge, and red give a pretty natural tint, which a rachael shade requires the gamboge in larger proportion. Remember that powder in bulk always looks darker than when applied to the skin. Pound the powder with the colorings in a mortar till perfectly blended.

Lettuce Cream.

This is a soothing cream for the face when tanned by wind or sun.

Scald a large lettuce, allow it to stand for a few minutes, and then pound to a paste in a mortar, and strain the liquid through a piece of coarse muslin. Heat 4 oz. of sweet almond oil and 1 oz. of spermaceti. Add the lettuce juice drop by drop, beating all the time. Perfume according to taste, and when the cream begins to get thick pour into jars.

Milk of Almonds.

This delightful lotion is useful for whitening the skin.

Take 3 dozen bitter almonds, blanch and pound in a mortar. Add ½ teaspoonful of castor sugar and ½ pint rosewater. Beat well and bottle.

Lotion for Wrinkles.

Boil 3 oz. pearl barley in a pint of water until the gluten is thoroughly extracted, then strain, and add gradually a teaspoonful of simple tincture of benzoin. Bottle and apple once daily.

To Prevent Wrinkles.

Don't dissipate your energies over trifles, or rush about in continual fever of excitement here, there, and everywhere.

Don't map out a daily programme for yourself and fret if it can't be overtaken.

Don't always have something on hand. Take an afte noon rest or nap regularly and you will keep wrinkles at bay.

Don't take yourself too seriously Relax limbs, muscles, and expression daily.

Don't sleep with your hand under the cheek, as it tends to wrinkle the skin, and don't let the jaw drop just as you fall asleep, as the habit is inclined to leave lines at the side of the mouth.

Don't lose your temper, because the loss of self-control depletes your nerves more or less, and scores another line deep on your face.

"TIGER WITH A MAN'S BRAIN"

How a Man-Eating Brute Was Killed in Burma.

Nine months' terror from the cunningest, most ferocious, man-eating tiger in the history of Burma has, says the Rangoon correspondent of The Daily Express, been ended by the Divisional Forest Officer of Magwe, who resorted to the desperate expedient of using the body of a woman, the tiger's twentieth victim, as bait. Entire villages had been deserted by their panic-stricken inhabitants, and a Government reward has been offered in vain.

The end came dramatically within a few hours after the "tiger with a man's brain," as it was called, had killed the woman in a forest village. When the body was discovered in the jungle the next morning the forest officer decided to let it remain where it was, and then and there built a platform in a tree close by. He took up his death watch alone on the platform when night fell, and, rifle in hand, in complete darkness, began his vigil.

Before daylight, the tiger, as he had foreseen, stealthily returned and grabbed the head of the body. The forest officer suddenly lit a torch and took aim by its light. The beast dropped dead at the first shot without moving an inch and with the woman's head still in its mouth. All doubts about the identity of the tiger were set at rest when a postmortem examination disclosed human fingers in the stomach.

The forest officer has set aside part of his reward money to provide a fitting burial for the woman, whose body was the means of ridding dozens of villages of a dreaded scourge.

CARE OF THE FACE

Wrinkles in the face are nearly always an unwelcome surprise.

There are several methods of delaying their appearance, and in some instances dissipating them after they have appeared, as Mrs. Mann of Anytown learned.

A person's general health must be given attention and the face should have a local stimulation.

Washing the face in cold water, and then rubbing briskly with a towel or the palm of the hand will do good service.

An excellent cream to rub into the face every night may be made of cocoa butter, one ounce; white wax, one-half ounce; spermaceti, one ounce; sulphate of aluminum, one dram; rose water, one ounce; oil of sweet almonds, one ounce.

BUDGET OF LIVE NEWS FROM THE OLD LAND FOR EXAMINER READERS

LORD BALFOUR AS THOUGHT "MEDIUM"

Tests Made With Professor Murray and Sir Oliver Lodge

HIS VIEWS

Wholly Unknown Method of Traversing Space Quite Unaccountable

The Earl of Balfour's experience as chief agent in a thought-transference experiment with Professor Gilbert Murray was described at a meeting of the Society for Psychical Research at the Steinway Hall, London.

"The experiments were held in the house of Mr. Gerald Balfour" (Lord Balfour's brother), said the president, J. G. Biddington, "and only two of the seven persons present had previously taken part in such tests.

"The circle of seven people were in the drawing room while Professor Murray was in the dining room, the two rooms being separated by another large one. When the subject had been chosen it was whispered to the company.

UNSUCCESSFUL.

"When it was time for Professor Murray to come into the room Lord Balfour's sister, Mrs. Sidgwick, summoned him. The first three tests were unsuccessful, and Professor Murray was anxious to stop. Then Lord Balfour was persuaded to act as medium.

"I am thinking of Robert Walpole talking Latin to George I.," he said, and Professor Murray was brought in.

"Something eighteenth century," was Professor Murray's immediate comment, and, seeing that Lord Balfour nodded assent: "I do not think I can get it exactly. Dr. Johnson meeting George III. in the king's library, but I am sure he is talking Latin, which I know he did not do. I do not think I shall get it right. Wait, I have nearly got it — eighteenth century, somebody talking Latin to the king."

WOMAN'S PAPER.

The society's meeting was held to hear Mrs. Henry Sidgwick's paper on "A report on further experiments in thought transference carried out by Professor Gilbert Murray."

Mrs. Sidgwick drew conclusions that these experiments in telepathy were not the result of hyper-nesthesia—the extension of the sense of feeling. In the discussion that followed Lord Balfour and Sir Oliver Lodge agreed with her.

Lord Balfour said that Professor Murray's experiments seemed to prove conclusively that there was a wholly unknown, unexpected, unconjectured method of traversing the space between two self-conscious organisms upon which neither theory of sound nor electricity nor any other theory at the moment could throw any light.

Sir Oliver Lodge said it was remotely possible that the vocal chords of the agents taking part in the experiments might disturb not only the air, but the ether, and that thus some kind of transmission akin to wireless telephony might be effected in a physical manner.

ARTIFICIAL SILK IS NAMED "RAYON"

Idea is to Eliminate the Word Silk in Describing Fibre

The Silk Association of Great Britain has decided to adopt the word "Rayon" as descriptive of the synthetic fibre hitherto known as artificial silk.

All producers and merchants have been advised therefore to adopt the use of the word.

It is stated in an official communication sent out by the association that it would be incorrect to use the word "Rayon" in connection with silk, the object being that, by eliminating the word "silk" the use of the one word "Rayon" as a descriptive term for all classes of artificial silk shall prevent the occurrence of cases of misdescription.

"Goods made from artificial silk should likewise be described as made from 'Rayon,' as, for instance, in the place of 'Artificial silk stockings,' the words 'Rayon stockings' should be used."

Santa Claus Falls Dead While Playing With Bath Children

John Maslen, aged seventy-eight, who was parading the streets of Bath for a firm of toy dealers dressed as Father Christmas, fell dead while romping with a group of school children.

He has been "Father Christmas" for the past three years. This year he left hospital in order not to disappoint the thousands of children, to whom he was a familiar figure.

His body, still in its festive disguise, was taken to the mortuary.

BIG WINDFALL FOR CHAUFFEUR IN WILL

Manufacturer Omits Brothers—Handsome Legacies to Bankers

Harry Evans, for fifteen years chauffeur to T. R. Clay, a member of a Liverpool firm of manufacturers, who died in October, has received a windfall of £10,000 and a motor car under Mr. Clay's will.

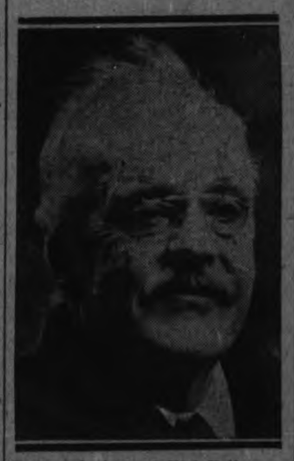
The will also provides for £10,000 each to Mr. Pullein, manager, and Mr. Owen, under-manager, of Lloyds Bank, Shrewsbury, and £15,000 each to Williams Neston, Liverpool, executor, and Dr. Woolward, Baschurch.

Mr. Clay's two brothers do not receive a penny.

HISTORIC SALE.

The Marquis of Granby, the Duke of Rutland's heir, has decided to sell his grouse moors at Longshaw, Derbyshire, which have been in the Manners family for generations. Haddon Hall is not to be sold.

Thought "Medium"



Tests and views of Earl Balfour on subject of Mental telepathy have aroused much interest in England.

MISSING WILL IN LINING OF COAT

Wife Made Discovery After Washing the Dog

HOLE IN POCKET

Deceased Was Receiver of Stolen Goods—£2,000 Estate

The discovery of a lost will in the lining of an old coat led to an action before Justice Horridge in the Probate Court, concerning the £2,000 estate of William Howes, a general dealer, of The Triangle, Clapham Park, who died on February 2 last.

Mrs. Howes, the widow and defendant, asked the court to pronounce for this lost will, dated October 2, 1923, under which Howes left her his estate, with the exception of three legacies of £100 each.

Mrs. Alice Elizabeth Skelton, the man's housekeeper, propounded a will dated January 15, 1917, under which she took the whole of the estate, with the exception of a legacy of £100.

Mr. Tyndale, for the widow, said Howes passed under the names of William Bridger and Smith.

Mr. Justice Horridge: Was he a receiver of stolen goods?—Yes.

Mrs. Skelton alleged that the will set up by the widow, was forged.

Twenty years ago Mrs. Howes obtained a justices' order against her husband, but in 1920 there were attempts at a reconciliation between husband and wife.

One of Howes' sons had been convicted of bigamy, and Howes said he was going to leave his wife his property.

A will, made in the kitchen of the house in Cherry Orchard street, Croydon, where his wife lived, left all his estate to Mrs. Howes, with the exception of £100 to Mrs. Skelton, £100 to his son, William A. Howes, and £100 to his son's wife.

For some time after her husband's death Mrs. Howes could not find the will. On June 28 last, however, she put on a dust coat to bath her dog. She was using a poisonous substance in the bath. The dog upset it all over her coat.

Mrs. Howes took the coat off and proceeded to wring it out with the assistance of another woman. As she did so she found that some paper had got down into the seam.

She pulled it out and saw it was an envelope. It contained the last will, which she took to a solicitor, where it was dried and pressed.

The Judge (holding the will): Then this will is saturated with poison?

Mr. Tyndale: Yes.

The Judge: Then I had better not handle it.

Mr. Tyndale handed up a photograph of the will, and Mr. Justice Horridge put the original will on one side and looked at the photograph.

QUEBEC ASKS FOR HASTINGS TROPHY

Escutcheon Taken in War of 1759 is Wanted Back

The Province of Quebec, Canada, covets a trophy which the Hastings Corporation, in spite of insistent demands, has refused to give up.

This is an escutcheon taken from the gates of Quebec when the town was captured in 1759.

General Murray, the first British Governor of Quebec, brought back the trophy and presented it to the Corporation of Hastings, of which he was one of the jurats.

COAT OF PAINT.

A Canadian officer stationed in the town during the war saw the escutcheon hanging over the door of the council chamber and demanded it back. Since then many representations have been made through various prominent men for its return.

Colonel G. L. Courthope, member for the neighboring Division of Rye, is now asking, in the name of Canada's leading men, including the Prime Minister of Quebec, for the return of the trophy, which, since it has been in the care of the corporation, has suffered from a coat of very gaudy paint.

The question as to whether the jealously guarded trophy should be given back will be discussed at the next meeting of the Town Council.

LOST REMBRANDTS BRING FORTUNE

Etchings Forgotten in Bank Sold for Over £13,000

$5,000 PRINT

Dealers Bid High Figures For Work of Dutch Master

When a young Worcestershire squire decided to look through some old family papers stored—and half-forgotten—in a local bank, he little dreamed that they would bring him a handsome fortune.

Among the papers were more than 300 Rembrandt etchings — the very existence of which was unsuspected by the art world—and at Christie's, the famous London sale rooms, half of them were sold for £13,237.

Collected through a period of 50 years by Edward Rudge, a J.P. for Middlesex and Worcestershire, and ancester of the present seller, J. E. Rudge, the etchings had, in many cases, passed from the memory of connoisseurs, though they can be traced to famous collections of the past.

HUNDRED GUILDER PIECE.

A few weeks ago Mr. Rudge brought his find to Christie's and asked for it to be catalogued. The present sale is the result. Some of the etchings bear the mark of old collectors such as John Barnard, who died in 1784, Sir Edward Astley, who died in 1804, the Earl of Aylesford, the Earls of Bute and the Duke of Buckingham.

A crowd of connoisseurs and dealers assembled at Christie's for the dispersal. The highest price — 1,100 guineas—was paid for "Christ healing the Sick" known as "The Hundred Guilder Piece," because of this price having been affixed to it by Rembrandt himself.

A similar sum was given for "Christ before Pilate," bought by Mr. Mensing, and for "The Three Crosses," also bought by Messrs. Colnaghi. Eight hundred and fifty guineas was paid for another copy of this etching, and 520 guineas for "Rembrandt Leaning on a Stone Sill."

Quaint titles were attached to some of the pieces, such as "Rembrandt with a Large Nose." "Rembrandt with an Air of Grimace," and "Rembrandt with an Open Mouth."

ROMANCE OF MAN WHO STRUCK OIL

Glasgow Man Returns from Argentine With Much Wealth

Eighteen years ago Andrew MacRae lived in a two-roomed cottage in Parliamentary-road, Glasgow.

Today three luxurious suites are being got ready for Mr. MacRae at one of London's biggest hotels.

He is returning from the Argentine, a millionaire, and the story of his quest of fortune is a romantic one.

In his first year in the Argentine he was with a party in the Comodoro Rivadavia district, drilling for water. Suddenly and unexpectedly oil was struck.

The Argentine Government immediately placed a reserve on 12,500 acres, but MacRae dropped his drilling tools and went exploring the country.

With £200, saved in Glasgow, he bought options on many square miles of land. Luck was with him; he struck oil easily and quickly.

Now, a millionaire, only 38 and still a bachelor, he is returning home with his sister.

Before travelling north for Christmas they will spend a few days at the Savoy Hotel, where three luxurious suites—one for Mr. MacRae, one for Miss MacRae, and one for their servants and secretaries—are being prepared.

Dust from Carpet In Tubercular's Room Kills Guinea Pigs

The dust of a carpet in a room occupied by a tuberculosis patient was collected, and to this 48 guinea pigs were exposed. Forty-seven of them died of tuberculosis.

This remarkable statement was one of many made by Sir Robert Jones (Director of Orthopaedic Surgery, St. Thomas's Hospital) in a paper on "The Problem of the Cripple Child" which he read before members of the Royal Institute of Public Health.

"A child crawling on such a carpet," added Sir Robert, "and placing its fingers into its mouth runs the risk of similar infection. It is pathetic to find that a kiss from a fond parent afflicted with tuberculosis has often sealed the fate of a child."

Milk accounted for 70 per cent. of the tubercular infection of bones and joints. This should not surprise us when we realized that about one in every ten specimens of milk supplied to our towns contained living bacilli of the disease.

"A veterinary surgeon," proceeded Sir Robert, "tells me that in a certain district of Wales tuberculosis is rife in dairy cattle; a low average would be 30 per cent., and in some cases the percentage is 100. The tuberculin test is not compulsory anywhere."

BIG WHISKY DEAL.

Buchanan-Dewar Limited, the big Glasgow distillery company, is acquiring the business of Peter Dawson, Limited, of Glasgow. The deal is reported to include stocks of whisky amounting to about £2,000,000.

From a quarter that is usually well informed The Daily Mail learns that this deal will not involve a fresh issue of capital by the absorbing company.

COPY OF PICKWICK ORIGINAL FOR £700

A copy of "Pickwick Papers," in the original parts, was sold at Sotheby's for £700. "Oliver Twist," in the ten original parts, brought £88.

An original copy of Ainsworth's "Jack Sheppard," in the original wrappers, fetched £52, and Surtee's "Handley Cross," in the 17 original parts, with all the wrappers, sold for £15.

They came from the library of the late E. H. Cox, of Stourbridge. A few months ago £1,400 was paid in the same rooms for "a superb copy of "Pickwick." "

Woman Cigarette Fiend Falls Dead From Heart Disease

Mary Ann Parfett, the young wife of a Belvedere pedlar, fell dead while dancing in her sister's home in Larcom street, Walworth, and the Camberwell coroner returned a verdict that her death was due to heart disease accelerated by heavy cigarette smoking.

The husband said that she had been an inveterate cigarette smoker since she was fourteen years old.

The coroner: How many might she smoke a day?—Seven or eight packets.

Perhaps forty cigarettes a day?—Yes. I told her it did her no good. She complained of pains in the chest.

The coroner: I don't wonder. She smoked more than a British sailor at sea.

FAMOUS FORCE IN DUBLIN DISBANDED

The Police Force Amalgamation Bill, which abolishes the famous Dublin Metropolitan Police, was introduced in the Dail.

This force will in future be merged in the Civic Guards, who replaced the old R.I.C.

The D.M.P. were, except for a brief period after the 1916 rebellion, an unarmed force, and were always very popular with the citizens. For a number of years they held the championships of the United Kingdom in the tug-of-war competitions, and, physically, had the reputation of being the biggest police force in the world.

LAVENDER CLASSED AS PERISHABLE

At Windsor Police Court a man charged with selling packets of lavender without a pedlar's certificate raised the defence that lavender came under the heading of perishable goods, and therefore did not require a license.

He cited a case which came before Mr. Justice Swift where a man was charged with selling a pot plant without a license. It was contended that the pot was not perishable, and the defence urged that the man sold the plant and ghve the pot.

The Clerk said it had been held by Mr. Justice Coleridge that lavender was a vegetable.

The Bench dismissed the case, and the defendant entered a protest for being kept in custody since Friday.

KINGSTON WOMAN PASSES 103RD MARK

Mrs. Fanny Hayes, of Kingston (Surrey), celebrates her 103rd birthday.

She takes a great interest in horse-racing—fostered during the 95 years she lived at Doncaster—and enjoys a visit to the theatre or a music-hall, but the greatest treat of her life came a short time ago, when, in the sidecar of a friend's motor-cycle combination, she visited Richmond Park. This was her first ride in a motor.

"I have been to heaven and come back again," she exclaimed on returning to Chatham-road, where she lives with her daughter.

GRAY'S ELEGY IS SOLD FOR £1,550

A first edition of Gray's Elegy, which was sold for 15s. and later realized £1,550, was referred to at Portmadoc County Court.

About a year ago Robert Owen, a quarry clerk, of Croesor, Merionethshire, unaware of its value, sold the book to a firm of booksellers for 15s. They in turn, it is understood, sold it for £470 to Sotheby's London, where later, it realized £1,550.

Owen entered a claim against the booksellers, but the latter declared their agent was unaware at the time of the purchase that it was a first edition.

Mr. William George, of Messrs. Lloyd George and George, said the matter was now settled by the payment of a sum acceptable to their client, Owen.

VETERAN OF FIVE WARS IN DISTRESS

Born in Quebec Barracks, Canadian Soldier Had Long Service

SELLS HIS MEDALS

Warns Workers in Old Country Not to Come to Canada

Veteran of five wars, a Canadian, 61 years of age, George Henry Coulter, worked his passage over to England as a deck hand on a Cunarder, in the hope of finding what he has been unable to find in Canada—work!

So far he has been unsuccessful and the only way to stave off actual hunger, he concluded, was to pawn his medals, says a reporter in the London Daily Herald.

"I am wanting, first and foremost, work—any sort of work," he said. "As the Canadian authorities won't assist their own, perhaps some humane Britisher will.

"I took the step I did in order to escape the Canadian winter, and to warn workers in this country against being persuaded to go to Canada, where there are still thousands of unemployed.

"In three years I have not had 12 months' work. I have walked 4,000 miles in Canada, and, last winter, without an overcoat. I had to go into police headquarters, with others, as a protection against the cold, as there are no workhouses. The cells are without comfort and unclean, and no food is provided. What condition, mentally and physically, is a man in for seeking work with such experiences?

"I had to offer my medals for sale over there once, as you'll see by this Canadian paper, because I was starving; but another ex-soldier, though he had a large family, gave me hospitality for awhile, and so put off the evil day."

Twenty-seven years of Mr. Coulter's life have been spent in military service. He has no pension. He was born in barracks at Quebec, his father having been a soldier.

Mr. Coulter has the Egyptian and Sudan medals, 1882-84-85 and 88, with bars for Tel-el-Kebir, El Teb Tanai, Suakim, Tofrek, and the Khedive's Star. He has the China medal for the Boxer Rising in 1900, the Relief of the Legations of Peking, and medals for the world war, having served with the Canadians in France, Flanders and Italy from 1914 to 1918, and with the Australians, on special duty from 1919 to 1921, when he was travelling between Australia and Holland.

Reward for Gold Salvaged from Liner Laurentic to Be Paid

Admiral Sir Sydney R. Fremantle, the naval commander-in-chief at Portsmouth, has expressed the Admiralty's appreciation to the officers and crew of the salvage ship Racer, who recovered £5,000,000 worth of gold bars and silver specie from the liner Laurentic, torpedoed off the west coast of Ireland in 1917.

One-eighth of the total value of the gold recovered from the Laurentic this year, estimated at £200,000, is to be distributed among the members of the expedition. In addition they received 2s. 6d. commission for every £100 of treasure recovered.

Admiral Fremantle stated that the medal of the Order of the British Empire, Civil Division, had been conferred upon various petty officers and men.

DOCTOR CONVICTED GETS SIX MONTHS

Neglected Duty as Medical Man Caused Patient's Death

Dr. Percy Bateman, of New Cross-road, S.E., was found guilty of manslaughter at the Old Bailey and Mr. Justice Shearman sentenced him to six months' imprisonment in the second division.

The accusation against Dr. Bateman was that by neglect of his duty as a medical man he accelerated the death of Mrs. Mary Ann Harding, aged thirty-three, the wife of the Deptford laborer, whom he attended during her confinement.

The jury considered their verdict for an hour and a quarter.

Mr. Justice Shearman, in passing sentence, said: I hope no one will think I treat charges of this kind with levity in giving a short sentence, but I appreciate what a crushing blow such a conviction is to a professional man."

Dr. Bateman is thirty-nine years old.

Woman's Pet Goat Is Subject of Debate In British Commons

The troubles of a woman and her pet goat which were mentioned in the last Parliament five months ago were brought to the notice of the Government in the House of Commons by Lord Apsley (C., Southampton), who asked the Minister of Agriculture, Mr. E. Wood, to take into consideration the matter of the goat belonging to Dr. Edith Leonard, of Southampton, which, with its kid, is not allowed to enter this country from Madeira owing to quarantine regulations.

Mr. Wood in reply said: The question of Dr. Leonard's goat was fully and sympathetically considered by my predecessor. I regret that the arrival on the scene of the kid could not be held to justify departure from the established principles of administration, and I am accordingly bound, as was my predecessor, to prefer the claims of protection against disease to those of Dr. Leonard's natural affection for her goat.

FABRITIUS WORK BOUGHT FOR NATION

A Fabritius portrait of a young man, dated 1654—the year the Master, with his family and his pupil, Matthias Spoors, perished in the Delft powder magazine explosion—was purchased for 6,300 guineas at Christie's for the National Gallery.

Fabritius was a pupil of Rembrandt, but the place of his birth is unknown.

The picture was the property of T. A. Brewerton, of Swinton, Manchester, and was left to him by his mother.

There are only four or five examples of Karel Fabritius's work known, for at the time of his death the artist was only 30.

SOME ODD NAMES OF ENGLISH PLACES

Some luscious place names are disclosed by the Index to the British Census of 1921, just issued by the Stationery Office, says the "Daily Chronicle." Fivehead with Swell, for example, is in Somerset; Dent de Lion, Each End, Monday Boys, Paramour Street, Wheelbarrow Town, Bachelor's Bump, Muddler's Green, Shover's Green, Poverty Bottom, and Waddles Wish are all in Kent.

There is a Roques Alley in Ely, a Hungary Bently in Derby, a Wrangle in Somerset, a Staylittle in Cardigan, and a Short Standing in Gloucester. But honors, probably still rest with the Land of Green Ginger, Hull.

ACTRESS BRIDE SETS NEW FASHION

Miss Nancy Atkin, the actress daughter of Lord Justice Atkin, set a new fashion in wedding rings when she was married in the chapel of Gray's Inn to John Eve, the son of Sir Herbert and Lady Trustram Eve. Her wedding ring was a circle of diamonds in place of the usual gold or platinum band.

Gray's Inn Chapel was one of the ninety chapels disqualified in 1754, and a special license had to be secured from the Faculty Office of the Archbishop of Canterbury before the wedding could take place. The bride is not yet twenty-one years of age. She will continue her stage career.

The girl's case was that of mistaken identity. A doctor's evidence favored her.

Over £3,000, all in half-crowns, was raised by the "Silver Ballot" for the completion of the Stoke Newington War Memorial. After payment of all expenses £1,200 has been left over for division among five local institutions.

Only Unhappy Women Smoke, Is Doctor's View

A woman becomes a smoker only when she is unhappy, in the opinion of Dr. R. H. Hofstaetter, a famous Viennese doctor.

"Smoking," he writes also in a new book on "The "Smoking Woman," "tends to make women look masculine. They lose all their feminine charm.

"Most women regard it as something smart. It affords them an opportunity to execute a surprisingly large number of playful and graceful movements.

STRIKING CHANGE IN BRITISH FACES

Sir Arthur Keith Says Modern Conditions Affect Body

LESS USE OF JAW

Failing Eyesight and Troubles of Stomach are Common

Vividly contrasting pictures of life in London today and on the savage site of the vast metropolis 10,000 years ago were drawn by Sir Arthur Keith, conservator of the Museum of the Royal College of Surgeons, when he delivered a British Optical Association foundation lecture at King's College, London. Pointing out that the fossil bones dug up recently at Trafalgar square were those of the great ox or aurochs, the stag and the mammoth, which were living in the Thames Valley towards the close of the Ice Age, 10,000 years ago, he said:

"We know that men were living at the same time as these animals over the future site of London, for flint implements lie in the same bed of gravel.

FAILING EYESIGHT.

Modern civilisation has placed our bodies under conditions which are altogether new to them. It is said—I think with truth—that our digestive systems show signs of breaking down under our dietary—appendicitis is rife, troubles of the great bowel and stomach are very common; our teeth are swept with disease. Our nervous system, in many instances, breaks down.

In a considerable proportion of our population changes are taking place in the bony framework of the face, involving a change in the size and shapes of the orbits — the cavity in which the eyes are lodged. The facial changes are attributed to a diminished use of the jaws.

What is happening to our eyes which are now overtaxed by near work? The answer returned by ophthalmic surgeons is that civilization is threatening our eyesight. They agree that all children are born with eyes fashioned for "distant" sight, just as are the young of wild animals.

When, however, we take a thousand British children and trace them from infancy to adult years we find by the end of the fourth year some ten or more of them will have lost the power of seeing objects clearly which are at a distance; by the age of 20 about 150 of the 1,000 will have become short-sighted or myopic.

We obtain approximately the same numbers whether we take children from the city or from the country, from rich homes or from poor.

He directed that the share of any beneficiary disputing his will shall go to the Children's Hospital, Birmingham.

Legacy of £230,000 To German Provided He Becomes British

Dr. Max Waechter, of Berlin, will come into a fortune of £230,000 under the will of his uncle, Sir Max Waechter, the London merchant and philanthropist, if he leaves Germany and becomes a naturalized British subject.

If Dr. Waechter and all his children fail to comply with these conditions the money will become a trust fund for the benefit of certain British charities in which Sir Max Waechter was interested.

Sir Max Waechter, who himself became a naturalized British subject in 1895, left £613,000. In his will he leaves £15,000 to charities, and all his other property to his wife during her widowhood. After her death or remarriage it will be divided between his son, Colonel Sir Henry Waechter, and —subject to the conditions referred to —his nephew in Germany. Duties will reduce these shares to about £230,000 each.

Dr. Max Waechter's renunciation of German citizenship must take place within ten years of the death or remarriage of Lady Waechter, and he must "establish himself in the British Empire."

CONTROLS WORLD'S BIGGEST STATION

Handles 295,000 Crowd at Liverpool Street Every Day

HALF CENTURY

Many and Varied Reminiscences of Official Now Retiring

"In over half-a-century's association with this railway, I think the development which has impressed me most of all has been the remarkable growth of London's suburban traffic."

George Keary, Divisional Superintendent of the L. and N. E. Railway, who is retiring at the end of this month, said this when recalling some of his experiences in a conversation with a reporter.

Mr. Keary entered the service of the Great Eastern Railway Company at Ongar in 1873 as a clerk.

In 1905 he was apointed chief station-master at Liverpool street, and in 1911 promoted to the position he is now relinquishing.

"Fifty years ago," he said, "a comparatively small number of London's workers lived any distance away from their places of employment, but gradually, as the old residential districts gave way to shops and offices, and builders began to realise the possibilities of the suburbs, more and more trains had to be put on the local services.

"During the last few years, however, the increase in the suburban traffic has been phenomenal.

"Nowadays," he went on, "we are handling about 295,000 people every day at Liverpool street and Fenchurch street stations, and as evidence that we have not yet reached what might be termed the crest of the wave that figure is a few thousands more than in the previous year.

"There is every sign that it will go on increasing.

"In my early days there was only a thirty minute service on the suburban lines, but now it is five minutes and in some cases even much less.

"The suburban service of the East End of London is the greatest in the world.

"Railway officials have come from all parts of the world to study its working."

Mr. Keary said that the travelling public were most considerate, and did their utmost to help the officials.

"It is one of the sights of London," he said, "to see the thousands of city workers going home at five o'clock. It is just as if the flood gates had been opened and a great tide of humanity poured into Liverpool street station.

"Yet there is little confusion, and the manner in which the people sort themselves out and are rushed to their homes is nothing short of a miracle."

Thirteen hundred trains run into Liverpool street station every day, and in the course of a year it is estimated that something like 76 million people pass through the station — a record which makes it easily the greatest station in the world.

Apart from the clerks in the huge offices which, with their corridors long enough for cycle races, remind one of the new County Hall, nearly 900 of the company's staff are required to manage the station.

And even this battalion is overworked by the public on such days as the Saturday before August Bank Holiday—the biggest railway day of the year. On that day in 1920, just over £20,000 was taken in fares!

During his time at Liverpool street Mr. Keary came frequently into contact with King Edward and with King George.

One of his happiest memories is of the wedding of King George and Queen Mary.

"I was not station master then," he told me, "but I had the honor of giving the signal which started the train taking them away on their honeymoon!"

CLYDE LANDLORDS TO LOSE £300,000

Notices Issued Declared Invalid—Sheriff Gives Decision

It was stated that the decision by Sheriff Menzies at the Dumbarton Sheriff Court, that all the notices to quit issued by the house agents to the tenants in Clydebank who refused to pay any increased rent were invalid, will probably mean that the whole of the arrears of rent in Clydebank, amounting to about £300,000, will be wiped out.

An agent said that this was due to the fact that they could not get a form of notice which would pass the sheriff. They had done their very best to do so, and it would cost about £50,000 to amend the notices already served.

J. J. Cormack, another agent, said the decision was one of the hardest blows the landlords and agents had yet sustained.

Further evictions of the tenants who were on rent strike were expected, but they were not attempted.

Death Ten Years After Accident in The Hunting Field

A verdict of accidental death was returned by Mr. Ingleby Oddie in the case of Esther Camilla Monro, who died from injuries received in the hunting field ten years ago, when her horse fell, and her spine was injured, and she was partially paralyzed.

Mrs. Monro was aged 29, and was the wife of Charles Carmichael Arthur Monro, an assistant in the Zoological Department of the Natural History Museum, residing in George street, Hanover Square, W.

Dr. H. B. Weir, pathologist, stated that death was due to the accident when the deceased fell with her horse.

CHURCH DID NOT APPROVE OF VICE

Says Recorder Geoffrion Is All Wrong in Position He Takes With Respect to Licensing of Houses.

MONTREAL, Jan. 8.—The fathers of the Church, quoted by Recorder Geoffrion, prominent Montreal magistrate, at the police inquiry as having spoken in favor of the toleration of prostitution, never counselled any such toleration, according to the evidence given this morning in Mr. Justice Coderre's court by Rev. Father Adelard Dugre, S.J., professor of theology at the College of the Immaculate Conception.

Recorder Geoffrion got his quotations from a work by Recorder Dupuis, and the latter got them from a book by Parent-Duchatelet, but an examination of the original writings of the fathers quoted shows that there was tion of prostitution in these passages, Father Dugre declared, and he cited St. Augustine, St. Thomas Aquinas, Lactance, and other fathers of the church, including several whom the recorder had not mentioned, to show that so far from the Fathers of the Church being in favor of toleration of prostitution, none of the fathers had said anything in that sense, and the whole trend of Church teaching was opposed to such toleration.

Tolerating Evil.

A quotation from St. Thomas Aquinas had been used by Recorder Geoffrion, to the effect that God tolerated certain evils lest something worse come in their place, and therefore human sovereigns should act similarly.

This quotation, the witness pointed our, was taken from a treatise on the question, "Should Infidel Rites Be Tolerated?" and argued that since God allowed infidels to exist in the world, Christian sovereigns should not tyr to suppress them, but should tolerate the practice of their infidel rites, even though these were not in accordance with good Christian ethics.

In Bad Faith

This thesis had probably first been taken by the philosophers of the 18th century to argue in favor of prostitution, but it was obvious that those who had so used it had done so in very bad faith.

Coming to a general consideration of the situation in Montreal, the witness declared that he could not approve of a trial of regulation of vice in the city. Firstly, it had been proved ineffective, as shown by the testimony of French sociologists, who found that it encouraged still greater evils, and did not reduce existing ones, giving rise of hideous orgies of indescribe vice, the degradation of minor children and the solicitation of respectable women, besides all the horrors of the international white slave trade.

Lower Birth Rate.

It also resulted in lower birth rate, neglect of legitimate marriage, the ruin of the family. The only real remedy for the vice evil, Father Dugre said, was the disciplining of the passions by individuals of both sexes.

He did not believe that complete suppression of vice could ever be achieved. But intimate collaboration between public authority and the private institutions, such as in the case of Catholics the Good Shepherd religious order.

Without being authorized to speak for them, he knew that they desired that the girls be left in their hands long enough to acquire a lasting impression. When they come in at first the patients are out of their senses. A year or two, at least, was necessary to bring them back to a sane point of view.

Back to the World.

They also desired the co-operation of some institution which would facilitate the passage of these girls from the convent back into the world.

On the question of separation of law from morality, the witness explained that while the platonic school required the law to make all men happy and all women virtuous, and the liberal school of Kank and Fichte, Spencer, Mill and Bentham, required the law to limit its efforts to restricting abuses, and preserving the laberty of every individual; the Catholic school took the middle course, that the immediate object of the law was to promote the material prosperity of its subjects, but its ultimate object was to promote the attainment by each individual of his proper end. Morality and law could hot be separated.

WIFE ON THE BENCH SENTENCES HUSBAND

When He Pleads For Mercy She Agrees to Give Him One More Chance.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 9. — A woman in Domestic Relations Court to-day sat in judgment on her husband and achieved what she said had been her ambition for thirty years. Pleas for mercy, however, saved the defendant from a prison sentence.

The woman told Judge MacNeille that her husband beat her and their seven children "every time he comes home drunk" and that she was tired of it. "Then, I'll let you sentence him,' said the Court. Assuming the Judge's chair on the bench and addressing her husband, the plaintiff said.

"Now, Joe, I am your judge. I've waited thirty years for this chance and now that I'm under the protection of this court, I don't fear you. You know you have treated me and the children badly and now I'm going to repay you. You should go to jail for life, but I think a year will be all right."

"Anna, Anna," pleaded the husband. "Don't send me to jail. I will take a pledge not to drink again. Give me a chance and I will show you my better self. Please, Anna, if not for my sake, do it for the children's sake."

"I will give you a chance," replied the wife, "but promise not to abuse me or the children."

The husband promised, took the pledge and was ordered by the Court to pay his wife $14 a week of his $22 weekly salary. He was placed on probation for a year.

The names of the pair were withheld by Judge MacNeille to save the children from embarrassment.

'Ghosts' Said To Be Appearing To Boy and Girl Cause Great Excitement In California Town

SANTA CLARA, Cal., January 9.—Students of psychic phenomena were evidencing interest to-day in an unusual case which has affected a boy and a girl in a family within the shadow of the Mission Santa Clara. They have been reported under the spell of an occult influence which sends them into nightly trances.

John Santos, aged 18, and his sister, Adeline, aged 16, last night, were reported to have been taken to the mission, where it is said they will remain until morning.

The parents have refuse l to permit them to be seen since the interest in their situation has extended beyond the community.

Neighbors, however, verified the report that for seven nights Adeline and John have asserted that they have been visited by apparitions.

The boy says he is under the spell of an old gray-whiskered figure, and the girl's visitant, according to her, is the ghost of an old familiar friend who asks that prayers be said for him.

The believers in their stories give the Poltergeist theiry of spirit operations as an explanation. This recognizes that the spiritistic influence operates through the medium of a child according to the recognized authorities.

Dr. Joseph Catton, San Francisco, psychiartrist, was called here last night by friends of the family, but was not admitted to the Santos home. He said:

"This community is a hotbed of religious enthusiasm and the condition of the Santos children was due probably to religious frenzy. Such cases are contagious and this explains why brother and sister swooned at the same time. Part of this hysteria was caught by the attending throng, which worked itself into a frenzy."

A FEW THOUGHTS ON THE PRESENT STATUS OF HUMANITY.

F. M. Dela Fosse

It is a common enough thing to hear people say that the world is better, morally, socially, intellectually, even physically, than it was seventy or eighty years ago and they point with pride to the efforts at reform that are being made by our religious leaders and at the victories achieved in many quarters by the advocates of social betterment. When such statements are made and we see our newspapers filled with details of gruesome murders, sensational divorce cases and rumors of war preparations in Europe and elsewhere we are tempted to ask ourselves how far they are warranted.

A few years ago the civilized world was thrilled with an account of the accomplishment by two Englishmen of the first successful flight across the Atlantic. They achieved their object but only by the merest chance. Enveloped by fog they kept on flying and discovered just in the nick of time that their machine had turned completely over and that it was carrying them head downwards within a few feet of the water. Is it possible that in spite of all the efforts of good men and women the airship of humanity is going the same way and, enveloped in the foggy pride of small successes, they have allowed it to turn upside down and are headed for the very destruction from which they are struggling to escape?

A man need not be styled a pessimist if he finds an analogy between the present condition of affairs and events that preceded former cataclysms in world history. Our knowledge of civilization only dates back some three or four thousand years, yet we know that man existed on the earth many thousands of centuries prior to those of which we have any records. Empires have waxed and waned and passed out of existence and all that remain of their glories are some scattered writings, and ruins of what was once beautiful architecture or sculpture. What reason have we to assume that we are better in any specific way than were the builders of those vanished empires? Physically, we may be larger than were our forbears but what advantage accrues to us thereby if bone and muscle have been developed at the expense of spiritual stature? Are we any further advanced intellectually? Science answers "yes", but although it has introduced many things that are of priceless value to mankind it has also been responsible for many that can be utilized for his detriment and destruction. Are we better in a social sense than were the generations that have passed before us? We have acquired more veneer, more magnificent ideas of living, and certainly more comfort, but magnificent surroundings and increased luxury have made us more indolent, more Sybaritic in our lives, whilst the veneer has helped to cloak, more or less successfully, the still breathing skeletons of virtues which were once well nourished and well cared for.

Optimists tell us that Science and Theology are walking hand in hand, whereas the truth is that Science is outstripping Theology by leaps and bounds. How could it be otherwise when the one is going straight ahead, whilst the other is breaking up into fragments that not only war against each other but turn on and rend every new cult that attempts to add its weight of doctrine to the disputations that are rife in the various churches?

Yet Christianity has existed in the world for two thousand years, and its teachings have become household words in countless scores of homes. It has done more than any other form of religion to alleviate suffering, to show mercy to the afflicted, to accord her rightful place to woman and to point out the path to right living and right thinking. It is such a good guide that if we followed its precepts in their entirety we would all be travelling rapidly along the road to Paradise. All the good that we at present enjoy we owe to its teachings and it is beyond measure pitiful that man's superabundant greed and vanity should keep him in the danger zone of unrest and darkness when he has the power to emerge into the pleasant pastures of peace and prosperity.

Sometimes, when I ponder over these things a feeling akin to dread steals over my soul. I see portents in the sky; they are written in blood-red streamers by aeroplanes battling in the "central blue"; I hear them in the ghastly crash and thunder of shells as, hurled through miles of space, they batter down the proudest monuments of national industry and civic pride. And I wonder if the analogy conjured in my mind will hold true and if we shall again become wanderers in waste lands and, like the Troglodytes of old, seek for shelter in crevices of rocks and in caves. But a brighter vision always comes to efface this picture of terror and despair. I see men, sickened of carnage, spontaneously throwing aside the sword and the buckler, roused to a consciousness of the plight to which the demon of greed has brought them. Such a thing would be no miracle, it would merely be the outcome of the application of common sense in our words and actions, inspired by the cogent arguments of love and fear. For we are living in a terrifying uncertainty which only Providence in its own good time can dispel. Two clear-cut analogies confront us. Shall we allow ourselves to be engulfed in a common ruin as has been the fate of so many vast social structures of the past or shall we rise superior to our weakness and be enabled to start on a course that will eventually bring us to a consummation of the glorious prophecy of Isaiah, "They shall not hurt nor destroy in all my holy mountain; for the earth shall be full of the knowledge of the Lord, as the waters cover the sea"—

In a few short years we shall be given the answer and unless we are awakened to a full sense of the tremendous issue involved, it needs no possession of the prophetic instinct to know what that answer will be.

Drinks Rum With His United States Onions

LONDON (By mail to United Press)—Peter Hey, 8r, night watchman at the Arlington Worsted Mills, Lawrence, Mass., stepped off a Cunard liner at Liverpool, shook hands with the folks and asked whether good Jamaica rum is still obtainable in these parts.

Thirty-four years ago after having been a policeman in a country town in England for fifteen years, Peter Hey decided to try his luck in America. He has never regretted it.

"This is my sixth trip back to England," he said. "I like being a night watchman. Ican save a bit of money at it and so I salt it away until I have enough for a long trip, and then I take a few months off and enjoy myself.

"The reason I'm asking about that Jamaica rum is that it goes fine with onions," he continued. "I still have three American onions in my suit case. I had a lot more when I started, but I ate most of them during the trip. Onions and walking keep a man young. A night-watchman has a fine chance at both. In fact a night-watchman, during a good onion year, is what the Americans call 'sitting' on top o' the world.

A SHORT COAT

Coats for spring are to be shorter, evidently, judging from this charming advance model. It is of white cashmere with a painted border in a conventional design, as well as bands of soft white fox. It is lined with scarlet crepe de chine.

POWDER BLUE.

Much powder blue, especially if crepe or organdie is seen at the smart restaurants It is combined very effectively, too, with black or white.

PETERBORO AT THE MOTOR BOAT SHOW

Considerable Interest Taken in the Peterboro Lift Lock.

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—The best exhibit of the Trent Waterway ever secured by the Trent Waterway Development Association is now being shown at the Grand Central Palace, New York, in the National Motor Boat Show. A greater attendance than ever is expected by the show management.

The exhibit, with the exception of that of the Peterborough Canoe Co., is the only Canadian exhibit here.

The exhibit is in charge of Mr. Alex. Kay, of the Trent Canal office representing the Department of Railways and Canals, which forwarded the major portion of the exhibit.

The live fish, small-mouth black bass, lake trout, rainbow trout and sturgeon, forwarded by the Dept. of Game and Fisheries, Provincial Government, in their new home, the glass tanks supplied by the New York Aquarium are evidently aware that they must look their best for the American's benefit, being as shiny and full of life sufficient to tempt the spectators to hook a few.

The maskinonge that were secured early in December by the Department evidently felt that they would rather die than demonstrate that they could live in American water.

The working model of the Hydraulic Lift Lock, Peterborough, is operating twelve hours a day, and is a real novelty to even engineers, some even questioning whether such a lift lock is in operation, until shown the enlarged photograph of the lift lock itself.

Many visitors have already signified their intention of cruising the Trent Waterway next summer, and others will come by motor and train secure their fishing licenses and try their luck at securing as large specimens as those shown at the exhibit.

The National Motor Show is being held during this week in the Armouries, and a large sign informs them that touring information for Ontario is supplied at the Grand Central Palace.

The Canadian National and Canadian Pacific Railways are distributing literature of this district at the exhibit.

Mr. G. K. Fraser, President and Mr. Leon Fraser, Secretary, are representing the Trent Waterway Development Association.

CHEMIST SHOOTS GIRL INSTRUCTOR

He Then Kills Himself in House of the University of Wisconsin.

Due To Unrequited Love.

MILWAUKEE, Jan. 9— Infuriated because his love was not returned F. X. Bernard of Hibbing, Minn., a native Corsican, to-day shot and probably fatally wounded Miss Lora Palmer, 28 years old, a University of Wisconsin instructor in Romance languages.

A moment later he turned his revolver on himself and blew out his brains.

Miss Palmer, who is a resident of La Crosse, was shot twice through the abdomen and is expected to die. Physicians have removed one bullet and iwll attempt a blood transfusion before trying to probe for the other, which pierced her stomach and intestines and lodged in her back.

"Moral; Never trifle with a man's love."

This was what a note in a coat pocket of the dead man said. There were no witnesses to the tragedy.

A maid admitted Bernard to the French House shortly after 9 a.m. and summoned Miss Palmer. A few minutes later four shots were heard and an attendant rushed into the room to find Bernard dead and the girl unconscious. The wounded girl regained consciouenss long enough to mumble; it is said,

"I helped him and he fell in love with me, but I could never make up my mind to marry him."

Miss Palmer first met Bernard at Hibbing, where she was a French instructor at the high school. Bernard was divorced and had two children. She helped Bernard to study French.

Later Miss Palmer was awarded a scholarship and went to Europe to study, returning to accept the instructorship at the university.

An angle of the tragedy came from Superior, where Bernard's divorced wife was informed of the deed.

"He was here last Sunday and asked me to return to him," said the ex-wife. "I refused and he showed me a picture of a girl he carried in his pocket."

" 'She's gone back on me. I'm through with her," she is said to recall as his words.

Bernard was a chemist for the Oliver Iron Mining Company in Hibbing. He left Saturday to visit his "sweetheart in Madison," he is reported to have informed friends.

District Attorney Philip La Follette ordered a search of the man's pockets following the shooting.

Twelve letters written by Miss Palmer were also found, and a letter written by Bernard intimating that Mrs. Cora L. Palmer of La Crosse, mother of the instructor, was opposed to the marriage he sought.

ZERO TO GIVE IDLE A FRONT TO GET JOBS

To Open Club in Church Where Men Can Bathe, Shave and Mend Clothes.

New York, Jan. 9.—Urbain J. Ledoux announced yesterday that the Rev. Charles L. Clist, a retired Congregational minister of New Brunswick, N.J., had offered himself, a Ford truck and a 125-acre farm in Ulster County to the cause of the unemployed. Ledoux said the offer had been accepted and that Mr. Clist would be placed in charge of the Camp Memorial Congregational Church, Chrystie Street near Delancey Street.

A "front factory" is to be established, in the Camp Memorial, said Mr. Zero, where the homeless unemployed after " a night on the floor of a mission" can be cleaned, barbered and refitted for the day's quest of work. Good "fronts," said Ledoux, were half the battle for jobs.

The Rev. L. Ernest Sunderland, Superintendent of the Protestant Episcopal Citiy Mission at 38 Bleeker Street, supported in some degree Ledoux's charges that many unemployed were without shelter in this city. Mr. Sunderland reported that about 200 homeless and workless men applied weekly to the mission for aid.

The offer of Mr. Clist was in a letter to Ledoux, giving the clergyman's address as Post Office Box 422, New Brunswick. He followed the letter in person and called on Ledoux at his home, one room at the rear of 26 St .Mark's Place, on Christmas Day. The minister is a union carpenter and a union printer as well as a farmer. Ledoux sent the following messsage to Mr. Clist yesterday:

"If you are ready to lose everything in order to gain all, come immediately."

Includes Equipment for Work.

Mr. Clist, who is 60 years old, told Ledoux that he had studied for the ministry at the Congregational Seminary at New Brunswick, but after ordination decided that his vocation did not give him sufficient scope to express his ideals of good-doing. He said that his farm was heavily timbered and that in addition to the Ford truck he proposed to turn over a carpet and rug weaving loom, carpenter and cabinet makers' tools, small printing press and a delivery car.

Informed that Dr. Walter R. Rollins, locally in charge of Congregationalist affairs, knew of no agreement whereby the church was to be turned into a social centre, Mr. Ledoux said that he had an agreement with Maurice Preisch, President of the New York State Congregational Conefrence, Inc. Mr. Preisch is a lumber dealer of Buffalo, N.Y.

"We plan to serve breakfast to the men," said Ledoux, "and to give them tobacco at night. The charge will be 10 cents for breakfast and smokes. We shall have newspapers there and try to make it a regular club. A tailor will be on the job to repair clothing. The homeless men have no place to go for entertainment at night. The only place that welcomes them is the 'speak easy.' It is going to be a tussel between the 'speak-easies' and Camp Memorial as to which gets the men at night. We think we are going to win. The name of the place, incidentally, will be 'The City of Comrades.'

"A dozen safety razors will be available every morning for those who care to shave themselves.

"The barber will look after the others. Shoes will be mended also. We plan to list jobs for the men and to send them out to them looking presentable. Every night I shall offer a prize for the best story of the road. Every morning 875 unwashed men are turned loose in the city. The Doyers Street Mission sends out 350, while 175 come from the All-Night Mission at 8 Bowery, and 350 from Hadley Rescue Hall. We'll wash 'em up."

Says "Sharks" Get Pay Tickets.

Ledoux said that virtually all of his band had found transient work shovelling snow. He renewed his charge that snow shovellers were falling victims "to sharks, who buy up their time tickets at half value." Investigators who mingled with snow shovellers yesterday failed to find any evidence of an organized effort to mulct the men out of their tickets. Zero said the men sold the tickets because they had to wait four days for the city to pay them.

"Lieutenant James Gegan of the bomb squad," said Ledoux, "might well go after the wolves instead of the lambs. If he wants to be fair, why doesn's he get these men who prey on the snow shovellers by buying their time tickets at much less than their worth, instead of harassing men who are trying to earn an honest living?"

Raymond Martel, Jack Plunkett and "Chief" Weldon, the trustees who bought The Tub, Ledoux's basement restaurant, at 33 St. Mark's Place, asked the public to help provide clothing for the snow shovellers.

"Most of the unemployed," said Martel, as spokesman, "who have found work with the snow removal gangs are badly in need of clothing. They have no rubbers, their shoes are generally worn through on the bottom and their clothing is ragged. They have no money to buy new clothing, and if the people of New York will donate any old rubbers, shoes or clothing these men will be able to keep dry and escape illness."

It developed that The Tub was going through a financial crisis. Most of the men who have been eating there at 5 cents a meal are out with the snow gangs and are eating near their work. Plunkett, as chief trustee, reported the treasury down to $3 yesterday.

"Approximately 200 homeless and jobless men are applying at our doors each week for help," said Dr. Sunderland. "Of these probably 40 per cent. are young men who have come into the city in search of better opportunities than their home communities afford and who now find themselves stranded.

"Another 40 per cent. are of that older group who, through dissipation or long periods of privation, are in no shape at the present time to obtain jobs without help. They need to be completely re-clothed, to be assured of the security of a roof over their heads and food in their stomachs; and in many cases they need to be taught a new trade or vocation.

Many Fresh From Prisons.

"The third group, amounting to about 20 per cent. of the jobless applicants, are men just out of prisons or hospitals, who are referred to us by our chaplains in the city institutions. These men are coming out from periods of confinement, usually with little money and with unseasonable clothing. These, too, need to be staked to a new outfit and the security of at least a few days' living while the right job, or any job, is secured.

"At present we are able to send a small percentage to our Good-will Shops, where they are put to work repairing and restoring discarded furniture and clothing. But we are able to find work for only about 10 per cent. of those who apply, since our shops are as yet very small and most of the jobs open elsewhere cannot be accepted by the jobless men, or even applied for. Several things are responsible for this.

"The chief difficulty lies in the fact that most of these men have not the means to live until the first pay day, after they do find a job. Often, too, the jobs advertised are in distant parts of the city. Many of them have been trying to walk to these places for want of subway fare. By the time they have covered ten miles of paving, however, they have usually found that the job has been given to some one else. When they come to us, many of them have neither feet in their stockings or soles in their shoes. We try to supply as much clothing as we can and to give them the temporary help of a meal or lodging. But thus far we have been able to do this, for only about 50 per cent. of those who call upon us.

"If the Goodwill Industries in New York, which carry the endorsement of the Federation of Churches, were equipped as they are in Boston, we could send all of these men there and know that they would be taken care of while they were getting on their feet and getting something better. In Boston, where the Goodwill Industries cover an entire block, they were able to solve Mr. Ledoux's problem for him.

"It is the churches' business to help in the solution of the unemployed problem. The Goodwill idea of giving a man a chance to learn a new trade and of paying him during his period of readjustment, is the constructive way in which the churches can help. It is our hope that the New York shops may soon be equipped to do just this thing."

JOHN A. M'KONE TO LEAD BOARD OF EDUCATION

Popular Member, Returned Twice by Acclamation, is Now Chairman.

THREE INITIATED.

J. F. Strickland, E. F. Reed and W. R. Turner, Jr., Take Their Seats.

John A. McKone, who has twice been returned to the Board of Education by acclamation, was last night elected chairman of the 1925 Board. The three new members, W. R. Turner, Jr., J. F. Strickland and E. F. Reid, presented their credentials and took their seats. No appointment has been made by the Separate School Board, the secretary reported. There has been no representative of the Separate School Board on the Board of Education for some years, although his place is always reserved at the Board table and his position on various committees remains open.

A nominating committee, consisting of the old members, drew up the following slate for standing committees, and it was adopted as presented.

Finance Committee.

Mrs. W. R. Morris, chairman, W. R. Turner, Dr. J. J. Craig and the Separate school representative.

Property Committee.

Dr. J. J. Craig, chairman, Dr. H. M. Yelland, E. F. Reid, Mrs. W. R. Morris.

Supervision Committee.

E. B. Fowler, chairman, J. F. Strickland, Dr. F. C. Neal and Dr. H. M. Yelland.

Committee on Appointments.

Dr. F. C. Neal, chairman and the whole Board.

Advisory Vocational.

James Dutton, G. A. Gillespie, W. A. Richardson, F. J. Gandy, Geo. A. MacDonald, W. E. Currie, J. A. McKone, E. F. Reid, E. B. Fowler, Mrs. Morris, W. R. Turner, Jr., and the Separate school representative.

Convention.

The Urban School Trustees Association opens its convention on February 24 and Mrs. Morris was delegated to attend, as a representative of the Board. Other members may go if they desire.

Grants.

H. R. H. Kenner asked that grants of $200 for science equipment, $200 for additions to library, and $50 for art supplies. The request was granted.

Compliment Students.

E. B. Fowler suggested that the Board might write through, Mr. Kenner to the young people who conducted the recent dance, congratulating them on the efficient and orderly manner of its carrying out. His resolution was passed.

Meet Inspector.

Mrs. Morris thought that the Board should meet the High school inspector on his visits to Peterborough. The Public school inspector is expected, she said, to attend all meetings of the Board, and there should be some contact between the High school inspector and the Board.

HOPE FOR BACHELOR GIRL.

(By Cynthia Grey)

Any woman can marry any man she wants to marry.

This is said in a low, calm voice, as a simple truth.

First of all, she must flatter him.

For beauty and wit haven't a chance compared with the art of a raw compliment.

And feed him.

For all the charm in the world goes down before the vulgar appeal of onion soup and a sizzling porterhouse.

And above all, LISTEN to him.

For a man is like a radio, whose function is to make a noise. And he has just about as much use for a talkative woman as a receiving set has for one.

IMPROVED TENSION LOOM IN CANADA

Invention Tested in the States Sold for $37,500—An Automatic.

Numerous advantages are claimed for a patent improved tension loom of which the inventor is Mr. William Gledhill, who has recently returned to England from Canada and the United States. The patent, it is stated, enables a better quality fabric to be woven, with fewer breakages than usually experienced and in addition ensures increased production.

While overseas, Mr. Gledhill disposed of his patent rights in Canada and the United States for $35,000 plus a royalty of two dollars per loom, but he has retained his British rights, for the development of which the Gledhill Automatic Loom Application Co. Ltd. has been formed.

Automatic.

In the course of an interview, Mr. Gledhill stated that his patent had been subjected to various tests in cotton mills in Canada and the United States. The principal test was made at the Dominion Textile Co.'s Mount Royal Mill—one of the largest concerns in Canada. In America he was told that from the loom used an output was obtained of 102 per cent.—on the face of things an arithmetical absurdity. It was explained, however, that the result was secured by running the looms on the automatic principle during the hour that the operatives were at dinner.

Mr. Gledhill was invited to test his patent in competition with American looms, and succeeded in increasing the output by 3 per cent. Moreover, the cloth produced was strictly accurate in width and showed an increase in length from cut mark to cut mark.

The general adoption of the patent by Lancashire manufacturers would, it is claimed, result when all available machinery was running in an immense increase in the weekly output, and this, too, without additional effort by the weavers or loom fillers. Indeed, it is declared that the use of the patent would mean less work for both.

Mr. Gledhill, who is the son of a farmer, was at one time employed in a paper mill and a few years ago embarked on the manufacture of paper packing discs—formerly a German specialty—used in connection with the ginning of cotton.

FRANK FAIREN WAS GIVEN A FAREWELL

Valued Member of Staff of Trent Canal in Peterborough for 27 Years.

Severing his career with the Trent Canal Office in Peterboro after twenty-seven years' service, Frank Fairen has left the officers and staff appreciative of his good work. He was on the canal work when it was a very small concern, saw some good days and some hard days in its early period, and grew up with the enlarging concern.

At a gathering of the staff, James Garrow had the honor of presenting Mr. Fairen with a gold signet ring bearing the device of the Knights of Columbus, while the following letter was read:

Peterboro, Ont., Dec. 31, 1924.

Dear Sir,—As you are to-day severing your connection with the Department, I cannot let it pass without expressing our regret at the loss of your services.

After such a length of service with the Department in varying capacities, we feel that your experience and knowledge of the work is such that your retirement will leave a very definite gap in our organization which it will take a long time for your successor to fill.

After twenty-seven years of faithful and conscientious service you are certainly entitled to any consideration you will receive, and I trust you may be spared for many years to enjoy your leisure.

I want to assure you that our whole staff regret your retirement, and we will at all times be happy to have you drop in upon us. This, I am sure, applies to the men on the works as well as the office staff.

With kind regards and best wishes, I remain, yours truly,

A. L. KILLALY,
Superintendent.

NEW, YORK, Jan. 9. — Hitch a hobby to humor and you'll have a team that hauls you a long way down the road of life!

Substitute mirth for medicine and laugh your way to longevity!

Such are the prescriptions of the Hon. Chauncey M. Depew, disciple of cheer, who approaches the age of 91 with a hearty zest for life that finds expression in daily attention to business affairs, and active participation in national politics.

At 10.30 each morning this "grand old man" of American politics and business may be found in his comfortable swivel chair, looking down upon the world from the sixteenth floor of the New York Central Building where he occupies an office marked "chairman of the board". He enjoys this panorama of life; the boat traffic on the river; the riveters swinging precariously from their steel girders at the tip of a rising skyscraper; the colorful ants running and crawling below.

CHAUNCEY M. DEPEW.

"Keep in close contact with the things that interest you, if you wish to cheat age," he warns, with solemnity in his voice and a twinkle in his eye. There is a long, telltale cleft in his upper lip that continuously betrays the humorist, no matter how serious he may seem.

Certainly his interests are unflagging at an age when most men of his years are either retired or invalided. Politicians seeking his advice, matters concerning the railroad, mail to be opened— his is a busy day.

Interest in Humor

Around his office are scores of books, selected with a great catholicity of taste; histories of all nations, "Heart Throbs," nearly everything that ever was written on humor or wit.

Hung in the waiting room, where all may see, is the carefully framed evidence of how even a "wise guy" can be a victim of smooth workers. A series of letters and bills tell the story of how Depew was separated from $500 in a certain fake biography deal.

"Learn to laugh to yourself," he moralizes. "People take themselves too seriously. It's a mistake. If the joke's on you appreciate it as much as if it were on the other fellow. It's hard, but once you learn you're a better man."

It has been related that in his long and full life the railroad magnate and former senator has never learned the taste of medicine.

"I always did figure that I'd rather have a good laugh than a dose of castor oil," he says. "I guess you could measure what I've taken with a thimble.

"Now for dyspepsia and insomnia take a good sense of humor. Here are two of men's greatest troubles and the breeders of all sorts of other difficulties. Ill humor is a frequent cause of both. Give me five minutes with a man and I'll tell you whether he will live to see 95. I can measure his longevity by his laugh.

Mix Hobby and Work

"Get a hobby! Don't make any difference what it is—anything from politics to spiritualism. Mix your hobby with your work. Run to it when your work is through. It will relax you and amuse you.

"Old age is relative. I know men of 30 who are older than I.

"My grandfather died of worry and so did my father. I was traveling the same road when humor saved me. There is no doubt about it; ability to enjoy a joke prolongs life.

"Treat your stomach well. Don't eat what you like; eat what likes you. Few people enjoy the same recreation. Mine has been public speaking."

If Depew considered his speaking a mere hobby, a large percentage of the public disagreed with him; his after-dinner talks were considered an art. As a story teller he achieved international reputation.

It has been said that he might have been president but for his unfailing sense of humor, and this makes up one of the famous anecdotes concerning him.

He spent a day with Garfield at his home when he was on a most serious campaign. He tells the story something like this:

"One time he turned to me and said, 'Chauncey, you might be president if you'd quit your everlasting funny stories,' and I turned back to him and said: 'Then I'd rather not be president.'

People Distrust Joker

"But there was considerable truth in what he said, I think. The great mass of people will not place its trust in a joker. Once he is elected they like his sense of humor, but not before the election. They think he isn't sufficiently serious."

Also Depew believes that contact with the younger generations is a most stimulating exercise, for those who would keep young-minded.

His famous advice to a young man starting out in life is: "Stick dig and save."

BURNS' LAST POEM TO MISS JESSIE LEWARS

Epistle Found in New Zealand is of Much Importance.

An unpublished poem by Robert Burns, written on his death-bed, supposed to be his last work, has been discovered in Waikomaiti, Otago, a remote settlement of New Zealand. It was found among the effects of the late Mr. Donald Grant, and news of the discovery has been received by Mr. Grant's relatives in Scotland. The poem is addressed to Miss Jessie Lewars, who attended the bard in his last illness while his wife, Jean Armour, was in a poor state of health. Burns expressed in verse his gratitude to her about five or six days before his death. Miss Lewars was a native of Dumfries, Scotland, and a neighbour of the poet's family. Her brother was a fellow exciseman with the poet. Miss Lewars, who later in life married a Mr. Thomson, was possessed of many verses written by the poet, and these she handed over for inclusion in his published works. This particular poem was withheld and found its way to New Zealand. Miss Lewars probably regarded the verses as a last tribute from her friend too precious to share with the world. They include the following:

To Miss Jessie Lewars.

How often in the dreary night,
I clasp my burning hands
Upon those throbbing, sleepless lids
O'er eyes like glowing brands,
And wonder in my weary brain
If haply, when I'm dead,
My old boon friends, for love of me,
Will give my bairnies bread.

Oh, did the poor not help the poor,
Each in their simple way,
With humble gift and kindly word,
God pity them I say.
For many a man who clasped my hand,
With pledges o'er the bowl,
When the wine halo passed away,
Proved but a niggard soul.

Oh, wilt thou gang o' nights, Jessie,
To my forsaken hearth
And be as thou hast been to me—
The truest friend on earth?
Sae sweetly in your linnet voice,
You'll sing my weans to rest,
While Jeannie leans her weary head
Upon thy loving breast.

—Robert Burns.

DIAMONDS BY AIR.

The new air service in which insurance rates may be considerably lower than in the case of earth transport is to operate between Georgetown and the diamond mines in British Guiana.

Diamonds have to be brought down rivers with many rapids by canoe, and accidents often mean the loss of the gems.

By the new service hazardous river journeys of several days will be replaced by flights of a few hours and the perils of the rapids avoided.

NEW YORK GLIMPSES

Thousands of Places Where Liquor Sold—How Crooks Meet Rich Women.

NEW YORK, January 9. — Poverty stalks both in Hell's Kitchen and the East Side. Crime breeds in both places. Both are bordered with waterfront romance and wharf ugliness. And there ends the parallel between New York's west side and east side tenement districts.

You may walk for blocks along Eighth, Ninth and Tenth avenues and not find a music store. I know one fellow in Hell's Kitchen who shopped for an hour before he could find a violin string. At night there is gloominess throughout the Kitchen. Tired men and tired women go to bed early there.

On the east side, especially along Avenue A, you will find music stores crowded four and five to a block and all prospering. You will find little shops selling trinkets and supplies for painting and drawing. You will hear songs and laughter. There is something quickening to the pulse about it all.

New blood from old worlds is being fused constantly into the East Side. Most of the population of Hell's Kitchen represents the third and fourth generation of residents there.

There are fully 10,000 places in New York where liquor can be bought. There are fully as many bootleggers who have no place of business but deliver orders to customers at offices and homes. This is not just a wild guess. The statement is based on observation.

You can find bootleggers in all walks of life here. Many of them are druggists, delicatessen merchants apartment house superintendents and cafe proprietors.

One man is known as the "Tiffany of Bootleggers." He handles only the very best of imported liquors and wines. He lives on Riverside Drive. Most of his patrons are millionaires. He gets $15 a quart for whiskey. Most of the whiskey sold around town and supposed to be the "real stuff" sells at $6 a quart.

It just had to come sooner or later! I saw her in a tea room in the upper Forties. It was in black and gold and extended from her throat to her waist. Yes, yes, it was a cross word puzzle panel worked in her dress.

Perhaps you have wondered how jewel thieves meet rich women, gain their good graces and find the opportunity for their crooked work. I am told that a fashionable millinery shop in the Fifties is the agency for many introductions between the underworld and the idle wives of the rich. A woman of means visits the shop to buy a hat. Upon a subsequent visit a clerk casually remarks that she knows a man "who is just crazy" about the lady. The lady's interest is intrigued. Later the milliner's clerk introduces the man and the lady. The man usually is a very handsome fellow, fastidiously attired, and well qualified to meet his victim on her own footing. The rest is easy.

A merchant on Seventh avenue is selling out his stock. "Tricked by the Weather" is the sign that proclaims his reason for the sale. Lack of winter weather has brought about very substantial losses by all New York merchants depending on the cold for trade. This is probably the worst season the local coal men ever have had.

Howard Chandler Christy, artist, now paints to radio accompaniment, or so the story goes on Broadway.

THAT MOTOR CAR OF YOURS

Heart-to-Heart Talks With Automobile Owners and Dryers on How to Get the Most Out of Their Cars at the Least Expense.

"Whom the gods slay they first make glad." Bear this in mind when thrilling with delight as the speedometer touches the 60 mark.

* * *

Rainy Day Hint.

Have you ever noticed that one day you can drive in the rain without ever getting the body of the car splashed with mud, while on another day over the same roads your car will be a sight? This is because on days when the car is mud-splashed you do not give other cars wide enough berth when you overtake them. Their hind wheels splash your car as you start to pass.

* * *

Where's Your Power?

Many drivers do not know at what speed their engines develop best power for road or hill conditions. Some engines have great torque for brilliant performance until the engine is running at a much higher speed. Some very small engines develop high torque at low car speeds, because they are geared low, and run at very high speeds, while others cannot show pulling power until the car is rolling at a much faster rate. The problem for each motorist is to find out at what car speed his engine reveals the greatest pulling power, endeavoring to maintain this speed whenever climbing steep hills.

* * *

Try This Some Time.

Your difficulty in avoiding holes in the road may be due to the fact that you don't actually know just

* * *

Your First Motor Car.

Your first car is the yardstick by which the faults or the virtues of succeeding cars are judged. Whether you realise it or not, you are always unconsciously saying, "How much smoother this engine runs," or "The old car never did that." It is a very good way to appreciate the important strides that have been made in automobile design, as well as the mistakes you make in choosing subsequent cars.

* * *

A Popular Delusion.

Just because a car travelling 25 miles an hour goes 36 feet a second, and because with four-wheel brakes it can stop within 38.6 feet, is no reason to believe that stopping under such circumstances is accomplished in approximately a second. This is a popular delusion in motordom, but it is easily cleared up. As soon as a car starts stopping its speed decreases proportionally. It may take a full second to traverse the last 10 feet of its stopping distance. To stop in a second's time a car going 25 miles per hour would have to keep going at the rate of 36 feet per second right up to the 36th foot.

* * *

Timely Touring Tip.

Don't be fooled into thinking that a detour sign doesn't mean anything because one or two other drivers ahead of you seem to ignore it. Many detours are posted with the idea of taking care of through traffic, thus allowing local motorists to use that portion of the main road where the actual work is not being done. To follow one of these local motorists, who will in all probability turn into his own private driveway before reaching the torn up portion of the road, is to run the risk of having to go all the way back to where you started and take the detour.

* * *

Broader Viewpoint.

One type of motorist is quite certain that the country has just about as many cars as it can stand, basing his conclusions on conditions as he observes them.

"Look at traffic," he says. "There is hardly a place to park one's car; and the streets are sadly congested."

"Yes," replies another type of motorist, "but have you been out driving in the country lately? Would you believe it, there are some places where cars are still a rarity. Better not talk about a saturation point until the country roads look like the city streets."

DE LUXE TRAVEL TO CALIFORNIA

Modern travel leaves little to be desired in comfort and luxury. The most recent innovation is the introduction of Lady's Maid Service on the California Limited, the Los Angeles Limited, and the San Francisco Overland Limited, operating daily between Chicago, Los Angeles and San Francisco over their various routes. It has also been announced that the California Limited has been equipped with new all-steel drawing room compartment sleeping cars with specially designed ladies' lounge. Such improved services signify the strides being made to satisfy every conceivable desire of the long distance traveller.

These famous trains are already associated by connections with the Canadian National double track system to Chicago and the trip from Toronto to Los Angeles or San Francisco is thus made one of unequalled pleasure and satisfaction throughout.

Full information and tickets may be obtained from Canadian National Ticket Offices, and personal service in arranging reservations, etc., will be rendered by any Canadian National Ticket Agent.

FUTURE FOR CORN COBS.

The Basis of Many Useful Products.

Even if we all became imitators of Mark Twain, eschewed our homely briar or clay, and began smoking corn-cobs, it would appear from statistics that we could only get through a fraction of the 20 millions of corn-cobs produced annually in the United States, and mostly wasted.

The supply is much greater than the demand in the case of corn-cob heads, but Mr. F. B. La Forge shows how the cob could be made a very useful article. The cobs and some 100 million tons of stalks, husks, and blades can easily be converted into useful products. It is possible to convert corn-cobs, stalks, husks, etc., into adhesive, cellulose, ascetic acid, and furfurel by a process which consists essentially in heating the material with water and extracting the solution by pressure.

The undissolved residue yields cellulose upon treatment with caustic soda solution. In case of cobs the cellulose has a very short fibre, but may be used to a limited extent in paper manufacture. It has a high power of absorption, and hence would be of value for blotting paper. It has a field also for book paper, where it could replace 25 to 30 per cent. of the ground wood or soda-pulp now employed.

In the powdered form, cob cellulose may be used as a filler for dynamite and plastics. The cellulose obtained from the stalks has long fibre, and with proper refining may be used in place of wood pulp for many grades of paper. The crude product, obtained by heating stalks, husks, etc., with water, may be converted into a good grade of fibre-board by simply heating with 1 per cent. caustic soda in the open.

The liquid obtained by pressing the processed cob or stalk yields a gum on evaporation which is a good adhesive, and may be used for many purposes, the most important of which seems to be for pasting fibre-container and wall-board.

WISDOMS OF WIDOWS.

(By Cynthia Grey)

The widow is the wisest of women. She combines the experience of a wife with the coyness of a sub-deb. She knows that what a man wants is sympathy always, advice, never!

She knows, too, that the way to a man's heart is through his digestive apparatus. After a good dinner she holds a match to her ewain's Corona-Corona, and leaves him to himself.

She never says "a penny for your thoughts," hoping they're of her. She knows that he probably isn't thinking at all, just smoking.

Not for her the public lipstick and the unshamed powder puff of the mere girl. For she knows that a man's love dies with his illusions—especially his illusions about a woman's complexion.

She may refer to her first sweetheart, but never to her first husband. And only when she's ready for a proposal does she infer that her heart is not half so dead as King Tut!

THREE YOUNG MEN ARE CHARGED WITH THEFT

TORONTO, January 9. Canadian Press.—Charged with receiving $500 worth of bearer bonds, stolen from the safe of Hogge and Lytle, Port Perry, John Taylor was committed for trial in the police court yesterday. The evidence in the case was given by Charles Lang, who stole the bonds and is now serving a three year term in the penitentiary.

Wm. Hillis, who was also concerned in the case, faced a similar charge for which he was sent to trial. Hillis faced a further charge of attempting to break into a store at Cooksville, and was committed for trial.

STOCK STAGE CHARACTER.

British Use of the French Maid.

Mr. Galsworthy introduces a French maid in his new play, and a Morning Post critic writes entertainingly regarding this stock character of the theatre.

"The French maid," he says, "is a pillar of the British stage. A delighted anticipatory shudder goes through our British pit as soon as she glides on and utters the familiar lines in the familiar language rendered classic by tradition. She empurples the atmosphere at once. The pit, the wise old pit, knows at once that something—well—something not quite British is going to happen. . . . Wherever she is, and in whatever capacity you may be sure that the vultures of desire are gathered together, also Verdun, the Somme, the Entente, Versailles, nothing can ever wipe out the scarlet seductiveness of the French maid."

LITTLE JOY IN WORK.

Depressing Influence of Standardisation.

In such works as those at Detroit which turn out a million motor-cars a year, the workmen inevitably become machines, and it is to be supposed that they find little joy in their standardised work. An American Society —that of Automotive Engineers—has been debating the point, and heard the story of a factory inspector who spoke to an old operative, whose duty it was to feed a certain kind of plate into a machine. "What is that plate?" asked the inspector. "P.X.3," said the mechanic. "What is it used for?" "Dunno," said the old man. "How long have you been on this job?" "Twelve years."

Epidemic of Mumps in East City Was Caused By Negligence of the Early Cases to Report And Board of Health May Take Strong Action

There is undoubtedly an epidemic of mumps in Peterboro', Dr. T. W. H. Young, Medical Health Officer, said today; but it is not indicated in the reports to the Board of Health. There are many more houses hiding the fact of an occupant having the disease than there are reporting it. And all of these people who neglect or refuse to report are liable to a fine of $25 to $100.

The outbreak in East City, which has reached no serious proportions, undoubtedly occurred through the negligence, amounting to criminality, of some who hid the fact of their children having mumps. In the last few days of December there were only four cases reported. School Inspector A. Mowat reported 34 cases a few days later, and yesterday there were about 30 houses in East City placarded, some of them having two and three cases. In the Children's Shelter there were 20 cases, and the quarantine will not be lifted until January 17.

Not only did the citizens afflicted with this outbreak neglect to report to the Board of Health or the Medical Health Officer, but some of them abused the Sanitary Inspector when he was nailing up the card, after ferreting them out. Bodily violence was threatened at one house, and was only averted by the Sanitary Inspector's threat to call the police.

This fighting against the rules of the Board of Health, made for the protection of the many against the ignorant or vicious few is roundly condemned by Dr. Young, who points out that scores of children are suffering from mumps today who might never have received the contagion if the early cases had been quarantined.

It may be necessary, if this careless disregard of the rights of others continues, for the Board of Halth to take strong measures against offenders. Those who have the disease in their homes must report to Dr. Young (phone 347W) Sanitary Inspector C. Stapleton (Phone 933W) or the Secretary of the Board of Health S. R. Armstrong (phone 214), under pain of a penalty of $25 to $100.

And, as a warning to those who may seek to avoid trouble by allowing the card to be put up and then taking it down, it is pointed out that a fine of $20 may be imposed on the occupant of a house who removes a card, or fails to report within 24 hours that it has been removed. Some have sought to avoid the issue by saying the card blew down, but this is not sufficient. If the card is removed through any cause, it must be reported within 24 hours.

Outside this outbreak of mumps, the city is comparatively clear of contagious disease, there being only 2 cases of chickenpox, one of scarlet fever and one of tuberculosis.

KIWANIS HEAR AN INTERESTING TALK

E. E. Ingall, M.A., Spoke on the Testing of Intelligence in Human Beings.

The Kiwanis Club luncheon today in the Empress Hotel was greeted with one of the largest gatherings of members in many months, and from all prospects the club should have a very successful year.

E. E. Ingall, M.A., of the Normal School teaching staff, was the main speaker, and delivered a very interesting address on "Testing of Intelligence."

In the past four hundred years, said the speaker, there has been five great movements in education and within the past twenty-five years a system for studying the intelligence of human beings has been developed and is now being used at several colleges in the United States. This test can be applied to any person from the age of three upwards.

In 1905 the intelligence test was first used in France. Two men studied out a system which was later used in the United States, but since that time these tests have been improved and have been used successfully. Although they are very simple it is found that 20 per cent. of the children and grown-ups fail when tested.

The test for children of 8 years is very simple, one clause in it calling for a child to count from 20 to 1 backwards without making a mistake. If a child is eight years of age, you give him the seven-year-old test and if he can do this one and not the eight, he is mentally seven years old, although eight in time. If he completes the eigth and ninth, he is nine years old mentally although only eight by time. His mind is one year older than his body. A child of eight may be able to do the eight, nine and ten-year-old tests but his mind could not be developed enough to answer the questions in the eleven-year-old class. He can not be no more than ten years old mentally, said the speaker.

In explaining his facts more definitely, the speaker said, sometime about 1870 a man married a woman who was of a low standard. She died a number of years after their marriage and the man married a lady of high standard and great intelligence. When their descendants were traced back a number of years later it was found that the majority of the descendants of the first wife had been criminals, and men and women of low standard, while the children and descendants of the second wife were 96 per cent. highly intelligent people of high standing, only four per cent. being below the average, and there was not a criminal among them. Children who have superior intellect do not deteriorate, while children of inferior intellect will never become superior. The average intelligence of females is as high as males. Intelligence does not deteriorate after 16 years of age. There is no room, work nor place for inferior children, who are dull, said the speaker.

In the superior adult test you are to tell the meaning correctly of 75 selected words. If a person is able to answer these questions without a slip, he is considered to have a vocabulary of 13,000 word. These tests should help to improve the human race, said the speaker.

President Charles Cook occupied the chair, and kept the Sergant-at-Arms, Jack Green, busy collecting fines.

NOT TO DIVULGE NAME OF STUDENT

Premier Ferguson Makes a Statement on Peterborough School Issue.

TORONTO, Jan. 9. — (Canadian Press)—Premier Ferguson stated today that the Department of Education intended to hold firm in their decision not to make public the name of the Peterboro High school student who is alleged to have stolen examination papers last June, prior to mid-summer examinations. The solicitor and board of education of Peterboro' have been pressing the government to reveal the name of the student said to be implicated, as it was felt that the affair left a cloud hanging over the head of every pupil in the school. "The result of the investigation by provincial police merely resulted in suspicion being cast on one student only," stated the Premier. "The department does not think under these circumstances, that it would be wise to make public the name of the suspect."

MARITIMES SWEEP INTO CHURCH UNION

Forty-two Churches Join the United Church and Two Remain Out.

As predicted by the Unionists, the Maritime Provinces are showing almost a clean sweep for Union. Of those reporting up to noon to-day, only two churches, both small congregations, are against entering the United Church, while forty-two are going into the United Church. In Halifax the United Church has every church reporting—St. Matthew's, Fort Fassey, Park Street, United Memorial and Bethany. St. James' Church, Dartmouth, is strongly Unionist. Even Bedford, where Rev. Frank Baird, prominent anti-Unionist leader, is minister, has decided to enter the United Church. Windsor Jct. and Waverley, in Halifax Presbytery, are also Unionist. First Church, Truro, the oldest Presbyterian Church in Canada, and one of the largest, Maitland, Springside, and Middle Stewiacke, are entering the United Church.

Owen Sound is now solid for Union, with its three churches entering Union. Ottawa is now nine churches for Union and two going out. Toronto has now fourteen churches entering the Union.

British Columbia is 8 for Union out of 10 reporting; Alberta 20 out of 32; Saskatchewan, 181 out 190; Quebec, 37 out of 38 for Union. Ontario has 102 going in and 60 staying out.

In all Canada, outside of Ontario, the anti-Unionists have only twenty churches, while the United Church has 294.

HULL, Que., Jan. 9.—(Canadian Press.)— Wilful murder by some unknown person or persons was the verdict returned yesterday by coroner's jury which investigated the slaying of Joseph Bouchard, elderly trapper and farmer of Glenlivet, in Gatineau district. No arrest has yet been made but James Carey, formerly a hired man of the slain farmer, is being kept under surveillance at Poltimore, Que., and search is being instituted for Euclid Gourville, who, Carey testified, was at Bouchard's cabin on Dec. 24, the last day the murdered man was seen alive.

ALLIED CONFERENCE.

Sessions Will Close Wednesday and Delegates Leave For Home.

PARIS, Jan. 9.—(Canadian Press) Present expectations are that inter-allied conference will close next Wedesday, perhaps even on Tuesday, delegates already planning to leave Wednesday night to submit conclusions of conference to respective Parliaments for approval.

Anglo-American negotiations continue to make headway, many questions of details already having been settled.

As to question of inter-allied debts which loomed so large at beginning of week, although extraneous to conference, exchange of views have convinced delegates the question is neither ripe nor suitable for treatment at the present general conference.

ARK FOR EX-KAISER.

SARANAC LAKE, N. Y., (United Press).—Thomas O'Donnell and John Shea of Chateaugay Lake ambled into the woods recently with the cross-saw and gave the boys something to shoot at. The ambitious pair sawed, slabbed and piled six cords of sixteen-inch hardwood in one day, which is said to be a record.

TOMATO-POTATO VINE.

LONDON (United Press).—Adepts always at verse and limerick, the Scotch have at last produced even a garden plant whose two ends rhyme,—the tomato-potato vine. Early in the year at Dollar Park, Falkirk, a tomato shoot was grafted on a potato plant as an experiment. Some time ago a crop of tomatoes was harvested from the portion above ground. The other day the plant was pulled up, and hanging to its roots was a fine mess of potatoes.

Mangled Bodies of Youths Are Found Near Skyland, N.C.

ASHEVILLE, N. C., Jan. 8.—The mangled bodies of three young men, all apparently about 18 years old, were found along the tracks of the Southern Railway, near Skyland, seven miles south of here, on Wednesday afternoon. All had been beheaded and the only identification mark was the name of a Chicago firm in the cap of one victim.

The men are believed to have been struck by the Carolina special. C. O. Case, a Skyland merchant, reported that three young men had applied to him for work, saying that they were going south. Officials are investigating.

THE BUSINESS BOOM IS STARTING

Good times are returning—fat pocket-books for everybody. A business boom is under way. Many conservative bankers and industrial leaders are even predicting that ahead lies prosperity such as this country never before knew except in the boom that followed the World War. May be they are expecting too much. But all signs point to a tremendous revival of trade.

The stock market for several months has been betting on a coming business boom. Recently, sales of stocks and bonds on the New York Stock Exchange exceeded all previous records with average prices of securities the highest in eight years.

Individual speculators frequently guess wrongly. But the market itself never does. It anticipates general business conditions by a period of from four to six months—rising ahead of booms, collapsing ahead of hard times.

Last summer the iron and steel industry stagnated. Its production sagged to about half of mill capacity. But now the output is rising swiftly. In October the nation's production of pig iron was 2,477,127 tons, compared with only 1,784,899 tons in July.

This rate of gain, continued, would find the steel industry running full blast and top speed by spring. Indications are that there'll be no let-up in recovery.

Railroads have been moving record-breaking amounts of freight. Since early in September, shippers have loaded more than a million cars of freight a week. When times are dull and no relief in sight, car loadings fall as low as 640,000 cars a week.

Compare that with a million a week! Business men do not buy the goods represented in freight unless they expect buyers.

In October, average wholesale prices went up one and a half per cent, announces Dun's organization. It now takes $194 in the wholesale markets to buy what cost $184 six months ago. The price of prosperity is higher prices. Few care, as long as they have the "jack."

This coming business boom brings you another opportunity to get rich—or, at least, better yourself. To the majority of the population, a period of prosperity merely means more money to spend. A minority sees it as a chance to save and get ahead. Trees are most heavily laden with nuts just before a severe winter. Be a squirrel.

SHEIK CLOTHES OF A KILLER

A craze for thick woollen shirts is spreading like wildfire among college and high school lads, the country over. Colors are gaudy—such as red and black checkerboards. The idea seems to be to imitate the Mackinaw coats of lumberjacks.

It's the healthiest sign we've observed in the nation's youth for many a moon.

It suggests there's a reaction against what might be summed up as sheikism and lounge-lizardism.

With great glee, old-timers will observe the waning of an effeminate tendency in a considerable number of youths. The lads want to look like "he-men" again.

It's too early to use the bromide that the country is saved. But sanity is returning when youth strongly demonstrates the traits of virile, sensible manhood.

Styles are pretty good weathervanes of national tendencies. Conditions were very healthy years ago when boys in their late teens wore flannel shirts, rough peg-top trousers, maybe chewed tobacco on the sly, read Nick Carter and from the east went west in summertime to work in wheat fields for winter spending money.

They belonged to a virile generation. Their ragtime was healthier than the modern decadent form of jazz blues. There wasn't as much synthetic gin in those days.

The typical Nick Carter reader was a much more promising lad than the sissy who doted on namby-pamby Rollo books.

Signs of decadence shows up periodically in all civilizations. But the pendulum always swings back to normal. It may very well be that youth's sudden craze for rough lumberjack shirts means the beginning of the end of jazz life in entirety.

The "Covered Wagon" type of fiction and movie is eclipsing the sheik type. This also reflects a change in the audiences, especially youth.

WIDEN THE BREACH BETWEEN PARTIES

Italian Premier and Party Not Responsible For Acts of Violence.

ROME, Jan. 9. — (Canadian Press).—The publication yesterday of opposition manifesto, which widened the breach between the Fascists and their adversaries by re-asserting the decision of Aventine deputies not to participate in Parliamentary work to-day, had the aftermath in the intimation by the leading members of the opposition that they would also urge the abstention of voters from polls if the projected general elections were conducted under the auspices of the present Government.

Opposition leaders declared themselves satisfied with the impression produced upon the country by their manifesto which charged that the Government "owes its ascension to power and its permanence there to illegalism and violence" and declared that "the extreme phase of the conflict between the Fascist domination and the country has begun."

Fascist leaders declared yesterday's manifesto is the death warrant of the opposition, which they say represents the old regime definitely buried by the Fascist revolution of 1922. They maintain that soon, through the trial of those held in connection with the assassination of Deputy Matteotti and through the publication of other documents, it will be possible to prove not only to Italy but the rest of the world that Premier Mussolini and his principal lieutenants are entirely free from any responsibility in acts of violence which occurred last year.

Gillespie Won Close Game From Westbrook by Score of 12 to 11.

Six good games were played at the Curling Rink yesterday, Sedgwick's rink hanging up the high score of the evening when they defeated Foote's rink by 16 shots to 7. All six games were fairly close, and some clever curling was shown. Tom Brightman and Bowes put on the best contest of the evening when they both ran neck and neck all through, with Brightman finally winning out by one stone. Gillespie's rink and Westbrook's also played a very close game, the former winning by one stone. Kenner lost to Marshall, Widdiss defeated Downey, and Montgomery trounced Henry.

SILVER CUP FOR LADIES' LEAGUE

G. N. Gordon Provides a Trophy for the Fair Bowlers.

Mr. G. N. Gordon's patronage and support of various sporting and athletic organizations in the city has been extended in a new direction. This time the fair sex is going to benefit by the generosity of the Deputy Speaker of the House of Commons, who has made the offer of a silver cup to the winner of the Ladies' Mercantile League games at the Water Street Bowling Alleys. Bowling by ladies has become a very popular pastime in the city this season, and Mr. Gordon's kind offer will no doubt increase the interest in the five pins.

A meeting is called for half-past 9 o'clock to-morrow afternoon at the Water Street Alleys, and a representative from each of the clubs competing in the Ladies' Mercantile League is asked to be present, when arrangements will be made as to rules and schedule of games.

Ten Tons of Bricks Drawn on Sleighs by Fordson Tractor.

The Fordson Tractor Demonstration put on yesterday afternoon by J. J. Duffus Motor Sale, proved a great success, with much interest being taken in it by both citizens and farmers.

The demonstration, which started at Curtis' brick yards, was to show the drawing capacity of a Fordson Tractor. Three large sleighs, loaded with 4000 bricks, weighing ten tons, were drawn by a tractor to a house on Princess street, a distance of two miles and a quarter, in 42 minutes. The tractor was equipped with a full crawler.

THE MAKING LOSING OUT

If you swear around a young child, the child will learn to swear. All children are imitative. All children are highly imaginative. The way their imagination is led or misled in the first five years of life determines, to large extent, their character and tendencies when they grow up.

We have in mind the tin soldier, the drum, the toy cannon, the pop-gun and other playthings that suggest war. These toys help perpetuate war as an institution.

They fire the childish imagination and teach that war—wholesale murder—is a glorious sport.

Don't give your children any toys this Christmas that suggest war. To help promote the cause of world peace give boys, in particular, constructive playthings—toy trains, building blocks.

It may be argued that it is necessary to develop the fighting instinct for national defense agression. But war toys develop aggressiveness, not defense. The child instinctively attacks with his military playthings, rather than using them to defend.

It is improbable that our generation will see another big war. Gigantic conflicts come roughly every 30 years. It takes that long for the people to replenish the race, pay off war debts and get enough saved up to finance another carnage.

All of us hope there never will be another World War nor a major conflict between two great nations.

If such a war comes, it will probably be fought by a manhood now in the cradle or unborn.

If you want the next generation to be workers for peace, without aggressive militarism, don't give children military playthings.

This nation will always be able to defend itself against aggression. As children acquire intelligence and judgment, they will be patriotic in any just cause. But surely, if this country is to show the rest of the world an ideal example, the place to begin is in taking the leadership in the peace movement.

Help world peace by not giving children warlike toys.

Left-over baked potatoes are delicious diced and browned in butter. Freshly baked potatoes take too long to prepare for breakfast.

Grapes are a friend to the thin person as they are rich in fats and carbohydrates.

The tomato and veal soup is made like any cream of tomato soup except that veal stock takes the place of milk and heavy cream is added just before serving. Rice is used for thickening.

EARTHQUAKES TOKIO.

Rocked the City and Caused Many People to Leave Their Homes.

TOKIO, Jan. 9. — (Canadian Press).—Tokio was disturbed to-day by a series of earthquakes of high severity, the first of which rocked the city at 6 a.m. The last tremor this afternoon came at 3 o'clock, and caused many persons to leave their houses.

Mount Aso, a volcano located six hundred miles south of here, has been in eruption since Tuesday, and is emitting ashes, causing damage to farms at its base.

The crator of Mount Aso measures fifteen miles from north to south, and has an opening ten miles in width from east to west.

WRESTLING CHAMPION.

Brutal Exhibition Held at Kansas City Last Evening.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Jan. 9. — (Canadian Press.)—Erstwhile university football player, Wayne Munn is the new wearer of the world's heavyweight wrestling belt. Munn, standing six feet six inches, and weighing 200 pounds, last night threw off the fearful headlocks of the veteran Ed. (Stranger) Lewis, and crushed him into submission. Lewis is to-day in hospital suffering from injuries to his back.

The climax came after two minutes of wrestling for the second fall, when Munn, twisting free from the head lock, lifted Lewis high in the air with a body and crotch-hold, and walking to the ropes, hurled Lewis outside on to the uncovered floor of the platform. Lewis' 228 pound hit the boards with a terrific thud and the title holder rolled to the concrete floor. Chaos ensued. Sandow, manager for Lewis, sprang into the ring crying foul and the crowd stormed the platform. Referee Walter Bates announced the fall was awarded to Lewis on a foul. He gave Lewis 15 minutes to return to the ring and failing the match would be awarded to Munn. In twenty minutes Lewis came back bandaged. The match was over in a few minutes. Munn clapped on the body and crotch hold and hurled Lewis to the mat. Strangler lay prone and a new champion was crowned.

Kitchen Roaches Eat The Bindings Of Books

Not every housekeeper knows that the pesky roaches commonly found snooping around kitchen, pantry and cellar have tastes similar to those of the bookworm.

In the Bureau of Chemistry of the United States Department of Agriculture scientists have been studying ways and means for making the binding of books wear longer and retain a good appearance. In the course of their investigations they found many cloth-covered books with the appearance of having been left near the open window during a rain or splashed when the maid watered the house plants, but in most cases there were no windows near, no careless servants and no house plants. Finally suspicion rested on the roach and he was shadowed.

The insect was caught while actually doing the damage, and the explanation was soon found. The manufacturers of bookbinding cloth, in order to give the fabric body and stiffness, "load" it with such fillers as starch, flour, dextrin, casein and other substances, all good foods and pleasing to the palate of the roach. The foregoing inspect wets a spot on the cover of the book, and if the solution is to his liking he set his minute pump to working and dries up the spot. He continues to feed in this manner, making blisters on the cover, until he has finished his meal.

In some libraries hundreds of books have been found damaged in this way. Just what can be done to stop the damage has not been determined, but it is plain that keeping away the roaches is one method. In the meantime the chemists are at work looking for som eway to treat roaches without making it harmful to undiscriminating babies.

RAIDS MUST CEASE.

Strong Force of Airplanes Sent Out to Break Up Bandits.

BAGDAD, Irak, Jan. 9.—(Canadian Press). — In consequence of raids recently made by Akhwan tribesmen—followers of Ibn Saoud—on Irak tribes, 70 miles southwest of Nasiriyah, strong force of airplanes yesterday, located raiders and attacked them with bombs and machine guns killing fifty men and many camels. British high commissioner has sent strong note to Ibn Saoud to effect that raids must cease and loot returned otherwise raiders will be severely punished. Reported that in one fray Ibn Saoud's men destroyed every tent belonging to small Iraqui tribe and killed every male over ten years of age. They did not however molest women who handed over their jewellery.

NO MONEY GRANTS.

Unemployed Will Not Receive Relief From Dominion Treasury.

OTTAWA, Jan. 9. — (Canadian Press). — While assuring a delegation from the City Council, Allied Trades and Labor Council and unemployed of Ottawa, that the Federal Government was anxious to co-operate in solving the unemployment problem in the capital, Premier Mackenzie King made it clear yesterday afternoon that no money grants would be made from the Dominion Treasury. "We have found it necessary to be quite rigid on that point," said the Prime Minister in commenting on the grant system, which had been adopted in past years.

"THE POOR WE HAVE ALWAYS WITH US"

Still Room at the Fire Hall for Supplies for the Needy.

While more fortunate citizens of Peterboro ride around in costly motor cars, with rugs to make their warmly-clad feet just a little more comfortable, small growing men and women walk the snowy streets with little more than rubbers over bare feet and legs. It is a situation always old, always new, but the obligation to help never grows less. "The poor we have always with us." But it isn't required of these more lucky people that they give up their luxuries. All they are asked to do is to ransack cupboard and pantry for cast-off apparel, or perhaps, go down into well-lined pockets for a little cash, wherewith to buy new shoes for their needier little brothers and sisters.

Children with ragged and torn shoes and stockings, their feet protected from the biting cold only by rubbers in some instances, come to the doors of the Big Sisters. There is a constant procession of the needy. Yesterday, a woman with sick husband and baby, herself suffering from rheumatism, came, asking clothing for the invalids and a little food for all three.

To the rooms at the Fire Hall where the Big Sisters receive donations drift many excellent articles. At present, there are plenty of men's overcoats in stock. But children's clothing is urgently needed, underwear and trousers for growing boys, shoes and stockings. Cast-off articles of the younger members of many a prosperous household would be treasure trove for some of these youngsters, but there are people who send ragged shoes, with soles torn off, and the ladies have no means of getting these renaired. They can make up cast-off clothing that is in good condition, to suit various sizes, and such things, with money to buy food in urgent cases, will be readily welcomed at the Fire Hall, where donations may be left at any time.

FABLES ON HEALTH

Mr. Mann of Anytown opened the window in his bedroom about an inch from the bottom and started shivering back to bed.

"Wait a minute," admonished the wife. "That window should be open all the way. Or better still, it should be opened half way from the bottom and then the top window lowered a few inches.

Mr. Mann stopped, cold.

"I have just read it in a story on health," continedu the wife, "and it says that most folks are afraid they will get too much air in their bedrooms, and then they wonder why they feel so drowsy when they awake in the morning."

Mr. Mann probably did not think much of what his wife had been reading. But he lowered the top window and raised the bottom, just as she suggested.

"Hope I feel better in the morning, he ventured.

"I'm sure we will," answered Mr. Mann's wife.

Mr. Henry Ford—you know who he is, don't you?—dearly loves a good story.

One that he is fond of relating concerns a countryman of his who was telling "tall yarns" to an English visitor.

The remarkable powers of invention displayed by the American impressed the Britisher considerably. Still, he was determined to make a supreme effort to equalize matters.

"Talking of shipbuilding," he said, "we've lately built a vessel on the Clyde capable of carrying a thousand passengers, yet able to float in eighteen inches of water."

The American gazed pityingly upon him.

"Say, now," he drawled, "is that all? Why, over here we've got a boat that will carry two thousand passengers and float wherever it's damp."

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL

"K-THE UNKNOWN" AN ADAPTATION FROM BIG RINEHART NOVEL, "K"

Harry Pollard Directed with Valli and Marmont in Cast.

"K," famous novel by Mary Roberts Rinehart, which will be told on the screen under the title "K"—The Unknown" Universal Jewel, to be shown in the Capitol Theatre, today and Saturday is true to life even in so far as a mistake commonly made by the experienced seeker for seclusion is concerned.

It is very seldom that one sought by the law escapes capture for long, and experienced detectives say that this is because the one sought makes the common mistake of trying to bury his identity in a small town, whereas, had he elected to lose himself in the biggest city he would have been far more successful.

K. LeMoyne the man around whom the story is built, made just that mistake, and his grave dignity and kindly manner made him at once an object of suspicion and mystery in the small city in which he took up his abode, a boarder in the home of beautiful Sidney Page and her aunt.

Virginia Valli plays the part of Sidney. Her acquaintance with the stranger is a pleasant episode in her heretofore uneventful life, and she soon realized that the importunities of two determined but youthful sweethearts that she marry one of them have lost their zest for her, and she feels that the companionship of the stranger presages love. Then arrives the man who is destined to bring misery into her life and into the lives of the others.

Percy Marmont, whose characterization of Mark Sabre in "If Winter Comes" has been acclaimed one of the outstanding portrayals of the screen, is cast in the part of K. LeMoyne, the mysterious stranger.

Margarita Fisher, who has a long list of successful screen appearances to her credit, portrays Carlotta Harrison, whose blind trust in a man resulted in her misery.

Others congenially cast are John Roche as Dr. Max Wilson, Maurice Ryan and Francis Feeney as the two youthful sweethearts of Sidney Page, Myrtle Vane as the aunt and William A. Carroll as the father of Dr. Max.

AT THE ROYAL.

"THE SHOCK," BASED ON THE 'FRISCO EARTHQUAKE, DECIDEDLY DIFFERENT

Lon Chaney and Virginia Valli carry the acting honors of "The Shock." The plot takes us back to 'Frisco in the days of 1906, and the story said to be based on facts is very interesting. Chaney, as usual, gives a remarkable characterization, this time a cripple.

The production is a striking example of the use of a great historical or natural event as the crux of a photodrama. The earthquake and fire, of course, form the dramatic climax of the picture and provides one of the biggest thrills ever introduced into a screen plot. The story was written by William Dudley Pelley, and concerns a deformed and crippled San Francisco gangster who is enmeshed in the toils of a desperate woman, the queen of Frisco's underworld. She sends him to a small town in the mountains to prepare a way for a blackmail plot, but he falls under the influence of a sweet, pure girl and is regenerated.

How he risks all to protect this girl's father and later to save her from the underworld queen, and how the earthquake comes just in time to aid him, forms a powerful story of human romance and adventure. The strange role of the cripple is played by Lon Chaney, recognized as one of the master character portrayers on the screen. The girl for whom he struggles is played by Virginia Valli, a Universal star of great popularity.

The earthquake and fire scenes in "The Shock" have been pronounced by those who passed through the catastrophe as astounding in their realism. The different shocks are reproduced with exceptional fidelity. The buckling of the streets and pavements has been reproduced by means of carefully constructed studio contrivances.

With equal realism is shown the crumbling of the buildings, the gas main explosions and the start of the fire. There follows the flight of the panic stricken inhabitants and the sweep of the fire over the doomed city. The destruction of the city is shown, in a way that brings home with startling realization the tremendous devastation through which San Francisco passed. It is a striking film record of the worst holocaust of modern times. It will be shown to-night and Saturday.

GREAT REALISM IN KIRKWOOD-LEE FILM.

Lovers of the sea will find a realm of real enchantment in "Another Man's Wife," which will be shown at the Royal Theatre for three days, beginning Monday. The opening scenes aboard the steamship Alexandria, the collision in the fog with a barge-towing tug and the closing scenes aboard the rum-running barge are calculated to stir the pulses that beat in rhythm with the restless sweep of the sea. And then there is the rescue by the submarine S-36 that is a "knockout" in film realisms. James Kirkwood, Lila Lee, Wallace Beery and Matt Moore have the principal roles.

AT THE REGENT.

John Bowers, who will be seen in the leading role in "The Code of the Wilderness" at the Regent Theatre to-day, played an unexpected hero while this picture was being made in the Mojave Desert. A feature of the picture is the rescue of Alice Calhoun, Alan Hale, Otis Harlan and Kitty Bradbury from a mud hole in midstream in the Mojave River. A location had been selected and examined by the technical staff of the director, David Smith, on the night before. A cloudburst during the night caused a rise in the river and moved tons of sand from the bank to the centre of the stream which formed into quicksands.

The buckboard was driven into the water and became involved in the treacherous bottom. The horses frightened at being unable to hold their footing lunged about until the buckboard was in danger of overturning. Summoned by the screams of the frightened passengers, Bower rode his pinto pony, Calico, into the stream and carried Miss Calhoun to safety. Other cowboys rode to the rescue of the horses and guided them to the bank without further mishap. The only one unperturbed by the incident was Otis Harlan, the famous old character actor, who sat calmly through the episode.

A NEW LIFE OF ROBERT BURNS.

Another "life" of the Scots national poet will appear next month. The volume is written by an Edinburgh citizen, Mr. James MacKenzie, J.P. He entitles his work, "A New Life and Vindication of Robert Burns from Contemporary Sources." Mr. MacKenzie is the author of "Michael Bruce, the poet of Lochleven," of which ten editions have been issued.

BOBBING AND SHINGLING.

"Bobbed" wants to know the origin of the words "bobbed" and "shingled." Well, "bobbed" is an old English word. The dictionary says it means to cut the hair of a person or an animal. A bobbed-tailed dog is a dog with a short tail. "Shingling" is another matter. There are two kinds of shingles—one, the narrow, thin piece of wood used on roofs in place of slates or tiles; the other, pebbles on the beach. Why "shingling" came to be used for cutting the hair short at the back I do not know. I get mine cut once a month or so, but I don't think they call it shingling. That term is reserved for the cropping of ladies' hair. Its origin seems to be "wrapped in mystery."

DEATH OF THOMAS BELL.

NO BASKETBALL TEAM FOR CITY

Not Enough Material at Y. M. C. A. to Enter Ontario League.

PLAYERS GONE

Peterborough will not be represented in the Ontario Basketball Association this year. In former years the local Y.M.C.A. always had a team entered in both the Intermediates and Junior sections. But this year Doug. Loomis is of the opinion that there is not enough material around the "Y" this season to warrant entering a team.

There is not a sport in the city that has been hit nearly as hard by the migration of the young men as has basketball. Of the crack Intermediate team which brought the championship of the province to Peterborough there are now only two of its members now resident here. They are "Spot" Stuart and "Arlie" De Graw. The rest have all sought other shores in their search for success. Not one member of the good junior team which reached the finals in the O.A.B.A. play-offs two years are now wearing out their shoes in the local sheets.

But although these players who learned the game in the local "Y," are not here to represent Peterboro, they are winning fame for themselves and the city where they are at present stationed. Tom and Russell Pogue are playing with the Y. M.C.A. College of Chicago famous quintette. Tom is captain of his team this year. "Benny" McLean and "Cy" Hopkins now living in Cleveland are playing good basketball for a fast team there. Alex. Elliott is playing for Osgoods Hall. The rest are each taking an active part in the game.

LINDSAY LIKED JUNIORS' STYLE

Petes Played More Aggressive Hockey and Showed Better Team Work.

GOOD COACHING

(From Lindsay Post)

Peterboro deserve their victory as they played more aggressive and effective hockey; especially in the opening period when then they scored three goals. The ice was rather sticky and this favored the visitors who had weight to carry them through. Time and time again the Petes broke through with a three man rush, the result being that Tripp in goal for the locals had a busy night. He did exceptionally well for a novice and had the ear marks of being a good goaler.

For the Petes, Salmon on defence the lad from Bracebridge, showed his worth. He is large, speedy and heavy. He makes a formidable defence man and is able to rush. McDougal at centre, a mere lad, is the best prospect on the Peterboro team. He played a remarkably fine game, as did Collins. Ridpath, the Lakefield junior, was also good. In fact the Petes have a team that should go a long way up the junior ladder this season.

It is understood that "Snorts" Coombs has consented to assist in coaching the juniors along. This is the right spirit. The youngsters need some advice of some experienced player and Coombs is the right man. He should be able to improve their style of play. The material is good.

The Midgets are in need of a defence player who can step into a check.

Lindsay play at Lakefield next Tuesday. They expect to trim the easterners on home ice.

McDougall, the kid centre man for the Petes, is a little wonder.

Salmon, playing left wing for the Petes was perhaps their best man, he is a sure shooter and fast and tireless.

McDougall, who played centre for the visitors, seems to have grown a bit during the year and his game has improved considerably. Both he and Collins stood out in the play.

ENGLISH CUP GAMES.

First Round of Historic Soccer Struggle Opens on Saturday.

LONDON, Jan. 9. — (Canadian Press Cable). — For the next few days league football is totally eclipsed and in its place there looms the great annual struggle of Great Britain's football year—the English Cup. Almost a hallowed institution and a venerable one, for the cup play was a yearly feature as far back as 1871.

The trophy represents to football fans all over the world what the Epson Derby means to followers of flat-racing. It is the event to which all things associated with English sport move.

Interest in the contest has never been better than this year and the first round, scheduled to be played off on Saturday has already produced the customary crop of prophets wise followers of the game who have risen up boldly and proclaimed their faith. An equal number find themselves just as ready to confound the seers, willing to pin their colors to dark-horses and take long odds. Sixty-four teams will engage in this opening tussle —twenty-four less than the number comprising the league. This luckless minority have been eliminated through the slow process of qualifying round, for the English cup is a perfect exemplification of the survival of the fittest. The draw has brought together curious bed-fellows — first division teams well on the way to league honors matted with third division clubs who will be put at the end of the season to save themselves from application for re-instatement. The corinthian amateurs who toured Canada last summer and who came out so badly out of there tilts with Canadian Amateurs pitted against such seasoned fighters as Sheffield United and Club who are running neck and neck in the same league having a titanic battle all their own. There are the tit-bits offered by the first round on Saturday. The freaks of selection that add zest to the contest. Newcastle United are the present cup-holders. Having defeated Villa last season at Wembley.

BASEBALL'S GREATEST OUTFIELDERS

Charley Jamieson of Cleveland Indians Hasn't One Weakness, Evans Says—Modeled His Style On Tris Speaker's.

By BILLY EVANS.

In baseball stars at any one particular position seem to run in cycles.

For instance those two remarkable outfielders, Ty Cobb and Tris Speaker, broke into the game about the same time.

Both Cobb and Speaker have passed the peak of their game. In the role of manager, they now seek to win new laurels as their playing ability ebbs.

With Cobb and Speaker going the other way, Charley Jamieson of the Cleveland Club stands out as the premier gardener of the American League if not the majors.

It is an interesting fact that Jamieson did not measure up to stardom until Speaker as manager of the Cleveland club began to play alongside of him.

Has Style of Speaker.

Watching Jamieson going after a fly ball one can see the style of Speaker in almost every movement. There is grace, accuracy and confidence in his play.

The career of Jamieson in the American League reads not unlike fiction. His success is a tribute to energy, ambition and courage.

Jamieson first came to the Washington Club as a left-handed pitcher. While he never showed enough stuff to merit the belief that he would make good as a pitcher, yet he looked and acted the part of a ball player, so that he hung on as a bench-warmer.

Mack Makes Shift.

Washington finally decided that as a pitcher Jamieson would never make the grade. Connie Mack, then floundering around in last place, in need of ball players, was willing to take a chance.

Mack soon reached the same decision as Washington relative to Jamieson's pitching ability. However, Mack saw that Jamieson had ability as an outfielder and that he looked fairly good at the bat against right-handed pitching.

Used as a substitute outfielder, Jamieson went along with varying success as a member of the Athletics. Then came a trade that brought him to Cleveland.

Playing alongside Speaker, Jamieson immediately started to improve in all departments of play under the tutelage of the master outfielder.

To-day Jamieson is just about the last word as an outfielder, while at the plate he mixes them up in the most approved style. In plain words he's a real star.

IMPORTANT SOCIETY NOTE FOR THE SPORT PAGE

ALEXA STIRLING; INSET, DR. FRASER

Society note for the sport page, of particular interest to golf enthusiasts Presenting Alexa Stirling of Atlanta, Ga., famous woman golfer, holder of many championships, who announces her engagement to Dr. Wilbur Green Fraser, medical practitioner of Ottawa, Canada. Rumour has it that the engagement is another romance of golf links. Dr. Fraser is a pretty fair golfer himself, but we are inclined to think he will have his troubles winning from the fair Alexa.

HAIR WHITENS

Bernard Grant to Hang on Jan. 16 Unless Small Grants Reprieve.

BERNARD GRANT

(By Roy J. Gibbons.)

CHICAGO, Jan. 9. — Bernard Grant has another "date" with the hangman.

The boy from "back o' the yards," whose life was spared temporarily by Governor Len Small last October following a flood of appeals from all over the country, is scheduled to die on the gallows in Cook county jail the morning of Jan. 16.

Only executive clemency can save him. The state supreme court has denied his plea for a new trial.

Grant, 22, was arrested when he was but 19 for the murder of a policeman. In two years, his hair has turned entirely gray.

On his last "date" public sentiment saved him. Five thousand messages to the governor said it would be inconsistent to carry out the death penalty in Grant's case in view of the Loeb-Leopold decision.

Grant has given up all hope of another reprieve.

"I guess the jig's up this time," he says. "I'm innocent, but the courts won't believe it."

Relatives and friends, however, are preparing a new appeal to the governor.

BELLEFEUILLE TO PLAY WITH ST. PATS

Was Refused Playing Certificate With London by the O.H.A.

TORONTO, Jan. 9.— (Canadian Press.) — After camping on the trail of Pierre Bellefeuille, of London, and formerly of Iroquois Falls, Timmins, Michigan Soo, Montreal and Three Rivers, since the tail end of the season, St. Patricks Club announced last night that he had agreed to the terms offered him on Tuesday night in London and he will report to the local club to-morrow evening, making his debut in the evening against Percy Thompson's Hams. Bellefeuille was considered one of the fastest skaters and best stick handlers in the N. O.H.A. last season and he was sought after by several of the N. H.L. clubs, but refused all professional offers until he had been refused a playing certificate this season with London, and then he finally succumbed to an excellent offer from the Irish.

When interviewed at London last night Bellefeuille said he had came to no decision in the matter of the offer to join St. Pats and would not give an answer until after the week end.

It had gained such headway that nothing could be done. The value of the building was estimated to be about $9000, and the boats $500. The insurance on the place amounted to about $5000. The cause of the fire is unknown.

On Tuesday evening 9.30 fire bells again startled the town. The rink which before had been covered with skaters soon became empty as everybody rushed to the scene. The fire was caused by an overheated chimney.

ELECTION TALLY CLERK PUTS HIS EMPLOYER IN

Confessed Before the Grand Jury that the Count Was Crooked.

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—(Canadian Press).—George Rosker, 26-year-old election tally clerk, confessed before a grand jury yesterday that he had "counted out" Dr. William I. Sirovichl, Democratic, in favor of his employer, Nathan D. Pearlman, Republican, who was returned a member of the Congress from the 14th New York District last November. Rosker said Pearlman's success was due solely to fraudulent manipulation of the ballots. Rosker's sensational story, involving several men prominent in public life, caused the grand jury to adjourn before his recital was ended so that it might inspect the ballots. According to Mr. Banton, Rosker's voluntary confession had its roots in a deep desire for revenge upon Pearlman and others named in his sworn statement because they failed to procure a Government job for him.

OBITUARY.

LILLIAN ELEANOR RITCHIE-FREEBURN

The funeral of Mrs. Vernon E. Freeburn took place yesterday afternoon, attended by old friends and relatives, to the Little Lake Cemetery. The service was conducted by the Venerable Archdeacon J. C. Davidson.

The body arrived from Montreal early yesterday morning, accompanied by Mr. Freeburn. Many beautiful floral pieces were received from friends in Montreal and Peterborough, one especially symbolic design coming from her parish, St. Bartholemew's, Montreal. Like one asleep, the body lay in a bed of roses lillies, chrysanthemums, carnations, hyacinths—her favourite flowers.

Mrs. Freeburn was born in Peterborough, the only daughter in a well known family. She is well remembered in the George Street Church and by a larger circle as a cultured pianist. Upon her marriage, twenty-three years ago, she removed to Montreal.

There are two brothers left, Albert and Ryerson, both of whom had recently visited her: the latter had been in Montreal until Christmas, but was in Cleveland on Wednesday, and was not able to reach Peterborough until two hours before the funeral took place.

CHESTER KEMP

Wires received by relatives here convey the news of the death of Chester S. Kemp at Long Beach, California, after an illness lasting little more than two weeks.

Chester Kemp was well known to many in this city. He resided in California and was stricken with pneumonia two weeks ago. Complications set in last week and for the last few days his condition was regarded as hopeless.

Mr. Kemp made his home in Edmonton and nearby points for some twenty years. During the war he served overseas with the Canadian Army Medical Corps, being awarded the Meritorius Service Medal for his work in the army laboratory at Whitley.

Besides his widow and 12-year son, Jack, he leaves to mourn him his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Kemp, 7511 112th Avenue; three brothers, W. C. Williaim C. of this city; Joe of Fort Vermilion, and Ad of Spirit River, and two sisters, Mrs. J. Dixon Craig of this city, and Mrs. Frank Bishop of Dauphin, Man. —Edmonton Journal.

The deceased was well-known in Peterboro' where he spent his early youth.

MONARCHISTS ACTIVE.

Movement to Restore Monarchy Started in Bavaria.

BERLIN, Jan. 9.— (United News.) — The Hohenzollerns and other Royalists recently agreed upon a plan for starting an active, nation-wide monarchist movement in Germany, according to information obtained by the United News correspondent in Nationalist quarters. The movement is to have its beginning in Bavaria. Under this plan Prince Rupprecht would become the Regent Governor, after the manner of Admiral Horthy in Hungary. Upon completion of this first step, all types of Monarchists are to unite and return in force with the aim of re-establishing the monrach on a permanent basis.

ADDRESS ON RADIO TO THE ENGINEERS

The Guided Wave System of Radio Used by Hydro Commission.

"Radio for Emergency Communication," was the subject of an illustrated lecture given by F. K. D'Alton, B.A.Sc., at the regular meeting of the local branch of the Engineering Institute of Canada last night.

Mr. D'Alton, who is assistant Laboratory Engineer for the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario, is a graduate of S.P.S. and of the Student.' Engineers Course at the local plant of the Canadian General Electric Co. He is in charge of Radio work in connection with communication between stations for the Commission and it was about guided radio communication along the high tension transmission lines that he addressed, the local engineers.

Mr. A. D. Gates of the local branch was the chairman of the evening and before calling on Mr. Dalton he introduced to the members Mr. R. L. Clifford, who succeeds Mr. W. G. Ferguson, as manager of the Peterboro Radial Railway.

In starting Mr. D'Alton said that he would speak on radio from the standpoint of the engineer, rather than from that of the amateur, who jumps from one circuit to another. The guided wave system, as developed in the Hydro Laboratories, is twenty times as efficient as the broad casted wave. It has the great advantage of privacy and all atmospheric interference is eliminated. The Hydro Commission is operating twenty four of these stations on its Niagara Power System, taking the place of the telephone, which is subject to frequent interruption.

A great many difficulties were encountered in installing the system, and training the station operators in its use. The maintenance men had to be carefully supervised so that they would not make connections according to ordinary electrical practice which were not suitable for radio work, and the operators had to be carefully trained in operating and adjusting the stations.

Mr. D'Alton showed a large number of slides of apparatus developed or adapted for the purpose, and explained the technical features of their operation. Afterwards he answered a number of questions asked by the members. Mr. E. R. Shirley tendered the thanks of the branch to Mr. D'Alton for his interesting and instructive lecture.

VOL. LVI., No. PETERBOROUGH, SATURDAY, JANUARY 10, 1925 PRICE THREE CENTS

200 WITNESSES HEARD IN THREE MONTHS OF MONTREAL'S ENQUIRY

Investigation of City's Police Affairs Concluded Yesterday—Commissioner to Hear Arguments on January 19—201 Exhibits Registered.

10,000 PAGES OF TYPEWRITTEN COPY

MONTREAL, Jan. 10.—After three months of almost continuous session, the enquiry into the affairs of the Montreal police, conducted by Mr. Justice Coderre, concluded the taking of evidence here Friday, and the Commissioner set January 19th as the date on which counsel would begin their arguments. Nearly 200 witnesses have been heard; their testimony covered 10,000 pages of typewritten copy and exhibits totalled 201.

The concluding testimony was given by Chief of Police Belanger, who gave evidence regarding the use of taxis during the police chiefs' convention here last summer, and also with regard to a laudatory "puff" for a brand of patent medicine to which the chief had subscribed in an advertisement. On this latter point the chief admitted that he had never taken any of the pills referred to in his life, but that he had subscribed to the "puff" on the recommendation of a friend.

Napoleon Gravel, ex-chief of the St. Lambert police recounted the difficulties he had had with Constable Arthur Belanger, nephew of the city chief, when the constable was on the St. Lambert force. This testimony was in connection with the alleged relations between Belanger and Ethel Radley, daughter of William Radley of Toronto, who, it had been stated earlier in the case, had been induced to leave her home in Toronto and come to Montreal, by Belanger. Mr. Gravel declared that while the family was staying in St. Lambert Belanger had made their home "his police station at night".

This concluded the taking of evidence.

WHEN NEW YORK WAS BURIED UNDER DRIFTS OF SNOW

Traffic in New York was almost at a standstill after 24 hours of steady snowfall. Autos stalled in almost every block, holding up all surface traffic. Photo upper left shows a dignified gentleman endeavoring to clear away the snow with his cane so that his stalled motor may carry him on his way. Upper right, firemen are helping to move a machine so that they can get at a fire plug. The lower scene was a typical one. A stranded taxi holds the center of the street, while a speding fire engine that turned out to dodge the taxi is stalled in the heavy drifts at theside of the road. The firemen were on foot.

TOURIST TRAFFIC TO ARGENTINE IS HEAVY

Prospective Visit of Prince of Wales Stimulates Interest.

LONDON, Jan. 10. — (Canadian Press).—The impending visit of the Prince of Wales to Argentina has given a fillip to the tourist traffic to South America. Shipping agents here say more people are booking passage to the South American continent than ever before. Every ship leaving Great Britain is comfortably filled with passengers, some merely tourists, others combining business and pleasure in visiting the big cities, while several are planning tours of the whole of South America.

Argentine Consul General Perez declares that the present popularity of the southern continent cannot be solely attributed to the Prince of Wales' visit but is largely due to the fact that this year marks the centenary of the treaty between Great Britain and the Argentine by which the latter was first recognized as a separate country.

WET CONSERVATIVES MAY PRESS DEMAND FOR O.T.A. MODIFICATION

Attack on Prohibition May be Feature of Second Session of Legislature.

OPENS FEBRUARY 10

Report From Committee of Agricultural Tourists May Shape New Legislation.

TORONTO, Jan. 10.—Official announcement was made Friday that the second session of the 16th Legislature of Ontario would open on Tuesday, February 10. The government will endeavor to finish the session before Easter.

The House will meet with little change in its personnel, although the faces of the oldest member, Hon. Thos. Crawford, and of the oldest House official, the late F. J. Glackmeyer, sergeant-at-arms from confederation to his death last year, will be missing. Hon. Mr. Crawford resigned on taking a government appointment and his seat, Northwest Toronto, Seat A, has been filled by the election of Wm. Edwards (Con.)

The only other new member will be Karl Homuth (Labor), South Waterloo. South Waterloo was not represented in the House last session. Mr. Homuth will sit with the other two Labor members. He represented South Waterloo in the 15th Legislature. The new sergeant-at-arms is Lieut.-Col. Ogilvie, who visited the Speaker yesterday in connection with his official duties. By the retirement of Hon. Thos. Crawford, Sam Clark (Lib.) Northumberland, becomes "father of the House." Every riding will be represented at this session.

A Light Program.

It is not expected that there will be a heavy program of government legislation. Among the most important is the proposed tax on gasolene and changes in motor car taxes which may accompany it. There is a keen demand for a tax on gasoline and many resolutions from representative public bodies have come to the government asking for it. However, there is said to be some opposition. Along the same line there will be legislation on the recommendations of the advisory committee on roads which has been working during the year. The main suggestion, it is understood, is increasing the assistance to township roads and cutting down the heavy expense and reducing the number of designated county-provincial roads. It is honed to arrange a more equitable distribution of money assistance, so back concessions will get some share.

There will be considerable legislation from the department of agriculture, though none of it will be drastic Legislation will probably follow any reports made by the agricultural committee which toured the entire province during the recess studying rural conditions. The department of mines will have an amendment to the iron ore bounty act. The act passed last year left the bounty, half payable by the province and half payable by the federal government. So far the federal government has not decided to pay the half. It is proposed although the proposal may not take legislative shape, that the province pay the entire bounty. There will be little legislation concerning education, unless it is decided within the next few weeks to make big changes. The department of forests and lands will not offer much new in a legislative way. The assessment act will be consolidated, in accordance with recommendations of the revision commission.

Opposition Rumors.

The Opposition leaders have announced that they intend to put up a real fight this year in opposing legislation of which they do not approve. W. E. N. Sinclair, Liberal leader, has announced that he will demand greater investigation of the Settell charges against the Hydro. He also demands the publication in full of the Settell letter, in which the charges were contained. The Liberal leader has also stated that he wants to investigate transactions between the Home Bank and the Provincial Treasury before the Drury government came into power. Both these demands will probably be the cause of sharp debates.

Last year, in demanding that the Farmers be recognized as the official opposion, Manning Doherty, the leader, said he would renew the demand at the opening of every session of this legislature. It is under-

BALLOT FIXERS CONFESSION OF SPOILED VOTES

Engaged as Tally Clerk, He Mutilated Ballots With Lead Point on Ring.

SWUNG ELECTION

Declares He Conducted School to Teach Trick of Fixing Ballots.

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—A "magic ring" which when properly manipulated is said by its inventor to have elected or defeated congressional or lesser candidates, was shown and explained to a New York grand jury Friday.

Its youthful owner, George Rosken, rather proudly asserted that the magic band not only brought about the election of Nathan D. Perlman Republican to congress and illegally defeated his Democratic opponent Dr. Wm. T. Siovitch, but that one like it was the prize which went with every diploma issued by him to graduates of his "school for ballot fixers."

The ring, he said, held a cleverly concealed bit of lead with which any person, with adequate instruction and practice, could mark ballots under the very eyes of poll watchers without fear of detection.

Although ordinarily conducted in his lower east side home, his 'school' was no local affair, the dapper young election clerk explained, but an institution with national aspirations which claimed as alumni dexterous "ballot fixers" in New York, Philadelphia, Boston, Jersey City and Hoboken. When business was flourishing—as it was in 1921 and again in 1923 —Rosken said he engaged larger class rooms in skyscraper buildings in the Times Square district.

Spoiled Ballots

Rosken, who Thursday presented to District Attorney Banton a sworn confession that he had marked and mutilated ballots in last November's election, in which he was a tally clerk although an employe of the Perlman campaign forces, related his story to newspapermen in the grand jurors' ante-room. A few minutes later he appeared before the jurors to continue his testimony concerning the manner in which he says he insured Dr. Sirovich's defeat, and was excused an hour later to be recalled next Monday when the investigation will be resumed.

Although only 26 years old, Rosken said he had been conducting his school for ten years and that it had netted him fees from pupils and office seekers between $35,000 and $50,000.

Rosken was said to have freely admitted that he was actuated to tell of the alleged fraud through the failure of the official who he alleged had conspired with him, to make good promises to ham and others that they would receive government appointments and other rewards tor thier services at the polls. Rosken was reported to have told District Attorney Banton before he entered the Grand Jury room, that a berth,

USE OF SUGAR SHOWS PROSPERITY OF NATION

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 10.—(United Press). — Sugar is the world's yardstick of prosperity, according to R. F. Taber, an Ohio State University economist.

"Sugar, as much as any one product, tells how prosperous the leading nations of the world are," says Taber.

"With sugar as the yardstick, the United States leads the world in prosperity and Russia is near the bottom of the list."

Taber explains that although a certain amount of sugar will be used as a necessity, all sweets over a certain point are regarded as luxury. "Assuming, therefore, that the craving for sugar is proportional to the craving for other luxuries and human indulgences, we get a fairly accurate idea of a nation's prosperity from its per capita consumption of sugar."

Recent statistics show that the average person in the United States eats 101 pounds of sugar every year Englanod stands next with a per capita consumption of 93. Germany records 53 pounds per person every year, Italy 14, and Russia 9.

THREE OF FOUR SUSPECTS IN HIJACKING MURDER RELEASED BY SEATTLE COURT

Confession of Beatman Involves Fourth in Slaying of Skipper and Son.

WANTED IN CANADA.

SEATTLE, Jan. 10.—(Canadian Press).—The release of three of the four suspects held here, and the presentation of the confession of Paul Strumpkin in the hijacking murders of the gas boat Beryl G., of Pender Island, B.C., on September 15, featured the opening of extradition proceedings in the case in the Superior Court Friday.

The men released from custody were Clarence Chestwood, Harold Morris and Ray J. Kramer, who, with Charles Morris, have been held in jail since their arrest as fugitives from British Columbia, where they were accused of complicity in the murder of Captain W. D. Gillis and his son William, on the liquor runner, Beryl G. Charles Morris is held after the release of the other three.

Proceedings for his extradition began with the introduction of the confession of Strumpkins, a Victoria boatman. The confession gives the details of the murder of Captain Gillis and his son, on the Beryl G., and the hijacking of the liquor cargo, and Morris is named as being a member of the hijacking gang. Strumpkins accused Morris of having worn a white naval cap trimmed in gold braid, presumably to give the impression that he was an official.

At the opening of the proceedings, C. Rose, representing the Canadian Government, announced withdrawal of the charge against Cheatwood, Morris and Kramer, and asked the court to dismiss the charge.

Evidence brought out by the Crown showed that the baby died of an inherited disease, but as it could not be proved that there was criminal negligence on the part of the mother, the court allowed her to go.

Montreal Doctor in Serious Condition—Lost in Laurentians.

MONTREAL, Jan. 10.—Dr. F. L. Lockhart, prominent Montreal physician, is in a critical condition at the General Hospital, as a result of having both his feet badly frozen a fortnight ago, while he was lost in the woods near the St. Maurice Fish and Game Club in the Laurentians. The doctor was discovered by a search party after being out in below zero weather. He was brought to Montreal immediately, but the seriousness of his condition was not realized until a few days ago. Dr. A.K. Harwood, Superintendent of the General Hospital, said this morning that the condition of the injured physician "does not show any improvement and is very serious."

ALLEGED ASSASSIN OF MRS. EVANS CAPTURED

Third of Mexican Gang Will Likely be Executed.

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 10. —Francisco Perez, alleged to be third of the assassins of Mrs. Rosalie Evans, has been captured by the police, according to press despatches from Huejotzingo, Puebla. Mrs. Evans, widow of a British subject, was killed last August near her Hacienda in the State of Puebla.

Perez will be taken to Puebla City for trial. The death sentence is expected, the despatches say.

Alejo Garcia and Francisco Huiz were sentenced to death in November for their part in the murder of Mrs. Evans. The crime followed a bitter fight between Mrs. Evans and the Mexican government over the efforts of the state to confiscate her hacienda under the land division laws. This fight caused such a controversy that it resulted in the Mexican government obtaining the recall of th e British charge archieves, H. Cunard Commins.

The British declared Mrs. Evans' assassination was the result of a fight but the Mexican authorities say that the murder was solely for the purpose of robbery .

BRITISH INSIST ON REDUCTION OF U. S. CLAIMS

Representatives of Both Countries Trying to Drive Hard Bargain in Paris.

LITTLE PROGRESS

Negotiations Have Been Reported to Respective Govts. for Further Instructions.

PARIS, Jan. 10.— Great Britain and the United States are getting together slowly, "but normally," on the United States reparation claims which are to finally come before the conference of allied finanace ministers, in session here.

At the end of Friday's informal discussions and conferences it was apparent that the representatives of both English-speaking countries were trying to drive a hard bargain. Winston Churchill, British chancellor of the exchequer, wishes to economize, and the United States estimate of war damage claims, tentatively fixed at $350,000,000, is likely to be whittled down before the Anglo-Saxons finally reach the expected accord.

United States Ambasasdor Herrick and Kellog with James A. Logan, Jr., United States' representatives which the reparation commission are standing their ground, but the negotiations, for the time being, are up to the respective governments of Britain and the United States.

The continental delegations are watching the apparent deadlock between the two principal countries with ill-suppressed chuckles.

Belgium Assents.

Belgium's assent to the reduction, of the Spa allotment of reparations from eight to five and one-half, and perhaps five per cent., if necessary, appears to have been the only forward step made yesterday. Complete accord also has not been reached on the Belgium position, as the latter contends she still has about 250,000,000 gold francs due her on her priority claims. The British aver that Belgium has already received 2,500,000,000 francs in reparations and that three per cent. of her priority, if abandoned by that country, should be subtracted from her receipts beginning immediately. Experts will go over a mass of figures and report to the delegates before Monday just exactly what Belgium has actually received.

The United States war damage claims settlement, however, remains the most important matter before the conference. Three full days have elapsed since the conference convened and the days, except for two very brief plenary sessions, have been almost entirely occupied by unofficial and private conversations between the members of the British and the United States' delegations in an effort to reach a compromise.

The net result is that late last night Ambassador Herrick and Mr. Churchill were awaiting further instructions from Washington and London. Despite assurances of both delegations that an accord will certainly be reached, the slowness in arriving at an agreement is causing a feeling of surprise among the European delegations from which a

RUSH OF MERCHANDISE BLOCKED RHINE ROADS

Race Against High German Tariff, Which Becomes Effective Today.

STRASBOURG, Alsace Lorraine, France, Jan. 10.—(Canadian Press). —All roads across the Rhine, particularly those leading to Kehl, were crowded yesterday with trucks, wagons, carts and all sorts of merchandise being rushed into German territory before the Alsace-Lorraine duty-free provision of the Versailles treaty expired to-day and the high German tariff becomes effective. The movement of goods was so heavy the authorities had to organize traffic regulation forces on the country roads.

WINNIPEG "ENOCH ARDEN" SURPRISED

In His Year's Absence Wife Thought Him Dead and Married Another.

WINNIPEG, Man., Jan. 10—(Canadian Press).—First Mark Twain, then Irvin S. Cobb, now Jim Moxley, late of The Pas, Man., have been compelled to deny premature reports of their death.

But Moxley's trouble only began with his denials of his demise. Returning to Winnipeg a few days ago, after a year's absence, he states, he wended his way to his wife. Locating her, he walked up to the door, knocked, and, to his astonishment, found himself ordered off the premises by another husband his wife had acquired.

In his absence she had become, he says, Mrs. Sterne. Dazedly inquiring for particulars, he was informed that he was dead, and an item to that effect had appeared in the press.

Strenuous denial on his part followed, and he demonstrated Friday morning that not only was he alive, but strongly kicking. A warrant was sworn out for the arrest of Mary Matilda Sterns on a charge of bigamy. She was arraigned in the city police court Friday morning, and remanded.

LEFT FLEAS IN HOUSE

Some 154 Different Types, Owner Alleged in Suit.

OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 10.—There are 154 different types of animal fleas, according to evidence given at a recent Division Court action by an entomologist of the department of agriculture.

The action, instituted by Mrs. Ellen Butcher, of this city, was against a former tenant of her's for damage which she claimed was caused to her house through the pollution of it by fleas, supposedly off a prize Persian cat and a batch of rabbitis, which the defendant kept.

Mrs. Butcher asked for $25—$15 for fumigating charges and $10 for inconvenience—but the judge dismissed the action and charged costs against the plaintiff.

BURNED TO DEATH

DELBURNE, Alta., Jan. 10.—J. Nicholson, harness maker, was burned to death here this morning, in an attempt to salvage property from his blazing store.

PREMIER'S RARE OPPORTUNITY TO UNITE DOMINION

Canada Must be Saved From Sectionalism, Declares Montreal Star Editorial.

"MAN OF THE HOUR"

Welfare of Canada Must be Placed Before Considerations of Party Politics.

MONTREAL, Jan. 10. — The Montreal Daily Star, in its first editorial today under the heading "Canada—the Hour—the Man," asks "Who will be the man of destiny to save Canada?" and after referring to historic cases in which the hour had produced the man, such as Mussolini to save Italy and Lloyd George to successfully conduct the war, goes on to say:

"The hour has struck in Canada today just as surely as it struck in Imperial Rome, in Vienna and in London and the man of destiny is awaited with straining hearts and the gravest anxiety.

"There is one man today who can avert the menace.

"That man is the man at the helm, the Right Hon. Mackenzie King, Premier of the Dominion.

"He is in power and he has the support of a large section of the country.

"Mackenzie King has an opportunity which comes to but few men and comes but once in a lifetime. He has the power to weld this Canada into a homogeneous whole and to grapple the evil thing that threatens to strangle the very life out of the Dominion and by co-operation, by energy and with the crusader's faith to win through.

"Yet he must envisage the grave problems that have brought about a condition that makes brave men tremble for our future and with a breadth of view that the bigness of the questions demand. He must tackle them fearlessly without thought of party advantage, not bartering this concession to the Maritime Provinces, nor that to the Prairie Provinces, not promising railways and public works to each sectional group of supporters because their demands are insistent and their voting strength is great, rather than because the best interests of Canada as a whole demand them.

"Canada is fast becoming a loosely knit group of petty empires, each with its own problems and each with its own rights which it guards most jealously. The welfare of Canada is not the governing factor but the manipulations of party politics.

"If Canada is to be saved this must end. Groups of the leading men of each part of the country must formulate their demands in the light of the welfare of the Dominion."

WHEAT MARKET BULLISH HERE

Peterboro Farmers Offered as High as $1.70 a Bushel —Other Prices.

A miniature war in the wheat-buying markets of the city and a very decided advance in staple commodities of everyday living, are features of week's activities in local mercantile circle.. The commercial oyster is the only apparent bright spot in a scale of rapidly ascending prices.

Fall wheat a fortnight ago, was passing from the hands of the farmers to the grain buyers at prices of $1.35 and $1.40 a bushel. Steady advances brought it up recently to about $1.55 as a general price, with spring wheat bought at $1.50. One of the milling companies of the city has been causing a distinct flurry in grain-buying circles by offering $1.70 and $1.75 a bushel for fall wheat, and the farmers of the district are eagerly taking advantage of a temporary bonanza to realize a price for their grain that has not been duplicated here for many years. Large quantities have been flowing into the bins of one company during the week, while the other grain buyers are waiting for the situation to return to normal.

A cash and carry merchant, whose fingers are kept on the pulse of local conditions is rather pessimistic of the outlook, with regard to increasing prices of standard grocery supplies. Almost everything in the staple grocery line is registering advances at the moment, with the exception of sugar.

The long-looked-for January reduction in sugar has materialized and housewives would be well advised to lay in a stock of the saccharine commodity while the price is low. Later when bedrock prices have been realized, and sugar has reached a prophesied low level of $7 per hundredweight, refiners are expected to repeat tactics of other seasons, and jack up the quotations once more.

For the average wage-earner, the man with a more or less uncertain labor week, and a pay roll that fluctuates with disappointing tendencies downward, the man with a family of young children, has not a very hopeful outlook just at present. Some of these men come in here with cheques of $10 and $12 for a part-time week's work, and they can buy only the barest necessities," says the merchant above referred to. "I'm afraid there is going to be trouble before the winter is over." These people who live on the fringe of things, who are always the first to suffer when the labor market is at its ebb, have to pay the same prices for the needs of life as the man with a comfortable bank account. They have not even the advantage to their table nowadays, and it was a very great advantage to many in former days, of a cheap butter-spread in the oleomargarine, which has been removed from their reach.

A more optimistic attitude is taken by Mr. J. E. Adams, wholesale grocer, who admits that prices are on the up-grade, but who points to the past as an evidence of a cycle of good times and bad that have their inevitable reaction. "An advance in prices must in time work to the advantage of all," is his contention, and he points out that better prices for wheat mean more money in the coffers of the farmer and the miller, both of whom are enabled to give an extra flip to the wheels of industry by their ability to spend more. In consequence, in time, the workman benefits. His labor is more in demand, and he can get a better wage. Also the man who will work a little harder and for longer hours, can benefit to a corresponding extent.

As described by Mr. Adams, the situation of a wholesale grocer is unfavorable times is something like that of the well known individual who stood between the devil and the deep blue sea. The man without work can get a little extra time and credit from his grocer, who knows that he will pay when he is able, and therefore is willing to carry him to a certain extent. The grocer also, who buys from the wholesale dealer, can pass along to the latter his plea for an extended time for payment of bills, and the wholesaler is hardly in a position to refuse. Here the procession stops. There is no way of influencing the manufacturer, whose system of drawing upon his customers works with clock-like regularity and admits of no pauses. Between the spurs of quick drafts on the one side and the check-rein of slow payments on the other, the wholesaler is in an unenviable position. However, according to Mr. Adams, although collections are unsatisfactory business generally is looking up. The Christmas trade this demands small amounts of delicate wares has settled once more into the larger staple lines.

Although packaged teas have not yet registered the expected strong advance in price, teas and coffees are both on the up-grade. Office dealers are described as being "at their wits' end," with the market in a state of flux.

Flour and rolled oats and cereals are in a steadily advancing market.

In wholesale fruit circles the latest item is news of a frost in California, that reduced the export crop of oranges by over twenty-five per cent., with a much larger percentage of damage in some sections. The navels and Valencias bore the brunt of the attack. Onions are a scarce commodity just now and command a higher price than usual at this time of year. The apple russety is slowly petering out and gives signs of absolute depletion before the usual low ebb in this fruit.

In the retail fruit stores, grapes by the basket in January claim the attention as a real novelty. Red Rogers at seventy-five cents a basket can still be purchased at this late date.

Rhubarb from local hot houses, is the latest item on the menu. Tomatoes from local growers command a price of forty cents a pound and are scarcer this year than last. Imported from Florida, they may be bought for twenty-five cents a pound.

Oysters, for some unexplained reason, possibly in an effort to do their bit in minimizing a high-price situation, have decreased in quotations by a nickel on the pint. The stores are offering toothsome pickles, soaked in dill brine, at six for a quarter, and penitential-sounding lentils may be had, at two pounds for twenty-five cents.

CAMPAIGN STARTED ON SILVER FOX FRAUDS

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—(United Press).— A campaign has been launched against "silver fox frauds", according to L. E. Holland, president of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the world. It will be handled by the National Vigilance Committee of the association.

"Most of the frauds revolve around the supposition that silver fox pelts are extremely valuable," Holland said. "As a matter of fact, the bureau of statistics of the Dominion of Canada reports that the average price of these pelts has declined from $245 in 1919-1920 to $112.80 in 1922.

"The method of operation of a number of these companies involves not the sale of stock, but the sale of animals for breeding purposes. They are sold on a cooperative plan whereby the purchaser of a pair of foxes is guaranteed a 100 per cent. increase in their number.

"The operator of the farm retains the remainder of the progeny.

"These, in turn, are resolt to other investors. It is a sort of endless chain proposition, in which the operator has little to lose and the purchaser bears the risk."

WHERE AND HOW TO WATCH FOR THE SUN'S ECLIPSE ON 24TH

WASHINGTON, D.C., Jan. 10.—(United Press).—It will be the first time in more than a hundred years to write the twenty-fourth of January down on your desk pads and drive autos slowly that day, for on that date, says the American Nature Association, there will occur in the skies something that you will probably never see again—a total eclipse of the sun in some places and a partial eclipse over the greater part of the United States.

If you live within a belt 100 miles wide and 5,000 miles long and flung from northern Minnesota across northern Wisconsin and Michigan, the Great Lakes to New York, Long Island, Connecticut and Rhode Island, parts of Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Massachusetts you will see the flaming sun blotted out on the morning of January 24. Those who live near this path across the country—a path that ends at sunset near the north of Scotland—will see the sun shadowed in part, the extent depending on how near they live to this belt.

On the twenty-fourth day of the new year the moon will pass between the earth and the sun, throwing its shadow on our sphere. It is the first total eclipse of the sun to be visible in this section of the country since the year 1806. No other total eclipse will take place in the same vicinity for more than a century. Though a partial eclipse is not an unusual occurrence in one locality, it is not every generation that see the moon smudging out the sun.

The eclipse will be total in Duluth Buffalo, New York City, New Haven and many other large cities in this part of the country. The partial eclipse will be very large, nearly total, in some of the largest cities in the United States, including Boston, Providence, Albany, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington and Chicago. Even as far south as New Orlreans, and as far west as St. Louis and Omaha, the partial eclipse will be large.

From Lake Erie Westward.

In most of the central states the sun will rise more or less eclipsed, but from Lake Erie eastward, all of the eclipse will take place after the sun has risen.

The total eclipse in New York City will take place about 9:10 a.m. and the time of the greatest eclipse for most of the cities in the east that keep Eastern Standard Time will vary but a few minutes from this time. The partial eclipse will begin about eight o'clock in the same section and the eclipse will be over about half-past ten.

When the eclipse becomes total, the brighter stars and planets appear and also the beautiful solar corona that the astronomer is so anxious to study. This is a magnificent halo of pearly light extending to a great distance from the sun and different in shape and appearance at every eclipse. It is never visible except during a total solar eclipse and can be studied only at that time, because its light is so faint that the glare of sunlight in the daytime hides it from view. It is only when the moon obligingly comes between sun and earth and shuts out the light of the sun that the corona shines in all its wonderful beauty.

All those who find themselves within the path of total eclipse should look out for the shadow bands, wavy bands of light and shade that flit over the landscape and buildings just before and after the total eclipse. Also, they should look out for the interesting phenomenon known as "Baily's Beads," which are seen as the thin, thread like solar crescent breaks up into beads of light as the total eclipse is about to begin, and which are seen again just as it ends.

Look also for the scarlet solar prominence during the total eclipse which are flames of glowing gases of hydrogen and helium rising from the hidden surface of the moon to heights of thousands of miles and visible beyond the edge of the moon in queer forms and shapes.

The brighter stars and planets appear during the total eclipse, and even a little before and after it. The three planets, Venus, Mercury and Jupiter, should be seen in a close group some distance to the southwest of the sun. But above all else do not fail to make the most of your opportunities to observe the wonderful and mysterious corona which can never be seen except when the sun is totally eclipsed and which very few people ever have the good fortune to see.

Although the event of this one day dwarfs all others by comparison in the January skies, in midwinter and evening are at the best. There are more brilliant stars in view than at any other time of the year.

SINGING SANDS AND HOT WATER FISHES

LONDON, Jan. 10.— (United Press).—Haunted ruins, singing sands, and fish that live in hot water have been discovered by British explorers in the Arabian deserts of Jafura and Jabrin.

Major R. E. Cheesman, who has just returned from an Arabian tour, claims to have been the first European traveler to tread this waterless area. With a party of assistants and camels he joined the Al Murra, an Ikhwan tribe that roams the desert.

Reporting his discoveries to the Royal Georgraphical Society, Major Cheesman said Jabrin, which has long been veiled in mystery, was found to be a depression, with date palms and ruined castles reputed to be haunted by spirits. The desert was encroaching on all sides and the oasis wells were drying up.

Major Cheesman mapped the Jafura desert, a vast tract of moving sand dunes, along its western side. He brought back with him specimens of fish caught in a hot springs at Hufuf, the temperature of which was 101 degrees Fahrenheit.

Among his other exhibits were photographs of a ruined town which he discovered on the coast at Oqair, supposed to be the site of the ancient Phoenician port of Gerra. It was near this place that he encountered the phenomenon of singing sands, on a beach where each footstep brought forth a mysterious piping whistle.

Major Cheesman's object was to obtain a collection of desert animals and birds from Central Arabia, and he found nine species and eight subspecies which are said to be new to science. During his trip he was the guest of Ibn Saud, the Wahabi Sultan of Najd.

SAYS SOVIET EXILED 91,400.

Kerensky Paper in Berlin Reports 90,000 Had No Trial.

BERLIN, Jan. 10. — The Soviet police have exiled 90,000 Russians without trial from Russia, according to an alleged official report to the Soviet Government reproduced here in the newspaper edited by Alexander Kerensky, who was the head of the Russian Government ousted by the Bolsheviki in 1917. Besides these 1,400 others are said to have been exiled followed trials.

This total does not include criminals, but merely those exiled for anti-Soviet activities. Among the exiles, 40 per cent. are declared to be workers, despite the Bolshevik claims to be a workers' Government. Of the other exiles, 28 per cent. are classified as intellectuals, 17 per cent. as peasants, 3 per cent. as students and 2 per cent. as speculators. The remaining 10 per cent. are classed as "counter-revolutionaries."

BRITISH INSIST ON REDUCTION, ETC.

touch of satisfaction is not altogether absent.

Europeans Amused.

Among the continental representatives one hears ill-disguised chucklings and references to the Anglo-Saxon customary advocacy of open diplomacy and a greater show of confidence between European nations. The comment from the European sources that Britain and the United States find it a difficult matter to agree when it becomes a question of dollars and sterling. It is pointed out that the only tangible progress made during the recent three days has been due to the Belgian announcement that they were ready to abandon a portion of their priority percentage under the Spa agreement.

Absolute secrecy is maintained concerning Anglo-American negotiations but it is understood that the British are insisting upon the reduction of the amount of the $350,000,000 which has been tentatively put forward by the United States' representatives as their war damage claims. Ambassador Kellog and Mr. Logan had a long conference Friday afternoon and, at its conclusion, sent a cablegram to Secretary of State Hughes outlining the respective positions. Both sides know they must get together before going into a full session of the conference Monday and that to reach an accord there must be compromises all along the line.

in the Narcotic Division of the Government revenue service had been promised to him. He also was reported to have declared that, because of being turned down by the man who made the promises, he "didn't care if I have to serve ten years in prison, if others whom I accuse would be convicted and received but ten days imprisonment."

How Change Was Made

"I manipulated the tally sheets so that when the clerk handling the ballots called a vote for Sirovich I recorded the vote for Perlman. Votes for Perlman I tallied for Sirovich. In this way I reduced the Sirovich majority of at least 125 to 45.

"My alterations thereupon showed a total vote of 255 for Sirovich and 265 for Perlman. An accurate and honest tally would have given Sirovich 325 or 330 votes and Perlman about 140 votes.

"If my figures do not jibe it is because here and there I would throw an odd vote to William Karlin, the Socialist candidate, who stood no chance ,anyway.

"I had a ring on my finger, specially made, which I had been using to fake votes for years. This ring had on the side towards the palm a pencil lead setting.

"I used this lead to write it about fifteen votes for Perlman on ballots where the space for recording the vote for Congressman had been left blank.

Easy to Kill Vote

"In some cases ,where a straight Democratic ticket had been cast, including a vote for Dr. Sirovich, I would add to the ballot markings a vote for one of the other Congress candidates. This, of course, would have the effect of voiding the vote for Sirovich."

Rosken here demonstrated with a pencil point concealed in the palm if his hand how he could mark a ballot and escape detection. He went on:

"I am not the only one that can do this. I have trained many others in the same trick. I have a school, around election time, for this sort of thing and I have been called in as an expert election fixed in hotly contested districts in Queens, Bronx and Kings County, as well as in other districts in Manhattan. Sometimes I would bring with me some of my aides whom I had schooled."

Dr. Sirovich said:

"If the ballots sustain the story told by this young man, Congress will be called upon to unseat my recent opponent and to seat me.

Met in Restaurant

"I didn't look for Rosken. In fact, I met him for the first time in an East Side restaurant where he accosted me and told me his story. I was on my way to a meeting of the People's Hospital Board and had him repeat his story to my colleagues. I then had him tell his story to Commissioner Delaney and Mr. De Ford."

Denial by Perlman

Congressman Perlman denied any knowledge of the alleged fraud when he arrived last night in his home at 440 East Fifth Street, from Washington.

"This man Rosken never was my office manager," he said. "He merely was employed for three or four weeks of the campaign to give out circulars, act as messenger, clean out my campaign headquarters and open it in the morning and close it at night. He was employed by my campaign manager, Louis J. Schwartz, out of sympathy for Rosken's wife and 3-year-old child.

"I recall seeing him in the polling place at Third Avenue and Ninth street on election night when I was making a tour of all the polling places in the Eighth Assembly District, in which Samuel S. Koenig, Republican County Chairman, had stationed forty private detectives under former Police Captain Dominick Reilly to prevent Tammany thugs stealing the election.

"I hadn't spoken a world to Rosken before on that day or the preceding day. Mr. Schwartz had hired him. I gathered from his actions at the polling place, where some of Reilly's detectives were stationed, that he was some sort of an official there, but if it reseew with me to bring about his appointment as a member of the Board of Inspectors or in any other capacity I would not much such a recommendation because my knowledge of his past would not justify my doing so.

"That election district reported long in advance of many of the others. Later it was found that the first report, which gave me a majority, had been changed so that Dr. Sirovich was the leader. We had lawyers in that and other districts to prevent Tammany thugs from perpetrating frauds, and it wasn't likely that these lawyers would tolerate wrong doing of any kind."

Desire to Get Even

Congressman Perlman declared that he believed the statement of Rosken was due to the bitterness of some of those who opposed him in the election, including a detective who, after he had complained to Mayor Hylan and Commissioner Enright in person, had been transferred to the Bronx over the election period. He said that this detective was particularly bitter toward him and that he had heard reports that the detective had said "he would get even with Perlman."

"Rosken's action is due to the fact that he became displeased since the election because I aided his wife by inducing a physician to treat her without charge after she had come to my home and told me of his brutal treatment of her," Congressman Perlman said. "I gave him a 'call-down' for his treatment of her and tried to get him a job in a department store through a friend, so that he could support his wife and child, but he doesn't want to work and wouldn't take a job offered him.

"Others concocted this story for him. I feel sure that that can be proved before this investigation is ended."

SATURDAY, JANUARY 10, 1925.

THE NEW CHAIRMAN.

The unanimous election of Mr. J. A. McKone as Chairman of the Board of Education will be received with hearty approval throughout the city.

Mr. McKone, one of the oldest members of the board in point of experience, has always shown a keen interest in the duties of the position and in educational matters, and he has given his fellow citizens good service since he was first elected to the board.

He should make a fine Chairman, an official who will invest the position with the desired dignity and courtesy, and who will be impartial and fair in his rulings.

THE PRESENT EPIDEMIC.

Peterborough is suffering from an epidemic of mumps, particularly in East City, simply because a number of the families in which the first cases occurred refused or neglected to notify the health authorities.

Most epidemics of this nature can be traced to a similar cause.

Had the early cases been reported and quarantined, it is certain that the number of cases would be much smaller than it is at present—and the worst of it is that many families are still not reporting, with the result that the distressing ailment continues to make rapid progress.

The health authorities would seem to have no other alternative than to insist upon the law being complied with, and that the prescribed penalties be inflicted upon those who refuse to carry out the regulations.

The latter were drawn up to protect the public, and if they are allowed to be violated with impunity they are utterly useless for the purpose for which they were intended.

The people should be given to understand that health laws must be obeyed as faithfully and promptly as every other regulation, for it is clear that until that fact is generally appreciated we will have more than our share of infectious and contagious diseases.

A SELFISH STAND.

The fruit growers of the Niagara Peninsula, at their annual meeting, passed a resolution urging the Federal Government to protect the Canadian fruit growing industry by imposing an import tax of not less than 20 per cent. on all fruit and vegetables coming into Canada before the Canadian product is ripe.

The Dominion Government will do nothing of the kind if it considers the interest of the consumer.

The Niagara fruit growers are quite willing to let the outside fruit come in when the Canadian article is ready for market, realising that the home-grown product can stand competition with any other in the world.

Why should they seek, therefore, to deprive the people of Canada from the benefit of getting fruits and vegetables from the South at a time of year when they cannot be obtained from Canadian growers.

The fear that the appetite of the public might be satisfied by the foreign fruits before the Canadian product makes its appearance is not a convincing one.

There is plenty of market left for the home-grown article, and no reason in the world why a portion of the people should be deprived of fruits and vegetables in the early spring when their use is perhaps most beneficial, merely because the growers profess to be afraid that the early use of such products will kill the demand for the home product.

BETTER TIMES FOR FARMERS.

Hon. J. E. Martin, the Provincial Minister of Agriculture, gave the Eastern Ontario Dairymen, in convention at Kingston, the kind of speech that should be heard more often, especially when the audience is composed of agriculturalists.

It is undoubtedly characteristic of many farmers to habitually and continually look upon the dark side of things.

It doesn't matter how good conditions may be generally there is always a fly in the ointment.

The Western farmers in the House of Commons, for example, have filled many pages of Hansard with lamentations about the sad state of things in the West.

Even conditions in Russia looked bright when compared with the gloomy pictures painted by these sad-voiced Progressives, who depicted the Prairie Provinces as a land of blasted hopes and impoverished people.

So distressing were these descriptions that it would seem impossible to induce a single immigrant who had read one of the speeches to settle in the West.

The Ontario Minister of Agriculture, himself a farmer who has prospered because of intelligent and modern methods, is to be commended for taking a new line and seeking to impress upon his fellow-farmers that the threshold of better times has been reached and that their lot is much better than perhaps they have realized.

With the exception of beef cattle, all agricultural products are moving upward.

Before spring the values of all meat and dairy products will register further gains because they must follow grains.

The pendulum is commencing to swing the other way, and any one who contemplates selling his farm now is foolish.

The time will come shortly when the Ontario farm will be worth more than it ever was.

Such was the line of Mr. Martin's speech, and it should have a heartening effect.

LABOR'S OBJECTION.

Mr. Tom Moore, President of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, in his New Year's message refers, among other things, to the subject of immigration, says the Hamilton Spectator. The viewpoint of Canadian Labor upon this important question is pretty well understood by this time, and no reasonable exception can be taken to the attitude as outlined by Mr. Moore. He takes pains to correct the impression that the workers of Canada, organized and unorganized, are opposed to the entry of immigrants for whom work is available. Labor recognizes the need of a larger population just as much as others, he says, but it feels justified in protesting against the admission of people who by coming to this country court disaster for themselves and inflict hardship on others. Mr. Moore claims that official figures published by the British Government and "statistics from other sources" bear him out in the contention that "this is the class of immigration that Canada has been receiving," notwithstanding statements to the contrary.

The municipalities are pleading for help from the Provincial and the Dominion Governments towards meeting the burdens incidental to unemployment, but are being met with deaf ears. Is there not substance to the argument, however, that the Federal Government is responsible in a measure for existing conditions in the cities? No doubt, a sincere effort is being made to restrict immigration to the agricultural classes, until such time as the industrial situation shows improvement; but that intention is undoubtedly defeated in many cases. In an interview given to a Toronto newspaper yesterday a business man from London, England, warned the Canadian Government to be on its guard against those "who professed to be of the farm worker or domestic type, as it was found that those so professing were for the most part from the cities of England and would be seeking work in the cities here instead of going on the farm or entering domestic service." Those who live in the cities of Canada and come into contact with these new arrivals know that there is a solid basis for the objections of Labor and of the municipal authorities.

WATERED STOCK.

Recently Mr. P. T. Davies, manager of the Southern Canada Power Company, said: "Despite many authorities, investors need not feel that they are receiving ill-gotten gains when they next cash a public utility cheque." He explained that the water in the "watered" stock is usually nothing but investment dividends often many years delayed.

Mr. Davies then went on to explain a word in favor of watered stock, as follows: "To the mind of some of our best and most expressive citizens, watered stock conjures up a pictures of prosperous capital by some devious process creating large issue securities which have no excuse for existence and which, in the course of time, appear from out of a maze of finance and demand their pound of flesh, thus preventing the duped consumer from demanding any reduction in rates and generally increasing the cost of service."

There is nothing wrong with Mr. Davies' support of watered stock. We are not against it ourselves, if it is used for the purpose for which it was created.

Unfortunately—and here is where many more like Mr. Davies make an error—the issuance of this stock, particularly following large mergers, has brought into our commercial life a number of unscrupulous promoters for whom there seems to be no law governing their actions in the disposition of "watered" stock.

Where "watered" stock is divided among the bondholders or preferred shareholders, as an inducement to invest capital in new enterprises, there can be no objection. This "watered" stock represents the profit that will accrue to those who take the risk of surplus profits upon the enterprise. There is no harm in this. In fact it is fair and just.

But what has happened during the past ten years in the finlancing of many of our large mergers? The unscrupulous promoters reduced the amount of common stock that should have been divided among the shareholders, or those who subscribed funds to make the enterprise possible, and the greater portion controlling the company was divided among the promoters—generally a group knowing nothing about business efficiency, control or management.

Not satisfied with such wholesale plunder the promoters went further, and through laxity of our commercial incorporation laws, established what is known as a "voting trust." This instrument if you will, is but a scrap of paper, but in the instance to which we refer, it controlled the entire organization of a large company for a long period of years. In other words, in addition to retaining an enormous slice of common shares, in the division of the spoils of this company, the promoters presented themselves with a voting trust deed which cost nothing.

What was the result?

The physical condition of the company was starved to pay a dividend on the common stock, much against the will of some of the largest shareholders. It resulted in the resignation of the President and some of the Directors, though forcing the stock right up to $80.00 per share. At this price many of the insiders, knowing the true condition of affairs, sold out and made huge profits. The company finally approached the brink of financial embarrassment, the Canadian banks refused to supply credit, and money had to be sought to tide the company over. A New York brokerage firm obtained the money, it is stated, at a handsome commission, but demanded the "voting trust." They got it and now control this power which gives them the right, without holding a share in the company, if they so desired, to appoint Directors and operate the company.

Dividends had to be stopped on the preferred and it is very doubtful when they will be again resumed. The poor shareholders throughout the country are the sad victims. The fortunate ones were the promoters and insiders who divided millions of "watered" stock among themselves and sold out at $60 to $70 per share. (Worth now about $10.00).

There are many other similar flotations, or mergers, with the result that the country is suffering from lack of capital. Confidence of Foreign and Canadian investors must be restored.

We believe that the heads of our banking institutions have seen the grave and serious results of this deplorable way of doing business, and that they will co-operate in refusing to finance or back such projects which have for their ultimate object the transformation of unscrupulous promoters into multi-millionaires, as we are witnessing the transformation of some of the same type through the process of bootlegging.

This is the reason why we believe that it is up to the Federal Government not only to pass legislation that will put an end to bootlegging, but also put an end to overloading our commercial and industrial life with unearned "watered" stock for the benefit of unscrupulous promoters.—Quebec Daily Telegraph.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

The unemployment problem has been tossed back to the Provinces by the Federal Government. In the meanwhile nothing is being done.

The Saskatchewan Legislature unanimously passed a resolution calling for reciprocity with the United States. A copy should be sent to the leaders of the farmers across the line.

Premier King does well to emphatically characterize the statement in the London Morning Post that the separation of Canada from the Empire was being discussed in Canada as "nonsense."

WET CONSERVATIVES

stood that in giving his decision against the Farmer demand, that the Speaker gave it for the life of the legislature, and not for the session, so that if the demand is again repeated, it will probably be ruled out of order.

O.T.A. May Be Feature.

However, to a large number of the members of the House, the possibilities of attempted changes in the Ontario Temperance Act is the big feature of the session. Since the vote on the plebescite, the government has made no announcements nor has the premier expressed any opinion except that in the statement given following the vote. Meantime avowed wet members of the legislature have been telling the public that demands for modifcation of the O.T.A. will be asserted in the House. J. A. McCausland (Con.) Southwest Toronto, has been the most outspoken, although J. A. Currie and some others have also stated that they will have something to say in the legislature. There are also some Liberals, notably J. A. Pinard, who introduced a beer measure at the last session, who may also seek modification of the dry law. None, however, have announced any definite programme. There are more members in the house representing dry ridings, than there are representing ridings which voted against the O.T.A.

The extent of the demand among the members for a change in the temperance law cannot be estimated until the House opens. There are more rumors about changes in the act on the streets than there are in the Parliament buildings. However, it is bound to come up in some shape or form during the session.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK.

TORONTO, Jan. 9.—Cattle receipts jumped from 2,501 last week to 8,447 this week, an increase of about 6,000. Although there was a good demand for cattle, following the small receipts during the holiday weeks, the heavy run proved too much of a load for this week's markets. The weak point was in the quality of the bulk of the cattle offering, with too large a proportion of rough unfinished butcher cattle. The market opened with a good demand on Monday for the choicest butcher steers and heifers and continued firm at the recent advanced prices the whole of the week. Supplies of well finished fat cattle were, in fact, on the short side, while the medium quality half fat stuff was more than plentiful. The result was a considerable margin in prices between the best choice offerings and the poorer quality stuff.

In the export cattle section there was a moderately active demand early in the week, total export shipments to seaboard amounting to 1,800, including cattle billed through. The H. P. Kennedy Co. are shipping quite a few cattle through from their western feeding plant at Edmonton. Rogers and Maybee shipping most of their cattle from Ontario points. Mr. John Rogers reports that there will be a good market for choice fat export steers and bulls next week.

Calves held steady to firm all week, from $12 to $13, tops.

Sheep and lambs ruled quite strong from $14 to $15 for choice lambs.

Hog receipts were heavy and buyers tried hard to lower the quotations, but outside bidding was a little too strong, and prices closed firm on basis of $11 off cars.

Prices in the various sections are as follows:

Export cattle, choice and heavy steers, $7 to $8.25; bulls, $4.50 to $5.50; cows, $4.50 to $5.

Choice butchers, $6.50 to $7.25; medium, $5.50 to $6.25; common, $2.50 to $3.85; baby beeves, $8.50 to $10.

Choice fat cows, $3.50 to $5.

Stockers and feeders, choice short-keep feeders, 1,000 to 2,000 lbs., $5 to $5.75; choice stockers, 830 to 950 lbs., $4.25 to $4.75; light western stock, $3.50 to $3.75; choice western, $4.50 to $5.

Calves steady.

Sheep and lambs steady.

Hogs, $11 off cars.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, Jan. 9. — (Canadian Press). — Upturns in the price of wheat to-day accompanied indications of lively foreign demand for flour. A bulge in wheat quotations at Liverpool helped to stimulate wheat buying here. Closing prices on wheat were unsettled, 5-8 to 1 7-8 cents net higher, May 1.79 3-8 to 1.79⅝, and July 1.53 7-8 to 1.54, with corn ¼ to ⅜ cent up, oats showing ¼ to 5-8 cent gain, and provisions unchanged to 27 cents lower.

Persistent assertions that buying of flour for Russia was in progress on a large scale and that Japan was also figuring on making liberal purchases of flour, gave the wheat market a tendency to climb throughout the day. At the same time, the effect of the Liverpool wheat advance was heightened owing to the notable strength in sterling exchange and because the Liverpool advance came in the face of enlarged shipments of wheat from Australia and Argentina. Signs of improved domestic milling business were likewise apparent.

STERLING RATES.

MONTREAL, Jan. 9.—(Canadian Press).—Sterling exchange rates were quoted here to-day as follows:
Sterling demand, $4.80.
Sterling cables, $4.80 3-8.

MONTREAL GRAIN.

MONTREAL, Jan. 9.—(Canadian Press).—Little improvement was noted in the foreign demand for Canadian grain here to-day. The domestic and country demand for coarse grain was also slow, but the tone of the market was firm. Ontario No. 2 wheat grades being quoted at 66 cents, No. 3 64 cents and No. 4 grade at 62 cents.

The feature of the flour market was the stronger feeling that developed for spring wheat grades and prices were advanced 10 cents per barrel, which is the first change announced this year. The market for winter wheat flour was unchanged.

An easier feeling developed in the market for fresh extras and prices were reduced 5 cents a dozen. Wholesale jobbing was brisk. The potato trade responded to a steady demand and prices were well maintained with sales of car lots of No. 1 Green Mountain at $1 per 90-lb. bag.

Butter receipts dropped. Local business was good but no transactions for export were reported. Prices were reduced ¼ cent a pound on eastern township grass. Cheese receipts amounted to 234 boxes and recorded a rise of 12 cents per cwt. on Liverpool cables, with Canadian white quoted at 101s 6d.

Crop beans were quoted at $2.70 to $2.80 per bushel.

Their Education was provided by Their Fathers' will

CHILDREN are apt to grumble about school sometimes, finding classes irksome. They need a firm, parental hand—but the time comes when they are very glad of their education.

"How can I make sure that they will continue their schooling after I am gone?" he asked his wife when they told him he had better put his affairs in order for the last time.

She, poor woman, stricken with the verdict the doctors had pronounced, could offer no suggestions. But he found a way. He made a will, leaving the proceeds of one of his Mutual Life policies to be set aside for the purpose, and naming a trustee to help the mother administer this fund.

You, too, are anxious to insure the education of your children, whatever may happen. Let our agent explain the benefits of the Mutual Life's Educational Endowment Policy, specially designed for safeguarding this important purpose. Write this office for "The Mutual Book".

Safe, Speedy Relief from PAIN

Gentlemen:
For years I have been subject to severe attacks of sciatica, rheumatism and neuralgia. Until about three years ago I had found no treatment that was successful. Then I heard of Templeton's Rheumatic Capsules, they proved to be the medicine I needed. On one occasion I was in bed unable to turn because of the pain, three doses had me completely better and able to work.
I am pleased to give this unsolicited testimonial to the merits of Templeton's Rheumatic Capsules.

CHAIRMEN OF COMMITTEES OF THE CITY COUNCIL

Chairmen of the eight committees of the City Council must be appointed at the inaugural meeting on Monday morning, when the personnel of the committees will be decided, and there is the usual lobby-talk on the subject.

In this annual selection of chairmen there is a recurring conflict between materialism and sentimentality, and very often practical hard-headedness and unpractical soft-heartedness flourish together. "Because Alderman So-an-So has been on the Council twenty years," says one, "he should have his choice of chairmanships."

"Nothing doing," retorts materialism. "Alderman second choice is the better, because he knows the work."

One is reminded of the story told by Professor Irving Babbitt of the French butcher who, having need of legal aid, finally after looking over a number of lawyers, selected the fattest one. The butcher HAD a standard; but unfortunately it was a wrong one.

Every form of government must in the last analysis be tested by the type of leadership which it produces and accepts, and the Municipal Government of Peterboro will on Monday set up heads of departments whose work will tell for or against the whole council. And yet it has before now happened that, as Carlyle put it "The race is to the swift, and the high office shall fall to him who is ablest, if not to do it, at least to get elected to do it."

Business men in the city who have prospered enough and are well enough known to be termed prominent have been interviewed by The Examiner on this subject of chairmanships, and even as to the personnel of the committees; and from their ideas the selection that follows has been compiled. These business men are agreed that personal ambitions of Aldermen should be sunk in the sea of the common weal of the city "The man who is best fitted for the job should get it," is the consensus of opinion

Suggested Chairmen.

Alderman Walter Stocker is the choice of the majority for the chairmanship of the Board of Works, and the reasons differ widely. The experience gained as chairman in 1923, on which Mr. Stocker was returned at the 1924 election, is cited as a recommendation by some. Then the exceptionally heavy year's work for the Board in 1925, with the sewage disposal plant in the foreground, will necessitate the appointment of a man with plenty of time to spend in the city's work, especially if this year's council feels with last year's, that the work should be done by day labor. Alderman Stocker, who introduces himself at Kiwanis luncheons as "A gentleman of leisure" has the time and the energy and the interest, it is claimed.

Fire, Water and Light.

The next most important committee is the Fire, Water and Light, of which Alderman Stocker was chairman last year. This committee deals with the placing of street lights, water hydrants and similar services, and has immediate control of the Fire Department.

Alderman Robert N. Jones has been put forward as especially fitted for the chair, because of his previous experience and his well-known habit of looking twice at every dollar of the public funds before it is spent—and then sometimes trying to get fifty cents of it back into the public treasury. Alderman Jones was without a chairmanship last year, but did efficient work as a member of four committees.

Manufacturers' Committee.

That Alderman J. W. Meyers is the logical man to head the Manufacturers' Committee seems to be the general opinion. He has held the position now two years, and during his last year succeeded in opening important issues. Being himself a manufacturer, some point out, he is the proper type of man to approach others who are meditating locating in the city. The dean of the council in years as Alderman Crowe is in service, Mr. Meyers brings the wisdom of long experience to the business deliberations of the committee and council.

Finance Committee.

In the Finance Committee, again, most of those spoken to appear unfavorable toward a change. Alderman Phelan has become accustomed to the rountine; he is used to finance; his busines place is close to the city treasurer's office, and he is in complete touch with the business of the city. Mr. Phelan's proximity to the city buildings is emphasized by those who have had experience with finance chairmen whose business took them all over the city. Often it happens that a cheque must be issued in a hurry; the Mayor is accessible in a few minutes, and Alderman Phelan is just across the street. And no one has so far question his financial ability.

Property Committee.

The Property Committee has important functions bearing on the administration of city land and buildings, the superintendence of the market, and the direction of the city's health business. Alderman Fife filled the position ably during 1924, and it has been suggested that Alderman Joseph Crowe be appointed his successor. With a busy year as chairman of the Legal and Reception Committee behind him, in which he upheld the dignity of the city, Mr. Crowe should, it is thought, be well fitted for a term on the Property Committee.

Legal Committee.

With the duties of the Legal Committee are bracketed those of reception and legislation, giving wide scope and opportunity for diversity. The legal problems that occur in a year are legion in number and there are no two alike, making an opening for a man with keen insight and good judgment. Such, many believe, is Alderman Malcolm McIntyre.

The reception of prominent visitors with the amenities that must be shown as evidence of the city's hospitality is a duty that can be excellently performed by Mr. McIntyre.

Railways Committee.

Alderman J. O. Fife has been prominently named as chairman of the Railways and Parks Committee. The railways section has not been to the fore for some years, but with the prospect of a re-opening of negotiations with the C. P. R. for a new station this year, it takes on a new weight. The business of managing the city parks calls for the services of a man with Mr. Fife's organizing ability. Many suggestions have been made and will be before the committee this year, including a wading pool in King Edward Park; sodding and clearing the space between Hunter street bridge and Riverside Park; new lighting in Victoria and Central Parks, and the erection of a toboggan slide. These are matters of vital interest to the public, and citizens to whom appeal has been made for opinions declare Alderman Fife's public spiritedness is just what is wanted in consideration of them.

Unemployment Committee.

The Unemployment Committee, which it was considered in the rosy dawn of last year might be discarded, may play its part this year. With it goes the supervision of fuel.

Alderman E. Mel. Turner, who carried on the work of the Parks Committee so well last year, in spite of his many personal business activities, has been named as a likely man for the Unemployment Relief Committee in 1925. It is a responsible position that does not make great demands for time.

The Committees.

This disposition of the chairmanships, gives the leadership of a committee to every Alderman except the two newcomers, Messrs. J. M. Greene and Roland Denne. They, it is understood, are satisfied this year to get their knees under the desks and learn the ropes. Mr. Denne, at any rate, pooh-poohs the idea of forming two extra committees, as had been suggested, so that all might be taken in.

The committees themselves call for judicial choice, having an eye to even distribution of the work and the good of the city. Only one man was found courageous enough to attempt an analysis of the committee work and of the candidates, and the following is his suggestion of an efficient appointment of the work:

Board of Works—Alderman Stocker, chairman; and the whole council.

Fire, Water and Light—Alderman Jones, chairman; Alderman Crowe, Greene, McIntyre and Phelan.

Manufacturers'—Alderman Meyers, chairman; Aldermen Denne, Jones Phelan and Turner.

Finance—Alderman Phelan, chairman; Aldermen Jones, Meyers, Crowe, McIntyre, Fife, Turner and Stocker (all the chairmen of committees).

Property—Alderman Crowe, chairman; Aldermen Denne, Greene, Jones and Stocker.

Legal—Alderman McIntyre, chairman; Aldermen Denne, Meyers, Fife and Phelan.

Railways—Alderman Fife, chairman; Aldermen Crowe, Green, McIntyre and Stocker.

Unemployment Relief— Alderman Turner, chairman; Aldermen Fife, Greene and Meyers.

Summarized, this partition gives Alderman Crowe a place on 5 committees; Denne 4, Fife 5, Greene 4, Jones 5, Meyers 5, McIntyre 5, Phelan 5, Stocker 4, and Turner 5.

Mayor J. J. Turner, of course, is ex-officio a member of all committees and has voting power at all.

No member of the council has been asked whether he would be willing to accept the office for which these citizens consider him fitted, nor has The Examiner received any expression of opinion from any alderman as to what chairmanship he seeks.

WEAK DIGESTION DUE TO POOR BLOOD

Perfect Digestion Will Come if the Blood is Made Rich and Red.

Perfect Digestion Will Come if the Blood is Made Rich and Red.

There is no tonic for the stomach that is not a tonic for every other part of the body. But the stomach depends, as does every other organ, on the blood for its energy.

There can be no perfect digestion unless you have rich, red blood. This is scientifically true. The way, then, to tone up the stomach is to enrich the blood.

Most stomach remedies try to digest your food for you. How much better it is to tone up the stomach so that it will do its own work, as nature intended. There is no pleasure in eating predigested food. Tone up your stomach, then your appetite and digestion will soon be normal.

If your digestion is weak and your blood thin, you need Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to restore the strength to your blood; in addition use care in the selection of your diet and your stomach trouble will soon pass away. Mrs. Charles La Rose, Fruitland, Ont., suffered severely, and tells what Dr Williams Pink Pills did for her. She says:—"I was a terrible sufferer from stomach trouble. The doctor called it nervous indigestion. Everything I ate distressed me, and I became so weak and rundown I could hardly walk. I had a pain around my heart most of the time, and I slept very poorly. I was afraid I would not get well, as the doctor's medicine was not helping me. In this serious condition Dr. Williams' Pink Pills were recommended and I decided to try them, and I can truthfully say that they made me feel like a new person. I will always give this medicine a word of praise when I get a chance for I think there is nothing to be compared with it for dyspeptics, or any one weak, nervous or rundown."

You can get these Pills from any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

SAYS YOU CAN RUN CAR ON CRUDE OIL

Swedish Inventor Has Perfected an Engine Attachment for this Purpose.

STOCKHOLM, Jan. 10.—A solution of the problem of how to drive an automobile on crude oil, and at one-third of the cost of gasoline, is claimed by a Swedish inventor, Nils Anderson, who has perfected an engine attachment for this purpose after several years of experimenting. Anderson's device can readily be installed on any ordinary motor and makes it possible to use crude oil, kerosene, wood alcohol or gasoline.

The crux of the problem, says the inventor, was the fact that crude oil cannot be completely vaporised, and without special treatment the residue would clog the engine. He solves this by exposing the oil to intense heat, which shatters such ingredients as cannot be turned into gas. They remain in the form of a combustible fluid and are consumed during the explosion in the cylinder. When using crude oil the motor must, however, be started with gasoline from a separate small container, while the oil is carried in the regular gasoline tank of the car.

The crude oil attachment consists of a super-heater, a special carburetor and exhaust pipe, together with the necessary connecting rode for manipulation.

Among the advantages claimed are a smaller quantity of oil consumed per mile, less lubrication, no overheating of the engine, and a reduction of about 70 per cent. from the cost of running a car on gasoline.

Closing Quotations on Principal Active Stocks.

CHICAGO.

Wheat was the feature of to-day's trading, rising under the impetus of a statement by export interests that demands exceed supplies, and it is reported that the market is scoring for a good advance.

The statement that sent the price up 3 cents from the low declared that export interests had found import requirements of the various nations will exceed the possible supplies, even if the farmers of all countries market all their wheat during the next 6 months, which is hardly likely.

This report discloses the strong underlying condition and shows that the United States is close to a domestic basis without a great deal more export business. Some corroboration of this is afforded by the persistent strength of domestic cash markets. It seems probable that foreign buying will be resumed.

WINNIPEG.

Winnipeg wheat ranged from 186 to 189 during the flurry in the Chicago pit, and it is confidently predicted by some authoritiese that next week will see the price touch $2.00.

INDUSTRIALS.

NewYork industrials were active with several making new highs in the last few days. Activity at rising prices went ahead spiritedly in Southern Pacific and other standard investment issues, while Sears Roebuck to-day reached its best price since 1920 at 108 1-4, maintained at the close.

Oil stocks show every indication of coming into their own after being stagnant all summer. A rise in price, decreasing stocks, and the approach of spring are contributing causes to the few points increase.

Visitor to Peterborough Received Embarrassing Reminder of His Philandering at Summer Cottage

An interesting Christmas presentation has just leaked out which is causing a laugh among those concerned.

During the summer months some important visitors reached the city and were entertained by friends at one of the numerous summer cottages near Peterboro.

While rambling around one day one of the visitors bought or had presented to him a gosling, which was duly Christened "Gladys."

In due time the visitors left for home, having spent a very enjoyable vacation, leaving "Gladys" behind.

At Christmas one of the friends conceived the idea of making a presentation to his friend, and obtained a very large goose, which was crated and forwarded by express, with a picture of "Gladys" as she was and "Gladys" as she now is—attached.

The goose also had a fancy tag attached, reading "Gladys — Merry Xmas."

The package was addressed to a prominent office building where the friend's office was located, and during his absence arrived, and was delivered.

Next morning the season's greetings to the elevator man and a merry enquiry if any Christmas boxes had arrived, brought the answer: "I'll say there has."

Imagine the embarrassment when "Gladys" was seen parked in a large crate in a mahogany finished office with a staff of clerks — and further imagine the office boy's feelings when "Gladys" was put on leash and he was instructed to exercise the lady up and down the corridor.

Finally the present was taken home and placed in the cellar, making a hissing sound as it went down the steps at the old dog, which rushed out and hasn't been seen since. What to do with "Gladys" was a problem, as the residences are rather congested where the recipient lived, and besides, geese are not kept in fashionable neighborhoods.

A few days elapsed feeding and looking after the bird, and finally a telephone call was sent to the family butcher to come up and slaughter the bird. But city butchers buy their meat dressed ready for sale, and the family butcher declined.

After telephoning thirteen butchers, one of the old-fashioned kind was found to do the job, but when he arrived the family refused to have the work done as they had become attached to "Gladys," and could not have her executed. So "Gladys" lives. How long, cannot be stated, but until such time as old age overtakes her or the Board of Health get wise and order her removal, "Gladys" will be the pet of the family.

The Old Favorite

And Just as Effective in Relieving Coughs, Colds, Croup and Bronchitis

For over a quarter of a century Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine has been the favorite treatment for coughs and colds.

Bronchitis

Mrs. Lena Hall, Loiselleville, Ont., writes:—

"My daughter suffered for four years with recurrent attacks of bronchitis. She was treated by several doctors, but none of them seemed to do her much good. I started giving her Dr. Chase's Linseed and Turpentine, and noticed that her cough was somewhat better, so decided to keep on using this and nothing else. The results were most satisfactory, as my daughter never has to miss school, and is steadily gaining in weight. I consider I owe a debt of thanks to Dr. Chase's Linseed and Turpentine, and I would never be without it in the house."

Severe Colds

Mr. Fred Adams, New Ross, N.S., writes:—

"I have tried many medicines for coughs and colds but never found anything to compare with Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. We have had the greatest satisfaction with this medicine, for it never fails to relieve a cough and loosen it up."

Mrs. Frank Dolman, Flat Lands, N.B. writes:—

"I have used Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine with the best results for croup and colds in my family. I am sure no home is safe without it."

VAGRANT KING OFFERED HOME.

BAGDAD, Jan. 10.—The suggestion that former King Hussein of the Hedjaz might find a home in Iraq, where his son Feisul is king, may be the solution of the homeless ex-monarch's problem.

The Bagdad Times learns on good authority that this question has been discussed by the council of ministers. The decision arrived at was that there would be no objection to Hussein's taking up residence in Basrah provided he came to Iraq as a private individual, not as a monarch.

It is considered probable that Hussein will agree to these terms.

for Strength and Health

Thousands Have Used This RED BLOOD Food

If you are weak, sickly, nervous and run-down, what you need is not merely stimulating medicines and drugs, but something that will put more iron into your blood to make it rich and red, so that it can carry strength and health to every nerve and muscle of your body.

Thousands of men and women have banished every trace of that weak, tired-out feeling and increased their strength, energy and endurance often in just two weeks' time by simply taking organic iron—Nuxated Iron.

For Nuxated Iron is a wonderful new combination of organic iron, like the iron in your own blood. It is entirely different from ordinary iron medicines—does not injure the teeth or disturb the stomach. Furthermore, it is so highly concentrated that one dose is equal to eating one-half quart of spinach or a quart of green vegetables. Take Nuxated Iron for just two weeks and you'll be astonished how much stronger and better you feel. Money back if not delighted. At all good druggists.

Mrs. Richard Entertained the Ladies of Cavan Church.

CAVAN, Jan. 9.—The Ladies' Aid of Cavan Church were entertained by Mrs. Richards on Thursday afternoon. There were sixteen ladies present.

Mrs. J. Swain contributed a reading which was much appreciated. It was very appropriate for the New Year season, telling of how one woman abandoned the making of resolutions and mourning over the sins of commission and omission of the past year, and started in to make use of the opportunities for service at the beginning of the New Year.

After the meeting was closed Mrs. Richards served lunch, and a pleasant social time was enjoyed around the tea tables.

COFFEE HOUSES COME BACK

VIENNA, (United Press). — Banks may come and banks may go, but the Vienna coffee houses must go on forever. The famous coffee houses are returning to normalcy.

BIBLES FROM PASTOR TO SCHOOL OFFICERS

Handsome Gifts From Rev. J. D. Paterson to Assistants.

Thursday and Friday nights of this week saw an event long looked forward to by the scholars of All Saints' Sunday School when the annual supper and prize giving took place.

After all the scholars and teachers had partaken of the good things the chairman, Mr. W. H. Buller called on Mr. J. H. Price, secretary of the school to give a short report of the progress made during the past year. This was followed by a lengthy and varied programme of musical numbers, dialogues and sketches. In an interval of the programme the Rector, Rev. J. D. Paterson presented each of the teachers and officers of the school with a reference bible. After the program there were distributed to the scholars sixty-nine prizes for Sunday School attendance and fifty buttons for church attendance. As each prizewinner is allowed to miss no more than one Sunday to qualify this is a remarkable record.

TAXIS GET START IN DUBLIN.

DUBLIN, Jan. 10. — Dublin has been the last city of Europe to adopt the taxi for general street use. When the automobiles first arrived, a tiny company offered to have a number of the Dublin jarveys trained in their use, but the opposition of the Jaunting Car Drivers' Association proved effective, and the offer was declined. Taxis for hire, of course have existed but could only be got by telephoning the garage. There was also a minimum fare, whatever the distance, of $1.25.

The Dublin commissioner of police now announces the provision of stands at various points of the city for 25 taxi cabs.

ENGLAND HAS HUGE HORSE MEAT TRADE

Humane Society Responsible For Building Up of New Business.

LONDON, Jan. 10. (United Press.—A huge and profitable export trade in horse meat for human consumption has developed here since the war.

At present an average of more than 1,000,000 pounds of horse meat is being shipped from London to France and Belgium every month. Smaller quantities are sent to Holland and other European countries.

The demand exceeds the supply. Every worn out, but undiseased horse in England is eyed enviously, so to speak, by the continental butchers, and as a result, the French price, which has averaged about one franc per pound, is increasing.

The English Society for the prevention of Cruelty to Animals, is responsible indirectly, for building up this new and important business. Before the war and several years thereafter, broken down English horses were usually sold alive to French and other European buyers. They were shipped across the Channel and either slaughtered at once and sold as steak or worked for a while longer in France, before being butchered.

The S.P.C.A. protested on two counts. First, that if the horse was unable to work longer in England, he should not be worked anywhere else. Second, that the French slaughter-houses for horses did not use sufficiently humane methods. For these reasons the Society forced a great decrease in the export of broken-down live horses. There was nothing left for the dealers to do except slaughter them in England and export the carcases. This business has become much larger than the live horse trade ever was. Several special slaughter houses for horses have been built in London. They are supervised by representatives of the S. P. C. A., and the meat is inspected by government officials to ensure a strict compliance with the French standard.

No cold storage process is used with horse meat. The flesh deteriorates very rapidly. So the least possible time must intervene between slaughtering a horse in London, and eating him in Paris. Each night about ten o'clock agencies in Paris telegraph London the estimated quantity of horse meat Paris can consume the next day. Between 11 at night and three in the morning the London abattoirs slaughter enough horses to yield the amount of meat Paris is estimated to require. By daylight that meat is on its way to France, by late afternoon it is in the Paris butcher shops, and for dinner it is on the table.

Modern warships

LONDON, Jan. 10.— (Canadian Press.)—Design of battleships Nelson and Rodney, now being built by Great Britain, is so revolutionary, according to the Daily Express, that it marks the end of the dreadnought era, just as dreadnoughts marked the end of a previous type. The new ships will be both floating fortresses and airdromes and will have a radius of action covering thousands of miles. Nine 16-inch guns will be mounted on each in three turrets, all fowarrd.

TARIFF UNCHANGED.

Fordney McCumber Bill in Force for Next Four Years.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—(Canadian Press).—Fordney McCumber tariff will remain unchanged for next four years, or during the period of administration of President Coolidge. There will be no tariff tinkering, no change in schedules and no attempts to alter in any way schedules contained in the present law.

This was indicated yesterday when the ways and means committee turned down the proposal of Representative Garner for a slight change which would permit transfer of cattle across the Texas-Mexico border.

NEWS FROM KEENE.

Keene and Westwood Churches Enter the United Church.

KEENE, Jan. 10.—The congregations of Keene and Westwood, of which the Rev. John Archibald is the minister, have voted to go into the Union Church, as follows:

Keene—For 114, against 74.

Westwood—For 45, against 42.

The three rinks of curlers who went to the Lakefield Bonspiel returned home and all reported an excellent time while there. The three skips were as follows: J. J. Moore, G. S. Taylor and G. Howson. J. J. Moore and his rink went to the finals in two competitions, but was unlucky to lose out in both of them. G. S. Taylor and G. Howson both got to the semi-finals in two different competitions. There are sixty members of the Curling Club of Keene, which is quite a large number for so small a place.

There are four games played each night, and occasional games in the afternoon. The evening games attract large galleries, and, judging by the enthusiasm, there will be double the number of members next year. The electric lights, which are excellent, also make it far nicer than previous years to curl.

Mr. Foster, organizer and colonization agent, was in the village and district finding homes for a number of boys and girls from the ages of 14 to 18 which they are bringing out from England.

PUZZLER STOPS THE PAPER.

Demands Cross-Words that Won't Keep Him up All Night.

SIOUX FALLS, S. D., January 10.—The cross-word puzzle craze has cost a local daily newspaper one of its oldest subscribers.

A victim of the puzzle fad, he wrote from his home near Garretson, S.D., and declared:

"I have taken your paper for twenty-four years, and hitherto have found no fault with it. When you began running cross word puzzles, they weer very good and possi to work, but lately they have been harder and harder, and now are almost impossible to solve. Having written you about the matter and received no satisfaction, I am compelled to abandon your good newspaper, and take another which prints puzzles which can be worked without staying up all night. Inasmuch as I can take only one newspaper and no other cross word puzzles than those I get in the newspapers are available, I am compelled to find a paper which is satisfactory in this department."

Community of Mount St. Joseph Mourns the Loss Of Sisetr Mary Of the Incarnation Cokeley

The Community of Mount St. Joseph mourns to-day the death of one of its oldest and most beloved members—Sister Mary of the Incarnation.

In 1877 Catherine Cokeley, heark ening to the call to consecrate her life to God, left her home in Boston, Mass., to enter the religious life in St. Joseph's Convent, Toronto.

When thirteen years later, volunteers were asked for the new diocesan community of Peterboro, Sister Incarnation responded, filling the office of Superior at Cobourg, Fort William Indian Mission, and later at St. Joseph's Convent, Fort William. It was there in 1909 that a stroke of paralysis incapacitated her for further active duty. Retiring to the Moth er-House at Mount St. Joseph, she devoted her remaining strength to the making of beautiful needle-work for the altar, and her appreciation of every moment of time was a constant source of edification.

Sister Incarnation was especially beloved for her devotion to the sick and the poor and since unable to perform these active works of charity her cheerfulness and spirit of prayer endeared her to all in her declining years.

The funeral Mass will be celebrated at Mount St. Joseph at eight o'clock Monday morning. May her soul rest in peace.

LANDIS MAKES RECORD PUBLIC

Talk Between Commissioner and Dolan Published To-day.

DOLAN'S CLAIM.

CHICAGO, January 10. — The stenographic record of the interview between Baseball Commissioner L. M. Landis and "Cozy" Dolan, former coach of the New York Giants, which led to the expulsion of Dolan and Jimmy O'Connell from organized baseball, was made public to-day.

Confronted with O'Connell and his story, before the Commissioner, Dolan said he could not remember having any such conversation with O'Connell as the latter related.

Throughout the questioning by the Commissioner the record shows that Dolan insisted he could recall no conversation with O'Connell about O'Connell's story of his attempt to bribe "Heine" Sand, the Philadelphia short stop to throw the game to the Giants in the critical days of the pennant race last fall.

The interrogation took place on September 30th, after O'Connell had told Landis that Dolan had suggested that he approached Heinie Sand, Philadelphia shortstop, and offered him $500 if he would not bear down too hard on the Giants.

Dolan has since insisted that the statement to Commissioner Landis, in which he repeated he could not remember the alleged incriminatory conversation with O'Connell was not a confession or admission of guilt which would cause the Commissioner to drive him from baseball.

CANTON, S. D., January 10. — Amateur skiing enthusiasts from all sections of the United States will come to this little city on Feb. 11 and 12 for the 1925 national touurnament of the National Ski Association of America.

Many former association champions and Olympic contestants will appear in competition on a new slide built this summer and declared by ski sport experts to be one of the finest in the world. Erected on a long hill overlooking the Sioux river the slide has a length of 50 running feet, and a perpendicular drop from the top of the tower to the foot of the hill of 275 feet.

The host club at this years tournament is the Sioux Valley Ski Club of Canton, counting on its membership roll some of its leading skiers of the nation. Among them is Lars Haugen, who won the national skiing championship at the annual tournament at Brattleboro, Vt., last year.

If snow conditions permit this year's tournament will have a new event, a cross country ski run over a course from ten to twelve miles long, over hills and streams, and through fences, timber land and prairie.

Fifty member clubs of the national association will send competitors and a number of colleges in Vermont, New Hampshire, Maine, Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota, which have made skiing a college sport plan to enter men in the competition. A ski battalion of the Federal troops quartered at Fort Snelling, Minn., also will be represented. The host club hopes to surpass the record of 239 competitors at the national tournament at Minneapolis in 1922.

ITALIAN RUMORS WERE UNFOUNDED

Government Says Mussolini Was Not Assassinated—Opposition Blamed.

(By Thomas B. Morgan — United Press Staff Correspondent).

ROME, Jan. 10.—Government organs to-day blame the Opposition for reports, wholly unfounded, circulated abroad that Premier Mussolini had been assassinated. An attempt to sabotage Italy's financial standing is charged.

The Messagero says: "We doubtless are confronted with mysterious international forces of opposition to our Government, who have designs to dismantle Italian finance and politics."

"The manner in which the news was diffused simultaneously in the foreign capital shows there are men abroad concentrating on attacking the Italian nation.

"We do not know how far the Aventine (Opposition) party's men are associated with this mysterious, unbearable foreign manoeuvre and precise betrayal of Italy, but there is proof that the Opposition's campaign of defamation has become a foreign offensive against Italy."

It is now understood that the general elections will not be held in the immediate future. Premier Mussolini is reported to have told Deputy Torre that five or six months will be required to manufacture official voting envelopes for 1,000,000 voters. Even if the Government wished to hasten the elections, Mussolini said they could not be held before August. If no immediate necessity arises they may be postponed until 1926.

DAIRY PRODUCTS ON DOWN GRADE

City Market Has Butter at 35 and Eggs at 55.

SLIGHT DECREASE.

There was a large attendance at the farmers' market this morning, both upstairs and down. The sunny, fine morning brought out vendors and patrons in plentiful numbers. Many loads of wood and several loads of hay blocked the middle section, and the auctioneer had a big crowd.

In the basket section, prices for dairy products were slightly on the down-grade. Butter might be purchased anywhere from 35 to 40 cents a pound, and eggs were 38 and 60 cents a dozen generally, with pure white eggs at 55 cents. Lard in big cakes was 25 cents a pound.

Fowl was plentiful. Geese, ducks and chickens were priced alike at 25 cents a pound, with a lone turkey starting out at 38 cents, and decreasing later to 35 cents a pound. Birds that took prizes at the poultry show competition for dressed fowl brought their prize ribbons to market with them, and were offered at 35 cents a pound.

Clear honey in glass sealers in the basket section was 15 cents a pound. Downstairs, the crystallized variety was selling at 12½ cents a pound for the dark and 14½ cents for the light.

Live geese were priced at $3 apiece, and had made the morning journey all the way from Millbrook. Pekin ducks were $1 each.

In the open section, potatoes were fairly scarce, and were offered all the way from 85 cents to a dollar a bag. White opions were $1.85, carrots 75 cents, and turnips 50 cents a bag.

Apples were a popular commodity. The supplies are dwindling down week by week. Russets this morning were $5 a barrel, Wagners and Cranberry Pippins were 45 cents a peck, and good cooking apples 40 cents a peck, or $2 a bag.

The carts overflowed with meat carcasses this morning. Beef was priced at 7 and 10 and 12 cents for front and hindquarters, and pork was 16 and 18 cents. Beef hearts were a quarter apiece.

Wood was very plentiful. Hardwood was priced generally at $12 a load, cut, and also in cordwood lengths. A green load was $10.

Hay was $15 a load.

MOTHERS LIKE TO TREAT COLDS WITH VAPORS

Direct Treatment with Vaporizing Salve Immediately Reaches Inflamed Air Passages.

It Is no longer necessary constantly to dose the children in treating croup, bronchitis, sore throat or deep chest colds. Many Canadian mothers now use the 'outside' remedy, Vicks VapoRub, for the cold troubles of all the family, because it is just rubbed over throat and chest—there is nothing to take. When so applied Vicks gives off medicated vapors which are inhaled directly into the inflamed air passages, loosening the phlegm and making the breathing easier.

At the same time Vicks is absorbed and stimulates the skin like a liniment or plaster and thus aids the vapors inhaled to break up the congestion.

At all drug stores 50c a jar. For free test size package, write Vick Chemical Co., 344 St. Paul St. W., Montreal, P.Q.

LEAGUE CELEBRATED ITS FIFTH BIRTHDAY TO-DAY

Huge Palace Where Members Meet is Worth Five Million Dollars.

(By Henry Wood, United Press Staff Correspondent)

GENEVA, Jan. 10.—The League of Nations celebrated its fifth birthday to-day.

Born in 1920, in a small, dingy room in the French Foreign Office, the League now occupies a magnificent Palace, with adjacent grounds and buildings under construction worth $5,000,000.

Like the United States the League started with thirteen members. Now it has fifty-five. Although repeatedly written down a failure after incidents such as the Corfu affair, the League of Nations is thriving, this despite the non-membership of the United States, Russia and Germany the League's fifth birthday party was encouraged by the presence at Geneva of Congressman Porter and Surgeon General Blue for the Opium Conference and by the fact that Consul Tuck to-day asked complete plans of the league's proposed arms traffic conference to be forwarded to the State Department at Washington.

COLLEGIATE WON FROM ST. PETER'S

Afternoon Game at Brock Street Provided Good Sport.

SCORE 3 TO 1.

At Brock Street Rink this afternoon the Peterboro Collegiate Institute team defeated the St. Peter's High School team by the score of 3 goals to 1. The Collegiate had the best of the game throughout, taking the lead in the first period, when they chased in two goals and held the Irish scoreless.

St. Peter's showed up better in the second stanza than they did in the first, but failed to even up the score. Gillespie, in the nets for the P.C.I., turned in a good game, and was only fooled once on a fast shot by Ted Le Barr from the boards. His defence, Woods and Outram, gave him good support, breaking up a number of dangerous rushes and using their weight to good advantage.

Jack LeBarr was far off colour in the first period but in the last ten minutes of the second period he tightened up and showed some snappy goal minding. He was peppered with shots from all angles in this period but cleared nicely.

Had his defence players given him any kind of support in the first period it is most likely that the score would have been different. Woods, Doughty and Alin were the best for the P.C.I., while Masterson, Holland and Ted LeBarr did most of the rushing and effective checking for the losers. Rishea, at centre ice for St. Peter's, also showed a burst of speed.

Line-ups:

St. Peter's—Goal, J. LeBarr; defence, Holland and T. LeBarr; centre, Rishea; r. wing, Jones; left wing, Carrol. Subs, Wolff and Masterson.

P.C.I.— Goal, Gillespie; defence, Woods and Outram; centre, Pogue; r. wing, Allin; l. wing, Baird. Subs, Doughty and Henry.

Referee, Pete Milloy.

SOUTH AFRICAN FIRM.

Will Not Add to Her Obligations, Says Premier Hertzog.

PRETORIA, Jan. 10.—(Canadian Press).—So far as South Africa is concerned said Premier Hertzog in an interview yesterday, she is not prepared to add to her obligations under the league of nations covenant.

The veteran actor, Mr. E. J. Odell, who recently celebrated his ninetieth birthday, was wont to guard jealously two secrets from his fellow members of the Savage Club.

One was his place of his residence; the other was what the initials "E. J." stood for.

Once two members determined to solve the first-named problem, and when Odell left the club in the early hours of the morning, they chartered a second hansom cab and instructed the driver to follow the one in which was Odell.

But the latter, having "tumbled" to their plan, led them a chase all day all over London, returning to his starting point, the Savage Club, in the evening.

Regarding the second problem, the story goes that once a young member, greatly daring, asked him point blank what the initials "E. J." stood for.

Odell regarded him fixedly for several seconds, then he solemnly croaked out, "Enry Jorge."

Rheumatism Yields To Internal Bathing

The old Greek physicians always claimed that warm water was a cure for nearly every human ailment. But they had no means of accurately syphoning it throughout the length of the colon or lower bowel. In fact no physician had for many hundreds of years until Dr Chas. A. Tyrrell, himself a martyr to constipation and rheumatism, invented his famous J.B.L. Cascade.

Rheumatism is a disease caused by impurities in the blood stream absorbed from the colon, which when clogged or constipated is a regular poison factory.

A constipated colon cannot be cleansed by drugs, but it is astonishing how readily the J.B.L. Cascade removes the waste matter and makes it clean and pure. Once you remove the cause of poisoned blood you soon remove the chief result—rheumatism. Many thousands of Canadians have relieved themselves of rheumatism by this natural, sensible drugless method.

Dr. Tyrell fully describes the J. B. L. Cascade and how it relieves rheumatism and many diseases in a booklet, "The What, the Why, the Way of the Internal Bath." Write to-day to Tyrrell's Hygienic Institute, 181 College street, Toronto, for a copy entirely free. The J.B.L. Cascade is now being shown and explained at Warne Drug Company, Peterboro.

SCIENTISTS FIND NEW USE FOR GAS

Helium Gas Will Soon Be Put to Work Underground and Under Sea.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10. — (United Press).—Helium gas which heretofore has been used exclusively "up in the air" to inflate airships, may soon be put to work underground and down deep in the seas.

Out of experiments now being conducted by scientists in various universities throughout the country, Navy Department experts believe, the non-inflammable gas may in the future also be employed to lessen the burdens of deap-sea divers and tunnel workers.

Some scientists, according to Capt. E. S. Land, technical expert, already believe helium, mixed with oxygen, can be substituted for nitrogen in deep-sea diving and tunnel construction and prevent underground and underwater workers from contracting "the bends."

"The bends" is a frequently fatal disease which overcomes divers and "sand-hogs" after laboring below the surface under great pressure.

"In deep-sea diving, when a man goes down a great depth," said Land, "the nitrogen gets into his blood and gives him 'the bends.' You have got to compress him and recompress him as he comes up and goes down. By the use of helium in place of nitrogen in the air, some scientists claim 'the bends' are eliminated. So helium may have a practical application for deep-sea diving. It is very promising also in tunnels like the Hudson River and places of that kind where men are working under enormous pressure."

Land described helium as an "inert" gas. That means, he explained, that it is colorless, tasteless, odorless and will not burn. It is not combustible in anyway and will not explode, no matter how it is mixed. It has no effect on the human system and is as safe to breathe as nitrogen.

MOTOR MARKERS COLOR SCHEME

Ontario Combination Brilliant Enough—Louisiana Has Seven Variations.

ROBIN'S EGG BLUE.

The yellow and black automobile markers of 1924 seemed brilliant enough to Ontario citizens, and the reversal of the color scheme this year leaves it still bright enough to suit most people. But in some of the United States so dull a combination would be rejected with scorn, or reserved, as in Louisiana, for so prosaic vehicles as school busses. In Louisiana there are seven variations, as follows: For 22 h.p. cars and under, maroon with white; for 23 h.p. cars and over, gray with red; trucks, yellow with black; dealers, cream with green; school busses, black and yellow; motorcycles, gray with red; animal drawn vehicles, maroon with white.

The Louisiana school cars are the only ones in the United States that will have the same coloured license plates as Ontario this year.

Some states are particular about the very exact shade they use, such as North Carolina, Chinese blue with white; South Caroline, shamrock green with white; South Dakota, siennese drab with black; Minnesota dealers, robin's egg blue with black; and Florida starts a private league of nations by blending green and orange.

There are scores of different combinations used, the common effort being to choose the colors that will contrast most and show up best at a distance.

COSTLY CARS WERE FEATURE AT SHOW

Plenty of Freak Models at Berlin Auto Show.

BERLIN, January 10. — The German automobile exposition, which has just been held in Berlin, failed to show any car sell g at a reasonable price nor did it reveal any striking improvement in standard design of body or engine. On the contrary, emphasis was laid on a car selling for $10,000, and the only novelties were of the freak variety.

The lowest priced car sold for $900 and the higher ones for $5000 and $10,000. There seems to be a good local market for the best the industry has to offer, for the agent of the producing company said that they were too busy with the home demand to think about export. They were building for staunchness and durability, he declared.

The Germans are coming to see that they must standarize production to keep down costs. Until recently there has been almost no quantity production of parts; now certain firms arrange together to have certain parts made wholesale from mutually accepted specifications.

Among the freaks is a tapered car with one headlight and the motor in the rear, and a heavy car equipped with berths, kitchenette, shower bath and furniture.

The Germans have reached no satisfactory solution of the body question. The collapsible top is not popular because there is so much rain in Germany, and the tops leak; the closed car is criticized on the ground that it is too hot in summer and the removable top is put down as clumsy.

WHAT HIRED MAN THINKS OF BOSS AND OF HIS JOB

Takes a Good Look at His Prospective Employer Before Hiring.

BY W. PRITCHARD.

People Think Farm Hand is a Kind of Pest Like the Mosquito.

I have noticed several articles in various papers about that species of man known as the farm-hand. From reading these I am led to conclude that the unmarried farm-hand is a sort of pest, about as annoying as a mosquito, as undependable as a balky horse, and that he is sure not to be there in an emergency.

I am one of these unmarried men, working by the month and with an agreement to work the season for my present employer. I want to say a little about the business, for there are things to be said on both sides of the case, and much of that which is written is not written by hired men.

There are all kinds of men engaged in farming, from the "bull-pup" kind of fellow and the pinch-penny gentleman up to the real thoroughbred man. I believe that the farmers who do not deserve a good hired man have been howling the most, for I have noticed that a square-dealing farmer has usually very little trouble with his hired-help question. I believe I know why this is so. Every man that I have worked for has given me a square deal and I attribute this to several things. One is that I choose my employer.

A look at many would-be employers has often been enough to decide me against them. But when I see a man who makes me feel that he can respect me both in business and in the hours of recreation, it is reasonably safe to hire with him. Then, is the man financially sound? It isn't going to make a man very much put out to be looked up at his local bank, if he knows he is O.K. If he is not O.K. . . . well, that is a different matter.

Respect for an employer keeps a hired man from getting too familiar, something that should not happen for the best of harmony between the two parties. The proverb about "familiarity breeding contempt" is just as much the truth now as it ever was. If the employer is a man who can be respected, the hired man has a very big incentive to conduct himself so that he, too, will be respected.

There are a number of us hired men who think that to tell tales of past exploits is a sure way to get the employer to believe we are the last word when it comes to a top-nitch worker. Actions always count for the most, and if the hired man wants to be known as a worker he must produce the goods; and if he wants to be treated like a gentleman he has to prove that he deserves such treatment.

A good motto for hired men is as follows: "Try to do more than the employer has a right to expect." This does not mean that a man should work himself to death, for in this present day there are certain rather well-established rules about the working day which all employers must adhere to if they want to keep their good men. But it does mean that when an emergency comes up, where initiative and skill are required, the hired man will be there to carry his share of the load. It does mean that the man is willing to do chores on Sundays and sometimes on special holidays. It means that he is willing to get out of bed when a sudden storm puts some new-born litters of pigs in danger.

Running Things for the Boss.

And now I believe I can give a reason why so many of us get fired. It is the idea, which many of us hired men get, that we should run the business. That is exactly why many a hired man has had a falling out with the boss. We need not complain if we are fired for this reason, for a farmer has a right to be his own boss. Therefore, it is certainly right that he discharges a man who tries to run his affairs. No matter how the employer wants a job done, whether is is the right way to do it or not, it is up to the hired man to do it the way the employer wants it done.

Because a single hired man is usually boarded in his employer's home is no reason why so many of us should try to instruct the boss's young children. I am sorry to say that many of us have a rather questionable line of talk and some colored cuss words. Some of us seem to think it a duty to tell the small boys of the place about things they should not yet know, or should learn from their parents. It is policy, if nothing else, to let the employer's children alone. Be friendly, of course; be square with them, and there is very little chance of being bothered by the children of the employer.

Farm Training a Big Asset.

I may now add that to be a farm-hand is not the simple task that so many think it. In order to be a hired man of the first quality it is almost necessary that the hired man be raised on a farm, for farming is a complicated business, which can not be mastered in a month or a year. The best farm-hands are usually young fellows, trained on the farm all their lives, working ifor the reason that we must have capital in order to operate a farm.

There are so many things that we must know how to do. We must know how to operate all kinds of modern machinery, and to do a good job with it; we must know about the feeding and the care of all kinds of livestock; we must know how to build and repair fences; we must know how to drive two, three, four, six, or eight horses so that they do a good day's work, and we must be able to judge when a horse has done enough.

If the employers would stop to think about the things that they ask their hired help to do, they would understand why so many of the hired men fail to deliver the goods. And when they find the class that "try to do more than they have a right to expect," employers can count themselves lucky.

FREEHOLD

We till a corner of this earth to-day,
And call it ours, because we do not see
That it belongs to those who led the way,
And to the men and women yet to be.

For every acre of these fertile lands
Lies monumental to the buried past;
A heritage from half-forgotten hands,
We hold for those who follow us at last.

For just as long as sun and wind and rain
And all the changing, changeless earth shall live,
Men, sowing seed in doubt and fear and pain,
Shall harvest as the passing seasons give;

Shall reap but that their weary hands have sown;
Shall till, as we have tilled, the stubborn sod;
Upon the soil he may not call his own
The farmer labours ever on with God.

BOY MAY BUILD HOUSE OF SNOW

Simple Instructions For Making Strong, Beautiful Winter Play Places.

WITH FEW BOARDS.

The outdoor boy likes to build with snow, because he is healthy enough not to mind the cold and because perhaps no other material can so easily or effectively be used to get results. Take the snow fort, for instance. It may be ten or even 20 feet long and half as many feet wide, yet two active fellows can complete the structure in a short day. That is, if they know how.

There are two ways to do almost everything. One is the long way and the other the short and easy way; the second method, if it will result in good work, should always be used, whether in building snow houses or splitting wood.

The only article necessary to make the blocks for building snow houses is the mold. It consists of but four boards, and can be made in 15 or 20 minutes, yet it will save very, very much time later on and give results impossible otherwise.

This mold should be eight inches deep, ten inches wide and one foot long. Four ten-inch boards, one inch thick and eight inches wide, are needed. These are nailed together and two wooden cleats nailed to the ends for hand grips. This mold will make a block eight inches high, eight inches wide and ten inches long.

It will be a good plan to make a large number of blocks the first chance you have, for only certain days are good for making them. An ideal day is bright and clear, just a trifle above freezing, so that the snow will pack well. Once a quantity of blocks have been made, then they can be used as blocks.

A smooth spot of ground is cleared of snow. Upon this the mold is placed and the interior filled with snow. Tamp down, fill again and retamp. When the box is full, scrape off the top, place a small block of wood on top and while one boy holds the block down, the other fellow lifts the mold from it and sets it in place for another block. The blocks can be stacked as fast as made.

There are many things the resourceful lad can build with these blocks. A favorite building is, of course, a fort from which he and his comrade can challenge another group of boys, and often withstand their attack.

A good type to build is about ten feet long and eight wide. It is slightly higher than the boys building it. A good place will be upon the crest of a rise of ground, possibly overlooking a river or lake. Then the approaching enemy will not only have to fight against the hail of snowballs flung at the fort.

A low door is placed in one end, while the top of the walls is crowned with single blocks of snow spaced several inches apart. It is easier to dodge sidewise than up and down. If the openings come at the level of the face, the barricaded fighters can take aim and hurl a ball, then dodge to safety in an instant. Besides, these blocks will make the fort much more fort-like and attractive.

Another style is a round snow-block house quite similar to the permanent living quarters of the Eskimo. Here, too, there is a door in one side, while through the top is a small opening for smoke from a fire to escape. The blocks will have to be shaved off somewhat, especially when nearing the top, in order to shape it properly. Instead of using blocks to the very venter of the top, loose snow, when wet, can be used to fill in this space.

Then there are many other types of buildings which can be copied rather faithfully with snow blocks. One enterprising boy living out in the country once built a miniature farmstead group, including a barn, silo, water-tank and residence. Of course, the warm rays of early spring sun tumbled his efforts in ruins, but the practise was mighty good training and that same boy, now grown to manhood, makes a very good living by drawing plans of homes and other buildings for other people.

The application of water to any of the snow buildings you make will be advisable. The water soaks into the porous blocks, binds them all together and when again frozen the whole building is a solid unit. Nor will ice melt so quickly as will snow.

SELF-PROTECTION.

When we saw pole wood with a buzz-saw and gasoline engine, we lay aside all coats that are frayed about the sleeves and gloves that have broken places in them, and put on the best we have. We do this because nine out of ten accidents which come while doing such work are due to ragged sleeves or worn-out gloves catching on the wood and drawing men onto the saw.—V.

TREATING SEED BY ELECTRICITY

Popular Belief in Benefit is Denied by Experimenters.

POOR RESULTS.

The popular imported belief that seed treated with electricity would far outyield untreated seed and greatly reduce the hazards of disease has been thrown into the discard by C. E. Leighty and J. W. Taylor after extensive experiments recently completed and checked.

A process patented and brought into use in England in 1917, and called the Wolfryn Process, consisted in subjecting the seeds of crops, the small grains especially, to an electric current passing through a conducting solution in which the seed is immersed. This process gained much attention in England and was later extensively advertised in Canada, the United States and Australia.

Experiments in treating seeds by an electric current had been developed in Australia several years before the facts about the Wolfryn process were given out.

In reporting the results of electrification of seeds in England, Charles A. Mercier, in a book on the subject and in popular articles, says: "In the case of cereals, substantial increase in the crop has followed the electro-chemical treatment in much more than 80 per cent. of the cases in which it has been fairly tried," and that "the quantity or bulk of the grain is increased . . . , the quality of the grain is improved . . . , and the straw is increased in length, in weight, and in stoutness." According to these reports, the treatment increased the yield 20 to 30 per cent. and reduced the losses from bunt, rust, and wireworms, but Leighty and Taylor feel that no really critical experimental results have been reported as the basis of these claims, and that ingenious but unconvincing explanations have been offered to account for failures.

The Arlington Experiments.

In the fall of 1920, experiments on winter wheat were started at the Government Experiment Farm at Arlington, near Washington, D.C. A uniform lot of Purplestraw, a variety of soft red winter wheat, was divided into four lots, three of these to be used as checks. The method used for the electrochemical treatment was practically the same as that used in the experiments in England. The method in 1921 was similar in principle to that of the preceding year. In 1920, germination tests were made on duplicate samples of 100 kernels each of the treated seed as sown. The four methods of handling were: Dry-seed, water-soaked seed, electrically-treated seed, and seed treated with salt solution. After three days, 88 per cent. of the water-soaked kernels had germinated; 84 per cent. of the electrically-treated; and 74 per cent of those treated in a salt solution. The percentages were respectively 89, 87, and 78.5 after nine days.

Poor Results.

The results showed that in seven out of eight cases the dry-seed check plat outyielded the plat next to it sown with electrochemically-treated seed. The one exception in 1922 showed a gain of two-fifths of a bushel per acre for the treatment over the dry-seed check. The mean difference of the eight untreated-seed plats and the eight adjoining electrically-treated seed plats grown in the two years, is 1.7 bushels per acre in favor of the untreated seed. The average of all plats grown for the two years shows that the electrochemically-treated seed yielded per acre 1.1 bushels less in grain and 55 pounds more of straw than the dry-seed. The electrochemically-treated seed proved slightly superior to that of the water-soaked seed and that treated in salt solution. It averaged one-half a bushel more grain per acre and 253 pounds more of straw than the latter. The average weight of the grain of the electrochemically-treated seed was 1.1 pounds less than all of the grain from dry seed.

The conclusions of Leighty and Taylor are that "Data obtained from replicated plats of winter wheat harvested at the Arlington Experimental Farm showed no benefit or profit resulting from treating the seed electrochemically by the so-called Wolfryn process. Grain yields from all plats sown with electrochemically-treated seed averaged 1.1 bushels per acre less than yields from all plats sown with untreated seed. No effect of the treatment on plant growth or disease infection could be observed."

Speed of Father Time Directed By Feelings

By WALT MASON.

When our lives are filled with pleasure, we observe that time is fleet, and we wish that he would measure shorter strides, with laggard feet. We would have the glad days linger, have the minutes seem like hours; but time halts no foot or finger, toiling on through sun and showers. He is like some locoed sprinter hustling for a golden prize; spring and summer, fall and winter, each he brings, and each one dies. When our lives are bright and joyous, full of laughter and of song, time seems anxious to annoy us, by the way he hikes along. When we've pain that naught can deaden, when we heave the bitter sob, then the steps of time are leaden, he is loafing on his job. Says the optimist, "The morrow will be gay, so help me John"; but we cross a sea of sorrow ere we see the smiling dawn. When we're crossing time's a laggard, he's begrudging every step; he is tired and spent and haggard, and he has no sign of pep. When we are in jail for arson, or for sampling too much fizz, vainly does the village parson say that time like lightning is Time is going, like a turtle; time is going, like a hare; it depends, believe me, Myrtle, on our gladness or despair.

Some folks have taken so much patent medicine that nobody will ever know what ailed them to begin with.

Monotony On The Farm Is Only a Vague Dream When Antics of Calves, Mules, Pigs and Horses Are Counted With Uncertainties of Cow's Tail

Some writers still refer to the monotony of the farm. Probably it is a habit. There is monotony anywhere if one is not busy and interested.

On the farm there are many happenings that keep things from becoming dry and uninteresting. The cattle may get into the growing corn at any hour of the day or night, your neighbor's pigs may devour your cabbages or the bees may swarm and refuse to settle, despite conglomerate din of cow bells and tin pans manipulated by every member of the family old enough to bear arms.

Again, when you attempt to bridle the dun mule you note the haughty look in his eye as he imperiously holds his head out of reach and muttering something detrimental to the dignity and standing of the mule family, you climb upon the manger and adjust the gear. The brown mare resents having the belly band buckled, and placing the crupper under the gray mule's tail requires nerve, skill and dexterity. All this helps to break the monotony.

Monotony on the farm- When a cow swats you in the face with her tail, stamps on your favorite corn or kicks the pail, splashing milk on your clothes, you may decide that you were mistaken.

If still unconvinced, feed the calves and keep sweet when a sturdy youngster after plunging his nose into the milk until nearly strangled, suddenly elevates his head and with a long drawn snort suddenly hunts you in the stomach. Verily, you will not dream of monotony!

It is in the city that the days are about the same. You catch the same car every morning and you log taxis, milk trucks and baby buggies. You pay bills the first of the month if you can. If you can not, you avoide the collector if you can, and the sheriff if you can't. At times this procedure almost breaks the monotony.

On the farm one kind of employment succeeds another and from early spring when the wild geese are beginning to honk, on through summer, autumn and winter there are gradual and pleasing changes.

COLOR IS IMPORTANT FACTOR IN MAKING DRESSES BECOMING

Line and Material Are Secondary Since Old Style May Be Attractive if of Right Shade—What Colors Do to the Figure.

Not very long ago I was asked what made a dress becoming to the wearer, says Isabel De Nyse Conover. I did not answer the question then, but I have since, and I have decided on three things: color, line and material. I put color first.

If I were asked in what proportion they contributed to becomingness, I would make color 90 per cent. You know a dress may be old style but becoming because of the color. However, the idea can't be reversed successfully. If the lines of the dress were graceful, the style straight from the rue de la Paix, and the color wrong, the dress would not flatter the wearer. A shoddy material of pretty and becoming color is not unpleasant to the eye. Color may make the eyes seem brighter, reflect a warm glow in the face, bring out the lights in the hair. It may make a person seem more slender.

In fact, color will work hard to help you to be better-looking if you pick out a friendly one. Each one has certain characteristics on which you may depend. I have tabulated some of them for my own use, and will pass them along to you.

White makes an object seem large. You know that a white house looks larger than one that is painted a dark drab color. This is also true of clothes. If you are stout, cross white off your list, except as a trimming and as an accessory.

Black apparently lessens bulk. It is slenderizing.

Just so with dark shades and light tints. Dark objects seem smaller than light ones. Pastel shades, such as delicate pink, blue, and lavender, make a person seem stouter, while dark shades give the impression of less weight.

We unconsciously associate colors with nature. Azure-blue is cool and restful because it brings to mind the vast expanse of the sky.

Bluish lavender and violet tints seem cool and soothing. They are the shades that lurk in the shadows.

Green is another cool shade, for it symbolizes foliage.

On the other hand, red, orange shades, and yellows are identical with the rays of the sun, and give the feeling of warmth.

White in summer seems cool, for it brings to mind such things as snowfields and fleecy clouds.

Mixed colors, such as brown, beige and gray, may take on either the quality of the cool or the warm shades. Brown may be reddish in tint and warm, or have more green in it and be cool. The same is true of beige. A bluish purple is cool, while a reddish purple is warm. Most grays are cool, but you will find now and then gray tinted with a little yellow that gives a warm glow.

Colors seem to advance or recede from the eye. The warm range of colors—red, orange and yellow—appear to advance, while the greens and blues seem to recede from the eye. That is why reds, orange and yellow are used so often for sports clothes. They make gay spots out of doors. A clear yellow can be seen the farthest of any color.

England Favors Canada.

Britain Makes a Blow at Foreign Meat Trusts, Says Report.

A blow to foreign meat trusts is suggested by an announcement that the British Dominions will be given the first chance of supplying Great Britain's needs in meat. "The Dominions will be allowed to import meat into this country under license to the full extent of the difference between our consumption and our home-grown products. Only so far as our Dominions fail to supply the deficiency will foreign meats be allowed to enter this country."

The only safe and sure way to destroy an enemy is to make him your friend.

BETTER PACKING.

Baldwin Would Help Dominions to Improve Farm Products.

Agriculturists in Great Britain are greatly perturbed over the proposal of the Baldwin Government to grant $1,000,000 to the British Dominions for the purpose of improving facilities for marketing their farm products in the Motherland.

At a large meeting of the farmers at Worcester, President Rylands of the Farmers' Union was asked whether the proposed grant would not be harmful to British agriculture, and he replied that it would be monstrously unfair if the State, being unwilling to help the British farmers, was going to help the people in the overseas Dominions to beat down prices in Britain.

ZZZ AND $$$ FROM WOOD SAW

Try Sawing Your Own — Make Dead Trees Pay Dividends.

CONSERVE FOREST.

By PETE GELLERT.

When January comes we are reminded of two things—blizzards and the old wood-saw. The two invariably go hand-in-hand, just like Santa Claus and Christmas.

Perhaps it is just a memory chord striking a note of joy and sorrow experienced way back in boyhood days. Just a week ago we heard the Holiday Bells. But once more, the old rip-saw's scream and snort told us that dad was out at work and was expecting us to pull on the boots and join him.

Folks "sawed their own" then as now. Only they could cut and saw what came nearest to the ax while now they must use a good deal of forethought and be careful which tree they cut. Many of them do, while a good many do not. On the whole, however, most of us realize that timber must be regarded as a crop, just like oats, wheat, corn and potatoes.

The boys in Europe could never help admiring the way in which the French and Germans took care of their trees and forests. It was a common sight to see old folks and young walking along the road, with a bundle of twigs and small branches on their backs And in winter one could see farmers coming from the woods with their two-wheeled carts loaded down with the same kind of fuel. It has a lesson for any Canadian to see these people spend half a day gathering what we burn up in bon fires or allow to rot, thus stealing from the timber supply which really belongs to a future generation.

Conservation in Canada has been preached for quite a few years. But preaching and practise don't always work like twin cylinders. Coming right down to facts, the first question any farmer will ask, when approached on the subject of forest conservation and economical home use of the wood on the farm, is: "What will it save for me?" One answer is: "It will save waste of time."

Recently farmers were asked this question:

"What is the greatest waste on the Canadian farm?"

It was hard to find any one who was willing to give a definite answer. But if we consider it right and figure that many essentials are secondary and that there are only a few primary ones to success, there is no doubt but that the greatest waste on the farm is waste of time.

There are some farms where folks work all day long the year around. But on the majority of farms the winter-time is a period of lighter work and less hurry; November to March are usually considered the slack months on the farm. And no one wants to sit and listen to the radio both day and evening.

If you have a hired man, don't overwork him, but keep him busy. And if you have boys, teach them that the art of wood-craft is likely to become much more profitable than the pastime of trapping, or, rather, trying to trap, skunks.

Perhaps you have only five acres of timber; maybe you have 40. In either case you have enough of a timber crop to spend a number of days in winter going through the woods, cutting dead lower branches, cutting out gnarly, crooked trees, pruning those trees which are getting too bottom-heavy, and weeding out those which prevent the development of better ones.

If you haven't tried it before, try it this year. And you will be surprised to find that probably there are enough dead and waste branches and trees to supply your home with good wood for the winter, if not a good deal more. This may mean a saving of from $50 to $100.

"How so?" some one who has a large tract of woods may ask. In this way: By leaving the good, ripe timber, which you would otherwise have used, for sale to a local market or perhaps a sawmill. If you have ripe timber to cut, you have or can get reasonably a cord-wood saw and use this and your time as well as that of the boys, sawing the wood for your customers.

Some people complain that it is hard to find a local market. A farmer has solved this handicap by having his brother-in-law in a small town farther south take orders; then he ships his year's crop of wood down in carload lots.

Where one man runs a farm alone he might join with his neighbors in cutting, hauling out and marketing these trees. Without going to the trouble of forming an association according to law, you can still unite your efforts, so that all timber on the various farms may be taken care of and turned into cash. Each farmer should keep accurate account of his logs, so that the proceeds can be divided equitably.

Let no tree be cut without good reason, and permit a tree to stand and grow wherever there is room for one. Have every tree that is cut, worked up into sled or wagon length at once, and pile the wood so that it can not freez down nor be snowed under. Have it of a length that will cut into sticks for use with the least sawing.

When drawing and delivering, put all dry, dewayed and soft wood into a pile by itself for use during warm weather. The hard wood is invaluable, for it does away with frequent feeding of the fire and much littering of the floor. Let these two assortments be kept separate when sawing. Give the housewife the feeling that for cold weather or special baking days, she has a store of wood that is dependable and as clean as coal. Saw the wood to one standard length, not too long nor too short. Any crooked or dirty wood discard for the time being. Have all the fuel piled neatly under cover where the air can circulate through it.

BRILLIANT COLORS.

Very attractive scarfs are of brilliant colors with hand-painted designs. The newest bands for watches are also hand-painted.

BACHELOR

Is there anything which excites our sympathy much more than the bachelor on the farm?

If he can't get a wife we are sorry for him.

If he won't get a wife we are still sorry for him, because he does not know what he is missing. In any case, it is a pretty safe bet that he is sorry for himself.

Imagine when everything goes dead wrong on the farm, having no one to blame for it but yourself, the situation must be intolerable.

We recently remarked to a married farmer friend that he had a mighty useful helpmate in his wife. "You bet, she's useful," said he. "I wish I had a couple more like her."

This might be termed too much of a good thing, but we admired his whole-hearted enthusiasm.

When bachelors hear such sentiments expressed, they should take heart, which when you think it over, is rather an apt expression.

Then, too, married men live longer—yes, we know that old come-back, that "it only seems longer," but there is no truth in it.

FARM ALARM IS SAVER OF LIFE

Old Story of Everything Lost May Be Easily Avoided.

MANY USES.

The Stevens farmhouse was a ruin. Fire had destroyed not only the house but the greater share of its contents.

"If I had only had some quick way of getting the men from the field we could have saved it—put it out with a few buckets of water from the tank," lamented Mrs. Stevens.

It was the old story too often being repeated. Mrs. Stevens was alone in the house with her two small children, one two and one a mere baby. All of a sudden she realized that smoke was pouring through the house from somewhere. The men had reached the far field. She begged the frightened two-year-old to let go her skirts as she hurried for water. She called frantically, but her voice did not carry half so far away as the men were. Finally an across-the-road neighbor heard her. Her men, too, were in the field. She called with the same effect. She had to make the trip almost to where the men were working before she could get their attention. Meanwhile the flames had enveloped the Stevens' home and were beyond control.

"If we had had a farm alarm," said the now homeless Mrs. Stevens, "this could have been avoided."

A Valuable Horse Injured.

At another farm home the mother of the family was the only one at home when she heard a commotion at the barn. On hurrying to the scene she found a valuable horse down, unable to get up. She loosened the halter strap; she tried to quiet the startled animal even at the risk of getting too near the horse's feet, but she could do nothing.

"If I had had some kind of a call-bell or whistle I could have had a neighbor or the hired man in from the hay-field," she said, "but when I was able to get some one the horse was lamed and made almost useless."

It is a grievous oversight for the farmer not to provide some kind of a bell or whistle or siren to use in case of a fire or accident.

Neighborhood Alarms.

In one farm locality the entire neighborhood is provided with farm alarms. Some have bells, others whistles and one farmer has a horn. They have a set of signals, one toot or whistle meaning for some one to come; but if the sound goes on continuously it means for all men to come to the house, and often the near neighbors will try to find out if their assistance is needed.

"We have saved two of our homes from the flames by our farm alarm system," said one of the farmers in this neighborhood, "and we rescued a child from drowning by getting to the spot in time, and on another occasion we were in time getting to a roadside auto accident to save two of the people who were pinned under the car. Enough evidence to show the merit of a quick-call service on the farm."

True, the farms to-day are provided with telephones; but these do little good when it is a season when every man is in the field, for it is not often that just womenfolk can handle such situations.

Provide your farm with a farm alarm. Teach your family a code of signals that will allow you to understand the call and make the children understand that there are to be no false calls because of their carelessness in pulling the bell-rope or blowing the whistle when it is not necessary.

RIGHT.

At a lecture the speaker orated fervently: "He drove straight to his goal. He looked neither to the right nor to the left, but pressed forward, moved by a definite purpose. Neither friend nor foe could delay him or turn him from his course. All who crossed his path did so at their own peril. What would you call such a man?"

"A truck driver," shouted a voice from the audience.

Pass Along.

A street preacher in a Scottish town called a passing policeman and complained of being annoyed by a certain portion of his audience. He asked to have the objectionable persons removed.

"Well, ye see," said the officer thoughtfully, "it would be deefficult for me tae spot them; but I'll tell ye what I'd dae if I were you."

"What?" asked the preacher eagerly.

"Just gang roun' wi' th' hat!"

The only race that doesn't want curly hair is the race which has always had it.

CO-OPERATIVES ARE NECESSARY FOR MARKETING

Former Hastings Boy Writes as Secretary of Wheat Pool.

SIMPLE SECRET.

R. O. German Says Member Must Accept Personal Responsibilities.

R. O. Gorman is a brother of A. V. Gorman, of Hastings. His article is reprinted from the U.F.A. organ.

The other day I received a letter from a man in Minnesota, U.S.A., wherein he asked me to let him have the "Secret" behind the success of the Alberta Wheat Pool. He appeared to be under the impression that there was some newly discovered formula, the application of which had enabled the Alberta Pool farmer to receive a greater return for the product of his labor.

Realizing that he anticipated receiving in reply a rose-colored dissertation on a mysterious system of high finance, I was rather loath to be under the necessity of sending him an unromantic account of the structure and operation of the Wheat Pool, and the events leading up to its inception, of describing:

How the farmer, after being victimized for years as a result of selling his wheat through a haphazard catch-as-catch-can system, had realized his helplessness as an individual and had begun to study ways and means of winning back the thing which he had lost through his own individualistic tendencies and irresponsible attitude in the marketing of his wheat;

Fifteen Years' Preparation.

How this preliminary work was fostered and carried on for fifteen years through an institution known as the United Farmers of Alberta, with branches or "Locals" in every part of the Province. How these Locals were composed of farmers who, though fighting against heavy economic odds, were yet grimly determined to continue the night school studies, instituted by their Locals, firmly believing that knowledge of their problem and its solution would bring power to win back their lost estate;

Proving Virtue of Co-operation.

How each year brought with it increased understanding of co-operative principles and closer fellowship among the farming class. Enterprises entered into by the farmers on a small scale began to prove the virtue of the co-operative system, so that when in August, 1923, the great psychologic moment arrived for putting over the big Province-wide Wheat Pool Drive, that moment found Alberta equipped with the necessary mass intelligence and organized machinery to do the job. Twenty-six thousand farmers expressed their willingness to pool their wheat for a period of five years and signed an agreement to that effect, and six weeks later the largest co-operative marketing scheme in the world was in actual operation.

At the eleventh hour the farmers had undertaken the stupendous task of placing on the markets of the world in a scientific way thirty-five million bushels of wheat—and succeeded beyond their most sanguine hopes. Alberta's achievement has been heralded to every corner of the civilized world and the eyes of every country are focused on our efforts. Head office has received letters of congratulation and inquiry from Czecko-Slovakia, from Tunis in Northern Africa, and Natal in South Africa, from Denmark and from England, and from practically every state in the United States.

Secret of Pooling Success.

The "Secret" of our success is that little germ of understanding in the heart of the Pool member, which makes him willing and eager to accept the responsibilities incident to his membership and, if need be, to undergo temporary inconvenience that in the end a greater reward may be his. The Spirit of Co-operation has invaded the prairies and is each day causing the farmer to be less willing to yield to the pressure of immediate necessity and sacrifice his birthright for a mess of pottage.

New Fields to Conquer.

Encouraged by the success of his efforts in marketing his wheat, the Alberta farmer is seeking new fields to conquer, and, in his effort to mobilize his selling strength in marketing livestock, poultry and eggs and dairy products, may success attend him. It is a job big enough to require the help of every true citizen, and it is also a job that must be done if Alberta is to take her rightful place in the agricultural world.

The necessity for putting over these other Pools is painfully manifest. If the citizens of the Province lend to the movement their whole-hearted support as they did in organizing the Wheat Pool, and the members themselves show the same sympathetic co-operation and forbearance in carrying on the work as the Wheat Pool members have shown toward their association, It Can and Will Be Done.

NURMI AVOIDS ROLE OF HERO

Great Finnish Runner Declines to Face Slow Motion Camera.

RESUMES TRAINING.

NEW YORK, January 9. — Having enjoyed a complete rest since he turned in his record-breaking races at Madison Square Garden on Tuesday night, Paavo Nurmi, the great Finnish runner, planned to resume his trainings with a light work out to-day in preparation for his next American appearance which will be on January 13th, in the Garden, when he will compete in the games of the Mayor's Committee on Municipal Athletic activities.

As was the case previous to his first race in the Garden, Nurmi still desires to do his training as privately as possible and is as reluctant as ever in disclosing the exact time at which he will take his indoor work out.

The past few days have witnessed the setting of some more records by Nurmi for it is doubtful whether any amateur athlete has ever been the recipient of so much attention from the public as has been showered upon the Finn since his recent Garden performances. Yesterday was an extremely trying day for the great runner, whose retiring nature in private life seems to shink from the adulation that is being heaped upon him.

Although he has tried to keep himself in strict seclusion there was a steady stream of callers at his temporary home in the Bronx, which began as early as 8 o'clock in the morning.

Among those who tried to see the runner were representatives of motion picture concerns, who are anxious to have Nurmi give a special demonstration of his style of running before a slow-motion camera, special story writers and representatives of many syndicates who are seeking Nurmi's services as a writer.

Nurmi to be Busy.

Those who were unable to locate Nurmi's address called at the local A.A.U. headquarters, where the officials said they never had seen such a deluge of callers seeking information about a single athlete. One of the visitors to the A.A.U. offices was a sculptor, who wanted to know if Nurmi would pose for him.

To all entreaties for his services in one capacity or another Nurmi turned a deaf ear, and all callers were referred to Hugo Quist, official of the Finnish-American A.C., who also is conducting Nurmi's athletic tour in this country. Through Mr. Quist Nurmi let it be known that while here he intended to concentrate his entire attention on his running, and would not have time for any other activities.

"In Finland," said Nurmi, through Mr. Quist, acting as interpreter, "I have written for the newspapers and periodicals on athletics, but I never do any writing when I am in training."

SCORE WAS 3-2

LAKEFIELD, Jan. 10.— The Lakefield District Hockey League got away to a good start last night when Kennedy's Colts beat Warsaw 3-2 in a fast and furious encounter. GREATEST ATHLETIC ARENA PROJECTED

Name of Madison Square Garden Will Be Preserved in New York.

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—The name of Madison Square Garden, historic arena and famous as the scene of many spectacular sporting events over the past two generations, will be perpetuated in a $5,500,000 memorial building, a complete amusement and exhibition plant which will be the largest covered amphitheatre in the world.

Work on the new structure, located on the west side of Eight Avenue from Forty-Ninth to Fiftieth Streets already has begun and it will be opened to the public on October 15 of this year, probably with the annual horse show, according to the announcement to-day by George L. (Tex Rickard) noted promoter and president of the Madison Square Garden Corporation, sponsoring the undertaking.

The new building is designed to replace the old Madison Square Garden, located on the block bounded by Madison and Fourth Avenues, Twenty Sixth and Twenty Seventh streets which is to be raised next spring and replaced by an office sky scraper.

The new building, measuring 200 feet wide and 500 feet long, will be divided into two levels, making it possible for separate activities to be conducted at the same time. Seating accommodations, arranged some what after the tiers in the old garden, will be provided for 23,000 spectators, which will excel by 9,000 the capacity of the Olympia Arena in London, at present the largest covered amphitheatre. Modern ice hockey equipment will be a feature of the new building and garden officials, who have organized a franchise in the Canadian National Hockey League, plan a revival of the ice sport here next season.

Refuse Loan of Hitchman From Ottawa Senators.

BOSTON, Jan. 10. — President Charles F. Adams, of the Boston Professional Hockey Club, announced Friday that he had refused the offer of the Ottawa Hockey Club to loan his club Lionel Hitchman, substitute defense player, for the remainder of the season.

"I do not wish to depreciate Ottawa's sportsmanship, but we would rather lose with our own men than win with borrowed players."

The Boston team is at the foot of the National Hockey League standing with eleven defeats and one victory.

STUDENTS PLAY TO-DAY.

P.C.I. and St. Peter's School Arrange Ehibition Game.

The St. Peter's School hockey team and P.C.I. are playing an exhibition game at the Brock Street Arena this afternoon, Lindsay C.I. were slated to play the S.P.S. boys this game, but they notified the locals that they would be unable to play so P.C.I. consented to step in and fill the breach.

P.C.I. have dropped out of the Intercollegiate League and this will leave S.P.S. and the Scugog Collegians to decided which shall move up in the next rounds St. Peter's with Jack LeBarr between the posts and in front of him five men who played for the maroon and orange last season should go a long way. Lindsay is an unknown quality but they generally manage to drop a good squad over the boards up there.

P.C.I. will likely give S.P.S. some practice games on the Collegiate next week in order to prepare them for their game with Lindsay.

An ordinary suit weighs about 6½ lbs. By using the thinnest materials or flannels it can be brought down to 4 lbs. At the best, however, a man must carry about 8 lbs—for an ordinary pair of shoes will weigh about 2 lbs., and at least another 2 lbs. would be added by all the other articles of dress.

BENEDICTS AND BACHELORS DRAW

Examiner Hockey Talent Gave a Splendid Exhibition.

In a game that had all the earmarks of a hockey match the Bachelors and Benedicts of the Examiner played a tie game, the final score being 6-6.

The game had all the resemblances of a hockey match, but it is hard to say whether it was or not. The game was a hard-checking, closely-fought affair, and stiff body-checking, cross-checking and everything that goes to make up a hockey match was shown.

The Benedicts turned out a great defence pair in Swanston and McCauley, and the only rival of this pair is Kid Fairbanks, who invented the weighing machine. The single men tore in on this defence for a while at the start of the game, but after a couple of good stiff body-checks, they contented themselves with shooting from outside the defence. Harry Dugan played centre for the Benedicts and couldn't have been any more helpless had he been in a straight-jacket. His favorite tactic was sitting in front of the Bachelor's goal and when the puck came along he either threw it in the net with his hand or kicked it in with his skate.

The Benedict had no one in particular in goal, each one of them taking a crack at it. Their regular goal-minder refused to turn out because some of the single fellows insulted him when they coaxed him to come out to play in between the nets. That left three men on the wings, Taylor, Clarke and Johnson, and they turned in a fair game. Yes they did!

For the Bachelors, Scates in goal had nothing but a goal-minder's outfit. He resembled a sieve. Up on the defence Chouinard and Franks were about as useful as a fur coat to a man in California. Zeihr and McLean on the wings and Collins in centre were good for about the first five minutes. After they received a couple of jolts from the Benedicts' defence they were done.

Shortly after the game opened Swanston put Franks to the boards and it took the sorrell-topped youngster a couple of minutes to come around. A few minutes later McCauley shot Collins into the boards, and these two players were about finished. It just took a couple of jolts like these to keep the Bachelors shooting from outside the defence.

The Benedicts were aided in their scoring by Hensley, who was goal-umpire behind the Benedicts' net. On one occasion McLean swooped around behind the Benedicts' net and shoved the puck in under from the back. Hensley awards the Bachelors a goal when questioned by the umpire. This about evened it up, for Dugan the Benedicts' centre man, kicked a couple of goals in on the Bachelors.

The teams lined up as follows:

Referee—Gordon Webb.

HAVELOCK WON HOCKEY MATCH

Marmora Put Up a Good Game—The Score Was 3 to 2.

HAVELOCK, Jan. 10. —A fast and splendid game of hockey was played here at 8.30 p.m. on Thursday between Havelock and Marmora, in which Havelock came out victors by the score of 3 to 2. The first period was all excitement until one of the visiting team slipped one past Jack Davidson, who had been playing a great game, and Glen Wright had all his shots saved by the Marmora goalie, who had horse-shoes around his neck, but try how he would he could not get one past him, and the first period ended with 1-0 in favor of Marmora. The second period was still faster, with Havelock on the aggressive all through and they were awarded a couple of goals through good play. Douglas Brennan making one of his fast rushes and placing the puck safely into the net, but Marmora were a husky and stubborn bunch and were not to be denied, and they got another through Wallace. Havelock came strong again and scored after a nice bit of combination, Barney Quinn doing the trick. This ended the second period. The third and last period was the fastest, as both teams were level, 2-2, and Havelock were out to win, but the brilliant goalkeeping of Marmora's net guardian saved the team from a larger score. Havelock went out to win and were soon awarded another goal, after Barney Quinn and Jim Hooper had taken the puck up the ice on a splendid combined play. Quinn shot the puck across from the right and Hooper placed it safe into the net. This was the last and winning goal and Havelock deserved their win. Wright is a very cool player and his brains are working the same time as his stick and he almost every time knows just when and where to put the puck. Doug Brennan played a great game, as also did his brother, C. Brennan. Jack Davidson, was great in goal and saved several sure goals. Mr. Thos. Beatty, of Tweed, handled the game very satisfactory. Mr. J. Diaper, an old athletic sport, is to be congratulated and great praise is awarded him for his kindness toward the team, in which he spent the whole of the day whitening up the rink boards on the inside of the rink and it made it quite different for not only the players, but also for the spectators, as everyone could watch the puck from start to finish. It must be said that Glen Wright is a player that everyone admires, as he is one of the cleanest players that ever stepped on the ice.

PETES TO PLAY BELLEVILLE TEAM

Seniors to Meet Quinte Crew in Exhibition Game Next Thursday.

The Belleville Ontario says:

Belleville fans, since the winter opened have followed the fortunes of the good senior team in Peterborough with as much appreciation as the Lift Lock fans themselves, and an opportunity will be given this city of seeing this great team in action.

The management of the local team has made arrangements with the Peterborough outfit to come here for an exhibition game on Thursday night of next week where they will show how they won seven straight games against such good teams as the Soo, Niagara Falls, Preston, Parkdale, Aura Lee and Hamilton Rowing Club. It will also show what chances Belleville has when stacked up against a senior team.

These arrangements were made as Peterborough has no game next week and felt that by playing here they could keep their attack together better. Belleville also has no game next week after Monday, so it will give the locals a chance to keep in better condition for this hard group.

A big expense is involved in bringing this team here as the team has to stay over night but they are relying on the patronage of this city. The Petes have guaranteed to use their regular team as follows: Goal, Dwyer; defence, Parker and McLeod; centre, Collins; right wing, Bailey; left wing, Ranger; subs, Rose and Burgess, throughout the game, so it will be no pink-tea affair. It would boost this team's stock should they slip over a win and that is just what the Lift Lock crew will try to prevent.

It will be one of the best games played in this city and the locals are to be congratulated in bringing such a high-class aggregation of puck chasers here to do battle and the appreciation of the fans will be seen in their attendance next Thursday evening.

The Peterborough intermediates will practise at Brock street rink on Tuesday and Thursday nights of next week between 7 and 8 o'clock, and Manager Grover Halpin requests all players to be out at these work-outs.

The Senior team's next game is in Toronto, on Tuesday night, with Parkdale, and the battle should be one of the most interesting of the season.

AGED INDIAN BADLY FROZEN.

ST. JOHN'S, N. B., Jan. 10.—(Canadian Press).—While preparing to remove the body of John Pictou, an Indian, aged 90, from the place where it had been found in the woods near Hampstead, men from an undertaking establishment were greatly startled to find that he was still alive, although he had been in the open for more than 36 hours, with the mercury ten degrees below zero. Examination disclosed that the man was badly frozen. First aid measures were taken, but Pictou remained unconscious and was brought to the General Public Hospital here, where it is said that his condition is unchanged. It is expected that he will lose one hand and several toes.

"ARGENTINE LOVE" COMING TO RIALTO

An Allan Dwan Production of Blasco Ibanez Story.

"Argentine Love," an Allan Dwan production for Paramount of the original screen story by Vicente Blasco Ibanez, author of "The Four Horsemen," "Blood and Sand," etc., at the Capitol Theatre next Monday and Tuesday. Bebe Daniels and Ricardo Cortez are featured in the cast which also includes James Rennie, Aurelio Coccia, Julia Hurley and others.

The story is a colorful romance of the Argentine—of two fellows, one a wealthy Spaniard, the other an American engineer, both in love with the same girl. Cortez, of course, is the fighting Spanish lover, James Rennie the engineer and Miss Daniels the altogether charming Senorita Consucia Garcia. "Argentine Love" is one of the finest love dramas by the most popular continental author of today—and, remmbering his past performances, youll say that this picture runs true to form.

It has everything—drama, love, interest, comedy, heart-appeal and a little novelty all its very own thrown in for good measure.

This one is sure to please!

CORINNE GRIFFITH AND MILTON SILLS COMING TO CAPITOL

Corrine Griffith and Milton Sills will be seen at the Capitol Theatre next Wednesday and Thursday in Single Wives.

One of Mary Roberts Rinehart's most interesting stories, "K," is being screened at the Capitol for this week end, under the title of "K, the Unknown," starring Virginia Valli, with Percy Marmont. Marmont will be remembered as the hero, Mark Sabre, of "When Winter Comes." His depiction of K. LeM ne, the Dr. Edwardes of the story, is very good, although not as well done as the delineation of Sabre in the former picture. Virginia Valli makes an excellent heroine, Sidney Page, the nurse who falls in love with the handsome Dr. Max Wilson, and then discovering his fickleness, turns to the more trustworthy "K."

Margarita Fisher, as Carlotta Harrison, the villainess of the piece, is probably the outstandin figure. She gets everybody into trouble, herself included, then saves the situation by confessing that she has caused the accusation of carelessness against Dr Edwardes, which resulted in the deaths of several of his patients, and caused him to be arrested. The love lorn Joe, the chubby youth, whose love for Sidney causes him to shoot Dr. Max, steps out of the picture in much the same way as Carlotta and Max eventually do, leaving a question mark as to their ultimate fortunes. The finale is a satisfactory one for the main actors, K and Sidney, who disappear to the sound of wedding bells.

Anyone who remembers the odd, tick-a-tack music in "Way Down East," that invariably accompanied the progress of the village gossip, will recall it with pleasure in this picture, where it appears again in the orchestral accompaniment to the appearances of a trio of sharp-tongued ladies.

Bobby Vernon in the comedy, "French Pastry," got some good laughs from his audience last night.

AT THE GRAND.

"THE WORLD OF PASSION."

"The World of Passion," the long-heralded production, comes to the Grand Opera House on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of next week, January 15th, 16th and 17th, with a matinee performance on Saturday and prices of a popular type. Evening prices are 50, 35 and 25 cents, with a matinee at 25 and 15 cents. When shown elsewhere, in Canada, this picture commanded a top price of $1.50.

The conception of "The World of Passion" is so vast as to enthrall the imagiantion. It is a story as big as the world itself. During the course of the picture such sights are seen as the ancient city of Jerusalem 2,000 years ago, in the days when that famous city was the centre of the world's civilization. We see old Italy in the days of the Old Masters, in the days when Love was art and every man was an artist. We see the tremendous crusade encampment outside of Antioch in the land of Syria where Christian armies assembled for the purpose of saving the Holy City from the Turks. We see the Spanish Inquisition at the close of the Middle Ages, in the days when Europe and Asia were the whole world.

The story, taken from an old Italian masterpiece of the Eleventh Century, is one of the greatest pieces of dramatic ingenuity in the pages of the world's literature. The story concerns itself with real men and women, not the painted saints and clay idols so common in modern fiction and motion pictures, but real men and women as seen in the pages of history—creatures always prone to the weaknesses of the flesh, sometimes strong with the strength of generosity, sometimes weak with ghastly passions.

Special music by the orchestra to conform to the grand and elemental nature of the piece will be rendered.

A very special and unique item in the programme will be the prologue, simulating in song and dance and dramatic art, the story of the picture as it unrolls itself on the screen. The prologue will be an integral part of the big picture, and one of the most interesting portions of its screening. It is in the capable hands of Mrs. W. McKee Bingham, who will take part, assisted by the Misses May Perry, Martha Kirn, Jessie Hodgson and Helen Ross.

AT THE ROYAL.

"ANOTHER MAN'S WIFE" BRINGS UP QUESTION OF "UNWRITTEN LAW"

Is there justice in the "unwritten law"? Is it right that a man should be permitted to wreak his vengeance on the invader of his home? For decades these questions have been answered both ways. Some maintain that death is a fit punishment for the man who steals another man's wife and that the husband is justified in taking the law into his own hands and revenging the wrong done him. It is his affair, they say, and not the affair of the public. Besides, jealousy is one of the elemental human emotions. It is a strong man who can curb his wrath and hatred—if he loves his wife.

Others declare that no man has a right to take another man's life—no matter what injury has been done him; that the doctrine of "an eye for an eye" belongs to the age of savagery and that in the present day men should be able to use their brains to bridle their impulses. The more radical declare that marriage is only real when two people love each other and that when love is dead they should cease living together. "If your wife wants to go, it is better for both of you that she does go. Why try to bring her back?" they say. "It will do no good to harm your rival."

In spite of this cold reasoning, the fact remains that human nature is hard to change. It is because jealousy is such a powerful force that the unwritten law has not grown obsolete. There is no denying that it has caused much trouble. Men trusting to it for protection have been too quick to seek revenge on mere suspicion or circumstantial evidence. The gravest mistakes have been made in this way.

An example of the great misunderstandings that arise through the haste of a man to seek revenge is shown in "Another Man's Wife," the new James Kirkwood-Lila Lee picture which comes to the Royal Theatre for a three-day run next Monday.

BENNY LEONARD AT ROYAL MONDAY

Another of the popular "Flying Fists" series starring Benny Leonard, the world's lightweight champion is scheduled for the Royal on Monday also Larry Semon in a "Pair of Kings."

"SQUIBS" COMING TO ROYAL THURSDAY, FRIDAY AND SATURDAY

Betty Balfour, Britain's Queen of Happiness, better known locally as "Squibs," has been booked for the Royal for the last half of next week. This production has not been shown in Toronto yet, the Royal getting a first run.

Hughie Wright, who will be remembered as the father in all the "Squibs" series, is in the cast. Her new production, "Mary Finds the Gold," gives her plenty of opportunities for her particular brand of comedy.

PLAN TO SAVE ELKS FROM DIEING HUNGER

Tragedy of Jackson Hole in Wyoming—Thousands Strayed to Death.

ROCK SPRINGS, Wyo., Jan. 10. —(United Press)—Never again shall the "Tragedy of Jackson Hole" devastate the herds of Wyoming elk, wiping them out in thousands by starvation.

That is the decree of the Isaac Walton League of America, 80,000 strong, which has announced its purpose of creating one of the largest game reserves in the country by buying every ranch in the Jackson Hole country.

These ranches which now cover the lower altitudes were once the winter feeding ground of the elk. When storms of winter drove them down from the mountains they found a haven in the lush meadows, luxuriant in wild grasses.

But now when they descend from the snow blanketed hills they find their old feeding grounds bare, sheep and cattle having grazed over every inch of the Hole country. Thousands of them perishing annually, forecast the antlered herd will follow the ghostly trail of the bison to oblivion.

Purchase of the entire territory is necessary to halt their extinction, the Isaac Walton League holds, and it has issued a call to all its members to subscribe to a fund with which to convert the privately owned land into a game reserve. It is estimated that at least $100,000 will be required to carry out the plan.

After the purchase, the League plans to importune the Department of the Interior to set aside all grazing rights held by ranchers and to restrict the ranges to a fall feeding ground for elk. Closing of the district to homestead entry will also be requested, as Jackson Hole, in the opinion of sportsmen, is a natural feeding ground for elk and not a profitable ranching country.

OPPOSES NAVAL ISSUE.

President Coolidge Not Anxious to Elevate Guns on Ships.

WASHINGTON, January 10. — President Coolidge yesterday sounded what Washington generally regards as death knell for the move to bring about the elevation of guns on capital ships of the United States navy.

The views of the president on the proposal to raise guns, to increase their range were presented with unmistakable definiteness at the White House. He holds that the elevation of the guns would be a return to the old International competition in armaments and an abandonment of the new principle of limitation of armament.

WEDDING BELLS.

REVELL—ROSE.

On Friday, 19th December, 1924, at "Coldblow," the beautiful home of the Misses Calcutt, 73 Robinson Street, a wedding of widespread interest took place. The guests, about seventy in number, were received by the Misses Calcutt, who made charming hostesses. The bride was Lilian Charlotte A. Revell, youngest daughter of the late Robert Revell, Esq., barriser-at-law, and the bridegroom, Robert Stanley Rose, third son of the late James Rose, Esq., of Montreal. The marriage ceremony which took place at half-past three o'clock, was performed by Rev. M. C. Mackinnon of Knox Presbyterian Church, and took place in the drawing room, which was beautifully decorated with Christmas greens, bells, and white ribbons. The Wedding March was played by Mr. John Crane, who ably presided at the piano. Four ribbon bearers, Mrs. Gordon Logan, Mrs. Clinton Jamieson, Miss May Denne and Miss Lily Rush, carried wide white ribbons which formed an aisle for the bride, who was brought in and given away by Mr. John B. Rose of Montreal. The bride wore a gown of cream-colored charmeuse; the sleeves and trimmings were of exquisite old lace, and the sleeves and bodice were beaded with real pearls, an heirloom in the family; cream-colored silk gloves and stockings, and silver brocaded slippers. A lovely bandeau of pearls and brilliants held the bridal veil, which fell in graceful folds below the hem of the skirt, a pearl necklace, and a large bouquet of Ophelia roses and lilies-of-the-valley and ferns tied with cream-colored ribbon; from which wide streamers fell completed a lovely bridal costume. The bride's only attendant was a beautiful little boy, Master Eric G. Revell Porter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Porter, he wore a black velvet suit, white collar, cuffs and tie, white stockings and pretty black slippers. Master Eric made an adorable little page, and during the afternoon he won the hearts of all the guests by his merry ways. After the wedding ceremony, as the bridal couple passed down the room, Miss Margaret Calcutt and Mrs. Fairweather rang a large bell which hung from the centre arch, and a gay chime pealed forth and a shower of rose leaves fell on the bride and bridegroom. Refreshments were served in the dining and sitting rooms, the table in the dining room was centered with a lovely lace clotoh, and the wedding cake, four tiers high, was on an historic wedding cake board which has belonged to the bride's family for five generations. Silver candlesticks and rose-colored candles, white and rose-colored carnations, roses and smilax made the table beautiful. Toasts to the health and happiness of the bridal couple were proposed by the Rev. M. C. Mackinnon and the Rev. G. J. Bousfield and responded to by the bridegroom, and the guests all joined in singing "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows." The chimes of St. John's Church were heartily rung in honor of the wedding, and telegrams bringing good wishes were received from absent friends. The wedding gifts are many and beautiful and came from many parts of the world. Mr. and Mrs. Rose will reside at 333 Roger Street, Ashburnham.

KEEP LITTLE ONES WELL IN WINTER

Winter is a dangerous season for the little ones. The days are so changeable—one bright, the next cold and stormy, that the mother is afraid to take the children out for the fresh air and exercise they need so much. In consequence they are often cooped up in overheated, badly ventilated rooms and are soon seized with colds or grippe. What is needed to keep the little ones well is Baby's Own Tablets. They will regulate the stomach and bowels and drive out colds, and by their use the baby will be able to get over the winter season in perfect safety. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

HUGHES QUITS U. S. GOVERNMENT; SUCCEEDED BY FRANK B. KELLOGG

Coolidge Accepts Resignation of Secretary of State —Effective March 4.

TO PRIVATE LIFE

Kellogg is U. S. Ambassador to Britain—Big Surprise to Official Washington.

WASHINGTON January 12. — Charles Evans Hughes has resigned as Secretary of State, effective on March 4, and he will be succeeded by Frank B. Kellogg of Minnesota, now Ambassador to Great Britain.

Secretary Hughes' letter of resignation, dated Saturday, and made public at the White House, gives as the only reason for retiring that he has been almost continuously in the public service for twenty years, and desires to return to private life.

President Coolidge's acceptance of Mr. Hughes' resignation, also given to the press, expresses the President's regret and a feeling of personal loss over the severance of their relationship.

The announcement of the prospective change in the office of Secretary of State created a sensation among that portion of political Washington that heard of it. There had been persistent rumours that Mr. Hughes intended to leave the Cabinet and these were repeatedly denied in official quarters where statements were made on several occasions that the the only cabinet officer who had indicated to President Coolidge that he wished to retire when the new Presidential term would begin on March 4th, was James J. Davis, the Secretary of Labor.

Naming Kellogg a Complete Surprise.

The surprise expressed was even greater with reference to President Coolidge's selection of Ambassador Kellogg to be Mr. Hughes' successor. It was known that Mr. Kellogg desired to retire from his diplomatic post, but while there had been casual speculation that he might receive a Cabinet appointment there has been no suggestion that the president might have him in mind for the Secretaryship of State.

No explanation of the change affecting Secretary Hughes and Ambassador Kellogg was obtainable at the White House other than what was obtainable in the text of the formal announcement and the letters exchanged between the President and Mr. Hughes.

WARM FAREWELL TO JUSSERANDS

French Ambassador and His Wife Leave Washington After 22 Years.

MEDAL PRESENTED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—A notable company attended Saturday night a farewell dinner given at the Hotel Willard in honor of Jules Jean Jusserand, Ambassador of France, and Mme. Jusserand, who are on the eve of taking their departure from the United States after a residence in the capital covering twenty-two years.

On this occasion Washington formally said "good-bye" to the Jusserands, who have been prominent figures in the social and official life of the city since the early days of the presidency of Theodore Roosevelt. More than a thousand attended.

One of the features of the dinner was the presentation of a gold medal, designed by Herbert Adams, to Ambassador and Mme. Jusserand, by Major Gen. Lejeune, bearing the inscription: "A token of affection and esteem from the people of the City of Washington."

"When you return to France," said General Lejeune, "may this medal serve to keep us sometimes in your thoughts, and may it influence you to respond to the many wireless messages of good wishes and good will which our heart will transmit to you across the sea."

In accepting the gift in behalf of himself and Mme. Jusserand, the Ambassador said that the value of the medal was greatly enhanced by the reason of the fact that it had been presented by the same hand which on Sept. 8, 1918, wrote the General Order No. 52, directing the Second Division to begin the attack against the German arms.

"Which was done in half the time that had been alloted the marines for doing it," exclaimed the Ambasador amid applause.

Just before the dinner came to an end, Ambassador and Mme. Jusserand received a testimonial, engraved and illuminated on parchment, signed by hundreds of officials and private citizens.

Nation's Leaders Pay Tribute.

Five members of the President's Cabinet, four Associate Justices of the Supreme Court, fifteen Senators, twenty-five members of the House, and other conspicuous figures in official society were present.

President Coolidge sent a letter, in which the Executive felicitated those who had joined in paying a tribute to the Ambassador, who was described as "a delightful friend and an honorable and upright man."

A warm letter in appreciation of the services of the Ambasador was received from Secretary Hughes.

Two Anti - Vaccinationists Accept Doctor's Challenge.

DOVER, N.J., Jan. 12.—The controversy between Assistant Surgeon General B. J. Lloyd of the United States Public Health Service and anti-vaccinationists in this part of New Jersey came to a climax when it was announced that Dr. Edward W. Collins, a chiropractor, and Dr. Anton Koepke of Lake Hopatcong, a neuropractor, had accepted the challenge of Dr. Lloyd to be one of nine men who would submit themselves to smallpox contagion without first being vaccinated.

Dr. Lloyd made his challenge at a meeting of the New Jersey Sanitary Association at Atlantic City about a month ago. He said he would be willing to live nine days in a pesthouse after being vaccinated provided nine anti-vaccinationists would submit themselves to the same test. Drs. Collins and Koepke are both members of the Anti-Compulsory Vaccination Association. They have agreed, it was said, to live nine days in a pesthouse and to occupy for three nights a bed that has been occupied by a smallpox patient. The Anti-Vaccination Association of New York will, it was said, supply the other seven men for the test.

Where the test will be conducted and when is uncertain. There have been no cases of smallpox at the pesthouse in Morristown for six weeks and there are no cases now in Morris County.

ONE BABE IN TEN IMPAIRED.

Doctor Tells of Examining 500 Cases in New York City.

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J., Jan. 12.—About 10 percent. of 500 children born in New York recently were found to be suffering from intracranial hemorrhage, and three out of ten remained mentally and physically impaired, making them liable to criminal and similar tendencies.

This was the declaration made last night in an address delivered by Dr. William Sharp of New York, to the Atlantic County Medical Society in its regular meeting at the Chalfonte Hotel. Statistics he has compiled showed that 81 per cent. of new-born children who were found to be suffering from intercranial hemorrhage were first-born children and that a large percentage of them had encountered difficulties at birth.

Hundred Persons and Thousands of Cattle Frozen, in Caucasus.

TIFLIS, Georgia, Jan. 12.—(Associated Press). — One hundred persons and thousands of cattle have been frozen to death during the unprecedentedly cold weath now prevailing throughout the Caucasus.

In several cases shepherds and farmers who went to the fields to tend their sheep or cattle were found frozen with their flocks.

Driven from their mountain shelters by the fierce cold and lack of food, great droves of antelopes and wild boars have invaded the plains and valleys, only to perish in their tracks.

In the Alexandropol district of Armenia, where Americans of the Near East Relief are caring for thousands of orphans, the thermometer registers 32 degrees below zero.

The Caucasus has not experienced such bitter cold for a century, and it is feared the effect on the crops will bring a famine next year.

SUDDEN ATTACK UPON SHANGHAI

2,000 Troops Under Sun Chuan Fang Seize Arsenal and Outskirts.

POLITICAL MOVE

SHANGHIA, Jan. 12.—Two thousand troops under the command of General Sun Chuan-Fang, an adherent of Wu Pei-Fu in the siege of Shanghai last fall, made a surprise attack Sunday morning on the Siccawei district, in the outskirts of Shanghai, attempting to capture the arsenal at Lung Wha and drive out General Chang Yung-Min, whose forces were subjected to a heavy fire. A battle was in progress near the Tung Wein, Japanese college, and the grounds of the Siccawei Catholic Mission. Many bullets were falling in their vicinity.

Corps of Foreigners.

The voluntary corps of foreigners from the foreign and French settlements has been ordered out and has erected barbed wire barricades in the approaches to the foreign quarters.

Fighting was continuing at noon, but the foreign settlements had little apprehension of danger.

The attack was aimed particularly to prevent the return to power of Lu Yung-Hsiang, former Tuchin of Chekiang Province, who was reported proceeding from Nanking toward Shanghai with Fengtien Manchurian troops.

Surprise Attack.

The soldiers of Sun made a surprise attack yesterday morning. By night there were in complete control of the region surrounding the foreign settlements. Fighting in the Lung Wha district had subsided, leaving Sun in indisputed possession of Lung Wha and the arsenal there. Chang Yung-Min, the defence commissioner, approached Peking, has taken refuge with his subordinate commanders in the foreign settlements, Chang's troops made an unsuccessful resistance.

Foreign defence units were guarding the barricaded approaches to the settlements last night.

THE WEATHER

Sunday was again a cold day. In the morning the temperature was down to 6 degrees below zero. The highest during the day was 9 above. This morning showed 5 below during the night, and 3 below at daybreak. An old proverb says: "As the day lengthens the cold strengthens." Our day is now 14 minutes longer than it was a few weeks ago. It has gained 12 minutes in the evening, and 2 minutes in the morning. The evenings are now noticeably longer, but little change will be noticed in the mornings for a few weeks yet.—W.P.

WIDOW CHAINED BY DEATH DEBT TO MATE'S BODY

Wedded Only Three Weeks And Parted by Brief Illness on Journey.

MONEY SOON GONE

Sought to Pawn Corpse to Prevent Its Transfer to Medical School.

CHICAGO, January 11. — Death ended the honeymoon but not the marriage of Ada Davis. Before Harry, her husband of a little more than three weeks, had taken her from San Francisco to share the triumph of his appointment to the sales managership of a New York bond house, Ada had been a stenographer who had no more interest in the future than she had in the dictionary. She ate three times a day, danced now and then in a place out at Neptune beach, had a lot of good clothes and was fairly content. She knew that if she did not get a husband this year at least she could get a fur coat.

Then she met Harry, a personable youth, who laughed with her at the comedy of his situation—a successful salesman, who had lost his earnings on advice of other successful salesmen. A business man journeying east to take a position of trust, with barely the jingle of two coins in company in his pockets.

Ada and Harry Wed.

Ada and Harry were married. Their honeymoon was a golden journey, even if the breakfasts were thin and the luncheons had to be skipped. Then Harry stepped out of an active role in the romance by dying, and Ada discovered that her contract extended quite a bit farther than "till death do us part." It was this way:

Between trains in Chicago Harry ate something that made him violently ill. The nearest hospital was St. Luke's. Ada took him there. She sat by his bedside for three weeks. What money he had brought with him went the first week. The silk stocking sinking fund that was to have been insurance against the interference of matrimony with a fur coat went the week afterwards.

The bride took what was remaining of their transcontinental passage to a railroad office and translated mileage into meals. Her beaded bag was worth 75c to a pawnbroker, and another buyer whose business was chronically bad, appraised her trousseau at $10. She tried to hold on to a $12 pair of shoes, but he declared it as all or nothing.

Harry spoke to her for the last time at dawn on New Year's day, as the cabaret crowds were filing noisily through the streets in front of the hospital. She put his dead hand back under the coverlet and went downstairs.

The undertaker was very kind to her and told her he would make a special price on the funeral. But he was insistent on payment. And there was just one reason why Ada could not meet him half-way. She didn't have any money.

"I suppose he will have to go to the potter's field until I can make enough money to move him," she said hopelessly. But I hate to think of him lying out there neglected like that....."

"He won't go there," said the undertaker. "He isn't a resident of the county and the county won't bury him. Under the law the body will be sold to a medical school—the price is $10."

Goes to Do Washing.

Ada, whose white hands had been her pride when she was typing letters ages ago in San Francisco, went out into Wabash avenue and got a job washing dishes in a lunch room. She figured with what money she could raise on her wedding ring she could earn enough to pay the undertaker in six weeks. She asked him to hold the body for a few days until she had heard from mythical relatives on the Pacific coast. In the meantime she washes dishes. Her ten-hour days were usually fourteen hours long and the lye that would take lamb chop grease off a plate would take the skin off one's hand. On Saturday the undertaker notified her that the morgue space was scarce, and the medical schools clamoring.

In her dire necessity Ada found her way to Staff-Captain J. A. Flynn of the Salvation Army, and sought to pawn with the army the body of her husband. And that is how Ada was finally divorced from her tragic attachment, Captain Flynn made arrangements with the county agent to give Harry a decent burial. To-day Ada is really alone for the first time since her marriage. She hopes that when her hands get well she may be able to earn enough money to get a ticket back to San Francisco.

CHICAGO CRIME DATA SHOW HEAVY INCREASE

Figures for 1924 Are Quoted Against the Police.

CHICAGO, Jan. 12.—Crime statistics made public Saturday following the charge by the Chicago Crime Commission that "the morale of the Police Department has broken down," developed these facts:

Chicago citizens in 1924 lost by robbery, thefts, etc., $2,931,956, not including automobiles stolen.

Burglary and robbery insurance rates in Chicago compared with other cities in the ratio of approximately 2 to 1, Chicago paying the 2.

In last December there were 99 murders, 211 burglaries and 234 robberies.

The figures were furnished by the Crime Commission after Chief of Police Morgan A. Collins had said the broken morale charge was inspired by personal animosity toward him by two officials of the commission.

The data did not enumerate the other crimes of violence, such as shootings, where there were no fatalities; assaults on women and mistreatment of children, of which there have been numerous accounts.

The official figures of the Police Department listing the crime loss, exclusive of automobiles, as more than $400,000 in excess of 1923, was explained to be exclusive also of many property losses which occurred but were not listed under "criminal complaints."

The stolen automobiles, according to official reports to the Chief in 1924 were 5,313, compared with 2,843 in 1923.

The month of December ranked second in the year for total plunder taken, with a loss of $344,534 in merchandise and $76,643 in cash. The total loot of thieves and plunders in December, 1923, was shown to be less than half that of last month, or $205,805.

OTTAWA BLAZE COST $150,000

Holbrook Tailor Shop And Chambers Destroyed on Sunday Morning.

IN ZERO WEATHER

OTTAWA, Jan. 12. — (Canadian Press). — Fire of unknown origin, breaking out in the rear of the G. F. Holbrook tailor shop, Sparks Street, at four o'clock Sunday morning, completely destroyed the Holbrook store and building overhead, entailing a total loss of $150,000. The Holbrook Chambers were completely gutted, only the brick walls remaining, while smoke and water caused heavy damage to the Royal Bank Chambers, and to the Bank of Toronto building, which adjoin the burned property.

The blaze is believed to have broken out in a dumb waiter in the Holbrook store, and is thought to have been caused by a smoldering cigarette butt. When discovered the fire had gained great headway. Firemen fought the flames in zero weather, and it was due to their hard work that the Dominion Methodist Church, immediately at the rear of the Holbrook Chambers, were saved. The conflagration was not under control till 9.15 a.m., and was still smouldering last night.

SUPREME COURT OF WOMEN

Texas Governor Appoints Three Portias on Special Tribunal.

AUSTIN, Tex., Jan. 12.—The first State Supreme Court in the United States composed of women was sworn in last Thursday as a special bench to try a case involving title to Woodmen of the World property in El Paso.

The regular members of the Court disqualified themselves because they are members of the lodge or affiliated lodges, and Governor Pat Neff, in honoring "Ma" Ferguson, the first woman Governor of the State, who takes office Jan. 20, appointed three women to hear the case.

They are: Mrs. Hortense Ward (below) prominent lawyer and suffragist of Houston, Chief Justice, Miss Ruth Brazzill of Galveston (above) and Miss Hattie L. Heneberg of Dallas, Associate Justice.

PRICES HIGHER AS YEAR TURNS

Increase of 3.2 Points in Index Number for December.

DECLINES OFFSET

OTTAWA, Jan. 12. — (Canadian Press).—An increase of 3.2 points in the index number of wholesale prices for December as compared with November, is noted by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. A compilation of the wholesale prices of 236 commodities reveals an index number for December of 160.9 compared with 157.7 in November. Quotations on 62 commodities were higher, on 24 lower and on 150 unchanged.

The group classed as "consumers' goods," including food, beverages, tobacco household goods, etc., rose during the month from 150.7 to 152.9, decreases in sugar, foreign fruits and cheese being more than offset by increases in flour, bread, tea, coffee, bacon and eggs.

The index number for producers' goods, that is, articles used in manufacture, rose from 153.9 to 156.8. A very slight decrease is noted in the prices of builders' and construction materials and materials for chemical industries, but there was an increase in furs, leather goods, materials for textile, metal working, meat packing and milling industries.

Raw or partly manufactured goods rose from 155.9 to 159.7. Grain prices continued their upward climb and the index number for grain, flour, bread, tea, coffee and rubber rose during the month about five points. The same increase occurred in the prices of animals and animal products. Fibres and textiles rose 2.7, and there was a slight increase in metals. Silver declined from 70 1-3c to 69 4-5c per ounce owing to the falling off in demand from foreign countries.

RAYMOND BELL DIED IN SMITH

Took Wrong Medicine, Report Says, and Died Suddenly.

WAS NERVOUS.

The death occurred suddenly yesterday morning, about ten o'clock, of Raymond Bell, a resident of the 4th Line of Smith Township. The deceased, who was in his 23rd year, had been suffering from nervous trouble for some years, a condition which at times affected his mind to a considerable extent. He was a bright young man and a general favorite in the neighborhood.

Yesterday, it is said, he took the wrong medicine, and died from the effects later.

He is survived by his father, Robt. Bell. His mother pre-deceased him some years ago. A cousin and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bell, who come from Bobcaygeon about six weeks ago to reside with the family, also survive.

Make Investigation.

The funeral will be held from Belleghem's Undertaking Parlours on Tuesday afternoon, at two o'clock. County Coroner Dr. T. W. H. Young, and County Crown Attorney G. W. Hatton, K.C., after a consultation regarding the circumstances surrounding the death, decided this morning to allow the funeral to proceed. Investigation is taking place, and if necessary the body will be dis-interred later for an inquest.

UNITED STATES BECOMES PARTY TO DAWES PLAN

An "Interested Actor" in the Solution of the Reparations Problem.

REACH AGREEMENT

Result of Anglo-American Conference Will Be Made Known on Tuesday.

PARIS, Jan. 12. — (Canadian Press). — General satisfaction that the United States, through the agreement reached at the conference of Allied Ministers, has become "one of the contracting parties to the Dawes plan and the general reparations question," was expressed by all the European delegations in the informal conversations among the representatives of the Powers Sunday. The European statesmen convened here hold that from mere unofficial observers the United States had become an "interested actor" in the solution of the reparation problem.

The experts' committee spent the entire day unfavelling the mass of figures bearing on the Ruhr occupation, the Belgian priority payments and the total German deliveries in kind. The committee must prepare resolutions which will be presented for ratification by the plenary session of the conference Tuesday.

Kellogg Congratulated.

The delegation enjoyed the usual Sunday holiday, although Ambassador Kellogg was busy receiving congratulations on his appointment as Secretary of State, and Winston Churchill, the British Chancellor of the Exchequer, had the day well filled with various functions.

Despite the screen of secrecy behind which the delegates are working, details of the terms of the agreement are gradually leaking out from sources worthy of credence.

From British sources it was learned yesterday that by the Anglo-American agreement the army cost payments will spread out over a period of twenty years, dating from the Wadsworth agreement of May, 1923.

This seems to be considered a success for the British. The payment of the United States reparation claim will extend over the whole period of the Dawes annuities in the form of a fixed percentage — the figure not being disclosed pending the receipt of Washington's approval.

SPURNED HIS BROTHER

Czarist Chief of Wrangel's Ships Won't Meet Red Successor.

PARIS, Jan. 12.—When the Bolshevist Admiral Berens, chief of the Russian naval mission, arrived recently at the Tunisian port of Bizerta to examine the ships belonging to General Wrangel's former fleet, it was the occasion of a dramatic family scene, the Royalist commander of the fleet, who at the request of the French vacated his post, being his own brother.

After years of separation they met under tragic circumstances for the surrender of the old ships. The "White" Admiral refused all intercourse with his brother, whom he considers a traitor to Russia, and kept aloof while the mission stayed at Bizerta.

It is reported here that the Bolsheviki showed bitter disappointment at the fact that not a single ship was found sea-worthy. High hopes had been raised by the French decision to hand over the old Wrangel naval units. It was thought they would be an appreciable addition to the Soviet naval power in the Black Sea. But the half dozen big ships and sixty small auxiliary vessels are only fit for the scrapheap, naval experts say.

CHINESE USE WAR MONKEYS

Trained to Lead a Previous Attack on the Enemy.

By ALBERT E. A. RIDGWAY.

Reports of the progress of the warfare between the rival generals in China mention that several hundreds of monkeys have been sent to Shanhaikwan.

The use of monkeys in warfare by the Chinese dates back to the time when the Mongolians captured Peking. The monkeys used are the "Wah-Wahs," called after the peculiar call they make when angry. They are tailless, always walk upright, and when fully grown are about 4 ft. in height.

The monkeys are captured when quite young and are kept in a small but situated on a lonely plain. The training of the animals is a long and arduous task.

The animal is let out of the hut at the end of a thin cord about 10 ft. long and made to go forward and take out of the ground a little flag staff with a yellow flag on it. This flag staff forms the centre of three flag staffs, the two outer flags being blue.

When the monkey brings back the yellow flag he is rewarded with food, but if he attempts to touch the blue flags the cord is drawn tight and he is chastised. After years of training, the monkey is capable of going distances up to two miles and bringing back his coloured flag.

Other monkeys are taught to take blue flags, others red, until an army commander is in possession of several hundred monkeys distinguished by the colour painted on their back.

Every Chinese division is distinguished by coloured pennants carried by bannermen, soldiers noted for their bravery. When a commander wishes to make an attack and desires to strike terror into the enemy, he selects about twenty monkeys of the enemy's colour. The animals are starved for several days and kept where they can see the enemy.

The night of the attack the monkeys are covered all over with luminous paint and let loose. They immediately make their way over into the enemy's lines, where their appearance and the savage way in which they bite and scratch in their efforts to capture the flags strike terror in the heart of the enemy. When the commander hears the loud "Wah-Wah" of his beasts he launches his attack.

TOURED PACKING PLANT.

Fraserville Young Men Get Practical Lesson in Short Course.

The young men who are taking part in the Governmental short course at Fraserville had a pleasant time at the local plant of the Canadian Packing Company last week. Mr. F. Paterson of Port Hope, the district representative, accompanied thirty-six members of the class to Peterboro, and they made a tour of the packing company's plant. The visitors were warmly welcomed by Mr. Gordon Matthews and taken through the factory by Mr. Jim Matthews, Mr. Carl McLean and Mr. D. McKinnon, who explained the different processes, the various grades and classifcations. Before the young men left, each was presented by Mr. Gordon Matthews with a half-pound of breakfast bacon.

WORST LONDON FOG.

Some Deaths Result From Street Accidents in Murk.

LONDON, Jan. 12. — (Canadian Press). — The worst fog in many years smothered London and its suburbs yesterday, causing a number of street accidents and some deaths.

Traffic was scanty and difficult. Early in the day it stopped almost entirely. There were many collisions between motor cars, and several fires were reported through sparks engendered by the sudden application of brakes. An airplane bringing passengers from Paris had a sensational landing at Croydon Airdrome. The plane made the trip from France under a cloudless sky, but upon nearing London found the land invisible. The pilot picked up bearings by the tops of radio masts which rose above the fog zone. He descended and landed safely, but the passengers found themselves immediately lost as visibility was limited to five yards.

NEW CHINA WAR SEES SHANGHAI TAKEN BY YUAN

British Warship Rushed to Scene—Both Factions Are Looting.

BRILLIANT COUP.

Deposed Governor Returns to Native City as Victor Over Insurgents.

SHANGHAI, Jan. 12. — (United Press)—A British warship was rushed here from Wei Pei Wei to-day, and strong contingents of police and volunteers were posted along the boundaries of the foreign settlements for protection against the possible inroads of panicky Chinese following Chi Hsieh Yuan's seizure of the native city yesterday.

Almost without firing a shot, troops of the former Chi Li commander surrounded the native barracks here, rounded up three divisions of Hu Pep forces and effected a bloodless coup d'etat.

Meanwhile others of Chi's troops were defeating An Fu regulars in fighting about five miles from Shanghai.

Immediately the coup became known, Americans and other foreigners took steps to guard the French and international settlements. They were none too soon, for within a few hours Chinese refugees were streaming into the native city and trying to make their way to the foreign settlements. Defeated Hu Pep troops started looting the native quarter, terrorizing the Chinese inhabitants. Stray shots spat into the French settlement, several of them lodging in the bodies of Chinese. No foreigners were wounded.

The British authorities sent for the warship Carlisle, which is en route.

Orgy of Looting.

Both victor and vanquished in yesterday's coup by which Chi Hsich-Yuan, the deposed military governor of Liangsu Province, regained control of Shanghai, united this morning in an orgy of looting.

Foreigners Hard Pressed.

Soldiery of both Gen. Chi, whose attack was a defiance directed at the Provincial Government in Peking and of the defending forces led by the Peking appointee, Chang Yuung Min, ran wild through Nantao, the native city which adjoins the French settlement here. The native merchants and householders in that region to-day were frantically removing their possessions into the protected foreign quarters, in defence of which a volunteer corps, comprising most of the foreigners in Shanghai, had been called out.

The volunteer corps, aided by Chinese merchants and members of the Chinese fire fighting brigade, was this afternoon making futile efforts to cope with the soldiery.

The Session of the church granted to them the use of the church, but took no further responsibility. Quite a number of people went to hear Mr. McConnell speak and hear his views and his side of the question.

Mrs. H. C. Turner died

Mrs. C. W. Turner, Queen street, received word on Saturday, that her son's wife, Mrs. Harry L. Turner of 99 Cobourg street, Elmwood, Winnipeg, had died on Friday and will be buried on Monday. Many in Campbellford and vicinity will know her as Miss Zella Gummer of Norham. Mrs. Turner was in the Argentine in South America, with her husband both being missionaries there for about five years. Her health failed and a little over two years ago they had to return to Canada, on that account. Most of the time since has been spent in Winnipeg. Though having several illnesses, she seemed better than usual this Christmas season and it was a shock to her friends here to hear of her death. Besides her husband she leaves three children, two daughters and one son, about the ages of thirteen, eleven, and nine. A loving mother will be missed.

A Runaway on Sunday

On Sunday just as the churches were dismissed a young man, who lives at Mrs. Hugh Driscoll's near Hastings, was driving up Sebastapool street and when he was near the saw mill, the cutter slewed to one side, frightening the horse. The young man was thrown out and though he tried to keep the lines the horse got away and ran up street, then swerved at Mr. Parks house and came back, turning at the corner and narrowly escaping verandahs, trees and other obstacles, till it got down Palliser street, as far as H. E. Cassan's where it left the cutter broken. It then ran up Inkerman street, and on over near the Methodist church where it was caught. The young man was not hurt which was very fortunate as the horse came back almost to where he was gathering himself up from the fall.

Fell On Ice.

Mrs. George Hammond, Rear street, had a bad fall on the ice, near the corner of George and Tice street, on Sunday night as she and Mr. Hammond were on their way home from church. Her feet slipped and she fell on her face, giving it quite a bad cut and some nasty bruises. Fortunately her glasses, which she was wearing, were not broken, or she might have had more serious trouble. She was able to get home and had her cut and bruises attended to.

GOOD FLAVOR

Syrup of burnt sugar makes a very good flavor to custards and ices. It is made by melting a cup of sugar in a hot skillet, stirring it as it melts. When dark brown, add a half cup of water, stirring constantly. Cook until smooth.

COAT DRESSES.

A black satin coat dress with very simple but elegant lines has leaves of gray crepe de chine appliqued all over its surface.

A FASHION HINT FOR MEN

These are the very latest 1925 neckties, beginning with a Paisley affair of brilliant red on a background of yellow, that is not for the ultra-conservative. Next is Alfred Lunt, the actor's favorite, a combination of checks and cirles in blue and gray. Further continuing from left to right we come upon the black and white shepherd's check that has been in favor since the first tie made its appearance and work up to the most expensive of the lot, of heavy white silk with bias stripes of seductive tones of blue. Any these would enable you to start the New Year right sartorially.

HOME BANK TRIAL.

TORONTO, Jan. 12. — (Canadian Press).—When the case against Michael J. Haney, former president of the Home Bank, and the accused directors, who are charged with conspiracy to defraud, is called before Mr. Justice Lennox at at the opening of the jury sitting of the winter Assize Court at the City Hall this afternoon, D. Barnard, K.C., Montreal director of the bank, who was recently convicted and sentenced by Judge Coatsworth on charges laid under the Bank Act, and against which an appeal is pending, on Saturday served notice of motion on Mr. McCarthy, returnable before Mr. Justice Lennox this afternoon, formally asking that further particulars be furnished in connection with the conspiracy charges. Mr. McCarthy will request the court to fix a convenient date for the hearing of argument on the question of further particulars.

THE WINTER FURS

Muff Has a Small Chance of Becoming Popular Again.

One of the questions which are just now agitating the world of fashion is whether the winter fur outfit should include a muff. It is many seasons since muffs were seen, and although there have been several attempts to revive its one-time popularity, it has entirely disappeared from the fashionable woman's wardrobe. Discussion of the question of a revival has ensued recently following the showing of one or two sample muffs at the London Fashions Exhibition. But it must be admitted that these new muffs were received very frigidly—in fact, no one seemed to want to give them the glad hand.

However, the reappearance of the muff is being discussed, and some authorities profess themselves as satisfied that the fashion will return. One in not inclined to treat these prophets seriously for the reason that modern woman insists on simplification, and how can one get simplification by carrying a muff? On the contrary, a muff distinctly complicates matters, even when a muff chain or cord holds the muff when the hands are otherwise engaged than in fondling its lining. So long as coats with fur collars and cuffs remain popular, it is unlikely that muffs will be wanted, and there is no sign of change at present.

Open Air Girl.

It is so much simpler to have one garment which combines the virtues of protection for most parts of the body, and this the fashionable coats do. Then, of course, the vogue of the fur coat is partly responsible for the muff being in disgrace, while fur gloves and fur-trimmed gloves are now so generally worn that further protection is unnecessary. Add to this the fact that the modern girl is an open-air and sports-loving girl, who does not feel cold as did her grandmother, and one sees at once that the muff has small chance of again becoming popular, in this generation at least.

In regard to fur coats, there is a strong tendency towards browns in various shades, and in this connection one notes that there are several new kinds of fur. Combinations of two or more furs are also favoured. A feature of the new season's models is the number of coats that are fur-lined. In fact, more attention is often paid nowadays to the inside of the coat than to the outside.

$4,000 FIRE ON SUNDAY MORNING

Two Cars and Garage of Sheriff F. J. A. Hall Destroyed.

PARTLY INSURED.

Fire early on Sunday morning did damage estimated at $4000, to the garage and two cars, owned by Sheriff F. J. A. Hall, of 437 Downie street.

The fire which was first noticed at 2 a.m., had a good start, and when the firemen arrived at the scene the garage and cars were a mass of flames, and the fire was making good headway, fanned by a stiff breeze and aided by oil and gasoline in the garage.

Fire Chief Gimblett told the Examiner this morning that the fire was caused by oily rags under the seat in the sedan. Both cars were badly burned, while the garage was badly scorched on the inside. The loss will be mostly covered by insurance.

MARBLE CAESAR FOUND IN RIVER

Experts Declare It Work of a Sculptor of First Century.

WAS IT BALLAST?

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—(Canadian Press).—The marble head of Augustus Caesar, which was lodged under ten feet of hard clay below the Hudson River until it was drawn up by the War Department suction dredger, will be publicly exhibited. The head, in the opinion of many critics, is the work of a master artist of the first century.

Many sculptors and men familiar with classic art have studied the head or photographs of it, and have given the opinion that it is a fine portrait of the first Roman Emperor by a contempory master. master. The head is of carrara marble and weighs 30 pounds. According to engineers and river experts consulted, it might have taken a hundred or two hundred years for the marble to sink by gravity through the ten feet of clay. The theory considered most plausible is that it was carried as ballast a great many years ago by some sailing ship from the Mediterranean.

A DESCENDENT OF ROBERT BURNS DEAD

His Mother was Anne Burns, Daughter of Poet's Eldest Son.

We cull from the columns of the London "Daily Chronicle" that another link with the national has been broken by the death of Mr. George William Pyrke, Tufnell Park. He was a lineal descendant of the poet, and had substantiated his claim to be a great-grandson of Burns. He was a coppersmith by trade, but ceased work several years ago, and at the time of his death was an old age pensioner. His mother was Anne Burns, the only daughter of Robert Burns, jun., the poet's eldest son, who is known to have been married in London. Anne Burns is entered in the registry of St. James's, Clerkenwell, where she was born in 1819. "My grandfather was Burn's eldest son," Mr. Pyrke used to declare, "and my mother was an only daughter. Her brother had no children. My mother, whom I remember well, was the very image of Burns himself, with his flash-ng dark eyes and his jet-black hair. She used to sing nearly all her grandfather's songs." The poet's great-grandson was a little man and very proud of his ancestor. He used to attend the Burns celebration every year at the Albert Hall until he got too old. He leaves two sons, who can claim to be great-great-grandsons of the poet, and a widow, Mrs. Pyrke treasures a copy of an ivory miniature of Burns's "Bonnie Jean." She also claims that an old pewter salt-cellar in the possession of the family was originally the property of the poet.

SEEK MOST NOTED GERMAN

Newspapers Debate the Merits of Dr. Eckener and Flettner.

BERLIN, Jan. 12.—The German newspapers are engaging in a warm controversy over the question of whether Dr. Hugo Eckener, who flew the dirigible ZR-3, now the Los Angeles, across the Atlantic, or Anton Flettner, the inventor of the "sailless ship," is entitled to rank as the most celebrated German of 1924.

Eckener seems to have more supporters, however, than the man who built the motor-ship. Flettner's vessel is regarded as being more or less in the trial stage, while Eckner's achievement in landing the ZR-3 safely in the United States and there by, as is contended, improving German-American relations, was a definite accomplishment.

Professor Miethe, who is said to have succeeded in converting base metal into gold, also is being mentioned as a candidate for the honor of the most celebrated German of last year, Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, President of the Reichsbank, who stabilized German currency, is half humorously alluded to as the man who really has been much more of a miracle worker than Miethe, and business men, because of this fact, doubtless would elect him as Germany's pre-eminent citizen.

CHIEF EVENTS OF THE WEEK

By Charles P. Stewart

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.— Every few months some high French official starts talking out payment of France's debts to America.

Americans look pleased. Then it develops that the official was talking "unofficially," so it didn't mean any thing. This happens every time.

* * * *

Four Billions

Nobody expects France to hand over four billions immediately. She can't. America expects to get her money only at France's convenience but would like France to say she intends to pay, if ever it is convenient.

Just before Christmas Secretary of the Treasury Mellon felt so sure France was about to do this that he called the World War Foreign Debt Commission together to listen in.

However, there was nothing to listen to. Ambassador Jusserand had just been talking "unofficially" again.

In fact, it began to look to Secretary Mellon as if France never meant to say anything at all. At this hint, Ambassador Herrick asked Premier Herriot point-blank —did France really intend to pay, ever. "Certainly," replied Herriot. But no promise, in writing, followed. Seemingly Herriot merely spoke "unofficially."

* * * *

Not a Chance

The general impression in Washington is about like this:

France doesn't want to pay what she owes. She considers that she saved civilization and, in return ought not to be required to pay. But she dislikes being placed in the position of repudiating her debts. It would ruin her credit and humiliate her, too. She wants America to insist on cancelling her claims.

* * * *

Prohibition

Representative LaGuardia of New York says prohibition can't be enforced for less than three or four times as much as Congress plans to provide.

For the prohibition unit's, the coast guard's and the Justice Department's dry activities, the House Appropriations Committee is figuring on a total allowance a little in excess of 30 1-2 millions. If LaGuardia is right the total ought to be at least 9 1-2 millions, or 122 millions to be on the safe side.

LaGuardia estimates that a million dollars' worth of liquor is smuggled into the country daily, not counting moonshine and homebrew. Being in favor of enforcement, so long as prohibition is the law, he objects to this.

* * * *

The Eclipse

Offshore rum runners will have a grand good chance to land their cargoes between 7 and 10 a.m. Jan. 24. At that time, by official order, the coast guard will be snapshooting the eclipse. It will be dark, too.

* * * *

Sugar

Senator Robinson of Arkansas has introduced a resolution for an investigation of the tariff commission.

He says sugar is ridiculously expensive, because American producers take advantage of the high duty competing foreign sugar has to pay to get into the country. Why, his resolution especially wants to know, doesn't the tariff commission cut this duty down?

Robinson knows perfectly well that the commission only recommends reductions; that the president does or doesn't make the suggested cuts, as he considers best; that the commission already has recommended a sugar tariff reduction and that President Coolidge has been holding the recommendation up for about six months.

The Robinson resolution is a jab at the president.

MYSTERY GIRL FINDS HERSELF

Memory Lost Two Months Ago Restored by Jiggling Bird.

RADIO APPEAL.

CHICAGO, January 12. — Radio and newspaper publicity yesterday morning brought knowledge of her name and home to "Charlotte," the mystery girl, in the county hospital, who has been unable to remember anything about herself since she was found in a faint, two months ago, in the Union station here.

She was identified as Charlotte McGuire, 20 years old, of St. Louis, by Mrs. George Griffiths, an aunt, and Miss Genevieve Sullivan, cousin. She left with them for St. Louis at once.

Mrs. Griffith said that the girl disappeared from St. Louis on November 19th, after she had left the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Francis McGuire, to attend a class at Washington University.

Last Friday night, in desperation the girl tearfully agreed to broadcast an appeal by radio to try to find her lost self.

By her fireside in St. Louis Mrs. Griffiths ws trying to "tune in" on outside stations, when suddenly she heard the low voice of a girl who said she believed her name to be "Charlotte," and who said she was broadcasting an appeal to relatives and friends in an effort to determine her identity. Startled by the voice she believed that she recognized, Mrs. Griffiths next morning read the accounts in the newspaper of the broad casting of the mystery girl's message.

This morning Mrs. Griffiths and Miss Sullivan arrived from St. Louis and went at once to the hospital.

They approached the girl from behind a screen about her bed. The girl could not see her visitors yet, but above the top of the screen a bird on Mrs. Griffith's hat jiggled saucily. The girl suddenly espied a bird, and with sparkling eyes turned to a nurse: "That bird," she said, "I know it—it's on Aunt Annie's hat."

WHY WE HAVE EPIDEMICS.

If a man were to hit a neighbor's child, inflicting injuries sufficient to keep the youngster in bed for a week or two, the assailant would be speedily arrested and undoubtedly given a jail sentence.

Yet the person who refuses to obey the health regulations and by his wilful neglect perhaps causes a dozen children to be confined to bed with a disagreeable ailment, usually escapes Scot-free.

The second man is undoubtedly the worse offender and he should be punished—but he very rarely is.

If he were there would be little danger of an epidemic of contagious or infectious diseases.

The reporting of the first few cases and their effective isolation would check the spread of the disease within a short time.

But because for every family that reports there are often two that neglect to do so, an epidemic gets into full stride in a few days—and the whole community suffers.

The present plague of mumps is directly due to a failure on the part of many families to live up to the law, and it would be very much in the public interest if an example could be made of the offenders.

EARLIER ELECTIONS.

The inaugural meeting of the City Council was held today, and tonight the first business session will be held.

In other words, it is well into the first month of the year before the new Council begins to function.

If the elections were to take place early in December, thus dodging the holiday rush and upheaval, and the Municipal Act amended so that the inaugural meeting could be held earlier, there is reason to believe that the results would be more satisfactory all round.

There are many citizens who would like to have the Council look into this matter during the present year, at least to the extent of consulting other centres as to their experience under the new system.

It is notable that no community that has adopted an earlier election date has shown any desire to return to the January election system, while each year has seen many additions to the list of those operating under the new plan.

Apparently the change has been found to be worth while, and Peterborough may as well fall in line if on inquiry it is confirmed that the change has had beneficial results wherever it has been tried.

No harm at least will be done in looking into the merits of the scheme.

BETTER FILMS.

Once in a while an individual or an organization has something to say or a resolution to pass about the desirability of better films and deprecating the tone of some of the pictures shown in local theatres.

But it all comes back to one thing; the films have come to stay, and there are only two alternatives, good films and bad ones.

If there are enough people who want to see the better class of motion picture, then the exhibitors will be glad to show them at all times.

Just at present it would be untruthful to say that the majority of the people of Peterborough want better films.

So long as "flapper" and "sex" pictures continue to fill the seats it would be folly to argue that this community wants anything better.

Not long ago "The Lost Tribe," one of the most interesting pictures of its kind to be shown here, was viewed by only a handful of people at each performance, while pictures with suggestive titles were playing to good business.

The experience of other communities is the same as our own.

No matter how excellent a film may be it is difficult for it to succeed unless it carries a "jazz" title.

The remedy lies not in condemning the bad picture, for it is a recognized trait of the human race that to attack a film as daring or immoral is merely to cause the public to flock to see it.

The box office offers the only test.

If better pictures are really wanted the producers can easily be convinced by the attendance that is given attractions of that type.

In other words, those who criticize the risque film must first show their genuineness by patronizing the pictures that are worth while.

THE CASE OF THE PEDDLER.

The agitation that is being carried on by a number of journals and organizations for greater protection for the permanent retailer against peddlers and transient traders whose numbers seem to be increasing, is one that should attract the attention of municipal councils.

The local Aldermen might find it good business to interest themselves in this question, for the duty of the municipality to protect its merchants is self-evident inasmuch as the tax returns are likely to be smaller unless this fly-by-night opposition is eliminated.

The objection is not to peddling in itself, for retailers may themselves adopt this method of soliciting business.

But when irresponsible outsiders are allowed to come in and under cover of a lenient regulation carry on a house-to-house business, people who contribute absolutely nothing to the upkeep of the city and whose only interest in Peterborough is to see how much they can take out of it and how little they can leave behind, the permanent merchant who pays a large share of the taxes has the right to ask that the civic government protect him from such unfair competition.

At the same time the public should be protected.

In most cases these peddlers are promising greater value than the retail merchants offer—and giving less.

One case is told of a hosiery peddler who continually mentioned a well-known brand of hosiery sold through retail stores.

"You can buy seconds under that brand at lower prices," he says, "but for first quality you must pay $1.00 a pair more than my price for the same thing."

Yet first quality hosiery, almost identical with what he sells, is regularly sold in retail stores under the brand he mentions at 50c a pair less than his price.

It should not require much thought to decide which system is the most satisfactory.

Branded goods, bought in retail stores, have a double assurance of satisfaction.

They have the manufacturers' guarantee and the retail merchants' guarantee.

Goods bought from a peddler have only his unsupported word—and he is gone tomorrow.

NO FALSE PROMISES HERE.

The Canadian Government is following a surprisingly frank and courageous course in its invitation to British immigrants, says the London Advertiser. New pamphlets circulated in England by Canadian immigration authorities, describing the "family" scheme of settlement, warn the prospective settler of what he must be prepared to face in language whose boldness must make the propagandists of the past hold up their hands in horror.

Listen, for example, to the following extract from the invitation: "Government assistance will not mean that any settler can expect more than the barest and most meagre living until he has himself built up a reserve fund of his own."

And again the prospective settler is told: "In early years a severe and rigid economy, which many regard as almost privatious, is the only sure way in which to assure success and substantial comforts in later years. In the early months of settlement the mother should be prepared to face bravely and cheerfully a position of considerable loneliness as compared with her former life in a crowded country."

One may be inclined to feel that perhaps Canada's immigration methods have turned from the evil extreme of deceptive optimism to the other extreme of unnecessary pessimism. Certain it is, however, that the type of man who accepts Canada's present form of invitation is bound to be endowed with the pluck and determination which make good citizens. Like Service's "Call of the Yukon," it gives warning to the misfits and extends its greeting only to "men stripped for the battle."

THE HEARST SWINDLE.

Joseph X. Hearst has worked the greatest individual conspiracy in the history of Western Canada, says the Manitoba Free Press. He came to Winnipeg in 1921; his antecedents were mysterious and his reputation was not high. In three years he abstracted some six or seven hundred thousand dollars from the pockets of credulous victims in Manitoba, and he has now disappeared. Thirty-five dollars to the credit of the fake company he organized and promoted are all the cash assets he has left behind him. The usual warrant for arrest has been issued.

The people of Manitoba are just beginning to realize the extent and boldness of the swindle which has been carried out in this Province, and they may presently come to the opinion that it was a swindle that could not have succeeded without the most remarkable complaisance on the part of the victims themselves. As the facts are now being revealed it can be seen that from the very beginning everything about Hearst's company was wrong: the pyramiding of the capitalization, the mysterious bank account in New York, the bloated dividends paid to the shareholders, the public peddling of stock which was paying such dividends, the manner in which the official correspondence of the company was carried on—everything which comes to light is seen to be odd, or queer, or irregular; but Hearst succeeded in getting past with it without effective criticism from the management of the company. The exposure was made in a newspaper article and came apparently with as stunning a shock to the directorate as it did to the fleeced shareholders; yet everything was wrong with the company from beginning to end, and no one on the inside seemed aware of it.

The most interesting feature of the swindle is the system by which individuals were induced to invest huge sums in Hearst's music company, and that system still remains to be explained. Hearst operated in the country areas around Winnipeg, and it seems too incredible to think that people would part with their life savings to a total stranger with a stock proposition which had danger signals sticking out all over it, on the unsupported selling talk of that stranger, however glib he might have been. Before a man would agree to exchange shares of good stock for shares in a totally unknown stock which was paying a fabulous dividend and was at the same time being hawked about, he must have been rather successfully isolated from all the contacts of common sense which would have opened his eyes to the true character of the concern; how this was done it would be interesting to know.

All the usual safeguards of business have been made ridiculous. Hearst had the whole outfit: charters, directorate, company, officers and auditors, and he made, apparently, monkeys out of them all. The directorate didn't know where he kept his money; the auditors sent for important information to New York and received their answers through Hearst's private address; shareholders received 50 per cent. dividends and piled them back into the company again and took larger blocks of stock. It reads like nonsense; but at present the company is burst, Hearst has vanished, more than half a million has been lost, and Manitoba is contemplating the wreckage of the biggest swindle and confidence game in its history.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

The Council committees are struck today—and often knocked for the rest of the year.

This year's Council will have to deal with some important problems, and should have the best wishes and co-operation of the citizens as the Aldermen tackle their tasks.

Peterborough, although outside the path of totality, will see almost a complete eclipse of the sun on January 24th—if the clouds roll by.

The old song says that kind words can never die, and the cross words, says the Globe, seem to have quite a long life.

Premier Ferguson says that the statement of Hon. G. S. Henry in regard to the repeal of the Sandy and Doherty Acts is just "newspaper talk." But that doesn't alter the fact that the Minister of Public Works undoubtedly made the statement, and the majority of people would like to hear from the Premier why it was made.

London alderman proposes that the standing committees of the Council be eliminated. That is one sure way of doing away with the annual scramble for chairmanships.

STERLING RATES

MONTREAL, Jan. 11.—Sterling exchange rates were quoted here Saturday as follows: Demand $4.80; cables $4.80 3-8.

MONTREAL GRAIN

MONTREAL, Jan. 11.—The feature of the export trade in grain here Saturday was the increased demand for Canadian spring wheat from foreign buyers. Some sales of No. 1 Northern were made at $1.99 per bushel, No. 4 wheat at 8 cents per bushel under the Winnipeg May option, and No. 5 wheat at 15 cents per bushel under all c.i.f. bay ports.

There was a slight improvement in the demand for oats, and the undertone was firm, Ontario No. 2 white being quoted at 66 cents, No. 3 grade at 64 cents, and No. 4 grade at 62 cents per bushel, ex store.

Export trade in cheese continues inactive. The tone of the market for current receipts of fodder made goods remains very firm, with No. 1 grade quoted at 18 1-2 to 19 cents per pound, and No. 2 grade at 17 1-2 to 18 cents.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Jan. 10.—Casting off tradition, the majority of wheat traders took to the buying side of the market today, despite the fact this has long been favored as a calendar date for selling. The leading purchasers contended that every surplus bushel of wheat would be absorbed this year and that prices would advance to much higher levels. Wheat closed unsettled, varying from 1-8 cent net decline to 1 1-2 cents gain, May 180 3-4 to 180 7-8, and July 154 1-8 to 154 1-4, with corn at 1-4 cent off to 1-4 cent up, oats unchanged to 3-8 cent higher, and provisions showing 2 to 10 cents advance.

Indications pointed to a good-sized decrease of the United States visible supply total on Monday next and the domestic milling demand was of sufficient volums to lift No. 2 red winter to 2.02 1-2 per bushel at St. Louis, the highest price there yet this year. No. 2 red winter is the ordinary grade for delivery on future contracts in Chicago, and premiums for that grade here scored an upturn of five cents in a bushel in some cases. Meanwhile, estimates were current that the European bread grain crop is 8,000,000 to 9,000,000 tons less than the total a year ago.

CLAW - HAMMER COMES BACK AND BARS GO UP O NTUXEDO

CHICAGO, Jan. 10—If you want to be set apart from plumbers' apprentices, clerks, bartenders and drug store cowboys, you must wear the time-honored claw-hammer suit, the International Association of Clothing Designers' convention declared to-day. Tuxedoes are passe, because everybody from the bus boy to the street cleaner wears 'em, George E. Serak, spokesman for the association, told the United Press.

"The dinner coat was a makeshift, which the war allowed to become permissible," Serak said. "When the army abolished its full dress uniform, we let down the bars a bit. But no wall the excuse for it is over, and the 'class' will be distinguished from the mass by the clothes it years on dress occasions.'

Serak also revealed that business clothes this year will be cut along the lines of the big, barrel-chested he-men. This will be offset by the color effects. Color includes pale opaque, giddy grays and all the delicate shades up to limpid lavender which Serak described as being of teh tone of elephant's breath.

"Powder blue is as dead as prohibition. London lavender is the new shade," he said.

Bagpier trousers are decreed. The width of the trouser, both at the top and bottom, will resemble that of a skirt. No corsets will be necessary for the 1925 model run-about however. Thewaist-line will be narrower and the shoulders broader.

The Prince of Wales receives the blame or credit for both that he-man cut and the cake-eater shades of the new clothes.

The following from a Saskatchewan paper refers to Mr. H. J. Murphy, formerly of Ennismore:

"A great concourse of people, including a number of men prominent in public life, assembled at the hall in St. Gregor last Friday night, to witness the presentation of the Governor-General's Bronze Medal to a 12-year old St. Gregor boy, Sylvester Reifferscheid, son of Mr. Peter Reifferscheid and a grandson of Mr. P. Hoffmann, Bruno. This meda is given every year to the boy and the girl attaining the highest standing of all Grade VIII candidates, and was won this year by the Reifferschied boy, a pupil of St. Gregor with Mr. H. Murphy as teacher. The presentation proper was made by School Inspector O'Brien, but the occasion was made one of the most splendid celebrations ever held in St. Gregor."

AUTOS

Auto makers have had a better year in 1924 than they expected, even though they manufactured about a tenth fewer cars than in 1923.

The 1924 production of passenger cars passed the three millions mark late in November. A car for every family in America is almost a reality And soon the sales slogan will be "Two cars for every family, instead of one."

This will seem like extravagance, especially to many who recall when it was quite a matter of course to keep more than one horse.

PITTSBURG BANDITS RAID BANKER'S HOME, SEIZE WHOLE FAMILY

Force L. A. Sands to Telephone Cashier for $20,000 Under Threat to Kidnap Wife.

SON SHOT ESCAPING.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Jan. 12.—Posing as gas company employees sent to adjust the meter, two bandits, soon after 7:30 o'clock in the morning, gained entrance to the Squirrel Hill home of Lawrence E. Sands, President of the First National Bank, overpowered the butler, lined up Mr. and Mrs. Sands, their son, John W. Sands, and two maids, and shot the banker's son after demanding $20,000 under threat of kidnapping Mrs. Sands.

The police, notified by workmen who heard the shots, rushed to the Sands home, but the robbers had fled. No valuables were taken.

According to detectives, the men hired an automobile downtown and drove to within a block of the Sands' home. Telling the driver to wait, they walked the remaining distance and knocked on the side door. James Lawson, the butler, answered the summons, and when the men told him they were gas company employees he escorted them to the cellar.

The bandits overpowered Lawson, handcuffed him and took him to the dining-room, where he was made to stand against the wall together with two maids. Mr. Sands was met on the stairs by one bandit, who bade the head of the house a polite "good morning," at the same time exposing a badge under the lapel of his coat.

"I am sorry to disturb you, Mr. Sands," the stranger continued, "but a man has been shot in the basement of your house and you will please come down at once and bring the other members of the family. Kindly make haste."

Robber Addresses His Victims.

Mr. Sands obeyed, and called Mrs. Sands, his son, Captain John W. Sands, and two negro maids. All followed the stranger to the foot of the stairs. When they reached the reception hall, the pseudo-detective turned, whipped a revolver from his hip and commanded the members of the family to halt and keep silent.

"Ladies and gentlemen, be seated," said the stranger as he moved a chair forward for Mrs. Sands. All took seats. The man continued:

"I have a matter of grave importance to discuss with you. You realize, no doubt, that we are here for money. I am not a small man, nor will I insult your dignity, Mr. Sands, by asking you to trouble yourself for a meagre amount. We are asking you for $50,000."

Then the stranger suggested that Mr. Sands have C. C. Taylor, cashier of the bank, send the money by messenger, saying: "You go to the telephone and call Mr. Taylor. Speak in a natural tone of voice and don't get agitated."

The bank president explained that it was not likely Mr. Taylor would be found at his office at such an early hour.

"Call the bank then, and say that you are ill and will not be at your office to-day," commanded the robber.

The call was made and the message delivered. Mr. Sands was complimented for his coolness. Then, after a discussion of means of getting the money, it was decided to call the bank at a more reasonable hour.

Reject Invitation to Breakfast.

The tall bandit, who had been acting as spokesman and was well-dressed in contrast to his shabbily attired companion, kept up a genial conversation till Mr. Sands interrupted, saying:

"Boys, it's getting late. I have not had breakfast. While we are waiting may I not invite you to have a bite of breakfast with me?"

"No, thanks," answered the tall man. "Ours is not a social call."

Mrs. Sands, frightened and nervous, complained of being chilly. Mr. Sands asked if one of the maids might not go to the second floor and bring her a wrap. The bandit promptly ordered his partner to accompany one of the maids after the desired garment.

"We are prepared for every emergency," said the bandit, when conversation was resumed. "If the money is not forthcoming we shall take Mrs. Sands, bind and gag her, and take her in our car to our cabin in a secluded spot, where she will be kept until an adequate ransom is paid."

It was now time to call the bank for the money. The robber explained that some difficulty might be encountered in gathering up $50,000 in cash on a moment's notice, and told Mr. Sands to telephone for $20,000 to be brought by a messenger at once.

C. C. Taylor, the cashier, answered Mr. Sands' call. He grew suspicious when Mr. Sands asked for the money and began a rapid fire of questions. Mr. Sands could not answer these, and an embarrassing moment approached.

Shooting of Son Precipitates Flight.

Captain Sands at this point sprang from his chair, darted behind the tall man and fled out of the front door. The shabbily dressed man raised his revolver and opened fire, following Captain Sands through the door. Four shots were fired in rapid succession. One of the bullets struck Captain Sands in the abdomen, inflicting a deep flesh wound, and he staggered against the house.

The robber who had done the shooting continued across the lawn. In scaling a fence his coat caught on a paling and he was thrown sprawling on the snowy pavement. On his heels followed the tall man, who knew that the shooting would spread the alarm. Both ran a short distance, boarded their car and dashed away.

After the bandits had fled, a package which they had left behind was noticed on the dining-room table. It was found to contain a coil of rope, several handkerchiefs and Turkish towels, brought along, the police believe, to be used for gagging and binding members of the family.

The bandits ordered the driver, C. D. Rodgers, to proceed toward the city, under threat of death, holding a pistol against his head all the way.

The bandits alighted from the automobile at Craft Avenue and Forbes Street, and boarded separate cabs. One ordered his driver to take him to the Pennsylvania Station, and while en route downtown changed his destination to Canonsburg. When the cab reached Oliver Avenue and Grant Street he rapped on the window and stopped the cab. Paying the driver $1 he alighted.

The second bandit, upon entering his cab, ordered that he be taken to Finleyville. He stopped the cab at Sixth Avenue and Grant Street, and paying the driver $1 dismissed him.

DO THIS AFTER SEVERE ILLNESS

How to Speedily Gain Strength and Put on Needed Weight.

Nothing like the wonderful vitalizing vitamines in Cod Liver Oil to help convalescing people to quickly get strong and well—everybody knows that.

But no body wants to take the ill-smelling, horrible tasting, stomach upsetting oil itself, so nowadays, up to date medical men are ordering a tablet of Cod Liver Oil and it surely has proved a blessing to thousands of people who have been sapped of their natural strength after a severe illness and especially after the Grippe or a stubborn cough or cold.

Ask Warne Drug Co., McDermid & Jury, Jas. Lynch, or any other regular druggist for a box of McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets. They cost but little, are sugar coated and as pleasant to take as candy.

Skinny men and women take them to speedily put on plenty of good healthy solid flesh and for this purpose they are so extremely good that thin men and women often take on 5 pounds or more in 30 days. As a matter of fact, your druggist will return your money if you don't take on 5 pounds in 30 days.

Great for weak, skinny, backward, run-down children, too, and gives them a hearty appetite.

Be sure and ask for McCoy's, the original and genuine Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets—60 Tablets—60 cents.

NEW BRITISH WARSHIPS WILL HAVE NO FUNNELS

No After Guns Either and Scant Superstructure on the Latest Dreadnoughts.

LONDON, Jan. 12.—Great Britain's new armada, the foundation of which is now being laid, will be made up of craft unlike anything that naval science has ever seen or heard of before. The design of two new capital warships, the Nelson and the Rodney—writes a London naval correspondent— will put all existing warships back in the Victorian era.

These fighting ships, which are already near completion, will have an appearance as strange as anything H. G. Wells ever imagined in his visionary novels on warfare of the future.

Without a funnel showing and scarcely any superstructure they are designed to serve a double purpose. A clear deck space gives a long broad sweep for the launching of air planes, thus increasing the vessel's battle radius by hundreds of miles.

The arrangement of the big guns also will be new, being concentrated forward. They will consist of nine 16-inch guns, mounted in three turrets and three guns to a turret. No batteries at all will be placed aft.

Heavily armoured decks will be planted as a protection from attack from the air. The magazines are being grouped forward under the super-armored decks. The absence of funnels provides unobstructed space for planes. The smoke fumes from the engines will be carried off via tubes stretching alongside, which will also aid in throwing up smoke screens.

Bombing tests and aerial tactics for the new style of sea fighting have already been begun. Important tests will take places next week when the British Navy, sinks the Monarch in the Atlantic under the terms of the Washington naval agreement. The destruction of the Monarch will be carried out in the greatest secrecy.

It is declared here that the Nelson and the Rodney mark the beginning of a new British navy.

TRAFFIC IN PARIS IS MODERNIZED

The good old days of the proverbial wildness of Paris traffic are over. Their death kneel has been sounded by a group of police experts called the Permanent Consultative Committee on Circulation, says John A. Chapman in a Paris letter to The New York Herald-Tribune. It has adopted reforms. Whenever you hear of a robust, thriving and maybe pernicious reform the rule is cherchez l'American, and such is the case in this instance. Just because Stephane Lausanne, of The Matin, and a few other newspaper editors have been to America and have marveled in their home town journals at New York's traffic control, and just because some American men of wealth like Dr. John A. Harriss, with hobbies of blinking lights and one-way streets, went over to Paris and spread their well meaning doctrines, all the thrill of taxi riding in Paris is disappearing and the very essence of the city has undergone a change.

New Yoork makes a stiff demand on the intelligence of its motorists. They must know red from green and yellow, in order to know whether to turn to the right, roll over or swear. The French, with a genius for seizing upon and elaborating red tape which drives an unknown number of tourists to insane asylums or a cold, wet death by jumping off the next boat out of Cherbourg, have gone even further. A motor car driver in Paris must know how to count, and must also know whether it is Tuesday or Thursday, if either. Here is a translation of the newest law, or the newest one at the minute of writing

In all streets where traffic moves in one direction, parking will be allowed on the side of the street where house numbers are even when the day of the month is even, and on the odd side on odd days.

So any day now the latest fashion in chic French motor car design will be the seven-day dashboard calendar. "But what," a critic of the administration has already asked, "but what provision has been made for leap year?"

Paris has been going along all these years with its taxis travelling faster than anywhere else in the world, and with precious few accidents at that, and it has suddenly found out it is behind the times. It hasn't a burning, plaguing, maddening traffic problem like New York's and London's. For one thing, ligustic difficulties are in the way. Our best political orators get a great oral savor out of the potent words "traffic problem." The best a Fenchman can do is murmur something about "la question de la circulation." But the gay cittiy is overcoming the obstacle.

Due to the campaigning of an afternoon newspaper, L'Intransigeant, Parisians have discovered their problem. Ably aided by the newspaper the fair city of bistros and boulevards has hustled out and got itself into a respectable condition of perplexity as to what to do with all the motor cars there are running around loose. One of these foggy mornings the Parisian is going to open the shutter of his bedroom that have been so tightly closed all night, and he is going to gaze down on the street at a motor cycle policeman, and then he will know the job is complete and that Paris is at last a modern city. Gone will be the days when one can get from anywhere to anywhere else in five minutes unless the pavement is wet. Gone will be another part of gay Paree that gave the city its unique reputation. I hope to leave Paris before that sad day arrives.

To begin with, Paris traffic has been libeled by tourists. America has gathered its impression of the city's vehicular convolutions from hardware store owners who are taking their sabbaticals and people like Newt Funk of Good Gosh, Neb., who once worked a 4-day's stay in Paris by representing his fair city in a great convention which came over to study conditions at Pigall's and the child labor conditions at Harry's New York Bar.

People like Newt leave Paris before they get used to the traffic, and they leave with the wrong idea altogether. It's just like crossing the Channel. If you stick to it long enough, you'll get used to it. But only the sailors on the boats are used to the Channel, please fortune the trip is only an hour and twenty minutes, and a very few Americans stay in Paris long enough to get used to the traffic.

I've been in Paris nearly a year, and have seen only one person struck by a motor car. And he was a reckless dub who walked in front of a stalled street-car without looking around the corner. He got slightly bumped, looked foolish, dusted himself off, and all of a sudden got an idea maybe he could collect damages; so off he ran, pursuing the offending chauffeur. I take at least three taxicabs a day and have never been in one that has as much as brushed fenders on another vehicle. I've driven a car, and have found it easier than in New York. Why? Well, it's a long story.

Not long ago I talked with Patrolman McIntyre on traffic duty near the Cunard Line piers on North River in New York. He was, strangely, not in Paris to study conditions. He went over with Mrs. McIntyre because a friend of his, a young millionaire named William B. Leeds, suggested he take a vacation at the latter's expense. We stood out in one of the little isles in the Place de la Concorde and watched the cars roll by.

We fell to discussing the different essential qualities of New York and Paris street travel. Quoth Mr. McIntyre:

"I dunno. Somehow. I sort of think that maybe they've got the right idea over here. It's everybody for himself and devil take the guy back of you. If you want to jam on your four-wheel brakes and stop in half a car length, you can go ahead and do it, and the fellow in back won't bump into you. And if he does, it's his fault. But in New York, my gosh! Drivers are lost if they haven't a cop at every corner to tell them what to do. If it gets much worse they'll have to have a cop with a pile of handkerchiefs at every corner and when each driver comes by the cop'll hold out one hand and yell 'Blow hard!'"

McIntyre has sized up Paris traffic in few words. I almost said old-time Paris traffic for just as sure as night follows day, all these newfangled laws will change things. They have begun their insidious work already.

OFFICIALDOM PERTURBED OVER SCANDAL

BY HARRY B. HUNT

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—Official society in Washington is getting more excited every minute over the Scott divorce case.

The excitement probably will continue for quite a while after the case itself has been disposed of. A great many people have been mentioned, in connection with it, in ways that promise to keep them expaliing indefinitely.

Just as one little item—

There were 57 members of Congress, with their families, along on the Panama trip from which Congressman Scott is said by his wife to have returned bringing two barrels and a trunkful of liquor into the country.

Quite a few of these congressmen represent very dry constituencies, and if its' established that the Panama junket was a drinking party they will not benefit a bit by it politically.

They are denying it already, but the word picture painted by Mrs. Scott's lawyer of a Kansas statesman carrying a whole pitcherful of liquor about the steamship Cristobal, is pretty vivid. Denials may not prove sufficient. There may have to be a regular investigation.

An investigation into the Washington smart set's morals wouldn't be so easy. What officialdom fears is that Scott's side of the story will give the country the impression that the capital hasn't got any.

This wouldn't be fair. A great many of those in the official class live as decorously as anybody.

All the same, none but very unsophisticated Washingtonians are unaware that their town is pretty naughty. They look on it indulgently but are quite conscious that the "provinces" are extremely apt to raise a howl if they find out about it.

For one thing, probably nowhere else in the world are there so many attractive women with nothing to do as in Washington official circles..

They don't live here. They are simply "staying" in the capitol for a few years, during their husbands' official terms. Instead of haying homes to manage, they put up in hotels or apartments, where everything is done for them by servants whom they do not even have to direct.

Fascinating bachelors are numerous likewise.

Dashing, well educated, accomplished army and navy officers are on hand in plenty.

Among the swarming attaches, secretaries and sub-secretaries of the diplomatic corps married men are the exception rather than the rule. What's more, a great many of them have extremely liberal European ideas on the subject of sex relations.

"Affairs," between men and women of these types have a lot of snap and sparkle. They're staged romantically. The participants wear uniforms, decorations, broad ribbons across their dress shirt fronts, bewitching gowns, expensive jewelery.

Such "affairs" have an air of "class," in short.

And drink flows freely. Even prohibitionists, while contending the country as a whole is much dryer today than its used to be, admit that a few small groups are perhaps drinking more than they ever did.

Well, this is one of the small groups. Parties don't begin with a round of cocktails, as they did formerly. They begin with half a dozen rounds.

A certain proportion of Washington's official population, like a certain proportion of every population, has the inclination to be sporty. In some places this inclination has to be restrained but not in Washington. Here inclination and opportunity go together more than opportunity, there is a strong temptation to the sportily inclined to be sporty.

That's why the Washington "fast set" is so much so—but it hates to be caught at it..

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Editor, Examiner:

Sir,—In a recent news item from your city an admiring world was informed of the heroic work of one Audrey Clapper, assisted by two other heroes, who recently destroyed an eagle.

The noble bird, perhaps driven by the recent severe cold approached rather too near "civilization" and met his fate while resting on a tree from the hands of the most unfair of all wild beasts, commonly called man.

What, may I ask, is the state of mind which prompts some people to destroy everything they see. Here is a chance for Mr. Darrow, the famous criminal lawyer, to formulate some theory in this matter.

It will be noticed that these heroic hunters cannot meet the mighty eagle on his own ground. They must catch him resting and turn on him a weapon which he knows nothing of. It looks very cowardly to me.

Oh, but somebody will say, "they carry off babies" This is very much disputed, and I doubt whether there are many babies spotring themselves on the verandahs and back yards of Ontario this time of the year.

We like to hear the news from the east, but let it be clean news, and let it flavour of sportamanship, which is so dear to the British mind.

Yours respectfully,
Gilbert A. Sim.

FIRES.

Important fire losses in the United States soar to over 37 million dollars in November. Highest in 20 months.

Ordinarily this would be considered an evil omen for future business. Fire losses traditionally mount ahead of hard times, many setting fire to their properties to get insurance.

But experts say that big November losses were two-fifths due to poor construction of buildings, which permitted flames to spread swiftly. We seem moving toward the Japanese system of houses built of paper and glue.

POLICE CHASE MOTOR THIEVES

One Shot, One Injured, in Pursuit on City Streets.

HOUSEBREAKERS?

TORONTO, Jan. 12.—(Canadian Press).—When attempting to escape from a stolen automobile while being pursued by the police early on Sunday morning, David Robertson, aged 19 years, of Detroit, was shot in the right thigh.

George Brown, aged 19 years, of Toronto, fractured his right arm when he also jumped from the fast moving machine. James Robertson, aged 23 years, brother of the youth who was wounded, was driving the stolen car. Both he and Harry Madden, aged 23 years, of Hamilton, were held in the car by the police.

The arrests were made following a sensational motor chase through the city streets, ending only when the police car collided with the fugitive car.

The car was stolen from in front of a downtown theatre on Saturday night by the two Robertsons and Brown, the police say, and driven to Hamilton, where Madden was picked up. What happened in Hamilton is not known, but as the police report two entries into stores there late on Saturday night, the local authorities are hopeful of linking the men under arrest with those crimes.

A MORAL CODE FOR SCHOOL CHILDREN

Collier's Weekly Submits Compilation of Principals from Broad Canvass.

A "Moral Code for School Children" was made public yesterday by Collier's the National Weekly. "This code is the result of thousands of suggestions from all sorts and conditions of men and women in all parts of the country," said John B. Kennedy ,associate editor. "Beginning with endorsements from leaders of the largest religious denominations for this movement, we preceeded to canvas education, industrial, civic and social leaders with the result that we believe we have obtained the best possible code for the practical purpose of teaching morality to the children of the country in the public schools.

"Chief Justice Taft says of this code, I think it is good. There is only one thing I would add, though I don't know that that is necessary because you refer to it under the head of industry. I think that hard work might be more emphasized than it is, and the obligation of making play of too great importance."

"From leaders of thought in all parts of the country to whom we submitted advance proofs of the code we have received unequivocal endorsement. Milton Bennion, Chairman of the Character Education Committee of the National Educational Association has approved the code in behalf of the teaching profession, and Chief Justices of the various States and eminent men and women in all professions have also endorsed the code."

The code is headed "In God we Trust." Under this sentence is the following: If I want to be a happy useful citizen I must have:

Courage and Hope — I must be brave—this means I must be brave enough and strong enough to control what I think, and what I say and what I do, and I must always be hopeful because hope is power for improvement.

Wisdom—I must act wisely—In school, at home, playing, working, reading or talking, I must learn how to choose the good, and how to avoid the bad.

Industry and Good Habits—I must make my character strong—My character is what I am, if not in the eyes of others, then in the eyes of my own conscience. Good thoughts in my mind will keep out bad thoughts When I am busy doing good I shall have no time to do evil. I can build my character by training myself in good habits.

Knowledge and Usefulness — I must make my mind strong— The better I know myself, my fellows and the world about me, the happier and more useful I shall be. I must always welcome useful knowledge in school, at home, everywhere.

Truth and Honesty—I must be truthful and honest— I must know what is true in order to do what is right. I must tell the truth without fear. I must be honest in all my dealings and in all my thoughts. Unless I am honest I cannot have self-respect.

Healthfulness and Cleanliness—I must make my body strong—My eyes, my teeth, my heart, my whole body must be healthful so that my mind can work properly. I must keep physically and morally clean.

Helpfulness and Unselfishness —I must use my strength to help others who need help—If I am strong I can help others, I can be kind, I can forgive those who hurt me and I can help and protect the weak, the suffering, the young and the old and dumb animals.

Charity—I must love — I must love God, who created not only this earth and also all men of all races, nations and creeds, who are my brothers. I must love my parents, my home, my neighbors, my country, and be loyal to all these.

Humility and Reverence—I must know that there are always more things to learn—What I may know is small compared to what can be known. I must respect all who have more wisdom than I , and have reverence for all that is good. And I must know how and whom to obey.

Faith and Responsibility— I must do all these things because I am accountable to God and to humanity for how I live and how I can help my fellows, and for the extent to which my fellows may trust and depend upon me.

SOME SURPRISES IN CHOICE OF MEN TO HEAD COMMITTEES OF CITY COUNCIL THIS YEAR

Alderman Crowe and Stocker Are Without Chairmanships in 1925.

TWO ACCLAMATIONS.

Finance and Manufacturers' Committees Are Not Contested—Crowe Supplied Cigars.

The City Council was all "lit up" at its meeting this morning, when, as a committee of the whole, committees for the ensuing year were struck. The dean of the Council, Alderman Joseph Crowe, was responsible for this state of affairs. He passed around a package of cigars, and the aldermen lighted them and smoked away as they discussed chairmanships in more or less amicable fashion. A certain amount of heat was noticeable at several stages of the proceedings, and it required the good offices of the Mayor to pour oil on the troubled waters. Alderman Stocker became somewhat peeved during the course of events, and kept repeating that he "had nothing to buy or sell," also that "there are no strings on me," in such a manner as to draw from Alderman Turner a protest against reflections which he felt were aimed at other members of the Council, all of whom were present with the exception of Alderman McIntyre, who is ill.

Board of Works Chairmanship.

The chairmanship of the most important of the standing committees of the Council, that of the Board of Works, held last year by Ald. Morrison, fell to the lot this season of Alderman Fife. There was considerable discussion over this appointment. Alderman Turner, who was nominated by Ald. Jones and seconded by Ald. Greene, declined the honor, nominating Alderman Fife, whose choice was seconded by Ald. Meyers. Remarks made at this juncture by Alderman Turner, who said that some citizens were of the opinion that the Board of Works Department had not been carried on in the best possible manner during several past years, awakened the ire of Ald. Stocker. Alderman Crowe also was of the opinion that the overhead costs of the department might be reduced considerably, but pointed out that Alderman Turner, although doubtless having given deep thought to the matter, had not been very regular in attendance at other meetings during the year. He nominated Alderman Stocker as a man with the time to give to the work, and his nomination was seconded by Ald. Fife, who wished to withdraw. Consent for this was refused by his nominees, and an open vote showed six members in favor of Ald. Fife and three for Ald. Stocker.

For the Fire, Water and Light Committee, the chairmanship of which was held last year by Ald. Stocker, nominations were made of Ald. Jones, by Ald. Turner and Ald. Meyers, and of Ald. McIntyre, by Ald. Crowe and Ald. Stocker. The vote gave the chairmanship to Ald. Jones, recording five in his favor as against three for his opponent.

Alderman Meyers, nominated by Ald. Fife and Ald. Turner, went in by acclamation to the position of chairman of the Manufacturers (Franchises and Power), the position held by him last year.

Alderman Phelan, nominated by Ald. Denne and Ald. Jones, also was returned by acclamation to his last year's chairmanship of the Committee on Finance (Printing and Licenses).

The Committee on Property (Building, Market and Health), presided over last season by Ald. Fife, went this year to Ald. McIntyre, named by Ald. Jones and Ald. Meyers.

New Member Appointed.

There was considerable passing back and forth on a platter of the chairmanships of the committees which have to do respectively with Legal (Reception and Legislation) matters, and with the conduct of Railways (Parks and Boulevards). Ald. Crowe, who held the chairmanship of the first committee last year, was once again nominated by Ald. Denne and Ald. Phelan, and declined the honor in positive terms. He thought that Ald. Denne, who was nominated by Ald. Meyers and Ald. Jones, was the right man for the position, especially with regard to receiving visitors to the city. Mayor Turner reminded the dean of the Council that all the notables visited the city last year and went away apparently pleased with their reception. Ald. Crowe's characteristic remark, "Yes, but the Mayor did all the pussyfooting on those occasions," aroused a laugh. Ald. Turner was then nominated by Ald. Greene and Ald Denne, but declined. Ald. Denne was finally appointed chairman of the Legal and Reception Committee.

For Railways (Parks and Boulevards), Ald. Turner was once more returned to his last year's seat as chairman of the committee. Ald. Stocker, who took some of the credit to himself for the satisfactory conditions at present existing in this work, was considered by Ald. Turner as taking a little too much of the kudos. Ald. Stocker, being nominated by Ald. Crowe and Ald. Denne, declined with strong emphasis, saying that he was too busy to consider the position, and would not be a "rubber stamp for anyone." Ald. Green's nomination by Ald. Turner not having a seconder. Ald. Turner's nomination by Ald. Fife and Ald. Meyers was made unanimous by the meeting.

The Committee on Unemployment, Relief and Fuel, of which Ald. McIntyre was chairman last year, was left in abeyance. This committee held but one meeting last season, and will not be requisitioned this year unless necessary.

Members of Committees.

The following members of the several committees were then named:

Board of Works—Ald. Fife (chairman) and Committee of the Whole Council.

Fire, Water and Light — Ald. Jones (chairman), Ald. Crowe, Ald. Stocker, Ald. Greene, Ald. Turner, Ald. Phelan.

Manufacturers (Franchises and Power)—Ald. Meyers (chairman), Ald. Jones, Ald. Denne, Ald. Turner, Ald. McIntyre, Ald. Fife, Ald. Crowe.

Finance (Printing and Licenses)—Ald. Phelan (chairman), Ald. Fife, Ald. Jones, Ald. Meyers, Ald. Crowe, Ald. Stocker, Ald. McIntyre, Ald. Turner, Ald. Denne.

Property (Building, Market and Health)—Ald. McIntyre (chairman), Ald. Jones, Ald. Greene, Ald. Crowe, Ald. Stocker, Ald. Fife.

Legal (Reception and Legislation) — Ald. Denne (chairman), Ald. Crowe. Ald. Phelan, Ald. Meyers, Ald. Stocker, Ald. Turner, Ald. Greene.

Railways (Parks and Boulevards) — Ald. Turner (chairman), Ald. Greene, Ald. Stocker, Ald. Phelan, Ald. Fife, Ald. McIntyre, Ald. Meyers.

The Mayor is an ex-officio member of all committees.

HEBRIDEANS IN CANADA

What the Bishop of Argyll Says in a Letter.

Bishop Martin, of Argyll and the Isles, who sailed to Canada on the Canadian Pacific Liner Marloch, and who is now completing an extensive tour of Canada, during which he has visited all the Hebridean Settlements, has given his benediction to the emigration of Hebrideans to Canada.

Apparently the Bishop was much impressed with the success, also the comfort of his people who had gone out West, and has sent the following letter to the Archbishop of Edmonton:—

"I wish to thank your Grace for all your kindness on the occasion of my visit to the Hebridean emigrants in the Edmonton Archdiocese.

"I am pleased with the arrangements which your Grace has made for the spiritual needs of the emigrants. I think that, in the circumstances, the people are well provided for.

"I am quite satisfied the emigrants have done well in coming to Alberta, and think the outlook for themselves and for their children a most hopeful one."

Bishop Martin is due to return from Canada this month.

MAYOR TURNER STRIKES NOTE OF OPTIMISM IN HIS ADDRESS ON OPENING OF 1925 COUNCIL

Number of Homes Erected Last Year Shows New Trend—Business Expansion Predicted and City Improvements Forecast by Chief Magistrate.

PRESENT WILL SOON BE OUTGROWN.

Accomplishments of the Past and Plans for the Future Outlined in Address from the Throne — Curtail Paving Programme This Year.

The inaugural meeting of the new Council, attended by all the members with the exception of Ald. McIntyre, who is on the sick list, was held in the upper Council Chamber, prior to the adjournment to the lower-floor Board Room to select committees. The session was brief, and occupied mainly with the reading of the Mayor's inaugural address. The attendance was nil, the gallery being entirely unoccupied for the occasion.

The Mayor's Address.

Peterborough, Ontario, January 12th, 1925.

To Members of the City Council for 1925.

Gentlemen.—I extend congratulations to those recently elected for a period of two years. The Electors endorsed three Aldermen of last year, and two new men—the first time as members of the Council, but tried and true men in other public services. The public endorsation was strong especially in the case of Mr. Roland Denne, who headed the poll with the largest number of votes. Mr. Greene also polled a good vote, which must be very gratifying to a new man offering for election for Alderman or the first time. The Veteran of the Council, Alderman Crowe, must be a very happy man, rejoicing in the confidence of the people, who gave him a splendid vote, which is all the more striking, because it was unsolicited. I welcome the return of Alderman Meyers and Alderman Fife, and to one and all, extend congratulations.

I regret the absence of Aldermen Maher and Morrison, who were faithful and efficient in discharging their public duties, taking full share of the work, doing their utmost to solve problems to benefit the majority. We lose them for this year, but possisbly they may offer their services again, with better success.

During the last year, progress was made with the Sewerage Disposal Plant, Storm Drains and Permanent Roadways. In the Sewerage Disposal Plant, an agreement with the Provincial Board of Health was reached, the type of disposal plant adopted, and plans prepared ready for submission to the Provincial Board of Health for approval. This work will go forward this Spring, thereby settling a problem which has been before various Councils for many years.

We have other sewerage problems, which are being dealt with by the Local Board of Health, to provide sewerage disposal for portions of the city below the level of present sewers, and this will receive immediate attention, to take sewerage out of the river where it flows through city boundaries. With the extension of sewers throughout the city, more connections are being made, and the number of connections from old premises has been continuous during the year, and all outhouses will be connected shortly. The general health of the City is good, thanks to the Utilities Commission for pure water, and thanks to the local Board of Health for looking after the sanitation of the City by frequent inspections of premises, both public and private, and regular inspection of supplies sold within the City. Altogether, the health of the City is very satisfactory.

An appropriation was made towards building storm drains throughout the City, to take care of the water fall, as it is not good practice to put this surface water into the sewers, taxing them beyond their capacity at certain seasons, and adding to the cost of handling flood waters at the disposal plant. Surface drainage is necessary to take away stagnant water, breeding spots for mitos and fevers, and the start made in this work is to be commended, and it should be the policy of all Councils to continue this work year by year, and the whole city is covered with storm drains, Considerable work was done in laying permanent roadways, as it has been found impossible to keep up macadam roads under the strain of heavy motor traffic without continuous expenditure. Permanent roadways are cheaper in the end, and having this fact in mind, the Council last year inaugurated a paving programme covering leading roads, which is the first paving done since 1915. This paving programme should be continued year by year, without adding seriously to our debenture debt. Last year, however, such a large expenditure was made, some $120,000.00, and in view of the expense of erecting the disposal plant at a cost of $200,000.00 to $250,000.00, it would be advisable to curtail the paving programme for this year. This is a matter for the Council to decide, as a better understanding can be obtained when arranging the Budget for the ear and passing the estimates.

The industrial expansion during the year was principally confined to the General Electric Company of Canada, who extended their premises by a new building, alterations to other buildings and installation of new machinery. We are glad to have this expansion at a time of business depression, and hope the policy of Company will be along the line of continuous expansion until all their vacant land is covered, and the number of employees multiplied many times.

I believe the number of homes erected last year by citizens is in excess of a number of previous years, which helped to relieve unemployment, and carry the City over a depression period. In many cases, these buildings front streets on which sidewalks and sewers have been laid, and the revenues of the City will be increased without much expense, if any.

The New Year brings new ambitions new opportunities, with promise of business growth and expansion. We have much to be thankful for during the past year, and with faith in the futur. I believe the City of Peterborough will increase and prosper. May we strive all together to legislate and govern for the benefit of the majority, planning wisely and well for the future, rather than for the present, which will be outgrown in a very short time.

Yous sincerely,

J. J. TURNER,
MAYOR.

After the reading of the address, the Council proper adjourned until their first regular meeting for this year, to be held to-night.

IRELAND FACES ANOTHER PERIOD OF CIVIL STRIFE

Trouble Again Brewing in Free State.

May Be Plebsicite After Dail Election.

DUBLIN, Jan. 12.—Another stew is brewing in Ireland. The land of perennial trouble is driving toward another political struggle, which may end in the declaration of a republic, the return of British troops, and a repetition of the sickening tale of murder, arson, pillage and chaos that culminated after 700 years in the bloody warfare of 1916-1921.

The fate of the Anglo-Irish treaty, signed in 1920, depends upon the forthcoming miniature general election, which probably will occur in February, to fill nine Dail vacancies, caused by the resignations of as many former supporters of the Cosgrave government. The United News is semi-officially informed that, if the government is severely defeated in February, a plebiscite will be held to decide whether Ireland is to abide by the treaty or to repudiate it. If this plebiscite should call for repudiation, the government is determined to resign, turning the country over to Eamonn De Valera and his followers, who would immediately institute a republic. The republicans would endeavor to govern Ulster as well as Southern Ireland, and the immediate bloodshed that such an effort would call forth might well be the knell of peace on the island for years. De Valera never has recognized the treaty, which, among other things, partitioned Ireland, leaving the six counties of the north under mixture of British and home rule. The situation would undoubtedly call for British intervention, even if it did not precipitate a civil war. Before the February election three more vacancies are likely to occur, owing to the threatened resignation of three government supporters, who disagree with the cabinet's policy.

Campaign Opened.

As in many times in the past, Southern Ireland again is experiencing a series of political disagreements. The cabinet itself is divided, as is the government party as a whole. President Cosgrave is absent in the south of France endeavoring to regain the health he lost in the service of his country. A large section of the population, although it believes in the treaty, is so disgusted with political squabbles that it refuses to vote at the elections. Hence, the government's influence is waning, while the Republicans, always active, gain correspondingly. The Republicans opened an intensive campaign Sunday, when De Valera mounted the stump to declare again that so long as England has a finger in Ireland all Irishmen were slaves and that the treaty must be scrapped and a republic proclaimed.

The Plebiscite.

If the plebiscite favored continuance of the treaty, the government would declare vacant the seats of Dail members who refused to take the oath of allegiance or to attend sessions, thus ousting Republicans; but if the plebiscite is against the treaty and the Republicans undertake the government of Ireland, the country will return to pre-treaty status—a condition of near-anarchy and license.

BANDITS WOUND MAN AND WOMAN

Seize $300 From Till and Escape Over House Tops.

SHOOT AT POLICE.

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—(Canadian Press).—Two persons, a man and a woman, are in a serious condition in hospital here to-day, after being wounded last night in a fusilade of srots exchanged between four robbers and a single policeman who sought to capture the robbers after they had held up a restaurant.

The seriously wounded are Mrs. Bertha Fuerer, part owner of the restaurant, and Mario Agliardotto, a street cleaner.

The woman was shot by the robbers when they entered and grabbed $300 from the till.

Patrolman Donker, seeing them emerge, gave chase up several flights of stairs to the roof, from which the gunmen jumped to an adjoining building and escaped. The policeman was hit twice, but his handcuffs and a packet of tickets in his pockets deflected the bullets.

JUVENILE MEETING.

Young Members of L.O.L. Take Great Interest in Degree Work.

The regular meeting of City Juvenile L.O.L., was held in Victoria Hall on Friday evening, with a large attendance of members. Great interest is being manifested in this branch of the order as shown by the manner in which the degree was conferred on six new members.

It was arranged to hold a skating party on Tuesday evening, when all members will meet at the Lodge room at 7 o'clock, when a good time is expected.

HURT WHILE SKATING.

Francis McPherson Fell on Hill—Broke His Arm.

While skating on a hill near his home, Master Francis MacPherson had the misfortune to fall and break his arm. He was rushed to St. Joseph's Hospital, where the injury was attended to by Drs. O'Brien and McNulty, and later removed to his home at 450 George Street, where he is doing nicely.

WHY WOMEN MARRY

By Cynthia Grey

There are women who marry just to show the rest of the girls that they could "put it over."

There are women who marry to show the man who didn't want to marry that somebody else did.

There are inquisitive women who marry a man to know what he is really like in everyday life.

There are a few women who marry for a home and children.

But the truth is that ninety-nine women out of a hundred marry for the simple thing called love.

TRINITY CHURCH FULL TO DOORS

Anniversary Services Drew Big Congregation—Excellent Musical Offerings.

CONCERT TO-NIGHT.

Yesterday at Trinity Methodist Church the anniversary services were held when the Rev. R. G. Peever D.D. of Hamilton preached at both services. His discourses were listened to with great interest by crowded congregations especially at the evening service when a great number were turned away, the church being packed to the limit some time before the hour of service.

Dr. Peever quickly won the hearts of his congregations by his power of personality as of old when he was the pastor of George street, and by his interpretation of the Scriptures which could not fail to hold people of all shades of thought and find its way to the hearts and minds of the listeners and leave an impression that will remain for days to come.

The singing which was led by the choir was of the usual high order one can always expect to hear from Trinity Choir under such capable leadership.

Soprano and violin solos and obligatos were rendered by Mme. Fern Fillion and Ferdinand Fillion accompanied by Horace Lapp at the piano. The artists who come from Toronto will be heard again to-night at the anniversary concert in the church assisted by the choir.

The following are the numbers rendered by them at the services yesterday: "Morning Hymn", and "Ave Maria," by Mme. Filion, violin numbers: the "Prize Song", and "Nocturne," by Ferdinand Filion.

Horace Lapp is worthy of mention for his fine renderings on the organ at the opening and closing of both services, showing himself to be master of the instrument.

EXPERTS TRY TO PLEASE EVERYONE

Inter-Allied Financial Conference Faces a Weary Task.

PARIS, Jan. 12. — (Canadian Press). — Experts attached to the inter-allied financial conference were hard at work again this morning at the weary task of finding figures and formulae to suit all those concerned in the apportionment of Germany's reparation payments under the Dawes plan.

Their greatest difficulty yesterday, one which kept them sitting until far into the night, was to devise expeditions to satisfy the smaller allies who appear to consider themselves treated in a cavalier fashion by the greater Powers.

It is anticipated that the delegates of those smaller countries will take up a lot of time with their claims at to-morrow's plenary session.

Italy appears to be the only participant with no grievance. Instead of getting too little she has been getting too much, having received some 400,000,000 gold marks from Germany—mostly in kind—over and above what she was entitled to under the Spa agreement share of ten per cent.

The arrangement of this is no great task for the experts beyond verification of the figures, and it is understood they will recommend that there be a proportionate reduction of the Italian share in the Dawes receipts.

FRANCE MAKING MISTAKE IN NOT PAYING HER DEBTS, SAYS MASON

Wars Fought by Dollars, And If National Credit is Impaired, French Will Have Poor Defence Against a Revengeful Germany.

By J. W. T. MASON.

NEW YORK, Jan. 12 (United Press). —The French government, which is giving so much of its attention to military preparations against attack in the future, is neglecting the most important defence of all, in continually postponing payment of her war debt to America and Great Britain. If the French people repudiate their financial obligation, they will have no friends from whom to borrow in the next conflict and may easily suffer overwhelming defeat from that fact alone.

Modern wars are fought with money equally with bullets. If Germany had been able to borrow during the world war and make purchases abroad in the same measure as the allies, the Germans would have won the war, or would have forced it to a draw without having to engage in the submarine campaign which carried the United States into the conflict.

The French are close calculators in money matters and have always been inclined to take chances with the future concerning national finances. But the situation now facing France is different from any condition in the past. The weaker France allows herself to get, the more probable does another war of revenge become. Germany is bidding her time and will strike when ever a good chance of victory is seen. The best condition for a Germany victory would be France's loss of international credit. If France pays her debts, her friends will support her; but if she tries to repudiate she will not only lose her friends, but will have no money with which to fight.

Matter of Private Loans.

It is a theory of French financiers that the private loans made to France by individual American investors serve as a guarantee of American financial support to France in a new war; for if France were defeated, the private loans might never be paid. It is also a theory of French strategists that Great Britain must necessarily come to France's support in another war in order to maintain the balance of power in Europe. Both of these conclusions are unsound, and if France persists in holding them, nothing can save the French people from going down in defeat that will reduce the republic to second rank as a nation.

The private loans that American bankers have made to France are in the same category as American private loans to China, Mexico and other countries that from time to time have been unable to meet their obligations. The United States government has not sought to safeguard these loans by going to the aid of the governments of the countries in times of distress. Private investors are paid for the risks of the French loans by the high interest rates they receive, and the United States will not concern itself in the matter, when the loans, in reality, carry their own insurance.

Great Britain's Part.

Similarly, Great Britain is not pledged to fight for France the next time, and there is every reason to believe the British will keep out of a new continental war if they can. The Franco-Prussian war in 1870 did not interest Great Britain. If Germany were to respect Belgian independence in the next war, as she is practically certain to do, and were to give certain advance pledges to Great Britain about keeping her troops away from the Channel, France could not expect British armed support.

But, by paying her debts to America and Great Britain, France can command international financial aid and also moral support. These two factors, known in advance to be at France's disposal, might well hold Germany back from provoking a war of revenge. Without them, France can organize her military defences and arrange her little alliances on the continent as she likes, without guaranteeing peace and security for the future.

LOSE WEIGHT.

Three large unsweetened stewed prunes, individual mold of jellied shrimps salad, 3 ounces boiled corned beef, ¼ head boiled cabbage, 6 new onions, 2 whole pickled beets, 1 cup new string beans, 2 tablespoons lemon jelly, 2 crisp pieces gluten toast, 2 gluten puffs, 1 gluten roll, 2 halves canned peaches, 1 pint skimmed milk.

Total calories, 1070. Protein, 323. Fat, 283; carbohydrate, 464. Iron, .0209 gram.

Jellied Shrimp Salad.

One pint can tomatoes, ½ cup water, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 teaspoons sugar, 1-8 teaspoon mustard, 1-8 teaspoon pepper, 2 whole cloves, 1 medium-sized onion, 1 tablespoon granulated gelatin, 4 tablespoons cold water, 1 cup canned or freshly cooked shrimp, 1-3 cup diced celery, 2 tablespoons minced pepper (green), 1 hard boiled egg.

Put tomatoes, water, salt, sugar, mustard, pepper, cloves and onion thinly sliced in stew pan and simmer 15 minutes. Rub through a strainer. Reheat to the boiling point, adding water if necessary to make two cups. Pour over gelatin softened in cold water.

When cool add shrimps cleaning and cut in small pieces, celery, diced the same size as the shrimps and the pepper which has been parboiled before mincing to remove the thin skin. The seeds and pith of the pepper are of course discarded.

Put thin slices of the hard boiled egg in four individual molds and fill molds with jelly mixture. Let stand until firm and chilled. Turn out of molds and serve on beds of shredded leaf lettuce.

Total calories (exclusive of lettuce), 580. Protein, 341; fat, 101; carbohydrate, 138. Iron, .0015 gram.

GAIN WEIGHT.

Six large sweetened stewed prunes, 4 tablespoons creamed salmon on toast, 6 button radishes, 1 cup cream of potato soup, individual mold jellied shrimp salad with 2 tablespoons mayonnaise, 3 ounces boiled corned beef, 2 potatoes boiled with meat, ¼ head boiled cabbage, 1 cup new string beans with 1 slice bacon, 6 new onions, 2 whole pickled beets, 4 tablespoons lemon jelly with 1 banana and 4 tablespoons whipped cream, 2 halves canned peaches with 4 tablespoons tapioca cream, 2 cornmeal muffins, 4 tablespoons maple syrup, 2 bran rolls, 2 slices rye bread, 4 tablespoons butter, 1 tablespoon marmalade, 1 pint whole milk.

Total calories, 4058. Protein, 571; fat, 1623; carbohydrate, 1864. Iron, .0219 gram.

As long as the weather permits the use of cornmeal it is very much worth while for the person who would gain in weight to eat as much corn bread as possible. Corn is fattening in itself and when combined with milk, sugar and eggs it adds many calories to the diet and eventually ounces to the weight. Plenty of butter is just naturally needed with muffins so the fat calories mount up quickly and easily.

With the coming of fresh fruits, don't neglect the humble prune. Let it be your breakfast fruit once a week.

The fat is tried out of the bacon, the beans are slightly browned in it and water is added to cover for the string beans with bacon. Cover the sauce pan tightly and simmer the beans slowly for an hour or longer. Serve in the juice with bits of bacon.

IN MILLBROOK AND DISTRICT

Missionary Teacher in New Position in Alberta—Personal Mention.

MILLBROOK, Jan. 10.—Miss E. C. Hawken, for some years principal of the public school, Millbrook, and for six years missionary teacher at the Methodist Home and Training School, Kolokreeka, Alberta, is now occupying a similar position at Wahstao, Alberta, having returned last Fall to the West at the conclusion of her year's furlough.

Miss Hawken writes that there are twenty-six Ruthenian children as pupils in the school, and for these a Christmas tree, concert, and dinner was provided, with games during the evening, "Santa Claus" distributing the presents from the well-laden tree. Roasting corn at the open fire-place was the last item of enjoyment before bedtime, to the children's great delight.

Seventeen pupils were in the school over the holiday season, and though the weather was very cold, plenty of fuel piled in the furnace kept the building warm and comfortable.

A Sunday School for the resident pupils, and any who care to come in from outside, is kept open all year, and prayer meetings are held each Wednesday evening, with a preaching service on Sunday nights. Meetings are also held from home to home in a radius of several miles, so that as many as possible may be reached with the gospel story.

A mission organized among the pupils of the school, does good educational work, the children selling garden produce, fancy work, done by themselves, even raising a pig and disposing of the meat to good advantage, to raise their funds. Their industry and enthusiasm are unlimited.

Many of the pupils are brought to a definite knowledge of salvation through Christ as a result of the religious training while in the school, indeed the aim is to have all experience conversion, before leaving the institution, that mission ary work in the homes may go on through the influence of the young folk over their parents and older brothers and sisters.

Miss E. Chace, and Miss Elma Ball, are Miss Hawken's co-workers at the Wahstao Home and School.

Girls' Group Meet.

The first meeting of the Wide" Awakes" C.G.I.T. group since the New Year was held in the league room of the church on Wednesday evening, with ten members in attendance. The meetings had been discontinued for some weeks owing to the practices for the "pageant" given by the Sunday School New Year's night, in which most of the girls were taking part.

The president, Marjorie Sayles, gave an interesting report of the reunion, held in Toronto over the week-end, of the girls who attended the C.G.I.T. camp at Lake Couchiching last July. The Bible talk, given by the leader, was from Daniel III., "The three Jews who refused to worship the image," "The Harmless Furnace," and "The Convinced King."

The group will prepare a special programme for St. Valentine's Day, and also has in view a basket social on St. Patrick's Day, March 17, the one last year having proved an unqualified success.

Next meeting will be election of officers.

Annual Election.

The "Boneka" adult Bible Class of the Methodist Sunday School held its annual election of officers recently, the following being the list for 1925: President, Mrs. F. W. Smith; vice-pres., Mrs. Hilliard Lang; secretary, Mrs. J. Todd; asst. secy., Miss Mary Widdis; treasurer, Mrs. George Fallis; Convener of Social Committee, Mrs. C. C. Garside; Convener of Devotional Committee, Mrs. T. H. Aiken; Convener of Visiting Committee, Mrs. J. Turner; Convener of Missionary Committee, Mrs. Ross Edmunds; Convenor of Membership Committee, Mrs. W. West. Convener of Flower Committee, Mrs. L. Rea.

Mrs. (Rev.) F. W. Howard has been supplying the class as teacher during the illness of Mrs. Rea. The latter is now in good health and will be able to assume the duties of her position in the immediate future.

The many friends of Rev. R. J. and Mrs. Stillwell will be interested to learn that they are located this winter, during the three months the college at Monteagle, Tenn., is closed, in South Georgia, "Douglas" and "Fitzgerald" being the two appointments at which Mr. Stillwell preaches while in charge of his present parish, which is not far from the Florida border.

Mr. E. Hansman, of Port Hope, was the guest of his sister, Mrs. H. W. Johnston, this week.

Installation of officers will be the special feature of the regular meeting of "Golden Sheaf" Rebekah Lodge, No. 176, next Tuesday evening, January 13, at 8 o'clock. All members are requested to attend.

Rev. Dr. Harper will preach in the Methodist Church on Sunday at 10.30 a.m., in the interests of the Department of Social Service and Evangelism.

L. C. Russell, Ross Edmunds, Harold Nattrass, and J. Hunter motored to Peterborough and took in the senior league hockey game between Hamilton and that city.

Died.—In Millbrook, on Friday, Jan. 9th, 1925, Sarah A. Scott, relict of the late William A. Bentley, in her 68th year. The funeral will take place from the residence of her son, P. I. Bentley, Cavan Street, on Monday, Jan. 11th, leaving on the 8.35 C.N.R. train. Service at the house at 7.30 a.m. Interment at Cherry Valley, Ontario.

George B. Walsh, barrister-at-law, of Toronto, was in town on Wednesday attending the funeral of his aunt, the late Mrs. John Walsh, who passed away, in her 84th year, at the home of Mr. Laverge Fallis, Fallis Line, on Monday. Deceased had been in failing health for some time. She was a sister-in-law of the late Mr. J. Wesley Walsh, and was predeceased by her husband several years ago. Her maiden name was Sophronia Fee.

WRITES 600 WORDS ON POSTAGE STAMP

Columbia Student Claims the World's Championship for Small Penmanship.

EXCELLS PROF. DURSO.

NEW YORK, Jan'12.—Wesley Taylor of 404 West 115th Street, a graduate student at Columbia University, laid claim to the world's small-writin championship. Mr. Taylor said that he had excelled the microscopic writing feat of Professor Nicola Durso of Lecce University, Italy, who inscribed the history of Montenegro and other lengthy matters on the back of a postal card and sent it to Queen Elena.

The Italian professor succeeded in crowding a total of 11,000 words on the postal card. Thereupon the world's small-writing championship was claimed on his behalf. It had previously been held for more than 300 years by one of Shakespeare's contemporaries.

Mr. Taylor's small-writing masterpiece was accomplished on a small part of the back of a postage stamp. On reading of the dispatch from Italy, Mr. Taylor made this statement:

"Sometimes I wonder whether there is not something in telepathy, for coincidences in the doing of things seldom oe never done before have occurred time and again, as every one knows, and may be surprising if it is not almost uncanny.

Excels Professor Durso's Feat.

"It happens that I have just completed a piece of miniature writing which appears to surpass Professor Durso's in smallness. America has every other kind of championship; it ought to have this one too. In quantity the Professor's is greater than mine but per unit of space, if the newspaper reports are correct, mine contains considerably more writing.

"I have written two of Abraham Lincoln's complete speeches, totalling six hundred words, on the back of an ordinary postage stamp.

"The newspaper account does not state the size of Professor Durso's postcard. Assuming, however, that it is 3½ by 5½ inches, the usual size of postcards, we see that he has written 11,000 words in nineteen and a quarter square inches. Now, my writing on the postage stamp measures a tiny fraction less than twenty-seven thirty-seconds of an inch, or at a rate that would mean 14,129 words in the same space in which Professor Durso has written 11,000.

"Or, to figure it another way, he has written at the rate of 575 words in a square inch and I at 734 words a square inch."

Mr. Taylor said that he did his work entirely freehand and without the use of a magnifying glass. He used a fine steel pen used in engraving.

Done With Pen and Ink.

"It is only fair to say," he continued, "that, while writing with a stylus on glass or metal, with a microscope or special pantograph, has been frequently and finely done, attempts at miniature writing done with pen and ink, on paper, are extremely rare, and have always been so, though such attempts as have been made have been felt worthy of not a little eulogy on the valuable pages of history.

"From all I have been able to learn, I judge that until the present time the championship has belonged to Peter Bales, in interesting Englishman of many activities, who died in 1610. I have been through all the literature on the subject that I could find in the Library of Congress. The late John Phin, the editor and author, had a wide acquaintance with this kind of art, but unfortunately he died in 1913, having written only a small fraction of what he knew about it.

NORTH CORNER INDIANS LOVED STAMIOXTOKEN

"Red Crow" Says He Kept Every Promise Made to Them.

OGILVIE, THE SCOT

Dogs of the Yukon Had a Creditable War Record.

(B.J.M., Ayrshire Post.)

Alaska, away up in the north-west corner of North America, is a vast country in itself. It belongs partly to Great Britain and partly to the United States; and considering the latitude in which it lies and that it reaches far into the Arctic, there is plenty of it for both. Its area is over 500,000 square miles; in other words, it is as big as seventeen Scotlands. Our share of it is policed by the Canadian mounted police. Sometimes they have to take journeys into the snow wastes that are the homes of almost perpetual winter, by the length of 1,000 miles or more; and these journeys are made in sledges drawn by the huskies. The huskies are a remarkable race of Siberian dogs.

Trusted Stamixotoken.

But before I say anything more about them, I must tell you of three Scots who are never likely to be forgotten away up in these wilds. One was Sir John Macdonald, who created the Royal North-West Mounted Police. To start with, he had a bare hundred men, and these were put under the command of Colonel Macleod, who policed a territory almost as wide as Europe. The Indians—Crees, Blackfeet, Assiniboines, Bloods, and Piegans—found in him one of the staunchest and best friends they ever could have had. The American whisky-traders, who tried to corrupt them, learned to fear him as their deadliest foe. His headquarters, Fort Macleod, was their Gibraltar. They called him Stamixotoken. And this was the kind of man he was:—"Three years ago," said Red Crow, at one famous treaty meeting, "when the police first came to this country, I met and shook hands with Stamixotoken at Pelly River. Since then he made me many promises. He kept them all—not one of them was ever broken. I entirely trust Stamixotoken, and will leave everything to him." Stamixotoken—the man who never broke faith. Could Colonel Macleod have had a more honorable reputation?

Ogilvie, a True Scot.

As far back as 1898—and that would be no more than a span in the history of Europe—Dawson City, the capital of the Yukon, and situated at the confluence of the Klondike and Yukon rivers, was already, thanks to the North-West mounted men, and Commissioner William Ogilvie, another Scot, a law-abiding city. For fifteen months, and out of touch with civilization all the time, he was prospecting in the country, and it was he who selected and laid out the site for the city itself. By that time the Yukon was regarded as a Bonanza, and there poured into it as motley a group of diggers and prospecters as ever was seen. Ogilvie, according to the author of "Scots in Canada," "became the referee in innumerable disputes as to the boundaries of mining claims, and his unimpeachable integrity won for him the respect even of that crowd. Although he might easily have become a millionaire many and many times over, he held that it was his duty as a Government official to do only official work. He did not stake out for himself a single claim, and he came out of the country as poor as when he entered in." Surely men like these have earned their place in the never ending chronicle of the Scots Worthies!

Dogs Cover 70 to 120 Miles a Day.

Recently a party of the mounted police started out for a trip to the Arctic. "Dog teams" was their mode of transit, and they had five of them, and all of them drawn by the huskies. These dogs, which are said to have had their original home in Siberia, are also said to have been a cross between the domestic dog and the wolf, and there are many stories that testify to the savagery of the first crosses. However that may have been, they are a distinct breed now, and they are not beaten in intelligence and in faithfulness, as well as in hardihood, by any race of dogs whatever. More than 1,200 of them were "enlisted" during the war in the Alpine corps, and they came out of it with a splendid record both in transit and in life-saving. Their intelligence is described as "almost human," and their powers of endurance are such that, according to the climate, they can cover on the flat, anything from 70 to 120 miles a day. In a 1,000 miles' trip, such as that recent one in Alaska, they have to pass through climatic conditions that are described by a recent writer as almost baffling description, "blinding sunshine alternating with fearful blizzards; wind and cold that cut like knives of steel." To fortify them against these fearful rigors they are provided with "blankets, green veils to relieve their eyes when the sun shines brilliantly, flannel moccasins, to protect their feet from the sharp ice, and occasional rubbings down with alcohol."

Men Loved Their Dogs.

In fact no pains are considered too great to make the journey as easy for them as possible, and "drivers are expected to bring back with them every dog, dead or alive, in order to avoid any suspicion of cruelty on the way." They are fed on dried salmon, rolled oats, and meal mush, and these are provided for them at the relay camps. To the high credit of the men of the Yukon, they are said to love their dogs with a love that passeth understanding; and when they come back from a journey "their arrival is greeted with mighty shouts of welcome. No wonder," says the writer whom I have been quoting, "business is at a standstill when these little Siberian dogs trot gaily home with harness jingling, as if thousand-mile jaunts were the easiest feats imaginable."

LABOR.

In 1920, out of every $1,000 received by railroads, $554 was paid in wages and salaries. In 1923, only $443.

The average railroad employe had also been working harder than in 1920, in common with the general public.

The charts, as issued by the railroads, show that the saving has largely gone into "net income."

MUSSOLINI HAS MANY MEETINGS IN EXPECTATION

Rome Pervaded by Air of Excitement on Momentous Day.

MANIFESTO ISSUED.

Riots at Pisa Deplored—, Catholic Newspaper Plant Wrecked.

ROME, Jan. 12. — (Canadian Press). — An air of suppressed excitement and expectation pervaded Rome to-day with the re-assembling of Parliament for consideration of Premier Mussolini's electoral reform bill. The Premier this morning is presiding over the Council of Ministers, at which a definite plan of campaign of the Government for the parliamentary session starting in the afternoon will be laid down. After this meeting the Premier will have scarcely time for lunch before going to the Chamber of Deputies for the first meeting of that body.

In the evening he is to preside over the Grand Fascist Council in the hall of consistory of the Palazzo Venezia. The meeting is expected to be one of the most interesting the Council has held, as it will lay down rules to be followed in upholding and applying Fascist principles in the light of the present political struggle.

Although no disorders are expected, the Government has taken precautions and will be ready to meet any eventualities. The police and carabineers are centering their forces at strategic points and increasing guards around the offices of opposition newspapers to prevent any violence against the plants by Extremist Fascisti. Deputies of the Aventine opposition have thus far kept the country in the dark as to whether they will abandon their policy adopted after the murder of Deputy Matteotti, of abstaining from attendance in the Chamber of Deputies.

The burning of the premises of a Catholic newspaper and other alleged Fascist excesses at Pisa, Italy, have drawn a violent protest from the clergy, according to a Rome despatch to the Daily Telegraph.

A manifesto signed by Cardinal Maff has been issued, according to the despatch, deploring the violence, especially the fact of its being directed against a Catholic paper, which has always held aloof from partisan strife. The manifesto expresses the hope that the distressing disturbance will cease and that peace will return to the nation.

ELECTION PROTEST HEARD COBOURG

Effort Made to Unseat Mr. George Thompson of the Town Council.

COBOURG, Jan. 10.—Since Monday when six of the seven candidates for the position of Councillor of the town of Cobourg were elected by the ratepayers, the lowest man, Dr. Adam Watson has filed a protest with Clerk A. W. Young against Mr. George Thompson, claiming the seat as next in succession. The ground for his complaint is that the town has a claim against Mr. Thompson on account of a bonus made to the shell factory when it was put in operation here during the early years of the war.

Mr. Geo. Thompson contends that as a matter of equity he does not owe the town anything, but has written a letter to the Town Council, asking that as the matter of the bonus has never been finally settled that action be taken to do so without delay. Mr. Thompson refers to the breaking out of the war and the establishment of the shell factory here in a building owned by him, and of the expense which he had in extending the building, putting in the plant and installing a heating plant; it was then that he asked for a bonus from the town. The agreement was if the shell company should pay out in wages $75,000 the bonus should be considered paid. He states that the shell factory paid out in wages while they were in operation approximately $400,000. The agreement also was that $1,000 a year should be written off the $5,000 bonus each year. This was actually done for three years but before the fourth year came around, the war was over and the matter in a way was dropped. Mr. Thompson stated there was another $1,000 actually earned which was not written off and claims that according to the actual intention the whole amount should be written off.

Robert Stevenson, for many years teamster for Hamilton Township Council, as he has operated the grader for that municipality, was found by Mr. West Minifie at his home north of Baltimore lying on a couch that had been drawn up beside the fire. He lived alone and had been seized with a stroke. Mr. Stevenson died the following morning. It is not thought that he was stricken long before he was found. His wife died many years ago, and also two children. He leaves a brother, David Stevenson, of Harwood, and several sisters. Rev. F. McCurd conducted the funeral and the interment was at Bethesda Cemetery, near Harwood.

I did so, and after giving her a few doses I saw good effects so I kept on with it. I gave her two bottles, and her cough soon left her, and now she is as well as can be. I cannot praise 'Dr. Wood's' enough; it is certainly a wonderful medicine."

OLDEST TYPE OF LAND LIGHTHOUSES

First One Was Erected in 1751 in England—Again Being Built.

Perhaps the oldest type of land lighthouse was the large beacon used to give warning of the approach of the enemy. One such was placed on Windmill Hill, near Woodford, in Essex, and, visible from the heights of Hampstead, it served as an announcement to Londoners of the landing of marauding Danes.

Later an elaboration of the beacon was employed in dangerous districts as a guide to travellers. The best-known of this variety was erected in 1751 on Lincoln Heath, a treacherous waste twenty miles square, devoid of made roads, signposts, or inclosing hedges, by Lord de Despenser, and known as Dunston Pillar. A lofty tower 100 feet high, it acted as a signpost by day and a beacon by night, saving the lives of many lonely wayfarers.

After some 59 years, however, a good road was made across the wilds, so in 1810 a colossal stone statue of George III. was erected in its place.

Another guide of this type was placed near London, on Monken Hadley Church, near Barnet. Taking the form of an iron fire-pot or cresset, and hung on the angle turret, it showed the way to travellers through the deeply wooded districts of Enfield Chase.

A much more elaborate affair is the lantern which still stands on the tower of Great Weldon Church, in the Rockingham Forest part of Northamptonshire, which shone every night through the tangled forest brakes.

Since the war the land lighthouse has come into its own again, and it seems destined in the near future to play a great part in the world's traffic system. Aerial lighthouses are being erected, so that in time it will be possible to circle the globe in the air along an illuminated way.

Croydon's Cone, which appears as a triangular patch of light, has a flashing visibility of 32 miles. Tatsfield Hill is an automatic acetylene gas operated house of 70,000 candle-power, with a range of 35 miles; while the largest lighthouse in the world has been acquired by the French Government for erection on Mont Afrique, near Dijon, to regulate the traffic between Paris and Italy. It has a candle-power of a billion, and has a range of 100 miles in average weather, 130 miles under very clear conditions, and 250 miles from very great altitudes.

Road traffic no less has undergone vast improvements by the installation of beacons of a less ambitious type. Small lighthouses with automatic acetylene illumination have been placed on American highways to warn motorists of curves and cross-roads, while at Wrotham Heath, near Sevenoaks, is the first English representative. An illuminated signpost, it gives a vivid flash every two seconds.

It would not, then, seem unduly optimistic to forecast a system of "speed landways," with cars running at rates hitherto confined to Brookiands and, guided by land lighthouses, entirely free from all the present dangers which lurk at cross-roads, junctions, blind corners, and side-roads hidden by high hedges.

GAMBLERS.

Wall Street Journal describes Citroen, the big French auto manufacturer, plunging at the card tables of the Deauville Casino: "He played with chips rose-colored and with 100,000 francs neatly engraved on each. The rosy tint would only rise to his cheeks when stakes were well over 1,000,000 francs. Opposite him sat Zagrophos, the young Greek shipbuilder, who in less than an hour and a half won 5,000,000 francs from Citroen. The young Greek was obviously bored, and complained of the grippe."

Your mind jumps back to impoverished Europe. The contrast is ghastly, monstrous.

BRITAIN LEADS IN LIGHT AEROPLANES

Stated to be Two Years Ahead of Any Other Nation.

"I have been astounded at the result of the two-seater light aeroplane competition," said a member of the Air Council and one of the greatest aviation experts in England. "In this branch of aviation we are two years ahead of any other nation."

The competitions for two-seater light aeroplanes driven by engines no bigger than those fitted to some motor-bicycles ended at Lympne Aerodrome, near Hythe, England.

The winner of the prizes for speed, taking off, and pulling up were:—

Air Council's $10,000.—Mr. Maurice Piercey (Beardmore monoplane).

Air Council's $5,000 and Duke of Sutherland's $2,500.—Mr. C. F. Uwins (Bristol Brownie).

Captain C. B. Wilson's $500.—Mr. F. P. Raynham (Sygnet I. biplane).

Grosvenor Challenge Cup.—Mr. Bert Hinkler (Avro Avis biplane).

The Honeymoon Express, the Cranwell Light Aeroplane Club's side-by-side seater, won two prizes of $750 each for reliability, given by the Society of Motor Manufacturers and Traders, and the British Cycle and Motor-Cycle Manufacturers and Traders' Union. The high officers of the Air Ministry have been deeply impressed by the performances. Now that the dual-control two-seater aeroplane, driven by a small engine, has been shown to be practicable, the scheme for forming light aeroplane clubs will be pushed forward by the Air Ministry.

"No more efficient aeroplane than the Beardmore aeroplane (which won the chief prize) has ever left the earth," stated Lt.-Col. W. A. Bristow, the aeronautical consulting engineer, who kept the records of the competitions.

"Margin of speed is a very good standard of efficiency in an aeroplane, and this machine has a very wide margin. It can fly at about 90 miles an hour, and also under 40 miles an hour. It can rise from the ground quickly and pull up slowly.

"With a two-gallon tin of petrol a light aeroplane will take two people from London to Eastborune in an hour."

The little group of R.A.F. officers at Cranwell Aerodrome who had made the Honeymoon Express with the assistance of some mechanics had spent nearly every penny of their own money on it. The wife of the pilot, Flight-Lieut. N. Comper, had given up her dress allowance to assist in the purchase of the engine.

Describing its construction, one of the officers concerned said the machine was designed by the pilot, Flight-Lieut. N. Comper. "He made the drawings and helped the rest of us to build the machine.

"This occupied us about a year at Cranwell. We worked in our spare time and many of us have given up tave for the sake of the machine."

PRICES.

Prices are rising again, all over the world. In England the average of wholesale prices is 12 per cent. higher than a year ago. So on, in various countries. It means higher cost of living for the world's people. But it also means increased incomes for them—and easier payment of war debts.

Low cost of living and prosperity have been divorced.

A strong hive of bees will number sixty thousand individuals. A wasp's nest averages about four thousand insects.

SEEK NEW FUEL SUPPLY TO REPLACE GASOLINE

Enormous Use of Gasoline Threatens Its Extinction in Ten to Twenty Years—Benefits of Alcohol and Other Substitutes Explained.

By D. H. KILLEFFER,
Secrteary New York Section American Chemical Society.

Within the lifetime of most of the present drivers of automobiles there will be no more gasoline. It is a serious thing to contemplate, particularly from the standpoint of the manufacturer. Estimates based on the most complete data now available place the end of our gasoline supply between ten and twenty years, with the odds in favor of ten rather than twenty. Despite all the efforts that are being made by the refiners to bring in new wells and to improve their refining methods to yield greater returns, the efficiency of the sales forces of automobile manufacturers continues to increase the quantity of gasoline consumed.

The problem is less vital to the operator of automobiles at present than it is to the manufacturer. The general public may rest calmly on the more or less obvious assurance that, so long as money is provided to pay for what it wants in a general way, means will be found to meets its requirements. The general public is not necessarily committed to the gasoline-operated automobile for its transportation. It need not worry if it should become more economical in the future to fall back on steam or on electricity to get itself and its goods from one place to another. Even horses might again come into use in such a way as to supply the necessary transportation.

The problem of the automobile manufacturer is different. It compares more closely with that faced by the brewers and distillers of a few years ago. Immense investments of capital are required of the manufacturers to produce the necessary machinery to consume gasoline and to produce transportation. The automobile manufacturer cannot afford to rest calmly on any kind of assurance of substitutes being provided, for there is good reason to believe that such substitutes may assume an entirely different form from that which he is now prepared to utilize.

To a great extent the increase in automobile traffic will continue to somewhat higher levels and there can be no possible question that mounting costs of fuel will ultimately bring about an actual decrease in the utilization of automobiles as we know them now. To prevent this and to assure the permanence of his investments the manufacturer must look to his future. It is true that the refiners of gasoline are actively at work planning their part of the future, but it is equally true that their interest ceases when they have found a market for their products.

In a very real way the problem of the future of the automobile becomes mutual as between these two groups, and it is unquestionable that the successful solution of it will come ultimately from close co-operation between them and such other groups as it may be necessary to call in. A single group of refiners and another single group of manufacturers are working together, but no general co-operation between these two interdependent groups has yet been achieved.

Future Fuel Development.

Work on the major problem has so far resulted in the development of three principles which may be taken as fundamental and upon which future developments may be based. These may be stated as follows:

The end of petroleum and of gasoline as we now know them is actually imminent, and whatever may be done to forestall it will not prevent its coming entirely.

Of the possible substitutes for gasoline for use in motors not essentially different from the present ones, none at present available can do more than delay the inevitable end for at most a few years.

That a usable substitute may be found cannot be doubted, but no more can it be doubled than the eventual substitute will come, not as a result of the sudden inspiration of a single man, but rather as the result of long and careful search by groups of men and by their careful co-operation with capital and labor. It will be necessary either to build an entirely new industry or at least to revise essentjally some of those now in existence.

When one stops to consider the manner in which the automobile industry came to be, the present situation and the reasons for some of its peculiarities become apparent. It may be presumed to have resulted from a train of circumstances which followed the discovery of a black, unpleasant oil by Colonel Drake exuding from a spring in Pennsylvania. There seems to be little relation between the two things, but it is much closer than appears on the surface. The natural conclusion on finding something unpleasant in Colonel Drake's day was that it should be used as a medicine, and so it was for a time until it was found that it burned well and there was plenty of it.

Whale oil, at that time the main dependence of many people for light, was becoming too expensive, and so this newly found "rock oil" or petroleum was seized upon as a substitute for use in lamps. Some lamps exploded with disastrous results, and it was necessary to remove the explosive constituents from the kerosene before it could be safely used. These explosive constituents were gasoline, and for many years nothing could be done with it. Finally the internal combustion engine was developed and the demand for gasoline has risen ever since.

The primary development of the automobile was designed to consume an otherwise waste product, and it is only now, when petroleum reserves are beginning to dwindle, that it has been necessary for the builders of automobiles to consider seriously the efficiency of their engines. If the industry is to continue ways must be found for increasing the life of our oil reserves, and this can only be done by increasing the efficiency of the machines using oil.

Enormous Gasoline Use.

According to estimates recently made by the United States Geological Survey, our production of crude petroleum in the present calendar year will approach 720 millions of barrels, and this has only to be compared with the 1920 production of 443 millions of barrels or the 1915 production of 281 millions of barrels to obtain a very definite idea of the handwriting which is already on the wall. It must be noted, too, that consumption in this country exceeds production and we are constant importers of petroleum. We may also consider figures on the increased production of gasoline, which took the unprecedented jump from 1,100,000,000 gallons in 1913 to 7,500,000,000 gallons in 1923, the last year for which complete figures are available.

In the light of such increasing demands for petroleum and gasoline there is reason for alarm, but there is also a hopeful aspect in the situation. While in 1913 eight gallons of crude oil were required to produce a gallon of gasoline, in 1923 only a little more than three and a quarter were needed. This change has been brought about by the widespread introduction into refineries of the so-called "cracking processes" of distillation, by means of which the gasoline produced is increased at the expense of the kerosene and other heavier constituents of petroleum.

The introduction of these methods of improved practice has taken place almost entirely within the past five years, and although this has been done rapidly the end is not yet. Not all of our refineries are operating under efficient cracking processes, nor are those processes the most efficient possible in the light of continued research for better ones. There is reason to believe that revolutionary developments may be made within the next few years.

The possibility of new wells being brought in is also somewhat hopeful, but however optimistic one may be, he must ultimately realize that few regions of the world have not already been carefully combed for possible petroleum.

The development of efficient methods of recovering "natural," or casinghead, gasoline from natural gas has done much, and probably will do more, to eke out the gasoline supply. Here there are two definite economies involved. Natural gas which might otherwise be wasted is stripped of its valuable constituents for motor fuel, resulting in a very light grade of gasoline which cannot be used alone as a fuel. This adds materially to the total amount of gasoline, and by mixing it with low-grade gasoline that approaches very near to kerosene in its properties it adds to the quality of petroleum products available for use in internal-combustion engines.

These methods of adding to the gasoline supply are of great value, but they do not strike at the real root of the problem. We hear nowadays many boasts by automobile manufacturers that their cars will do so many miles per gallon. Perhaps it is twenty or twenty-two, or at least some figure in that vicinity, for these are still figures to boast of. One never hears any mention of the actual efficiency of the car—that is, the ratio between the work which it will do and the energy contained in the fuel supplied to it.

Motor Efficiency Problems.

Low efficiency is a heritage from the first automobiles, and although every manufacturer realizes that his car's efficiency is nothing to brag about, by the same token he realizes that his competitors' products are no better. This miles per gallon method of stating efficiency was a direct result of an effort to hide the fact that even the best automobile engines have an actual efficiency in utilizing the power supplied them of only a very few per cent. Even admitting the miles per gallon method of stating performance, one has but to turn to European countries, where gasoline is several times as expensive as here, to find cars operating with the consumption of a gallon of gasoline per thirty-five to sixty miles. The idea there has been to build light cars with efficient engines, and it cannot be gainsaid that we in the United States must soon come to that if we are still to have our automobiles.

It has been estimated that the energy contained in a single gallon of present-day gasoline is sufficien to run a Ford automobile 480 miles on a level paved road! The possibilities which rest in improved engine design, in improved carburetion, and in alterations in the design of cars to minimize weight are perfectly obvious when it is realized that the ordinary Ford car would probably go not more than thirty miles under average conditions and that ordinarily twenty miles per gallon is considered good performance.

The adaptation of gasoline motors to operate at high compressions may be expected to result in real economies in operation. The most efficient of the internal combustion engines at present in use involves the Diesel principle—that is, liquid fuel is sprayed directly into compressed air in the cylinder at such a temperature that the fuel ignites. These engines are necessarily heavy and to get their full efficiency must be operated at constant slow speeds which are not possible in motor cars. It is possible, however, that electric transmission and the use of storage batteries, to take up the generated power not required by the machine and make it available for use at other times of overload, will make some adaptation of such a motor practicable. It is also possible that an entirely new motor may be devised operating under high compressions which will be practicable in the automobile.

In striving toward this ideal, a high compression engine which may be operated at good efficiencies under automobile conditions and which is lighter than the heavy Diesel engines, efforts have been directed toward use of such substance as tetraethyl lead and others to be added to the fuel before it is supplied to the engine. It is possible that the poisonous character of the fumes generated by engines using this lead compound may make necessary the finding of some other substance which will serve the purpose without them. The increase of efficiency following the use of such a compound in the fuel is generally admitted.

The use of the light nonferrous alloys, whose principal constituents are magnesium and aluminum, for the parts of automobile engines may also result in considerable fuel economies. The development of aircraft has brought about great advances in this field, but there is still much to be done before such alloys can be made practicable as substitutes for iron and steel in the engine of an automobile.

Of substitutes which may be used immediately in present-day motors there are very few which offer anything like the quantities necessary to replace gasoline entirely. Without considering the wild claims of occasional inventors of mysterious substances, five types of substitutes offer themselves.

Shale oil and the possibility of recovering quantities of it by the distillation of mountains of shale in the Far West offer promise. This oil is much like petroleum and may be considered identical with it for our present purposes. The essential difference is that petroleum exists so in nature, while shale oil is so closely combined with the rocks in which it occurs that it can only be got out by distillation. This distillation is a costly process and consequently it will be necessary to get higher prices for the product before it can be produced at a profit. The mining and distillation of shale must attract capital running into many millions before this source can be relied upon to save to us our present-day gasoline-operated automobile.

Even more important as related to the problem is alcohol (that is, ethyl alcohol). It is at present produced by fermentation of malted grain and in greater quantities by the fermentation of molasses. The price of grain is a limiting factor in production from this source and the quantity of molasses available as a by-product of the sugar industry is a more or less limiting factor from that source. The peak of alcohol production in this country from all sources was reached in 1917, with the production of 202,000,000 gallons. This was reached only under the pressure of war conditions, and even then the quantity was almost negligible when compared with the consumption of gasoline.

Alcohol has proved very efficient when mixed with gasoline as a motor fuel and it has the great advantage that, unlike gasoline, its use does not involve the production of poisonous carbon monoxide in the exhaust gases. The problem of its general use in motors involves, primarily, a source from which such immense amounts as would be required may be produced. Crops which can be produced in the tropics in large quantities to yield sugar, starch or, in a pinch, cellulose, would be possibilities.

The use of tropical lands for the production of motor fuel would have the advantage that the supply could be fully replenished from year to year, with no prospect of ultimate famine. Here, too, the investment of immense sums of capital would be involved, but already it is possible to utilize alcohol in motor fuel to replace part of the gasoline and sell the product at a profit in competition with regular gasoline. As the price of gasoline is gradually forced up through increasing scarcity, there is no question that the gradual development of alcohol production will supply larger proportions to our motor fuel.

The third possible substitute which offers itself is coal-tar benzene. This, too, is already in use as a substitute for gasoline and its price is now regulated by that of gasoline. In speaking of benzene, it is used as a generic term and includes several related compounds obtained from the distillation of coal, such as toluene and xylene. They offer little in the way of future possibilities in anything like the volume of production which must be attained if they are to be a ruling factor in the situation. At the peak of production under war stress there were produced only 165,000,000 gallons of this material.

Compressed gases, such as acetylene, ethylene, natural gas, producer gas and so on, may become considerable factors in the situation, but their use will involve radical changes in the make-up of motors and they must be got from some source which is not inexhaustible. Acetylene is made from calcium carbide, which requires coke for its production. Ethylene may be made from alcohol, but, if so, its cost will be too great to make its use economical. Natural gas is related to petroleum and may possibly give out in the same way as petroleum. Producer gas may be made from a variety of materials, but its economical production depends upon coal. The idea of the use of any of these gaseous products needs further study and there is doubt as to whether they offer practicable solutions to the problem.

In considering all of the possibilities, the solution of the greatest problem seems to lie in the development of tropical crops from which alcohol may be cheaply produced in quantity without draining any of our natural reserves.

BRITON HITS UNTIDY RICH OF AMERICA

Describes His Impressions of Conditions in N.Y., Washington and Chicago.

LONDON, Jan. 12.—"My impressions of New York will always be of 'untidy prosperity,' of a people working feverishly, living hectically, straining nerves to the utmost tension, erecting skyscrapers of forty or fifty storeys or more in height, of which they are justly proud—but neglecting to sweep and keep clean the side streets."

These are the opinions written back to Reynolds' Newspaper in London by Cornelius T. Cramp, chairman of the British Labor Party, while on a visit to the United States and Mexico as fraternal delegates from the British Trade Union Congress to the convention of the American Federation of Labor. He continues:

"Compared with European standards, wages are very high. Bricklayers work on day rates, which are at present fixed at $12 a day, but the cost of living is very much higher than it is in Britain.

$40 a Common Rental.

"Forty dollars a month is quite a common rental for four or five rooms in a tenement house, and the housing question is apparently more acute in America than it is in England.

"New York is a maelstrom of movement. We were caught in it through our American friends, and were then whirled off on a five-hour journey to Washington

"The Capitol is in the centre of the city; streets and all life radiate from it. It is a beautiful city; the only blot on its fair face is the long line of motor cars—mostly Fords—packed in almost all the streets. Looking down on them from a height, they appeared to me like battalions of black beetles.

"A contrast with English customs was our interview with the President of the United States, Calvin Coolidge—'Silent Cal' he is laconically called by his fellow countrymen.

"We did not have to go through the rigmarole and red tape associated with a visit to high members of the British Government. President Coolidge we found to be a tall, pale, quiet man, who showed traces of his recent serious illness, and whose only emblem of authority was the American flag planted near his desk.

"He was very cordial and gave us a courteous greeting, asking about our mission. Particular interest was shown by him in our unemployment problem, and he asked what we thought should be done to solve it. What appealed to us was the lack of fussiness and pomp about all the proceedings at the executive offices in Washington; it was, indeed, a change from the red tape of England.

A Day in Chicago.

"We had a day in Chicago. I am glad we have no counterpart of Chicago in England. We were rushed round the city on an elevated electric railway, a screeching monster of steel; then to the famous stockyards, miles upon miles of them. How their scenes and smells would revolt the heart of a vegetarian!

"From the stockyards we were taken on a voyage of exploration of the streets. They were narrow, uneven streets, even more badly congested with traffic than in London.

"We saw mile after mile of slums. They call Chicago the 'Windy City,' and the chill blasts sweep along these mean streets as they do in Auld Reekie, biting to the bones the poor inhabitants, who are mostly foreigners.

"The hand of the cranky Puritan lies heavy on the land. Besides the lack of liquor, we found we could not smoke in cinemas and we were told that attempts are being made to prevent or restrict the sale of liquor."

FRENCH AMBASSADOR

Says Credit in Russia Can be Easily Re-established.

MOSCOW, Jan. 12. — (Canadian Press). — Jean Hearbette, the first French Ambassador to Soviet Russia, arrived yesterday and was met at the station by Samuel Kahn, chief of the Anglo-Roman Department, a representative of the Foreign Minister's Office.

When interviewed, the Ambassador hinted that the question of Russia's war debt was a barrier to the best relations between the two countries. M. Herbell was reminded that Russia could not pay her debts unless credits were advanced to her, and he replied: "The recognition of the debts by Soviet Russia would of itself be the means of re-establishing credits."

MY MORMON MARRIAGE SECRETS WHEN I LIVED IN ELDERS' HOUSE

Experience Which Befell English Girl in Salt Lake City.

BY OLIVE BAXTER

Mormonism and Its Mysteries Unveiled to the Public.

With the recent arrival in England of several young men missionaries, Mormon activity in Europe has received a stimulus. A big push, it is stated, is to take place to establish more churches in the Midlands. Birmingham, according to Dr. James E. Talmage, chief Mormon missionary in Europe, has proved to be the best centre in the country from which to obtain converts to Mormonism.

In this remarkable new series, "My Mormon Marriage"—a real life romance of unusual fascination and power, the writer, Miss Olive Baxter, a former London chorus-girl, living in Brixton, unveils the mysteries of Mormonism. Olive Baxter, it may be mentioned, after being converted in England by a Mormon missionary, went to Salt Lake City, the Mormon capital. Her subsequent experiences are related with convincing vividness, the whole forming a real revelation of the much-discussed doctrines and practices of Mormonism.

Olive was in the chorus of a travelling company, and experienced the usual vicissitudes of the girl behind the footlights. While playing in England she was attracted one day to an open-air gathering, and by the strange workings of Fate, was brought into contact with the magnetic Mormon missionary, whose invitation she accepted to visit him at his lodgings. An expert in the art of love, he wooed her gently, while his lips preached the gospel of Mormonism. Olive eventually entered the Mormon fold and embarked on her long journey to Salt Lake City.

I am not going to inflict upon the reader any more about my life in England after I left the chorus and was baptised into Mormonism. This is a narrative of my experience in Salt Lake City; sufficient to say that for some weeks I resided in the house of Mrs. Scott, and got light employment by doing fancy needlework for big drapers.

It was a curious, and rather disturbing experience, to live in the same house as Elder Belt. But let me make this plain. After I was received as a Mormon, his conduct to me was propriety itself. He taught me carefully the principles of the faith, expounded the "truths" of Mormonism with glowing fervour, but beyond this he did not pass.

Picture of Ideal Life.

True. I felt that there emanated from him the warmth of a concealed fire of passion, held in check by a strong will; and there were times when I saw in his dark eyes an expression that thrilled me.

But there was a barrier between us placed there deliberately by himself. It is only right that I should do him the justice to recognise it.

He often painted pictures of life "In Zion." He would describe the happy life of the brothers and sisters in Salt Lake City and other towns in the State of Utah.

"Life in England," he would say pensively, "is difficult. One feels a stranger in a strange land. But there—it is indeed the ideal life. All of one faith. All bonded in holy love. All working for the common good of the Church!"

His enthusiasm infected me. I felt I wanted to join those saints he pictured so vividly. I had nothing to keep me in England except the difficulties of getting to "Zion," for I had hardly any money, and, if I reached there, how was I going to live? I mentioned this to the "Elder" one day. He took up the point with grave earnestness.

"Sister," he said, "you have not yet grasped the splendid organisation of the Church. It is not a matter of money or of fleeting circumstances, whether you go to 'Zion' or not. If the 'call' comes for you to leave England and join the saints, your passage will be arranged for you by our Emigrants Bureau in Edge Lane, Liverpool. When you arrive in Salt Lake City you will not be the sport of chance, but everything will be done for you until you are in a position to earn your living or"—he paused and looked curiously at me—"until you are 'sealed' as a wife to a good Mormon."

All this, as I afterwards found, was perfectly true. "System" is the keynote of Mormonism.

His phrase, "sealed to a Mormon brother," stuck in my mind. Exactly what did it mean? I was doubtful, but one evening, when as usual he was discanting on the life over the water, I asked him boldly:

"Elder Belt, what does 'sealed' mean? Does it mean married?"

Promise of Good Home.

He gazed at me steadily before replying. Then he said softly:

"To be 'sealed' is to be married. Yes, undoubtedly! To be given to some good man who will care for you and give you a good home. What more can you desire?"

I was silent. Maidenly modesty prevented me from pressing the subject. But the expression, "given to a good Mormon," irritated me.

Suddenly I received a "call" to go overseas, and after an uneventful journey I arrived in Salt Lake City, where I was soon installed in a beautifully clean and comfortable apartment house—No. 165 Union Square, opposite the Union Hotel, kept by a Mormon widow named Mrs. Haff.

She was a Danish convert, and had been thirty years in Salt Lake City. I liked her clean, smiling face, and felt at home with her at once. And when I had had a bath and a change of clothes, I was able to reflect gratefully on the wonderful Mormon organisation that had given me such a comfortable journey and found me such a nice apartment.

That evening at seven we all dined together. There were ten boarders, half of whom were men. I looked at them with shy curiosity. But what struck me most forcibly was the utter absence of the religious element. I had expected to be submerged in religion—to hear nothing but Mormonism; yet the main part of the conversation was a spirited discussion about a new revue at the Orpheum Theatre that a young man with a wealth of hair and a loose tie described as "flyblown," and a young girl in a "shirt-waist" acclaimed as a "peach," while another battle broke out, with the arrival of the rice pudding, regarding the new "Charlie Chaplin" photo-play at the Imperial Picture House.

That was my first lesson. Salt Lake City is a very human city and its powerful religious life is submerged. If you read hectic writing about the supposed open religious life of Utah's cities and towns, with stories of fearful girls held captive by fierce Mormons, depend upon it the writer has never lived in the Mormon capital or been to the State of Utah.

After dinner the boarders dispersed, and I was glad to chat with Mrs. Haff. She dispersed some very dry and pertinent wisdom.

"My dear," she said, "as a newly-arrived convert you will stay here for a day or two to rest after your journey. Then the church Revelator will send you a message to wait upon him. At that interview your qualifications will be found and will be examined and suitable employment will be found for you. Then you will be received again into the Church by the Initiation Ceremony in the Endowment House. After that you may be 'sealed.'"

Problem of Polygamy.

I look at her, startled. She gave me a quizzical look, and continued:

"Oh, I suppose, like most English converts, the word 'polygamy' strikes and sticks in your mind. Cut it out! We respect the U.S. law here, and nobody wants to go to prison."

"Then," I questioned eagerly, "all the talk about Mormonism involving polygamy is a cruel lie on the part of our enemies?"

She tightened her lips. The look of Mormon stubbornness that I grew to know so well hardened her face. It became that of the well-drilled fanatic. Finally, she said carefully:

"Sister Thompson, a soldier is taught obedience. So is a Mormon woman, and it's a mighty hard proposition. Flesh and blood does not like being stamped upon, but sometimes our faith demands it."

She rose and fetched a faded photograph. It was that of a pretty young girl with a rather simpering expression of face. By her side was an elderly man, bearded and bald.

Mrs. Haff continued:

"I was 'sealed' to my husband twenty years ago. That was a proper marriage, for we had a legal ceremony as well. It was a childless union. Don't you understand the teaching of Mormonism as laid down by Brigham Young?"

My face grew hot. My eyes fell before the pain mirrored in the eyes of Mrs. Haff.

"A Mormon is commanded to raise up tabernacles. I am not a clever talker, so I put it bluntly: he is ordered by the Church to become a father."

I began to understand that the surface and the hidden life of Utah were widely different.

Zion is not exclusively populated by Mormons, the percentage being about seventy-five Mormons to twenty-five "Gentiles"—as any who do not subscribe to Mormonism are called.

Of course, the original idea was to populate a city with an entire Mormon community, and for this reason, Brigham Young chose the Valley of the Salt Lake. But the gold rush to California, sixty or more years ago, brought a torrent of humanity flowing through what is now the State of Utah, and the early Mormons made rich harvests through the sale of the necessities of life to the prospectors.

Many of these gold-seekers, not making a fortune from gold, returned and settled in the newly-planted Salt Lake City, while others founded the Coronne, sixty miles north.

The Gentile element of Salt Lake City resented the open polygamy practised by the faithful, for at this period Brigham Young had one legal wife and thirty-one "Celestial" attachments. Eventually, the attention of Congress was drawn to this state of affairs, and, after some delay, the Utah Indian lands were surveyed, and became one of the American States.

Strangely enough, Brigham Young became the first governor of the State. Refusing to give up polygamy, a civil war threatened, the U.S. authorities assembling an Expeditionary Force ready to cross the Rockies, while the Mormons, fired with fanatical zeal, rushed to arms. In the end, diplomacy prevailed, and the young State was left very much to its own devices.

Thus, for years polygamy was openly practised, and I met many old Mormon men and women who remembered those days with affection. In 1896, Congress passed a series of laws providing heavy penalties for "Religious Bigamy" in Utah; and from this time the immoral practices of the Mormons were driven underground—they could not be eradicated, for they were an essential part of their religion.

Thus there grew up the fashion of the "Spirit" marriage, a mere cloak in most cases for the covert practice of polygamy.

Real Basis of Mormonism.

But why, it may be asked, the necessity for these "spirit" marriages, with their long train of evils that result?

I put this question to an Elder, and as near as possible I give his answer. The accuracy of it can be proved by a reference to the Book of Mormon.

"Dear sister," he said, "you have touched upon a great mystery. It was revealed in a trance to Joseph Smith, the revered founder of our faith, that the air around us is crowded with spirits of the departed—not deliberate and continued sinners, but those who never had the opportunity in life of hearing our blessed gospel of Mormonism.

"They may have yet another chance to gain eternal salvation. They await, these longing souls, another earthly body or tabernacle, that, happily being born again into the world, they may find grace."

He paused, and his eyes glowed with the fire of the fanatic. "Therefore," he cried, "it is our duty, our sacred duty, to raise up these earthly tabernacles or bodies that Zion may be built up with sons and daughters."

This, then, is the outstanding foundation (or perhaps I should write, the morass of sensuality) upon which Mormonism is built. It arose from the uncontrolled desires of Brigham Young, and sin had to be justified, and thus was coined the monstrous theory of the 'soul-wife' doctrine.

THE WORLD ISN'T ROUND BUT FLAT AS A PANCAKE

And the World Fliers' Trip Says Pastor Voliva, Czar of Zion City, Proves His Contention

AMERICA'S world fliers did not fly around the earth. They flew across it, for the simple reason that the earth is not round, but flat.

The foregoing is the most recent scientific sensation propounded by Wilbur Glenn Voliva, successor of the evangelist Dowie, czar of the city of Zion, business man and fire-and-brimstone pastor.

For some years he has been declaring that the world is flat, but nobody paid him a great deal of attention. Now he is at it again.

He quotes Prof. R. A. Gregory, F.R.A.S., to substantiate his latest claim. "Circumnavigation in an easterly, or westerly, direction does not prove the earth to be globular. It has been pointed out that circumnavigation would be possible on a flat surface with the north magnetic pole as its centre," the quotation reads.

"It is absolutely wrong for teachers to tell school children that the world flyers have furnished conclusive evidence that the earth is a globe," he comments in an article which appeared in the New York World. "The Bible plainly and unmistakably teaches that the earth is a stationary plane and not a globe.

"There are many facts which agree with the teaching of the Bible, notably the fact that all standing water is level."

So much for the flatness or roundness of this our planet. It is not Mr. Voliva's only claim to fame. Voliva is a preacher whose religious views do not come within many miles of corresponding with the views of most ministers and people. It is quite natural that many should be opposed to any attempt to spread them broadcast.

But that is exactly what Voliva is doing. Some time ago he bought the most expensive plant a certain well-known firm would sell him. He is spending thousands annually to keep the plant in operation. With it he broadcasts his message of future punishment into the very homes of those who hate him most. They went to the radio inspector and requested that the man who was confidently predicting real brimstone, real fire, real torment and an actual hell be shut up.

But the inspector could not do it. Voliva's religious opinions are only one example of a great number of so-called peculiar ones, and the inspector could not afford to take sides.

He's a Fairy Godfather Barrie Now in New Role

Waved His Wand and an Unknown Little Movie Extra Became Famous Overnight

SIR JAMES BARRIE has just played the part of a fairy godfather. The Cinderella in the case is Betty Bronson, 17-year-old movie extra who has suddenly found herself thrust into the limelight, the spotlight and a variety of other lights. She is to play the title role in Barrie's "Peter Pan."

The story might as well commence at the beginning. Betty Bronson was beautiful and she knew it, which is not to be wondered at, as she was not blind. She looked at the photographs of movie stars and she looked at her own reflection in the mirror. "Little girl," she said to herself, "you're not half bad. I think you stand a good chance." Then and there she was bitten by the movie bug and there was not the slightest chance of recovery.

Sir James Barrie

A student of faces might say that Betty's beautiful eyes or her well-shaped nose or her chin or her lips or something show that the girl has a great deal of determination in her make-up. A declaration of that kind would be a safe assertion, for determination is one thing that Betty does not lack.

She played truant from school one afternoon to slip over to a Long Island movie studio and she sat and waited among the second Jackie Coogans, the old-time actors, the ten and one dozen different "types" who warmed the benches outside the casting director's office in the hope of picking up extra parts.

Her naivete and ingenuousness got her one. Her success in the first got her another. By this time, she had persuaded her mother, who was a widow, that the beautiful young daughter was slated for film fame. Mrs. Bronson auctioned and hocked the family lares and penates, left the other children with relatives, and the two headed for Hollywood.

But Hollywood proved to be a hard-boiled proposition. Its outstanding feature was people who wanted to be movie stars or even extras. Betty and her mother finally began to wonder if they were going to be able to eat regularly.

Betty heard that a certain director was looking for an actress to play the part of Peter Pan. She also heard that dozens of the queens of the celluloid strip were after the job hot-foot. And she joined the mob.

The director was kind-hearted. Betty's schoolgirl charm made quite an impression on him, as well. She was the exact opposite of the flapper, as fresh as a new-blown rose or something of that sort. He made a screen test. And when he was going over to England with screen tests of eighteen well known stars to let the author, Sir James Barrie, make his own choice, he said to himself, "Well, I might as well take the kid along," and he slipped Betty's screen-test in with the other eighteen.

Barrie looked at the tests, which included Lillian Gish and Gloria Swanson. It took him only a few minutes to settle the matter, and he picked Betty. She jumped from bottom of the ladder to the top in the time it takes to boil an egg.

AN angry man called at a newspaper office and furiously demanded to see the editor. He was told that the editor was out. "Where is he?" shouted the caller. "Out, sir," said the office-boy, "taking flowers to a man who called yesterday."

He Repairs the Injured Intellect And is Doctor of Sick Businesses

Werrett Charters Used to Play Marbles in Hagersville—Now His Books on Psychology Sell By the Hundreds of Thousands

WHEN the nineteenth century was just preparing to fade into the twentieth, professors of McMaster University, Toronto, were grappling with a veritable avalanche of questions from one of the most inquisitive students they had ever encountered. His thirst for knowledge was unquenchable. He absorbed facts in an orderly and business-like way and analyzed the problems of ancient history and present-day trigonometry with an exceedingly keen mind.

This student of the later '90's was Werrett Wallace Charters, now professor of education and director of the research bureau for retail train ing at the University of Pittsburgh, former incumbent of the chair of education in Illinois University and at one time professor of the theory of teaching and dean of the college of education at the University of Missouri. You will find copies of his books on sale in any book store and you could see them in hundreds of thousands of Canadian and American homes.

Dr. W. W. Charters

Dr. Charters began his very active career in Hagersville, Ontario, forty-eight years ago. He has been receiving and giving out education continuously since that date.

W. W. Charters arrived in Toronto with his eyes and ears wide open and the avowed intention of becoming a teacher. His career in McMaster was brilliant and he took his accumulated honors to the College of Education where the faculty proceeded to put on the finishing touches that would make him a full-fledged pedagogue.

But his natural inquisitiveness was by this time getting the better of him. He wasn't satisfied with analyzing the subjects that were being taught to him but he began to dissect the subject of teaching itself. He took the works to pieces and put them together. He watched how all the little wheels ran and wondered what would happen if they ran backward instead.

Naturally enough, he began to lean toward practical psychology and became an expert advisor in matters of education. He began to psycho-analyze not only education but also business, and, as was inevitable, people.

Now he is a consultant educationist who advises institutions just what changes are advisable in their methods of operation. He is a doctor of ailing egos who straightens out quirks in the human mind. He has repaired sick businesses and delved into salesmanship methods. He has applied practical business methods to education and done a bit of educating in so far as business is concerned.

Large firms send him executives in their employ to be analyzed. Noted business men consult him as they would a dentist and ask him to locate the cavities in their characters and tell them how to fill them. Just here, it is interesting to note that Dr. Charters considers lack of self-confidence to be one of the greatest existing troubles with the man of affairs of to-day.

"Many people who appear to have plenty of self-confidence and are even rated as egotists by their acquaintances, actually have fear in their hearts," he says in an interview published recently in the American Magazine. "Usually these people do not realize this. They think that their troubles often come because of the faults of other people."

Accompanying this article is a table showing in brief form the method which Dr. Charters employs in psycho-analysis. He lists twenty traits of character which he considers most essential to success. By means of this table, any man is enabled to give himself his own rating and find out for himself exactly where he stands.

Story Teller

SMALL Nephew: "Tell us about the time you were frozen to death at the North Pole, Uncle Jack."

Small Niece: "No, Uncle Jack; please tell us about the time you were killed and scalped by wild Indians."

Peace-maker

PRISONER: I was only acting the part of peacemaker.

Magistrate: But you knocked the man senseless.

I did. There was no other way to get peace.

How to Judge Your Own Ability

Dr. Wallace Charters, Famous Canadian Character Expert, Gives His System of Analyzing and Weighing One's Own Character—Also of Improving It

IN an interview which was recently published in the American Magazine, Dr. Wallace Charters, who has now become a sufficiently famous Canadian to be referred to generally as an American, gave his system of estimating one's own character and improving it.

Take the twenty questions listed below and give yourself a definite rating under each one, C for average, A or B if above average, and D or E if below. Then get a friend to do the same thing for you. Compare the ratings and then cultivate the traits in which you are weakest. Here are the questions:

1. Ambition: Have you the will to improve yourself? This means real will, not merely a vague, intermittent desire.

2. Industriousness: Have you the ability to drive yourself steadily?

3. Persistence and Patience: Look back over the various plans you have made during the past year; enumerate all you can remember, and see how many of them you have actually put through.

4. Dependability: Can you be relied upon to carry out plans assigned to you by other people? How many times in the past month have you failed to get work done within the period in which it should have been done?

5. Forcefulness: Do you give people the impression that you are capable and self-controlled? Are you self-reliant?

6. Effectiveness of Speech: Can you express your ideas clearly and convincingly?

7. Self-confidence: What are the things you have done of which you have a right to be proud? If you lack self-confidence think up at least half a dozen of these things.

8. Friendliness: Are you too critical in your judgment of other people? Make a list of six people whom you dislike, and analyze impartially your reasons for disliking them.

9. Adaptability: Do you find it easy to listen to what other people are saying? Are you keen to ask questions when people bring up new subjects or business plans? If so, you may be strong in this attribute. But if you are hardly able to wait for a chance to air your opinion you need to cultivate this trait.

10. Tact: Can you work in harmony with other people? Do other people like to be with you?

11. Cheerfulness: Do you depress other people, or are you a cheerful companion? When your affairs are not going well can you keep from showing it in your manner?

12. Good Judgment: Examine yourself particularly as regards initiative and resourcefulness. How many suggestions have you made to your employer in the past six months? How many of these has he approved?

13. Sensitiveness to Criticism: How do you take the criticisms, direct or implied, from employer, friends and associates?

14. Ability to Size Up People: Do you see only good in some people and only weaknesses in others? When you discover weaknesses in people, does this keep you from seeing their strong points?

15. Memory: Are you good at remembering names, faces and personal incidents about the people you meet?

16. Neatness: Are you painstaking in regard to your personal appearance?

17. Health Habits: This is not a matter of your endowment of physical health. Ask yourself whether your habits are those that make for or against good health, and how they tell on your working ability and mental attitude day by day.

18. Discrimination: Can you discriminate between more important and less important matters? Do you clog your daily routine with unnecessary work on comparatively unimportant details?

19. Economy: Do you save time and effort by doing things in the right and easiest way without waste motion?

20. Capacity to Delegate Work: Executives often fall short in this trait because they lack persistence of a certain kind or because of vanity or selfishness.

CANADIAN MINING MAN LIFTED THE MORTGAGE

But, Following His Usual Practice, J. P. Bickles Did Not Do It in the Usual Way

J. P. BICKLE, one of Ontario's best-known mining men, and now also somewhat of a theatrical magnate, was once indirectly responsible for removing the mortgage from the Haileybury Anglican Church.

Bickle, in company with another mining man, Harry Sims, now dead, had gone to Haileybury to attend the funeral of the vice-president of the Dome Mines. After the service, the two were chatting with the rector and the talk drifted to financial matters. The rector deplored the fact that the work of his church was hampered by the burden of a comparatively heavy mortgage.

Bickle's generosity is well-known, as is the fact that he is a great believer in the toss of a coin. One of his favorite phrases is popularly supposed to be: "We'll match to see whether I'll pay you double or nothing."

Bickle looked at his friend, Sims. "Well," he said, "which of us will it be?" Both reached in their pockets for coins with the rector in the background protesting vainly.

They matched and Bickle won. Sims paid off the church mortgage.

And that is the well-known story of the way J. P. Bickle paid off the mortgage on the Haileybury Anglican Church.

Soup Thermometer

DINER: This soup isn't hot enough.

Waiter: But, sir, I assure you it is. Wait until you taste it.

"I know it's not hot enough by the length of time you have kept your thumb in it."

"DO YOU DANCE, OFFICER?" "NO, I DON'T, BUT I'LL TRY"

THERE is nothing droller than the story of Mr. Bernard Shaw, who, returning to his home in Fitzroy Square after seeing the wonderful pirouetting of an Alhambra ballet, found the square empty and presenting such a magnificent hippodrome that he could not resist trying to go round just once as the dancer had done.

It proved frightfully difficult. At his fourteenth fall he was picked up by a policeman who, keeping fast hold of his man, asked, "What are you a-doing? I bin watching you for the last five minutes." Shaw explained eloquently and enthusiastically. The constable hesitated, and then said, "Would you mind holding my helmet while I have a try? It don't look so hard." The next moment his nose was grazing the macadam. It was my coat that tripped me," he said. So they both hung up their coats on the railing and went at it again—until an inspector arrived, and asked the policeman if that was his idea of duty. "I allow it ain't," said the constable, emboldened by his new accomplishment, "but I'll lay half a sovereign you can't do it." The inspector could not resist the temptation to try (Shaw was whirling round before his eyes in the most fascinating manner) and he made progress. They were subsequently joined by an early postman and a milkman, who, unfortunately, broke his leg and had to be carried to the hospital by the other three—according to Shaw.

Milk of the First Water

"THIS milk of yours has not been particularly good lately," said Mrs. Fratchie, one morning.

The milkman looked hurt.

"I can assure you, madam," he said, "this is milk of the first water."

Beauty and the Black Shirts

NOT all the Fascisti are grim-looking men in Napoleonic attitudes and black shirts. Some of Italy's greatest beauties are numbered among their ranks. Shown above, for instance are: LEFT, Madame Galleno, Italy's Mary Pickford and the first actress to join the Fascisti; RIGHT, Countess Piccolomini; greatest of aristocratic beauties who was a pioneer in the movement.

Sure Cure for Silence R. E. Knowles' Discovery

System for Making the Almost Dumb Talk So Good It Almost Leaves One Speechless

R. E. KNOWLES, well-known writer, tells this little incident which occurred during his recent visit to Europe. From the cut of their clothes and style of speech many Canadians are mistaken for their worthy friends to the south. While in London Mr. Knowles was a regular attender at the Authors' Club. His route from his home to the club took him past St. James' park, where the various regiments of Guards do patrol duty. One morning while passing a Life Guardsman on "sentry go" Mr. Knowles turned towards the soldier and said, "How de-do." He might as well have spoken to a block of marble. The next morning he again accosted the soldier with "Good morning, sir." A barber's pole would have made as much answer.

R. E. Knowles

Mr. Knowles was rather surprised at receiving no response, and as he turned away a rather bright thought struck him. Without stopping he looked towards his soldier friend and murmured, "We won the war." This must have been too much for Tommy Atkins, and before Mr. Knowles had taken another step back came his answer, "You did like ....."

N.B. Picked a Snowball To Help Make Its Laws

Looms Up in Politics Like One of His Own Seagoing Tugs in a Fog

WILLIAM BUNTING SNOWBALL, whom the electors of Northumberland county, New Brunswick, a short time ago returned as their representative in the House of Commons, is a member of a family that has for several decades been much in the limelight in respect to both business and politics in the provinces down by the sea.

The late Hon. Jabez Bunting Snowball, father of the new parliamentarian, many years ago established large lumber mills on the banks of the Miramichi, created a fleet of sea-going tugs that were recognized far and near by the huge snowball, indicative of ownership, that adorned their funnels, and in his spare moments took an active part in municipal, provincial and federal politics.

That William Bunting Snowball has, like his sire, a pronounced penchant for both business and politics is proved by his record. Early in life he entered the employ of his father's firm. And many are the journeys he has since taken to the markets of Europe to sell the products of its mills.

By the time he had reached middle life Mr. Snowball had "very little wool on the top of his head, the place where the wool ought to grow," exemplifying the old saying that "you can't have both hair and brains." But sparsity in this respect was not without its compensating features; it improved that in which he was already fairly strong, to wit, intellectuality in appearance. In fact, Mr. Snowball might quite readily be taken for an academician, a characteristic that, in part at least, may be ascribed to the influence on his scholastic career of the courses he took at Upper Canada College and the University of Toronto, to say nothing of the training he had at Chatham's grammar school.

Religiously, Mr. Snowball exercises his activities through the Methodist Church, while his pastimes are naturally what might be expected for one living on the banks of the Miramichi—the Micmac Indian name for "happy retreat"—namely, hunting and fishing.

That the Snowball clan is likely to supplement its long past by an indefinitely long future seems to be assured from the fact that the member-elect for Northumberland has five sons and two daughters.

LOOKS AS IF THE CHURCH IS MIXED UP IN POLITICS

DAVID ROBERTSON, K.C., the well-known lawyer of Walkerton, Ont., is one of the dominion's most thorough-going opponents of church union. He is also Scotch, as anyone may guess.

In the early days of October, when interest in the ecclesiastical question was somewhat tempered by the strenuous prohibition campaign then taking place in Ontario, Mr. Robertson met two Scotch gentlemen of his acquaintance while on a short visit to Wiarton.

Always anxious to do a bit of missionary work, he asked one of them, who happened to be slightly hard of hearing, "How do you stand on church union?"

"I'm against it. I'm going to vote for government control," was the unexpected reply.

WRITTEN 100 YEARS AGO AND IT IS TOPICAL TO-DAY

IN an issue of the London Examiner of more than a hundred years ago a satiric paragraph refers to the prevailing passion for personalities in newspaper reporting by the following statements about the Duke of Wellington:

"The Duke of Wellington generally rises about eight. While he is dressing he sometimes whistles a tune. He uses warm water in shaving, and lays on a greater quantity than the average man. While shaving he chiefly breathes through his nose, with a view, as it is conceived, of keeping the suds out of his mouth. The duke drinks tea with his breakfast, which he sweetens with white sugar and corrects with cream. He eats toast and butter, beef or eggs. The eggs are generally those of the domestic fowl."

Change the subject of this sketch to Edward, Prince of Wales, and we have something very similar to the reporting of the prince's doings during his visit "across the border."

WITH DEATH IN OFFING HE STICKS TO HIS WORK

Prof. Bergonie, Leading French Cancer Specialist, Dying of the Disease He Studied—One of 140 Martyrs

ONE of France's most famous scientists is lying in his home at Bordeaux dying. He is dying the death of a martyr, a death more fiendish than any Oriental torturer could ever devise, and he is dying happily. He knows now that life for him is only a matter of a few days, perhaps, but he is hard at work finishing a report on the work that is killing him.

The man is Prof. Bergonie, one of the world's greatest students of the disease, cancer, and the curative effects of radium on it. For years he has worked with radium and given relief to hundreds of patients, but, while he worked, he got radium burns on his fingers. Cancer set in, and the last of his experiments were carried out as the disease slowly crept up on him. He lost first his fingers, then his right arm. Now the end is in sight.

Two years ago his work won for him the Carnegie Gold Medal. To-day it is bringing him death.

It is just thirty years since Roentgen announced the discovery of the X-ray, but in that time there have been no less than 140 casualties among the men who have struggled to relieve human suffering by means of radium and the X-ray. Many of them have been unknown martyrs, young laboratory assistants, journeymen radiographers, obscure heroes whose names will be recorded with those of famous victims such as the late Antoine Henri Becquerel, who discovered radio-activity in the metal uranium; Dr. Albert-Schoenberg, the distinguished German scientist, and Dr. Eugene Wilson Caldwell, American pioneer in X-ray work and the man who perfected the "stereoscopic fluoroscopic screen" during the war, by means of which it was possible not only to locate bullets and bits of steel in the human body, but also to determine their exact depth.

It was the tricky and balky X-ray devices of earlier years which gave rise to most of the trouble. Scientists never knew till they had walked unwarned into the very jaws of an ugly death the dangers they had been encountering day by day.

Constant exposure to X-rays affected the skin and ultimately produced small growths known as "X-ray warts." They were not pretty to look at, but they were not painful. It was years later that scientists began to realize their ghastly significance when these warts began developing into cancers.

In discussing these tragedies radiologists and cancer specialists are careful to point out that radium and the X-ray are only indirectly responsible for the final appearance of cancer. Neither possesses any mysterious quality which is a specific cause of the disease.

To-day, science has made the operation of an X-ray machine or the handling of radium almost as safe as pounding a typewriter. With a new device, known as the Coolidge tube, the X-ray machine can be adjusted to the small fraction and, instead of sticking the b under the rays to test them—a practice w was largely responsible for the burns and —observations are made through special glass which shuts out the injurious rays.

Radium is kept inclosed in lead screen the safe dosage has now been definitel termined.

But science has taken its toll of the who labored to bring about these changes. roll of honor is a long one.

I'M GOOD CATH'LIC

By LAURA SHERRY

THE doctor say
That I'm goin' die next year,
Mebbe that's so.
I ain't got no fear;
But I dunno, someway it seem to me
That it can't be.
Why, there's my wife and little boy—
What they goin' do
If I'm goin' leave them now,
Jus' when things have begun to be?
Seigneur Dieu, what have I done
You treat me so?

The priest he say
That I must pray,
That they will pray for me in purgatory,
And then mebbe some day
I go to Heaven.
But there's my wife and little boy—
That's all I care.
By gar, I'm good Cath-lic
But things had jus' begun to be.
And there's my wife and little boy,
That's all I care.
Heaven is goin' to be hell
'Till they get there.

PARKDALE GAME TUESDAY NIGHT TO TEST PETES

Blue Shirts Have Heavy Engagement at Arena Against Toronto's Favorites.

PADDLERS STRONG

Regarded as the Team to Beat in Group—Petes Have Won Seven.

What will be one of the most important of the season's O.H.A. games will be staged at the Arena on Tuesday night when Peterboro and Parkdale clash in the second encounter of the season.

The Petes have won seven straight games since they opened fire on Niagara Falls in their first S.P.A. game and they are out to make the count stand at eight with a victory over the crack local division. For a team that was supposed to succumb in their first engagement, the newcomers to senior hockey have been the prize package of the season and on their form to date should trim the paddlers although Percy Scott's sextet are still favored to bring home the bacon in their group.

Paddlers' Few Games.

Parkdale have not played since their first game with Hamilton Rowing Club when a penalty gave them the break which helped to win the game, but they have been practicing faithfully and are out to reverse the S.P.A. verdict when they claim overconfidence made them victims to the good playing of the Lift Lock stalwarts. With Collett and McAllister in goal, Harris and Lount on the defense and Watson, Romeril and Jeffreys to do the attacking, the Paddlers certainly look good on paper. But it is on the hockey cushion that the games are won and the S.P.A. champions have been turning the trick with monotonous regularity.

Petes' Goalies Stands Out.

Now that Charlie Stewart has left the simon pures, the Petes have in Joe Dwyer as good a goalie as can be found in the confines of the O.H.A., while Parker and McLeod in front of him round out about the smartest defense. Bailey, Collins and Ranger may not be as smart a forward line trio as that of the Parkdale regulars, but when Rose and Burgess, the subs., are included, they should be able to hold their own with anything the paddlers can produce.

Aura Lee in Good Form.

If Parkdale have been left off the hockey horizon for a couple of weeks they can have no complaint about the manner in which they are being treated next week, as they come right back on Saturday night against Aura Lee and will have to be at their best to beat Marsden's team. In their two starts in the regular race the northenders have shown that they are quite capable of holding up their end with any aggregation and any team that is able to keep them down will know that it have ben through a battle. The blue shirts have one of the youngest teams in the senior series but they are all clever players and should improve with every appearance. In Moore, Shaw, Cain, Walkem, Bond, Clayton, Burke, Deniord and Morris, Marsden has a bunch of hustlers any of whom a senior team would be glad to have.

Both Out to Win.

Varsity and Hamilton will endeavor to break into the win column in their fixture in the Ambitious City on Wednesday night, and unless the students show considerable improvement over their games with Aura Lee, the Rowing Club team will mark up a victory. The Oarsmen have already combated what are considered the two best teams in the groups, and as they were able to extend both Parkdale and Peterboro to the limit to win they should be quite ready to entertain Conny Mac's brigade.

THRILL OF SEASON.

(From Toronto Telegram)

Peterboro and Parkdale here Tuesday night followers for O.H.A. hockey will get the of the season. For these two rather stick out in the senior Parkdale, with Harry Watand other Granite players, look too good for Aura Lee and sity, while the Petes have been ng along as if nothing would p them.

And then the way St. Pat's are fluvvering should rather bring the amateur game back where it belongs in public favor. To be sure the juniors have been drawing good crowds. These clubs either come from the colleges or have strong local followings, and anyway Toronto has always been strong for the youngsters.

But with the seniors a bit riddled by the piratical inroads of the pros' their games have hardly aroused the usual interest. The Pete-Parkdale game coming at the right time should start things going again and bring back to the amateurs the crowds their style of play entitles them to.

A GENTLEMANLY PLAYER

In commenting on the coming match between Kingston and Belleville to be played in the Limestone City on Monday next, the Standard says:

"And while on the subject of Belleville's hockey team, we want to take off our hat to Vernon Weir. A corking good shortstop, a most effective wing man and general, allround good sport, Weir is at all times a gentleman in the true sense of the word, and a credit to the game. Hockey would set its standards higher if there were more players of his calibre."

FORT PITT BEAT BOSTON

BOSTON, Mass., Jan. 11—Fort Pitt hockey team of Pittsburgh, climbed to within a half game of the Boston Athletic Association, leaders of the eastern wheel of the United States Hockey Association, by defeating B.A.A., 3 to 1, in a hard fought game here last night.

GOOD ADVICE.

The Kingston Whig carried the following yesterday:

Down at Brockville they are having trouble with the fans passing remarks to players on the ice that are anything but complimentary. There is only one course to take and that is to keep that class of fan from the rink altogether.

ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER.

FIVE STRAIGHT FOR SENATORS

Ottawa Played Polished Hockey in Defeating Montreal 4 to 0.

IN THIRD PLACE

OTTAWA, Jan. 12—(By Canadian Press).—Ottawa Senators took undisputed possession of third place in the National Hockey League here Saturday night when they decisively defeated the Montreal team by four to nothing. Scoring their third straight shutout, the locals ran their total of consecutive victories to five, and are now right on the heels of the league leaders in President Calders' circuit.

The winners gave a polished exhibition of hockey and after Hooley Smith had put them two goals up in the first period, they were never in danger. Montreal never stopped trying but the finished defence of the Senators thwarted their every attempt and after the visitors had worn themselves ragged against the stone wall opposition in the middle session, the Senators tacked on two more in the final twenty, to cinch the game.

Open Style of Game.

Both teams played hard, fast hockey throughout. The relentless attack of the locals did away with the customary defence game that is adopted when a safe lead is secured, and as a result the packed house that attended was treated to open hockey all the way. The heavy Montreal team tried desperately to overcome the close crecking and spirited attacking game that Ottawa elected to play but without success.

Nighbor, turning in a flawless games, was the pivot of the Ottawa team. Time after time, the long, sweeping poke check broke up Montreal rushes in mid ices and what escaped him was well looked after by the poke-checking Smith and the alert Denneny. Clancy and Boucher turned in high class exhibitions on the defence with Connell keeping his net clear for the third consecutive game.

Clancy was as brilliant as usual and afforded many thrills with his amazing speed. On several occasions he rushed with the puck, and after getting his shot away or losing the disc, would sweep back at terrific speed, to overhaul the Montreal puck carrier before he reached the Ottawa defence. Smith also revelled in this style of game, repeatedly coming back fast enough to catch the enemy attack and break up a rush or intercept a pass.

The Scoring.

Twelve minutes had elapsed with each goal threatened in turn before Hooley Smith started the scoring. He took a pass from Denneny in center ice, swung wide of the defence and crossed Benedict with a knee-high drive to the far corner of the net. Broadbent had a great chance a minute later, but Clancy caved the situation by flooring "Punch", although he got a penalty for his trouble.

In five minutes flat, Smith scored his second goal. He took Nighbor's pass going throught the defence at full speed, and raced in on Benedict. The long fellow elected a slide, but Smith outguessed him, waiting until he was down and then driving the puck over his prostrate form into the net. The clever effort earned a tremendous hand.

The second period went scoreless, but Boucher made it three to nothing four and a half minutes from the start of the final session. He came from end to end alone on a return from Dunc Munro's rush, faked a shot, sidestepped G. Munro and drove it past Benedict's guard.

In 12:45 Boucher repeated.. Dinsmore had rushed and sent away a wide shot. Boucher circled his own net and then wormed through the entire team. In the defence he was slowed down by G. Munro's body check, but retained his feet and the puck, and whistled a scorching goal across Benedict's pads from an almost impossible angle.

Lou Marsh of Toronto made a capable referee. He called back one goal scored by Nighbor on a pass from Denneny for offside, but there was no protest from the locals. He inflicted eight penalties, five to Ottawa and three to Montreal.

INDOOR PRACTICE WILL HELP GOLFER

Temptation to Follow Flight of Ball Does Not Exist and Pupil Profits Thereby.

LEFT TO RIGHT, GEORGIA DOMBERG, EVELYN BRONSON. Bathing suits, one-piece or otherwise, are more than ever a "Don't-go-near-the-water garment." In Cleveland they are the styl for indoor golf.

BY JOE WILLIAMS

Can you learn anything at an indoor golf school?

This reporter doubted the practical effects of such training and said so to a well known professional the other day.

The reporter argued thus:

"Sure, I am getting the ball off the mat cleanly and it is spanking kerplunk! against the canvas wall.

But how do I know I am not slicing or hooking?

"If your driving alley was somewhere near the length of a real fairway, and the eye could follow the ball until its power had been spent, then it would be possible to tell positivey whether the drive was correct or not."

The rebuttal of the pro was at once surprising and convincing.

"You unconsciously touched the main value of indoor golf, namely, the complete removal of all temptation concerning the flight of the ball.

Lifting the Bean.

"One of the reasons why it is difficult to teach outdoors is that the pupil is usually more interested in seeing where the ball goes than in learning to hit it properly.

"That difficulty does not exist at the indoor school."

"And, of course, the gentleman is correct. One of the temptations in golf is to lift the bean and watch the white pill drill through the atmosphere.

This failure to keep the head at anchor has retarded more pupils and spoiled more shots than any other common fault known to dufferdom.

It is conceivable that instructive progress may be made easier where there is no distraction connected with the ultimate fate of the ball.

Concentration ought to come easier at the indoor school, too. The competititve element is not important, even at the "trick" schools, and as a result the mechanics of the game appear less drab and uninviting to the pupil who, having no alternative, goes about the business of practice with a seriousness that can't help do him some good.

Temptation Is Removed.

If you haven't a golf swing, the indoor school is the place to develop one. Here, at least, you will get an insight into the technique of the swing and the scores of little details which go to form the foundation of the stroke.

You will learn, among other important things, the value of the straight left arm, the correct forms of pivoting with left knee and shoulder, the necessity of balance between right and left foot, and the essential part the fixed head position plays in bringing off the shot right.

And as our friend, the pro, says, you will find it easier to learn all this indors because your mind will be set on hitting the ball instead of on where the ball is going to land.

CHARLEY GRIMM

By BILLY EVANS

Speaking about consistency, Charley Grimm of the National League is a player who has a fielding record as a first baseman that is worthy of special mention.

Grimm, cavorting at the initial sack for five seasons with the Pittsburg Pirates, has turned in an average that has changed only one point.

In three seasons Grimm has had a mark of .995 and in two he has fielded .994.

There are many National League followers who believe Barney Drey fuss is taking a long chance in experimenting with a minor leaguer for first base for his club next season. For in trading Grimm to the Chicago Cubs he parted with a fielder who ranks with the best.

Compares With Chase

While Grimm has never been mentioned in the same breath with Hal Chase, experienced basball judges who saw Hal when he was in his prime, insist that Grimm is his superior in making a play at second base in forcing a runner.

Grimm fields a ball to his right or left with a motion that permits him to make a lightning throw to second in forcing a runner.

When a grounder is brought in to his right he starts the motion by scooping it in and drawing his left hand back a bit. The left arm then is ready to fire with a sharp snap and the fellow at second base does the rest.

With a caliber of first sackers in the National League fading, Grimm is without any real competition in being recognized as the star of the flock.

Veterans Are Slipping

The brilliant Stuffy McInnis has seen his best days; Walter Holke of the Phillies is getting no better; Jacques Fournier is aging; Cincinnati will have to find a successor for Jake Daubert and the Pirates will have youngster Niehaus at the bag next spring.

Grimm did not waste much time in developing into a big leaguer.

He jumped from the semi-pro lots in St. Louis to the Cardinals in 1918 and finished the season with Little Rock.

He was bought by the Pirates for $3,500 in the summer of 1919 and made good from the start.

While he first won fame as a fielder, Grimm has developed into a most dependable batsman.

CHAMPIONS LEAD

NEW YORK, Jan. 12. —For the first time in the history of boxing an international ranking list of the first ten in each of the eight divisions has bene compiled. The sensational climb of Tiger Flowers, Atlanta negro, who is ranked next to Champion Harry Greb in the middleweight division, is an outstanding feature of the list.

British boxers cut a fair figure in Rickard's list.

NEW ZEALAND'S TEAM DEFEATS FRANCE 37-8

All-Black Rugby Squad Greeted by Crowd of 60,000.

PARIS, Jan. 12. — (Canadian Press.)— New Zealand's All-Black rugby team continued its victories on its European tour Sunday by beating France 37 to 8.

The Frenchmen outweighed, outgeneralled and outkicked, but nevertheless they held their own in speed and in gameness against the Maoris. The New Zealanders showed a wonderful brand of rugby football, amazing team work, short and snappy passes, deadly tackling and perfect dribbling.

The game was very fast, but was free from roughness. The largest crowd of French people which ever visited the Colombes Olympic Stadium was perfectly fair in its treatment of the visiting players during the match. The sixty thousand spectators gave the antipodeans a great ovation when they took the field and cheered them for every good play.

The Maori war cry made a great hit with the spectators.

ST. PATRICKS WAKE UP.

Win First Game on Home Ice By 3 to 1.

TORONTO, Jan. 12. — (Canadian Press).—After testing the loyalty of their supporters for five and a half weeks in which time they failed to win one of their five home games since the season opened on Dec. 3, St. Patrick's rewarded the local fans with a victory on Saturday night when they defeated Hamilton by 3 goals to 1.

The winners turned in their best game of the season on the local ice, while the losers showed signs of staleness. The Hams' defence was as good as usual, but the Green brothers and Billy Burch were far from the form they showed here several weeks ago, when they defeated the Irish by 10 to 3.

The officers and players of the Campbellford High School team desire the support of the citizens of the town and community in these approaching games.

Picton, fresh from their victory over Trenton last week, will be the attraction at Covert's Arena Tuesday night, Jan. 13th, in a Junior O.H.A. fixture, and the local youngsters will have to come through with a win, or bid good-bye to their chances for group honors. Cowell will likely be given a chance in this game, both at left wing and defence, and Johnston will be moved up to the forward line for part of the game at least.

Near the close of the Belleville game the smoke become so thick, it was hard for players and spectators alike to follow the puck, and in all future O.H.A. games smoking will be strictly prohibited in the rink.

BOSTON BREAKS LOSING STREAK

After Eleven Consecutive Defeats Bruins Trounce N. H. L. Champions.

SCORE WAS 3-2

MONTREAL, Jan. 12.—After 11 consecutive defeats in the National Hockey League, the Boston Bruins came out of their early winter's sleep here Saturday night and grappled in real earnest with Canadiens. The result was a 3 to 2 defeat for the title holders and the breaking of the Boston jinx.

Three minutes of overtime were required before Bernie Morris, aggressive little centre player, who joined the Bruins Saturday morning here on his arrival from Calgary, sniped the winning goal after a scramble in front of the Canadien net. It was a brilliant goal, one of the smartest seen here this season.

Canadiens' supporters were aghast when they saw the Boston players with a shout of joy, skating off the ice with the victory tucked away. The 4,000 local fans were dumbfounded at the reverse. In the third period, when Boston were leading 2 to 1, and only a few minutes of the game was remaining to be played, the spectators had seen a Boston win in signht. But forty seconds before the end of the game Billy Coutu, rugged Canadien defence man, capped an evening of splendid hockey by going through alone, circling the Boston net and scoring the tying goal which sent the fray into the extra session. With that goal, the fans saw the turning point in favor of Canadiens—but their hopes were short lived, and the Stanley Cup holders were down to their second straight defeat.

Team Shaken Up.

Art Ross started a sextette against the champions that was changed over any former Boston line-up, with the exception that Charlie Stewart was in his regular place in the nets. Lionel Hitchman, former Ottawa defence man, who was offered to the Bruins on loan, but who was acutally secured Saturday morning on option, teamed with Bobby Benson, former Calgary player, on the defence. "Sailor" Herberts was moved up to right wing; Bernie Morris started at centre, and Shay, a former United States amateur, was at left wing. It was an entirely new combination of Bruins, but Ross' judgment proved wise.

Canadiens were again far below their best form. They could not get going properly, either individually or collectively. Occasionally they gave flashes of their true form, but found a stubborn defence to block their efforts. For the most part their combination play was erratice; the players did not bore in on the net with their accustomed vim and, with the exception of Billy Coutu and Howie, did not show their best wares in individual efforts.

Bruins Dangerous.

Boston did their best to make it a battle, and they showed by their efforts that they are lisble from now on to upset the best laid plans of the leading clubs. Lionel Hitchman and Herberts were the bright stars of the team.

Herberts was a find on right wing. The big defence man delighted the fans with his speedy rushes and hard shooting, his share to Boston's aggregate being two of the three goals. His first was really a gift from Joliat. The league's leading scorer started a subtraction column in the game when he skated the puck across the Canadien goal line, scoring on his own team.

RICKARD TAKES OVER YANKEE STADIUM

By FRANK GETTY

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—(United Press).—Tex Rickard is going to promote boxing at the Yankee Stadium this summer and the big attraction will be Jack Dempsey defending his title against Tommy Gibbons of St Paul, who stood up to the heavyweight champion for 15 rounds at Shelby a couple of years ago.

Rickard, unquestionably the leading promoter the boxing game has known, has been negotiating with Colonel Jacob Ruppert, owner of the New York American League club and stadium, and will succeed Jimmy Johnston as matchmaker at the desired location.

The Yankee Stadium is the best in Manhattan for outdoor bouts, and when the season rolls around its mammoth capacities will combine with Rickard's genius for the benefit of followers of fistianna.

Jack Dempsey and Jack Kearns, his manager, both have expressed a willingness to give Gibbons a return match. They contend that the champion was not in condition when he fought Tommy at Shelby, and that another match will demonstrate conclusively that Dempsey is master of the St. Paul wizard.

Another match which Rickard will promote during the coming outdoor season, provided he can make Dempsey and Kearns live up to pomises they finally have made him, is one between the champion and Harry Wills. This bout, which Tex is confident of being able to bring about, would be staged over in Jersey City.

Dempsey always says he is anxious to meet Wills, and then Kearns pops up with some good reason why various propositions for such a match are unsatisfactory. This time, it seems as though the prospects are good for the bout being held. "Boyle's Thirty Acres" should hold its capacity crowd when Jack and Harry clamber through the ropes..

As a matter of fact, Dempsey unless his Kleig eyes, fancy new nose and writer's cramp have permanently disabled him, should have little trouble with "Mistah" Wills. The black looked foolish against Bartley Madden. Of course, Madden makes a lot of them look that way, but a good man, Jack Renault, for instance, was able to stop him. Wills couldn't. Harry won a decision from Luis Angel Firpo, but the Argentine cheese had gone decidedly moldy by that time, as evidenced by the lacing he took from Charley Weinert a short time afterwards.

The Dempsey-Gibbons bout should be a good one, with odds on the champion. The Dempsey that beat Firpo one summer's night in 1923 would annihilate Gibbons. Whether that Dempsey can be resuscitated from the morass of the movies is a question. Gibbons showed well against Kid Norfalk recently, albeit the "Kid" isn't such a tough customer for a really good big man.

On the fistic horizon at the moment there is but one other whom Dempsey has expressed a desire to meet, and this figure at present has its back to the ring and its eyes on the fair and gallant ladies in sunny France. Luis Firpo, of course, is out, as far as the forthcoming outdoor season goes. It will take a couple of years of ballyhooing and press agentry to work him back into a position of challenger for the heavyweight title.

There was some smoke, but very little fire, about Jack Renault, but it is not probable that he will meet Dempsey this year.

The Gibbons bout looks to be the best bet. Dempsey fights are more dependent on locations than opponents, anyhow, which is why the news that Rickard has succeeded in getting a line on the Yankee Stadium for 1925 is much more important than any announcement concerning possible matches.

Respect For Authority Will (Necessarily) Follow, Says Monsignor McColl.

TALKS TO ROTARY.

Splendid Musical Numbers Also Featured Programme To-day.

A most scholarly address by Monsignor McColl on respect for authority and delightful musical numbers by Madame Fern Fillion, coloratura soprano, Ferdinand Fillion, violinist and Horace Lapp, pianist featured to-day's luncheon of the Peterboro Rotary Club which proved to be one of the most enjoyable the club has experienced.

Madame Fillion sang three most enjoyable numbers, one with violin obligato by her husband, to the great enjoyment of the members, exhibiting a splendid voice. Mr. Fillion's violin numbers were sparklingly rendered and were most enthusiastically received while Mr. Lapp not only played the accompaniments most artistically, but also contributed a brilliant piano solo.

The three artists who are to be heard at Trinity church to night were warmly thanked for their numbers.

Monsignor McColls' address was one that was full of solid food for thought and his logical development of his theme was followed with the closest attention. Briefly summed up the contention of the speaker in regard to respect for authority whether civic, domestic or home authority was that it was necessary to convince the governed that the law by which they were being ruled was fair and just and was being fairly and justly administered. In the case of civil authority that government was fair that ruled by the consent of the governed but while the majority should rule it was not right that the majority should pass laws that were unfair to the minority. Once people were convinced that laws were just there would not be much difficulty in having them enforced.

Similarly in the home the parents should not be despots. While their right to rule was a divine one and the duty of the children to obey was equally clear, it was Monsignor McColl's opinion that the parent that made it plain to his family that he was merely carrying out a divine law and that it was right to obey, would not have much trouble in ruling his home.

The situation was the same in the schools. A strong personality might enforce obedience but the teacher that convinced his pupils of the necessity of conforming as good laws would get better results.

It was announced that Rotarian James Hamilton had been appointed chairman of the on-to-Hamilton committee and Rotarian W. R. Morris as head of the on-to-Cleveland committee.

The Business Relations Committee will consist of Rotarian G. A. Gillespie, Chairman and Rotarians Peter Westbye and Geo. McDonald.

Tweed, Jan. 12 (Special).—On account of three of the members of the council electing themselves, although not qualified, they have been forced to resign, and another election will be held in the near future. E. Tummon of Tweed, and C. F. Fawcett, hardware merchant, who actually elected themselves.

On Saturday last they were served with legal notices that they had elected themselves contrary to law, since they were disqualified for non-payment of taxes. The three men resigned this morning, making an election for both reeve and councillors necessary.

BOYS' AND GIRLS' BEDTIME STORY

Oliver the Unlucky—He Drank the Water and Turned to Luck.

Oliver was the youngest son of the King of a far country. As a rule the youngest son is the luckiest member of a family and is a general favorite, but in this case it was just the opposite way.

All his life poor Oliver never seemed to have had any luck, and everything he did went wrong. Although he was tall and handsome and had a very pleasant smile, he was for ever getting into trouble. Try as he would, he could not do things properly. When he was a child it was always Oliver who was scolded, often for things his brothers and sisters had done.

He had a dreadful habit of breaking everything he touched. He would push over tables as he passed, knock down ornaments, drop things and break them, and so on. "Oliver again," his family would cry scornfully. "You are a clumsy thing."

It seemed to get worse instead of better as he grew older, and he would not do things like other people, and he hated to be laughed at and scorned. On his twenty-first birthday he decided he could stand it no longer.

"Oliver, my son," said the King, "I am glad to hear you speak thus. Now the time has come for me to tell you what happened on the day you were born. For, indeed, there is a wicked spell upon you, and only by your own effort can you cast it off.

"The day you were born an old woman came to the Palace and asked for a night's lodging. I told my servants to send her away. She insisted upon seeing me, and when I refused to see her she said, 'Very well, but tell the King he will rue this day, for there will be no luck for his youngest son. Everything he does will be wrong. I cast my spell upon him. He can only be saved by drinking the water from my magic well.'

"So saying, she went her way. Oliver my son, I am sorry. I should not have been so hard-hearted. I should have taken the old woman in. Ever since I have had messengers searching for the magic well, but none have found it. Still, I hope that you will find and drink the water and cast off the spell."

So next day Oliver set forth. He walked all day, and at night found himself on a lonely hillside, very tired and weary. He lay down and slept, and dreamed that a beautiful maiden appeared before him. "Follow the little blue flowers, speedwell," she said.

In the morning he noticed a little blue flower growing beside him. He picked it and put it in his cap.

"'Speedwell,' was what she said," he murmured.

Looking round, he saw other little blue flowers stretching right over the hills, so he followed them. His way was often very rough and stony. He had to climb hills, go down into the valleys, through woods, and over streams. The sun beat down upon him by day, and at night it was bitterly cold.

For three days he journeyed thus, and then his courage almost failed, for his small supply of food was nearly finished, and his water bottle was empty.

On the third night he again dreamed of the maiden. "Speedwell, Oliver," she whispered. "It is not much further."

The next morning Oliver said to himself, "If I do not find the magic well to-day I can go no further."

By this time he had come to a dense wood. It took him several hours to get through it, but when at last he succeeded, he could hardly believe his eyes for joy. Right in front of him was a hill, and near the top he could see the entrance to a cave, and beside the cave was a well. Leading up to the well was a path bordered with little blue flowers.

Oliver hurried to the bottom of the hill and started to climb. From a distance it had not looked a difficult path, but it was. The sun was hotter than ever, and it seemed to Oliver that each step he took brought him not nearer, but further away from the well.

But at last he reached it. An ugly old woman appeared at the mouth of the cave. "Well, Oliver," she said, "you have found my magic well. Drink the water and be free," she added with a wicked look in her eyes as she handed him a glass of water.

Oliver took the glass, but before he could drink it fell, breaking into a thousand pieces. In trying to save it he slipped and rolled over and over to the bottom of the hill.

The old woman gave a shriek of unearthly laughter and disappeared into the cave.

Oliver lay still, too stunned to move. His bad luck had once more got the better of him. He lay there till evening, when he was awakened by a gentle hand touching his shoulder.

"Oliver, waken," cried a voice, and he beheld the maiden of his dreams. She was dressed all in blue, the blue of the little flowers. "I am the Speedwell Maiden," she said. "Come, the old woman sleeps. I will help you to drink the magic water."

She took his hand, and together climbed the hill. She fetched another glass of waetr for him and held it to his lips.

As he finished drinking, the old woman rushed out of the cave and flew at him. "Wretch!" she cried. "I will catch you yet."

The Speedwell Maiden hastily pulled him aside. The old woman could not stop herself, and fell headlong into the well, where she was drowned.

Then the Speedwell Maiden explained to Oliver that the old woman was really a witch, who had stolen her from her father's house.

Together they collected the witch's treasure, which was hidden in the cave. Oliver's luck had changed since he drank the water.

So Oliver found his fortune and overcame the witch.

UNITED STATES REPRODUCTION BURNS COTTAGE

"Auld Clay Bigging" Proportions Have Been Closely Followed.

BURNS' WORKS

Every Detail is Perfect as the Original House.

The "Christian Science Monitor," of Boston, U.S.A., says that the clubhouse of the Burns Club of Atlanta is a reproduction in granite of the cottage in which the national poet was born. The visitor is told the propositions and details of the "Auld clay biggin'" have been closely followed. The corner stone of the building was laid in 1910, and on being completed the cottage was formally dedicated with a dinner on Jan. 25, 1911, the anniversary of Burns's birth. Approaching the cottage one is first impressed by the low stone wall, and by the quaintness of the long, low building, with drooping roof lines. The cottage is divided into three rooms. First is the so-called "living" room. At one end is the large open fireplace with plenty of space for "the hanging of the crane." Beside the fireplace is an oven built in the wall, for the family baking. On the adjoining wall is a series of shelves on which are many pieces of old-blue china, representing the Burns period. In the wall is also a small four-pane window and near by is a bed built in an alcove. The guide explains that a low bed, not unlike the "trundle bed" of a few decades ago, rolled from under the built-in bed, to "use when company came." This room opens into the reception room, furnished more or less like the living room or library of this day. A bookcase with the complete works of Burns, several old chairs and a table, pictures of Burns and of Scottish scenes on the walls, with bric-a-brac typical of that day, form the furnishings. A door from this room leads one into the "stable," the room corresponding to the space in which the Burns family kept the horse, cow, and pig. Here the true-to-the-Burns-period cottage furnishings cease, for this long room is the main reception room of the Burns Club. A huge fireplace at one end of the room and many comfortable chairs give a modern inviting touch. Here the club members entertain friends several times a year, using a tiny, unobtrusive adjoining kitchen in which to prepare refreshments.

The Burns cottage, we are further told, has a picturesque setting on top of one of the "red old hills of Georgia," which Henry R. Jackson, Georgia's poet, used as the inspiration of his best poem nearly a hundred years ago. This particular hill is known as "Dogwood Hill," and in springtime when the dogwoods are in bloom, showing against the pines, a lovely landscape view is formed. The visitor is also interested in the near-by caretaker's cottage. He is a negro of the "old south" type and his place of abode in a log cabin, built with two rooms connected by a broad open hall, the humble style of architecture adopted in ante-bellum days. To the south, on an adjoining hill, is the Confederate Soldiers' Home, a large, comfortable looking, red brick building, with beautiful grounds. A drive over roads winding about these two hills gives one a glimpse of three types and peoples. But, quoting from Fitz Greene Halleck's tribute to Burns:

And gather feelings not of earth

STEALING.

Is it ever "necessary" to steal? Does any one ever get in such a tight corner that it is a case of steal or perish? Here is a subject for endless argument.

But if a man who was up against it and desperate would go to even a stranger and say he would turn crooked if he didn't get help, the help would be given him all right. A few might turn him down, but out of a dozen at least one would assist him.

The world is very human if properly approached.

CROOKED.

"Every one in the world has his price. Given sufficient pressure of circumstances, there isn't a single person who will not take money," declares an official of an eastern bonding company.

The answer to this is that it isn't so. Thousands of people let themselves starve to death rather than steal. Now and then one of them gets into news, his true story discovered too late.

GREAT CAST IN "ARGENTINE LOVE"

Allan Dwan Production for Paramount Due Shortly.

An Ibanez story with a perfect cast!

An Ibanez story with a perfect for motion pictures by the greatest of all Spanish novelists, Vicente Blasco Ibanez, author of "The Four Horsemen," "Blood and Sand," "Enemies of Women," etc., is a picture with a true-to-type cast if there ever was one.

Everything about the picture is Spanish, and how could one start off better than by the selection of Bebe Daniels and Ricardo Cortez for the principal roles.

Darkhaired, dark-eyed Bebe plays a lovely Spanish senorita, confronted with the old, yet ever-new problem of making a choice between two men —one, played by Cortez, a wealthy young South American who has helped her parents financially and asked her hand in return for the favor; the other a handsome American engineer. Bebe, as Consuelo Garcia, meets while at school in the States. James Rennie has this role.

Cortez within the past few months has risen to an enviable position among the screen's younger leading men. His role in "Argentine Love" is one of his own nationality. Rennie, recently seen in the Broadway stage hit, "The Best People," looks every inch the character he portrays.

Miss Daniels and Cortez are featured in "Argentine Love," which will be shown today and Tuesday at the Capitol. James Rennie heads the strong cast playing in support.

Others in prominent roles include Mario Majeroni, last seen with Gloria Swanson in "Her Love Story," Aurelio Coccia, who danced the apache dance with Miss Swanson in "The Humming Bird," Russ Whital, Alice Chapin, Julia Hurley and Mark Gonzales.

The picture was adapted for the screen by John Russell. Gerald Duffy wrote the scenario.

AT THE ROYAL.

"ANOTHER MAN'S WIFE" LESSON FOR HUSBANDS

If you want to keep your wife, don't neglect her. Above all else, don't entrust her entertainment to your friend.

Tired business men, worn with the toil and turmoil of the money-getting grind, are prone to unleash their wives and send them scampering fourth to find amusement as best they may. They forget that propinquity is a powerful influence toward intimacy. And so they lose them—sometimes only in spirit, but all too frequently in person also.

The danger of neglecting a wife is strikingly illustrated in "Another Man's Wife," now playing at the Royal Theatre.

John Brand (James Kirkwood) is fighting for his financial existence and, immersed in business cares, entrusts his wife, Helen (Lila Lee), to the social supervision of their friend, Andre Laughlin (Donald MacDonald), who believes the best way to honor the tenth commandment is to break it. Andre, enamored of Helen's beauty and charm, imparts to her a plan to arouse the waning interest of her husband.

Helen agrees, but when she gets aboard the S.S. Alexandria for a trip to Mazatlan, Mexico, she finds that Andre expects her to travel as his wife. Then the storm breaks. Realizing she has been hoodwinked and trapped, Helen turns upon him with a fury of invective and reproach that drives him back to the dock and the ship pulls out without him.

The note she has left for John, telling him of her flight with Andre sends the husband on their trail. Inflamed by jealous fury, he starts to drink heavily and voyages south from San Francisco with the intention of killing them both when he finds them.

Brand confides his murderous plan to Philip Cochran (Matt Moore), a naturalist, he meets on shipboard, and the latter asks him if he has a right to take the life of his wife. But Brand angrily shakes off the remonstrance. Like so many husbands, he reasons that, having given her plenty of money, fine raiment and a luxurious home, he has done all that is required of him to keep her faithful and to magnetize her devotion.

Before the photodrama ends, however, Brand realizes the fallacy of this belief and, through the agony of his soul, is given a new conception of his domestic duty. And so, in his reunion with Helen, he places a new seal of affection upon his pledge to be her comrade and her chum as well as her husband.

"Another Mans' Wife" conveys a tremendous moral lesson to neglectful husbands. It brings home in forceful scenes the menace to hymeneal bliss that hovers over men who encourage their wives in finding mischief for their idle hands to do. It also shows that wives are oftimes made the circumstantial victims of designing men.

Others in the cast of "Another Man's Wife", which was directed by Bruce Mitchell from the story by Elliott Clawson are Wallace Beery Kate Price, Russell Powell, Chester Conklin, Ralph Yearsley, Fred Kohler and Zena Keefe.

She's here on Thursday with Andy Gump's newest comedy.

AT THE GRAND.

"THE WORLD OF PASSION."

On Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week, with special matinee on Saturday, the big, sensational motion picture spectacle, "The World of Passion," comes to the Grand Opera House, at a scale of popular prices never equalled in Canada for this production, which has been commanding high admission charges wherever presented elsewhere.

"The World of Passion" is one of those massive, stupendous pictures which hold in their make-up everything that makes a moving picture interesting. Scenes from ancient nations in the heyday of their power, are reproduced with a lavishness of detail and expenditure that make them magnificent picturizations of the splendor of bygone days.

It is a story of men and women in a world of passion. According to the authority of historians, the empires of the East in the days of old held a world of passion. Spain, Italy, Syria, Jerusalem. These European and Oriental countries in the days gone by were the setting for life in all the force of its naked primal emotions. In these days the world was in the making.

In Spain, Woman was Pleasure; in Italy, Woman was Art; in Syria, Woman was Religion; in Jerusalem, Woman was Passion! That is why history says: "The Empires of the East in the days of old—This was the world of Passion."

One of the most interesting and entertaining portions of the big picture is a prologue ingeniously contrived by Mrs. W. McKee Bingham from the keynote to the picture given in the foregoing short paragraph. The manifestation of Woman in the various countries is portrayed in this prologue in a manner finished and artistic. Dances and costumes and acting in this prologue all combine to give the idea presented in the big picture. Woman as Pleasure, Woman as Art, Woman as Religion, Woman as Passion — these are portrayed in the most vivid style.

AT THE REGENT.

ROBERT W. CHAMBERS' STORY MAKES GREAT FILM PRODUCTION.

"Between Friends" Is Intense Photograma With Novel Twists.

"Between Friends," which will be shown at the Regent Theatre today, with Lou Tellegen, Norman Kerry, Alice Calhoun and Anna Q. Nilsson in the principal roles, comes from the pen of Robert W. Chambers, who is one of America's most admired and prolific writers of fiction and has contributed much to its literary standing in all its phases — novels, short stories and the screen.

In "Between Friends," Mr. Chambers has written a story of unusual interest in which suspense rules to the final scene. His leading character, played by Lou Tellegen, turned bitter against all women through the unfaithfulness of one, is made by Chambers to find his revenge plan too terrible to carry to a conclusion, and the means of accomplishing this furnishes a theme such as might be expected of one so versatile as Chambers.

TWO FUNERALS AT MOUNT ST. JOSEPH

Bishop O'Brien Sang Solemn Pontifical High Mass This Morning.

The funerals of Sister Mary of the Incarnation and Sister Mary Hilda were held this morning at eight o'clock from Sacred Heart Chapel, Mount St. Joseph, to St. Peter's cemetery. A solemn pontifical High Mass was sung by His Lordship, Rt. Rev. M. J. O'Brien, Bishop of Peterborough, assisted by Rev. P. J. McGuire as deacon, Rev. Paul Costello as sub-deacon, Rt. Rev. Monsignor McColl as High Priest and Rev. P. Butler as master of ceremonies.

In a brief address His Lordship paid touching tribute to the two deceased foundresses of the community. While death, the penalty of sin, is always attended by sorrow yet, to these two noble souls who estimated time as its true worth and who yearned to be with God, it was but a triumphal passage to the higher life. Being of the pioneer band of twenty valiant women who volunteered to work in the missionary diocese of Peterboro and in the wilderness of the North, they are an irreparable loss to the community. His Lordship expressed the hope that their apostolic zeal and courageous self-sacrifice would ever be a source of inspiration to these who would carry on the work they so nobly began. He also referred to the debt of gratitude the faithful of both dioceses owed the deceased for the service they rendered in those days when the need was so great.

Friends and companions during their novitiate and subsequent years of religious life, these two Sisters worked side by side in the various undertakings of the community, together they shared life's joys and sorrows and together they responded to the call to receive the reward of their labours. Thus were their lives symbolic of the unity of purpose and effort which characterizes the members of all religious communities.

Sister Mary Hilda McCormack.

Death has again robbed the community of Mount St. Joseph of one of its pioneer and dearly beloved members in the person of Sister Mary Hilda McCormack, who died at St. Joseph's Hospital at 7.30 o'clock Saturday evening.

Sister Hilda, Catherine McCormack, belonged to one of the oldest families of Belleville and entered the religious life at St. Joseph's Convent, Toronto, in 1880. In 1885 the Sisters were requested by the late Rt. Rev. Bishop Jamot to assume the arduous and responsible charge of caring for the Indian children at the Jesuit Mission of Fort William and among the many who offered their services, Sister Hilda was one of the heroic little band of six chosen to go. The little party reached Port Arthur by bota and crossed the river by ferry to their lonely mission. Great were the difficulties in the west in those early days when dog-sleds were the only means of travel in the long winter months. How eagerly they watched for the first boat in April which brought them Christmas messages from the Mother-house in far off Toronto. Yet, nothwithstanding these hardships, when, in Rt. Rev. Bishop O'Connor's time, the Peterborough Community was founded Sister Hilda generously volunteered to remain at her post.

Later, St. Joseph's Convent, was the scene of Sister Hilda's humble devotion to duty for almost twenty years. In the midst of her many occupations she found time to visit the sick and the poor and numerous are the families in town and country who can bear witness to Sister Hilda's kindly ministrations for charity in times of sickness and sorrow.

Sister Hilda laboured also with equal devotion at Mount St. Patrick in the diocese of Pembroke and at Almonte. Of late years she has resided at the Mother-house of Mount St. Joseph and during her last illness at St. Joseph's Hospital where she edified all by her patience and cheerfulness in the midst of suffering.

Of a sunny disposition and filled with the spirit of self-sacrifice, Sister Hilda was deeply loved by all her community but most especially by the sick and ailing members who recall her many cheering words and acts of kindness. Besides the community her loss is mourned by her two sisters, Mrs. O'Hara, of Chicago, and Miss McCormack, of Toronto, who was with her at her death. May her soul rest in peace.

REDS ARRESTED IN ROME RAIDS

Mussolini Continues With New Voting System—Double Ballot to Some.

GRIP STILL STRONG.

(By Thomas B. Morgan, United Press Staff Correspondent.)

ROME, January 12. — Thirty-three Reds were arrested to-day when Fascist police raided a clandestine meeting of Communists in an old garage in a quiet corner of Rome.

The police, continuing their repressive measures, and house to house searches for the government's political opponents, also seized a red flag which had been hung out over the Corso Victor Emmanuel, inscribed "Viviz Anarchy."

The Chamber of Deputies resumed its sessions without excitement, and with little enthusiasm manifest.

Vacant benches marked the places where members of the "Aventine" position, who resolved to abstain from parliament, ordinarily would have been.

Perfectly satisfied with the arrangement, the Fascist deputies, having a majority, proposed to push through the electoral bill.

Gives Double Vote.

With its much discussed plural voting provisions, the measure which would give three votes to cardinals and royalty, for instance, and two votes to sailors, soldiers, medal winners, fathers of large families, and newspaper editors has drawn the fire of the opposition.

Even the Tribunal, supporting the government, thinks it is too drastic.

Modification is possible, although the Chamber Committee approved the text last week.

Mussolini's grip on the country remains unshaken.

From earth to dwell in heaven,
The summons came, she could not stay,
Our earthly ties are riven.
Our family group is broken now,
One vacant chair is there,
An empty place at our repast
Gives grief that we must bear.
Her smile, it always cheered our way
And made our burden light,
A shade has grown o'er the day
Since she has left our sight.

RIVERSIDE PARK CHANGES NAME IN HONOR OF JAMES STEVENSON, PIONEER AND BUILDER OF CITY

Old Name of Popular Playground Ceased to Exist at Nine O'clock Last Night—Alderman Denne's First Motion in Council.

OLDEST RESIDENT OF THE COUNTY

Late James Stevenson Had a Unique Record—56 Years on Board of Education—Mayor Ten Times—8 Years in Parliament—Other Activities.

Riverside Park is Riverside Park no more. By a resolution sponsored by Alderman Denne, the City Council last night changed its name to "James Stevenson" Park, and the change took effect immediately.

The action was taken to commemorate a citizen who had much to do with the planning and building up of Peterborough, as it is known today. And, in taking the step, the City Council was but continuing the work of its predecessor of 1910, when on October 27, a standing vote of condolence with the family and regret in the loss of James Stevenson was passsed, on motion of Aldermen Phelen and Batten. On that occasion it was said: "At a time when the foundations of the prosperity of Peterborough were being laid, Mr. Stevenson was active in securing railway facilities and manufacturing industries, and his efforts were valuable in the development of the city. The work he did for Peterborough is appreciated, and will not be forgotten."

Brilliant Career.

Mr. Stevenson, the oldest citizen of Peterborough, died at his residence at 453 Water Street, on October 25, 1910, in his 85th year. The death of no citizen in previous years, and in few since, has appealed to so many recollections and regrets as Mr. Stevenson's. He was the oldest resident of the county and city, having been actively and intimately associated in his official and business capacity with the history, growth and development of the town and county for nearly seventy years.

Born in County Fermanagh, Ireland, in 1826, he came to Port Hope with the family of his father, the late William Stevenson, in 1840. He came to Peterborough in 1843, at the age of 16, seven years before its incorporation as a town.

Mr. Stevenson's muncipal and political career is well known and is still talked of where men discuss the leaders of yesterday. He was a member of the Board of Education for 56 years consecutively, and many times chairman, holding this position from 1873 to 1891. He was director of the Little Lake Cemetery Board from its incorporation in 1851 till his death. He was a member of the Board of Commissioners of the Town Trust at his death and for 49 years before, and was chairman from 1875 to 1899. He was Mayor of Peterborough for ten terms, the first in 1854 and the last in 1891. It was largely due to his efforts while holding this office that the Canadian General Electric Co. established its factory here. He was 17 years a member of the Council and 4 years a member of the County Council. For many years he was a member of the Board of Directors of the Horticultural Society and held the position of Justice of the Peace years without number.

In Politics.

A personal friend of the late Sir John A. MacDonald, Mr. Stevenson represented West Peterborough in the Federal Parliament two consecutive terms, from 1887 to 1896. His first election will be remembered in Peterborough's political annals as one of the fiercest fought fights, ending in his triumph over George A. (late Senator) Cox by a majority of 16. His second opponent was Richard Hall.

Mr. Stevenson was a member, office bearer and regular attendant at Charlotte Street Methodist Church, which stood at the corner of Charlotte Street and Reid Street.

It was believed by the members of the Council last night, in acting on Mr. Denne's proposal, that in honoring this citizen, the city is honoring itself. It was Alderman Denne's first motion as a member of the City Council.

Spanish Premier Threatens Severe Penalties for Negligence.

PARIS, Jan. 13. — (Canadian Press).—"I am every day more convinced that surprise attacks are much less due to the enemy's cleverness than to our incapacity and negligence," are the opening words of a general order just issued by Premier Primo De Rivera, High Commissioner of Morocco, according to the Madrid correspondent of the Temps. General De Rivera's order, it was stated, threatened his commanding officers with severe penalties if they allowed themselves to be surprised by the rebellious Moorish tribesmen.

The Madrid despatch adds that General De Rivera is soon to leave Morocco and that the High Commissionership was offered to General Vallejo, who refused the position. It was said that General Barrera was now being considered.

ENGINEER KILLED AND WHOLE TRAIN DERAILED

Fireman Injured in Pennsylvania Railway Accident at Keating, Pa.

PITTSBURG, Jan. 13.—(Canadian Press).—The engineer was killed and the fireman serious injured when the Philadelphia to Buffalo express on the Pennsylvania Railroad was derailed at Keating, Pa., 12 miles west of Renovo, late yesterday afternoon, according to word received at the Pennsylvania officer here. No passengers were injured, according to the railway company. The engineer killed was V. J. O'Brien. The fireman, William Breen, was taken to the Renovo Hospital.

The entire train left the track, the engine and two coaches turning over, it was said at the railroad offices. Wreck trains with doctors on board were sent to the scene of the accident from Renovo and Emporium Junction. The derailment broke the railroad telegraph lines, and only meagre information of the wreck had been received here.

NEW TRIAL FOR FRENCH CAPTAIN

Sadoul Sentenced to Death By Default—Bailed During Postponement.

ASSERTS LOYALTY

ORLEANS, France, Jan. 13.—The court martial here has decided to postpone the retrial of Captain Jacques Sadoul, a French army captain who returned to Paris early in December notwithstanding the fact that he was under sentence to death on a charge of treason in 1919, having been convicted by default. It was the decision of the court that the new trial would not begin until further evidence was obtained. Meanwhile Sadoul will be permitted to have his freedom on bail.

Sadoul was condemned to death for desertion when abroad, for having had intelligence with the enemy for enticing soldiers to join the enemy and for inciting soldiers to disobedience. He was arrested after he had successfully re-entered France, unobserved by the police.

Say He Didn't Desert.

Sadoul's defence is, first, that he did not desert the army, because he never received an order to return to France after going to Russia on an official mission; second, that France was not at war with Russia, so there was no enemy with whom to communicate, and third, that the charge of inciting soldiers to disobedience comes under the recent amnesty act.

Most of yesterday's hearing by the court martial was occupied by a speech of Sadoul.: The prisoner showed no signs of uneasiness. He said he had waited since 1915 to meet the court, adding, "for if I am an excellent Communist I remain passionately French."

Serious Charge

Sadoul declared that his sentence to death was due to M. Noulens, fromer ambassador to Russia, who prevented Nicolai Lenine and Leon Trotzky from offering to collaborate with the French after the Russian revolution, when they desired to continue the war against Germany.

Sadoul said he knew this as a fact and that he was made a scapegoat to prevent the French people from learning the truth about the Russian revolution, the leaders of which were this driven to sign the peace treaty with the Germans at Brest-Litovsk.

AMERICANS AND BRITISH REACH DEFINITE AGREEMENT ON CLAIMS

Both Governments Approve Terms of Payment to United States of Cost of U. S. Army of Occupation and War Damage Claims—Approximate Total 600 Millions of Dollars.

TO BE RATIFIED BY CONFERENCE.

PARIS, Jan. 13. — (Canadian Press).—The British and United States delegations at the conference of the Allied Finance Ministers have reached a final and definite accord relative to the payment to the United States of the costs of the army of occupation and war damage claims. This was officially announced last night.

The agreement is subject to ratification by a plenary session of the conference, but inasmuch as France, Italy and Belgium entered the negotiations already pledged to support the United States viewpoint and divergencies existed only between Britain and the United States, ratification is regarded as a foregone conclusion.

The United States under the terms of the agreement will receive about $25,000,000 yearly on the total of her claims, amounting to approximately $600,000,000. Thus reimbursement of the United States will occupy a period of twenty-five years.

Terms of Agreement.

The terms of the agreement provide:

First, the payment to the United States of 55,000,000 gold marks yearly by priority on the cash payments under the Dawes plan, to apply on the United States army of occupation costs. These payments are to begin Sept. 1, 1925, or after the extinguishment of Belgium's priority premiums. If the Dawes plan functions normally that part of the United States claims will be written off the reparations book in 1943 or 1944.

Second, the United States will share in the Dawes annuities at the rate of 2¼ per cent., the total payments not to exceed 45,000,000 gold marks annually, beginning retroactively September 1, 1924. These payments will be used to amortize the amount of the war damage claims as fixed by the mixed claims commission. The United States representatives have agreed that this latter amount should not exceed 350,000,000 or with interest, roughly, 1,500,000,000 gold marks. Repayments under this head would normally take over thirty years, but it is expected that the heavier payments made in the later years of the operation of the Dawes plan will cancel the claim in about twenty-five years.

Third, the United States obtains the immediate release and possession, upon ratification of the protocol of $15,000,000 now in the Federal Reserve Bank, which was deposited there by the Allies under the Wadsworth agreement.

Speedily Settled.

These are the broad outlines of the agreement reached late last night between Ambassadors Kellogg and Herrick and James A. Logan, on the one side, and Winston Churchill and Sir Otto Niemeyer, on the other, much to the surprise of the continental delegations because of the speed with which a situation that to them seemed a hopeless deadlock the past three days, has been cleared up. The status of the German sequestrated property in the United States, including German tonnage, has not been officially discussed during the negotiations, but there appears to be a tacit understanding on the part of the United States delegation that they be held as security for the United States claim or that the amount of their value shall be deducted from the capital claim should they be definitely appropriated.

Approval of both the Washington and London Governments of this agreement has been received by Ambassador Kellogg and Mr. Churchill and the drafting committee is now engaged in putting it into a comprehensive and succinct report.

HUSBAND SHOOTS WIFE, SON AND SELF IN RAGE OVER HER DIVORCE APPLICATION

Couple Dead and Son May Die—Daughter Jumped Through Window.

SON'S WIFE ESCAPED.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Jan. 13—Angered because his wife instituted divorce proceedings, John E. Fish, 58, a railway mail clerk, returning from his run late Monday, shot and killed his wife, Clara R., 49, probably fatally wounded his son, Carl, 26, and then shot himself, dying instantly.

Carl suffered bullet wounds in his chest after he had pushed his wife, Lillian, from the range of his father's automatic pistol.

Mrs. Clara Fish, her daughter Florence May and Carl and his wife were in a bedroom when the elder Fish entered and began shooting without warning. His first aim, at Florence May, went wild and the girl dived head first through a window, receiving severe cuts about the head and arms.

LESS WINTER WHEAT PLANTED IN EUROPE

Estimates Show 13 Per Cent. Decrease From 1924 Area.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—(Canadian Press).—Winter wheat acreage in foreign countries is about 13 per cent. less than the area harvested in 1924, while rye acreage shows a slight increase, on the basis of preliminary estimates by the International Institute of Agriculture at Rome, received Monday by the Department of Agriculture.

In Roumania, 5,677,000 acres were planted to wheat, compared with 6,631,000 harvested last year, while in Czecho-Slovakia, 1,246,000 acres were planted compared with 1,330,000.

The rye area in Czecho-Slovakia was estimated at 2,027,000 acres, compared with 2,008,000, and in Finland 583,000, compared with 578,000.

Russia's cereal acreage was estimated not larger than last year's, although the figures were not obtained.

CREW SAVED CAPTAIN FROM KILLING HIMSELF

Portuguese Windjammer Battled Seas 80 Days—Cargo of Bones.

NEW YORK, January 13. — Seventeen half starved men made port to-day with a story of hardships and brushes with death such as few sailormen live to tell.

They were captain and crew of the Portuguese wind-jammer Manuel Caragol, which went down with a hold full of bones last Saturday morning after 80 days of brave battles against gales that beat her from the time that she left Rio De Janeiro until the battered hulk was sighted by the Shipping Board freighter Kenowis.

Her master, Joseph Mogano, was taken off the Kenowis on a stretcher.

Suffering from the pain of three broken ribs, sustained when he rescued a seaman from being washed overboard, Mogano three times attempted to kill himself in his cabin, but members of the crew saved him each time. His last attempt was when his crew was removed from the Caragol to the Kenowis.

Instructed to burn his ship because she was a menace to navigation the master sought to make the defeated four-master his funeral pyre, but was forcibly removed.

MILLIONS ARE STARVING.

Peasantry of Korea Living on Roots and Bark.

TOKIO, Jan. 12. — (Canadian Press).—As the intensity of winter in Korea increases, more than 3,000,000 persons are reported suffering from famine according to word to-day from the Associated Press Correspondent at Seoul.

Zanra reports received at Seoul indicate more than fifty thousand extreme cases of starvation exist in that district alone. The peasantry is attempting to starve off death by living on roots and bark.

HUNGRY RABBIT HORDE EATING ALBERTA FARMS

5,000 Corralled on One Ranch—May Become Menace.

EDMONTON, Alta., Jan. 13.—"And now it's Jack rabbits." There's a plague of them in Southern Alberta and the prospects are that unless checked at once, they will become as much a menace as the grass-hoppers and caterpillars.

A report to the department of agriculture from down around Okotoks says that the farmers thereabouts are being almost eaten out of house and home. The rabbitis are thicker than gophers and as hungry as bears. They eat fast, often and much, and if they keep on unchecked that part of Alberta is likely to be worse than dried out.

According to a long distance telephone call, a big corrall on one ranch, built especially for the purpose of wire netting, caught 5,000 rabbitis over the week-end.

MIRACLE CURED WITHERING ARM

Officer of U. S. Navy Quotes Doctors Who Had Decided to Amputate.

KINGSTON REPORT

KINGSTON, Ont., Jan. 13.—Details of a remarkable cure in the case of a New London, Conn., boy which is attributed to prayers offered by the members of the congregation of St. Mary's Cathedral during the recent mission preached by Rev. John Handly of New York, were imparted to the congregations at all the masses in St. Mary's Cathedral Sunday, in a letter from Rev. Father Handly, enclosing one from the father of the boy, who is an officer in the United States navy.

During the mission here in December, Father Handly asked the prayers of the congregation for the boy. The father's letter says in part "It gives me the greatest joy in the world to tell you that the prayers have been answered. His arm has been saved by divine intervention after three doctors had given up hope. He broke his arm in a football game.

"It developed that the artery had been crushed and all circulation in the lower arm stopped. The extremities turned black, amputation was decided on. A frantic radio call was sent out to me at sea. When I arrived I was assured there as no possible hope, and then something wonderful happened. In some mysterious way the smaller blood vessels assumed the functions of the crushed artery, mortification was arrested, a slight improvement was noted. The doctors said a miracle had been performed if ever a miracle had been. Now the arm is safe."

CHICAGO LIQUOR KILLS 390 MEN IN 11 MONTHS

Poisoning More Prevalent Than Pre-War Alcoholism, Health Official Says.

CHICAGO, Jan. 13.—Moonshine took a toll of 390 deaths in Chicago in the first eleven months of 1924, Health Commissioner Herman N. Bundesen says in a brochure, entitled, "Moonshine, the Light That Blights." It reads in part:

"Hootch is sending more than one a day to a slab in the morgue. Of the victims 239 died from moonshine poisoning, and nothing else, in 1924. But the Coroner's records show that in eleven months 151 other deaths were due to accidents induced by alcoholism and murders and suicides directly due to alcohol. Total 390, with December and its Yuletide crop still to be added."

Moonshine poisoning is more prevalent than alcoholism was in pre-prohibition days, the Commissioner goes on and he exhibits figures to show it is rapidly increasing. More alcoholics are in Cook County Hospital than ever in its past history. In nine years up to 1923 there were 1,503 deaths in Chicago directly chargeable to liquor. Of this nine years' death toll one-fourth is chalked up to the year 1924 alone.

The Commissioner says the city is swamped with bootleg hootch and he links it up with crime.

"Since moonshine causes mental unbalance," he concludes, "one can readily see how it leads to crimes of the most atrocious variety. The suppression of the moonshine evil will also reduce crime."

WAR'S HEAVY BURDENS MUST BE PROVIDED FOR FIRST, SAYS KING IN ADDRESS TO TORONTO CROWD

Interest Charge of $135,347,000 Must be Met Before Any Other Expenditure.

TARIFF APPEAL

Premier Urges Fair Trial of His Policy—Railway Problem to be Handled.

TORONTO, Jan. 13 — (Canadian Press).—Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Prime Minister of Canada, last night addressed a meeting here which crowded Massey Hall to its doors. Hundreds were left outside unable to find accommodation. The Premier, who was received with great prolonged cheering by an audience which included hundreds of representatives from Ontario ridings, said in a review of the political history since he had assumed office, that he started with a majority of one and still retained it. He declared that it was, therfore, up to him to give a history of what his administration had accomplished.

He said that to compare the present administration with its predecessors was unfair, as times were different, because of the Great War and what it involved.

The present government in Canada, he pointed out, had outlived many governments in Britain. World unrest had, therefore, presented the smallest of the difficulties of the Dominion Government.

The Premier pointed out that the government was not always assured of a majority in the Commons nor even in the Senate. Speaking of the Senate, he said, "there we have certainty, but unfortunately in many things it is the certainty of hostile opposition, and that for some little time to come." He asked, therefore, if any government was ever beset with more barb-wire entanglements?

Debt Left by War.

Mr. King, reviewing political history, said that when the Borden government was in power the national debt was $335,996,000 with an annual interest charge of $12,893,000. The mortgage when the present government assumed power was $2,472,135,000 and the interest charge $135,347,000... The entire charge of government in 1911 was $122,861,250. The present interest debt must be met before Canada could consider another expenditure. ....

"The nation would be bankrupt in pocket were it unable to meet its payments on interest in public debt, and it would be bankrupt in soul did it not seek to forego meeting to the full any of its just undertakings and obligations to those who were prepared to sacrifice life and limb for the defence of their country and the cause of humanity during the great war or to their dependents." He pointed out that to look after the affairs of the war veterans and their dependennts took $53,500,000 a year and that those expenditures could never be cut except by slow degrees. Another big source of deficit was in railways and merchant marine.

Calamity Howlers.

Mr. King referred briefly to the attitude of the Opposion on his tariff policy, stating that first they had talked in ridicule, and then had said that the King government was not living up to the Liberal platform and was practising deception. The Opposition had boasted there would be no tariff reductions, and when there were had raised the calamitiy howl. Instead of business being ruined, as the Opposition said, it was being increased, and instead of the Canadian dollar being depreciated, it was getting more valuable.

Speaking for myself and I think I speak also the minds of the government, I believe it would be a mistake to let these calamity howlers get away with their efforts to raise false fears in the minds of the electorate of this country with respect to the significance of tarif changes made with a regard to the country's needs and conditions. Our country needs an object lesson in the effect of wise tariff adjustments and this, I believe, is the moment to give it. Changes and readjustments to meet situations not hitherto apparent, or which may arise are necessary at all times, but for the present, at least, we should, I think give the changes in the tariff already effected time to work themselves out, and I believe the result will be the demonstration beyond all shadow of doubt that they will have been wholly to the nation's Nellie Dawson, 17-year-old Des Moines (Ia.) girl, is mourning for her bandit husband, William E. Wright. They had been married just two weeks when he held up a bank in New Orleans and killed a policeman. He died in Mobile, Ala., in a gun battle with detectives. Nellie now is in jail in New Orleans, but it is thought she will be sent back to her people.

BOGUS CHEQUES GIVEN FARMERS

Nathan Merson Arrested in Montreal on Charge of Fraud in Cattle Deals.

TO BE TRIED HERE

Nathan Merson who is believed to have defrauded a score of farmers in the vicinity of Peterboro in his stock-buying business, has been apprehended in Montreal, and is being brought here to stand trial for conspiracy to defraud.

Provincial Constable Norman F. Maker, who investigated the affair locally, and broadcast the description through which the man has been arrested, left last night to escort him to the Peterboro lock-up.

Merson, it is said, travelled through the country with a friend, representing himself as a stock buyer. He manoeuvred his transactions so that shipments were made on Saturdays after the banks had closed, and there was no opportunity for the farmer who sold his car load of stock to ascertain that the cheque he took in payment was worthless, having no funds to support it. Few sections of the district escaped the depredations of the conspirators last fall, and several hundred dollars' worth of stock were loaded here to order of the pair.

ZULULAND PROPOSES RANCH FOR THE PRINCE

Half Cost of Project Expected to be Paid by Natives.

CAPE TOWN, South Africa, Jan. 13.—(Canadian Press Cable, via Reuter's).—If the wishes of the residents of Zululand are carried out as intended, the Prince of Wales will have a farm in South Africa as well as in Canada. Zululand, which is a part of the Province of Natal, has reorganized a movement which was started last year to buy a farm and present it to His Royal Highness, and the movement has the hearty approval of Sir Charles Saunders, who was chief magistrate and civil commissioner of Zululand for a number of years after it was annexed to South Africa in 1897.

The scheme was talked of last year when it was expected that the Prince would visit South Africa, but the visit was postponed until 1925 on account of the South African general election being held last year and in consequence the movement to give his Royal Highness a farm was dropped for the time being.

The farm which it is proposed to buy for the Prince will cost £4,000, and half of this amount, it is expected, will be subscribed by the native Zulus.

TWENTY KILLED IN TRAIN CRASH

Fifty Injured in Same Accident and Forty in a Second.

FOG IS BLAMED.

(By Carl D. Groat, United Press Correspondent).

BERLIN, Jan. 13 — Twenty-two bodies were recovered today from the shattered wreckage of four coaches of an accommodation train, demolished in a collision with the Westphalia Express at Herne today. Fifty other passengers are injured in the crash, which occurred in a dense fog. Thirty-five of those hurt were in a serious condition. The express left Berlin shortly after midnight, and the engineer did not see the signals of the local train, which was stationary.

Most of the killed were miners and steel workers, travelling between Dortmund and Wanne in fourth-class coaches, in the rear of the accommodation train.

The coaches of wood were splintered by the impact and railroad officials said identification of some of the mangled victims would be impossible. The express locomotive and several cars were derailed and the train crew were injured

Thirty-Nine Injured.

BRUSSELS Jan. 13 — (United Press)—Thirty-nine passengers were injured, three probably fatally, when a passenger train crashed into a freight at Langerbrugge, between Terneusen and Ghent late yesterday. Fog obscured signals on the line.

Fog Disappears.

LONDON Jan. 13. — (United Press).—The fog which paralyzed traffic and caused minor accidents and scores of injuries in southern England since Saturday night had virtually disappeared at 1 a.m. today.

Sow Lived For 14 Weeks In Heart of Straw Pile

MINESING, Jan. 113.— (Canadian Press.)— Ernest Knupp, who loves two miles north of this place, lost a fine big Yorkshire sow on the same day that he threshed his grain, in the first weke in October. He advertised his loss, but received no tidings of his sow. On Saturday last Joseph Fralick was at the farm with his cutting box turning the stray stack into feed and the sow was found. She had been buried in the straw when the threshing was in progress, and had worked a hole about four feet long, just wide enough to enable her to turn around

She had lived for fourteen weeks in these confined quarters but was able to walk to the stable when released and is doing well.

STILL ACTIVE IN MUSIC WORLD

Old-Time Local Bandmaster Has Done Good Work in Guelph.

Older residents of Peterborough will be interested in learning that Professor Philp, bandmaster here many years ago, is still actively engaged in teaching music, although he has reached the octogenarian class.

Professor Philp was in charge of the Guelph Musical Society Band until quite recently, and a tribute paid him by J. S. Atkinson, Secretary of the Ontario Musical Association, will be appreciated by his friends here. Mr. Atkinson wrote as follows: "You have certainly been one of the bulwarks of musical life in this country, and should reap a splendid reward for it.

Prof. Philp's family are all musicians and in this connection the Guelph Mercury made the following reference:

"Professor Philp has enough sons for a band, orchestra or a baseball team.

"The bandmaster has received a communication from his sons in the States saying that it may be possible for them all to gather here in Guelph to celebrate the soldier boys' homecoming. Following are their names and locations with names of their chosen instruments:

"Arthur Philp, flute and piccolo, Chicago; Harry B. Philp, clarinet and piano, bandmaster Ford's band, Detroit; Charles Philp, baritone and trombone, Pontiac, Mich; Guy Philp, cornet, Jackson, Miss., U.S.A., Albert Philp, clarinet and saxophone, Miss.; Roger Maxwell Philp, violin and trombone, Miss.; Roy Philp, bass and alto, Ottawa; Herbert W. Philp, cornet, France; Norman L. Philp, clarinet, England.

Y. W. CAMPAIGN IS UNDER WAY

Recruits Sought for Gym Classes—Contest Between Reds and Blues.

WANT 150 GIRLS.

At a meeting of the Y.W.C.A. Board yesterday afternoon the gym. campaign for new members was heartily endorsed, each of the Board members volunteering to help by taking the red and blue slips and trying to get new members. The Gymnasium Committee, realizing the benefits of the gymnasium to all girls, are most anxious that everyone should have a chance to improve health or keep health by enjoying the exercises and good times, and, therefore, for the remaining four months of the gymnasium season, special prices have been arranged and the Board, committee and girls are aiming at bringing in one hundred and fifty new members this month. Four hundred gym. members are now enthusiastic about their classes and have chosen captains and lieutenants to head up the campaign and each side is sure it is going to win. Prizes will be given to the member in each class bringing in the most new members and a special prize for the one leading the list.

Two big thermometers, a red and a blue, in the hall of the Y.W.C.A. mark the progress of the two sides, and already the mercury is rising in each, indicating good results. The captains and lieutenants of each side are as follows:

Reds.—Captain, Miss Hamilton. Lieutenants: Mon. Int., Marion Hall; Sr. Beginners, Myrtle Bradly; Tuesday Ladies, Mrs. LeClaire; Senior Advanced, G. Gimblet; Boys, C. Glover; Jr. Dancing, M. Hall; Sr. Dancing, M. Pulkinghorn; Ladies, Mrs. Beal; Sr. School Girls, N. Boorman; Intermediate Dancing, M. Bradly, Sat. Juniors, Hazel Laing; Babies' Class, Leon Comstock.

Blues.—Captain, Mrs. Drummond. Lieutenants: Bertha Lobben, Annie Constable, Mrs. Drummond, M. Lawrence, John Londerville, Bertha Lobben, M. Lawrence, Miss C. Large, Helen Jones, G. Allen, Ruby Jackson, Joy Walker.

The local Y.W.C.A. Gym. classes are graded for babies, juniors, boys, intermediates and senior school girls, business girls, beginners and seniors, and two ladies' classes, as well as special dancing classes for juniors, intermediates and seniors. Miss Littlefield, the capable and much-appreciated gym. teacher, arranges an interesting programme of work and play for all classes, including reed, wand, dumbbell and club exercises, Swedish work, folk dances, light apparatus work, games, etc.

All prospective members are asked to join this month and help the campaign along as well as enjoy the full season.

HECTIC SCENES MARK RED RAID

Signora Piccioni Dropped Bouquet and Champagne at Revolver's Point.

FLAG SEIZED.

ROME, Jan. 13. — (Canadian Press).—The police yesterday surprised and arrested 33 Communists who, after a number of incendiary speeches, were christening and decorating a Red flag with the Soviet emblem of the hammer and sickle. The Communists had gathered in an old garage in the outskirts of Rome, placing sentinels around the building to prevent being surprised.

The meeting reached its climax when the wife of one of the Communists, Maria Piccioni, with a champagne bottle in one hand and a bouquet of flowers in the other, was about to christen the flag, which bore the inscription: "Although struck by lightning the future is ours."

At this moment a police official, followed by a squad of detectives carrying revolvers in hand, jumped into the garage, shouting: "Hands up in the name of the law. You are all under arrest."

Signora Piccioni dropped the bouquet and the bottle of wine, which was shattered on the floor. The policemen then seized the flag and handcuffed all persons present. The prisoners were loaded in motor trucks which conveyed them first to the central police station and then to the Regina Coeli Prison. Of those taken into custody eleven were women.

Monday morning the police seized a flag which had been planted on a pole in the Corso Vittoria Emmanuele. The flag bore the inscription, "Viva Anarchy."

CAUSE OF PERNICIOUS ANAEMIA LOCATED BY BROCKVILLE DOCTOR

Dr. C. Cornell Produces Strong Evidence of Effect of Bacillus Welchii.

NOT POSITIVE.

Has Not Reached Certainty as to the Germ—Cure is a Different Problem.

BROCKVILLE, Jan. 13.— Conclusions of possibly far-reaching significance to the world of medicine which have been arrived at by Dr. Beamont S. Cornell, a young physician of this town, as a sequel to prolonged research both in Brockville and in Toronto into the cause of pernicious anaemia may have a profound bearing upon future investigations of the same type and may lead to the cause of this wasting, incurable disease being definitely established.

Dr. Cornell's researches have resulted in peculiarly suggestive information being gained in this connection and support the contention that the disease is caused by a germ known as bacillus welchii. By means of this germ he has been able to produce chronic infection in rabbits with the accompanying symtoms—anaemia, wasting, diarrhoea and convulsions—and moreover, the anaemia so produced, is of a type bearing several resemblances to that seen in the pernicious variety.

It was with reluctance that Dr. Cornell, the results of whose investigations are being made known in the forthcoming issue of the Canadian Medical Association Journal and in later issues of the Journal of Infectious Diseases, consented to impart information concerning his researches and the conclusions which he had been able to reach. It was only upon the plea that such information was of general interest and of benefit to the public at large that he finally yielded and drew back the curtain which has shrouded his investigations.

For some time past it has been known that Dr. Cornell has been prosecuting studies in relation to pernicious anaemia, the origin of which has been a mystery. Such theories as existed in this connection possessed the common fault that they bore no demonstrated relation to the disease itself, and very little stock was placed in any theory based upon a conception of infection by a germ, for the simple reason that no germ had ever been shown capable of producing the disease.

Laboratory in Shack.

Commencing work in the spring of 1923 in an improvised laboratory established in a shack on the Kingston Road just outside of the town limits, Dr. Cornell went to Toronto in the autumn of the same year and continued his investigations duing the session of 1923-24 as a fellow in medical research at the University of Toronto of which he is a graduate. The facilities of the University laboratories were placed at his disposal, and he received the whole-hearted co-operation of Professors Banting, Henderson, Fitzgerald and Defries, the two last named being the directors of the Connaught Laboratories. He began with a careful bacteriological examination of the intestinal contents of patients, interest centering upon one particular germ, bacillus welchii, which was found to be present in unusually large numbers. The presence of this germ had been established by Herter in 1906 and that investigator had suggested that it might be the cause of the disease. But no person was willing to believe this without further proof. Dr. Cornell demonstrated that if large numbers of this germ were implanted in the intestines of dogs, the animals showed a transient but remarkably suggestive blood change resembling that seen in patients with the disease.

So much having been shown, he then undertook direct tissue innoculation with the germ. For this purpose rabbits were employed and after inoculation they displayed a chronic anaemia lasting for as long as six months, and of interest because the red blood cells assumed the extremely irregular sizes peculiar to pernicious anaemia. No other germ had previously been found to produce this remarkable variety in the size of the red blood cell which is so distinctly characteristic of pernicious anaemia. It is peculiar that this germ was the chief malefactor in causing gas gangrene, an acute infection, during the war and if Dr. Cornell's work proves unassailable in it's main contentions, the scientific world is presented with an absolutely new phenomenon, that of one germ producing two apparently distinct diseases, the one acute, the other chronic.

Not Yet Positive.

Dr. Cornell emphasized the fact that his researches are merely preliminary. "I am not even certain that this germ is the cause of pernicious anaemia," he said, "but there is a great deal of evidence that it is So far as a cure is concerned, that is an entirely different matter upon which I have not been working. My own impression is that even if this proves to be the correct cause, it will be a long time before a definite cure can be discovered. I believe that these experiments offer more light than has hitherto been thrown upon the subject, but it is quite possible that further work along the same line may so extend our information that the present work will eventually appear as a near stepping-stone to a final solution of the problem."

Although he acknowledged financial assistance from two or three private sources, notably Henry Leeds, of Atlanta City, Dr. Cornell mentioned that the work had been done at great personal sacrifice. "Until funds are readily available for promising scientific problems," he said, "it will be impossible to induce our brightest young men to undertake the financial sacrifice involved in their pursuit."

Dr. Cornell has practised here since 1920 and comes from the neighboring village of Athens where members of his family have enjoyed a long connection with the medical profession and where he attended the high school. From the University of Toronto he went overseas with the Royal Army Medical Corps.

RESULT OF MEETING OF TOWN COUNCIL

Campbellford Council last night appointed W. Mulhearn assesor; D. J. Lynch as Town Solicitor; J. A. Irwin as High School Trustee; H. Townsend as member of the Public Library Board; John Gay as member of the Board of Health.

Committees and chairmen for 1925 were selected.

Mayor Meyers presented his inspiring inaugural address.

ST. ANDREWS VOTES ON UNION QUESTION

Campbellford Church Starts Ballot—161 Vote First Night.

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 13. — There were about one hundred and seventy-five present at St. Andrew's Church at the Congregational meeting on Monday night. The object of the meeting was to begin the voting for and against union and in the end decide whether St. Andrew's will remain in the union or not. After the Devotional opening by Rev. C. F. McIntosh he said that if the congregation wished to appoint someone else to preside he would step aside. But on motion Mr. McIntosh was asked to remain in the cha

Mr. J. A. Anderson was appointed Secretary.

A committee of the session brought in eight recommendations to govern the balotting, which were adopted by the meeting. The warmest and finest possible spirit prevailed throughout the entire meeting.

The voting on Monday night lasted from about eighty -thirty till ten o'clock and during that time one hundred and sixty-one members had voted. The poll is to close on Monday, January 26, at four o'clock p.m.

Hours of Voting

The hours of voting each day are —From eight to nine p.m. on Tuesdays, Fridays and Saturdays and from three to four p.m. on Mondays, Thursdays and Saturdays. The meeting adjourned for the period of voting and will meet again on Monday January 26th at nine o'clock p.m. to receive the result of the ballotting.

There are six hundred and seventen members who are entitled to vote on this question.

The regular procedure of election is followed and the regular ballot box is used with J. D. Cumming presiding. The following officers were appointed:

Returning Officer — J. D. Cumming.

Deputy Returning Officer—D. W. Douglas.

Scrutineers—Against Union: Jas. Allan, H. Anderson and W. W. Clarke. For Union: W. J. Armstrong, Dr. H. B. Longmore and Neil Thompson.

Programme During Vote.

During the voting a programme was given. The following took part: Solos by Miss Emma Meiklejohn, Miss Hazel Atkinson and W. Henson, Wm. Pearson accompanying on the piano, and two readings by Miss L. Hay. Mr. McIntosh presided during the programme.

One very fine feature of the evening was, the meeting very cordially accorded Mr. C. L. Owen, the oldest elder, the privilege of casting the first vote. He did so with an evidence of keen emotion. He thanked the meeting for the honor and expressed his hope that the best spirit of unity might prevail after the read appreciated very much the very fair way in which the minister had conducted the matter during the sult of the voting. He also admired trying months that the Union question has been to the front and in the months of all, either for or against.

OYSTERS.

Artificial crops of oysters will be next, it's predicted. Oysters already are a carefully cultivated national crop, and have been for a thousand years. What science has in mind is to breed oysters on a big scale, just as farmers regulate the number of young chickens hatched. The purpose is to change oyster culture from a gamble to a fairly sure thing.

New underwater "farms" are being laid out and planted with oyster eggs from New York hatcheries, the same as lakes and streams are stocked with minnows.

SKILL.

Christopher Hull, an Englishman, claims a world's record by laying 809 bricks in an hour. Five hundred a day is considered fair speed. The electric brick-laying machine puts even Hull in the shade. It lays 1,200 bricks an hour, doing the work of 20 masons.

This electric machine comes after 8000 years in which bricks were laid by hand. A machine now displaces human skill and, it is claimed, even does a better job.

Human effort eventually may be confined chiefly to manufacturing machinery and operating it, even in agriculture.

CAMPBELLFORD COUNCIL HELD FIRST MEETING

Members Sworn in and Committees Selected Under Mayor Meyers.

APPOINTMENTS MADE.

D. J. Lynch is Town Solicitor; John Gay on Board of Health.

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 13.— Campbellford town council met yesterday morning in its inaugural session, with Mayor Meyers presiding and selected its chairmen of committees. The meeting was held in the Public Library. The whole council was present: Mayor Meyers, Reeve Davidson, Deputy-Reeve Palliser, Councillors Abernethy, Cole, Moore, Kingston, Wiggins and Southworth. Each member took the oath of office. The Mayor in a few well chosen words addressed the council. He welcomed the new members and said each one of the new ones had been members of the council before since he had been mayor. He hoped that in all deliberations, all personal and petty feeling would not be considered and that everything that was done during the year would be done for the best interests of the town. The mayor then asked Rev. W. Elliott to open the council with a prayer.

It was moved and seconded by Reeve Davidson and Councillor Abernethy that the council continue the regular business at this sitting and the communications were read. A statement was sent from the United Counties of Northumberland and Durham giving the cost of the work on the bride. This statement was to be read to the different councils in the Unitde Counties.

No Delegates.

A letter from the Ontario Municipal Association to the Council asking that every council send delegates to the convention, but on motion of Councillor Southworth and Reeve Davidson, no action was taken. Moved and seconded by Councillors Wiggins and Abernethy that no action be taken.

Several by-laws were then presented:

McEachern, H. Coxwell, Miss N. Hoover and Mrs. C. W. Truner. There was some discussion re bringing in an official auditor, but most of the members were in favor of having local auditors. Moved by Councillor Cole and Reeve Davidson, that H. Coxwell and F. J. Smith be auditors. An amendment by Councillors Southworth and Abernethy that the same auditors as last year (Mrs. Turner and Miss Hoover) be appointed. A second amendment by Councillor Kingston and Deputy Reeve Palliser that H. Coxwell and J. D. MrEachern be auditors. The second amendment brought two votes. The first amendment brought six votes and was carried. Moved and seconded by Councillors Cole and Southworth that the salary be the same as last year, $75 each. Carried. This by-law, No. 822, was passed, signed and sealed.

On motion of Councillor Cole and Deputy Reeve Palliser, John Gay was appointed. These were passed, signed and sealed.

Councillor Kingston presented Bylaw No. 825 authorizng the treasurer to borrow certain sums of money to meet the current expenditures. Twenty-five thousand dollars are now required.

Moved by Councillor Kingston and Reeve Davidson that the Mayor and Treasurer sign promissory notes on the Standard Bank for this sum with interest at the rate of 6 per cent.—Passed, signed and sealed.

As it was the right of the mayor to appoint the chairmen of the several committees, he said he appointed them taking into consideration and keeping in mind their past experience and ability. The following were the chairmen:

Finance: Councillor Kingston.
Police: Reeve Davidson.
Roads and Bridges: Councillor Cole.
Charity: Deputy-Reeve Palliser.

Councillor Cole (chairman of Roads and Bridges) chose Councillors Abernethy and Moore.

Deputy-Reeve Palliser (chairman of Charity), chose Councillors Wiggins and Southworth.

Councillor Moore (chairman of Enquiry), chose Councillor Kingston.

Solicitor Leaving.

A letter was read from the Town Solicitor, stating that he was leaving town, but that Mr. McCall would be in his office and could attend to any matters pertaining to the town. Moved and seconded by Councillors Southworth and Moore, that this matter be left over till next meeting. An amendment was moved by Deputy-Reeve Palliser and Reeve Davidson, that the town appoint a solicitor at this meeting. The votes went four and four, and the Mayor cast a vote for the amendment. Deputy-Reeve Palliser and others thought it better to appoint an old citizen of the town. Moved and seconded by Reeve Davidson and Deputy-Reeve Palliser, that D. J. Lynch be appointed Town Solicitor and that the necessary by-laws be prepared and dealt with at the next meeting.—Carried.

Moved by Reeve Davidson and seconded by Deputy-Reeve Palliser, that R. T. Cowell be re-appointed Band Master at the same salary.—Carried unanimously.

On motion of Reeve Davidson and Councillor Southworth, the Council adjourned.

Huestis, and Roderick Mackenzie Davis of Peterboro, nephew of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Davison of Toronto. Rev. W. C. Bishop conducted the ceremony. The church was tastefully decorated with palms, ferns and poinsettias. Mr. Arnold Davison sang "All Joy Be Thine", during the signing of the register. Mr. G. D. Atkinson presided at the organ. ARCHDEACON DOBBS MARMORA MINISTER ON MISSION WORK Christians Should Be Zealous in Reflecting the Love of Christ.

MISSION RESULTS

MARMORA, Jan. 12.—Venerable Archdeacon Ogilvie G. Dobbs, M.A., of Kingston and Chaplain of H.M. Penitentiary 1913-1924 was the preacher at the morninng service at St. Paul's on Sunday. Using primarily as his text, "Owe No Man Anything, but to Love Another," Rom. 13, 8., the Archdeacon said that the first thought he would present would be of the standard and measure of Christian love. When St. Paul bids us to walk honestly, it may of course be taken in regards to our everyday life. It, however, contains a deeper thought. The Christion should walk as approaching ever the presence of God.

We should pay our just debts. Beyond that, the Christian is given a grander thought. We are always paying the debt of love to others. Our love must measure up to that as shall best approach the love of God in Christ Jesus. Jesus so manifested thata love as to be seen willing to go to the Cross that the love of God might be known the world over. If the love of Jesus is understood, it means that we feel it within.

That is the thought which possesses the Church today. It is not for her members to say "Lord, I have done enough, it is better for me to remain here." We should heed what He is calling us to do. The individual may shut up his christianity within his own life. Then he is doing amiss. It is up to him to let everybody know something about Christ.

Archdeacon Dobbs, continuing dwelt on the work of General Missions of the Church of England in Canada. Whilst assitance is given to clergymen's widows, and to aged and infirm clergymen and grants are made to struggling mission parishes, it must not be overlooked that Anglicans have come together as a Church from the Atlantic to the Pacific and are united together for the interests of the Church in general. Immigrants from the Old Land are scattered throughout the North West. They are at a strain for years to build up their own homes, so that church building there without assistance from without, is tediously delayed. The Bishop of Saskatchewan recently came across some folk who had not been able to attend the services of that Church they had been accustomed to, for a period of ten years. Shall we neglect such people or leave them to another church better fitted just there. er kindly disposed towards ministering to them?

The preached mentioned how for the past few years help previously given to Indian Missions in this country by the Old Land had been withheld. He next mentioned in connection with Eskimo Missions, how the Eskimos were a people some were inclined to think should be left alone. In an interesting way, Archdeacon Dobbs described a trip made by Bishop Stringer and his wife to Herschel Island last year. When the Bishop arrived at the island, he found that the Eskimos there, regarded before as a nation of thieves, were now absolutely trustworthy. Speaking on the missionary work among Japanese and Chinese settlers, Archdeacon Dobbs said there were 17,000 Japanese in Canada, 16,000 of whom resided in British Columbia. As an instance of the impression Christianity can leave upon Japanese converts, it was stated that when a missionary, the Rev. Mr. Kennedy has a set-back in health and was enforced to undergo several operations, his Japanese converts raised fourteen hundred dollars towards his expenses. Chinese converts, too, tried to live up to the truths of the Gospel in that they form bands to visit hospitals and held services over their sick. The Archdeacon concluded his sermon by brief references to outstanding features of the great work of Foreign Missions, dwelling with those in China and Japan in particular. If China and Japan combined, as there is the opinion that they may, it would be serious for the white races. If the spirit of Christianity permeates ideas of union between those countries, things would be different. Gen. Fong's message to Christians in England, through Bishop White of Honan, was of great significance, Apart from the Gospel of Jesus Christ, China cannot be saved."

The Church has heard the call from the foreign field. She has been invited and could do nothing else but responnd when the door was opened.

The choir, though not at full strength, very creditably rendered Pearce assisting with the solo parts. In the afternoon, the Archdeacon conferred with the churchwardens, and in the evening preached at Deloro Hall. He took favorable opportunity whilst in Marmora to congratulate the parish workers on the excellent results of their work.

This Little Brandon Lassie Is Never "Dosed" for Colds

The Browns Now Use the "External" Treatment for Croup and Cold Troubles.

Mrs. John Brown, of 426 24th St., Brandon, Man., is the mother of this fine little girl and one of the many Canadian mothers who now use the vaporizing salve, Vicks VapoRub, in treating the colds of all the family. After using Vicks for some time Mrs. Brown writes:

"I have eight small children—aged from one to twelve years—and can certainly say that Vicks is the only cold remedy I have in the house all winter. If the cold is in the childs' head I just put a little up each nostril and it gives relief in a short time. If it is in the chest I rub Vicks well in at night and by morning the cold has almost disappeared. I also use Vicks for chilblains and for burns—in fact, I use it too for severe headaches and find relief in a very short time. I always recommend Vicks to my friends especially those who have children."

Vicks is the eternal direct treatment for cold troubles—absorbed like a liniment and inhaled as a vapor. It is the ideal treatment for children's colds, just as good, too, for adults.

Eat it with hot milk

Of course you like a hot meal these cold Winter mornings, but you want something better than porridge. Take two Shredded Wheat Biscuits, heat them in the oven to restore their crispness, pour hot milk over them, adding a little salt. Nothing so nourishing and satisfying—puts you on your feet for the day's work. Shredded Wheat is ready-cooked, ready-to-eat—saves a lot of kitchen worry and bother.

STREET PAVING.

The point brought up by Mayor Turner in his inaugural address yesterday in regard to the street paving programme for the year is one that should have the earnest consideration of the Aldermen.

The Examiner has frequently expressed its belief that in view of the wear and tear caused by the steadily growing motor traffic the only policy that gives real economy is the construction of permanent roadways, as against a continual patching of the old surface, and has no reason to change that view.

Yet the city will be faced with the construction of a sewage disposal plant this year, and in view of that fact and of the expenditure of $120,000 on paving operations last year, it may be regarded by the Council as desirable for 1925 to adopt a less ambitious programme of building permanent roads.

That is a question that will require some earnest thought, and the members of the Council should not be too hasty in arriving at a conclusion in regard to its paving policy this year.

There is a limit to which expenditure, even for desirable purposes, can be carried, and it may be necessary to call a halt for this year.

APATHETIC ELECTORS.

Much is being said in the newspapers about the question of why the electors do not vote, especially in municipal elections, but it has remained for two Chicago professors to make a real study of the problem.

The results will be interesting to Examiner readers.

The two investigators went about their task very conscientiously and thoroughly.

They not only obtained the views of 300 experts in electoral processes, but they examined no fewer than 6,000 non-voters selected from widely scattered groups throughout Chicago.

The result of the probe confirmed the general impression that sheer indifference was the principal cause for the non-use of the franchise, for many other reasons were given by slacker voters, including the legitimate ones of illness and absence, yet 2,240 admitted that they had not voted simply because they were utterly indifferent as which candidates were chosen.

Six hundred and seventy-seven people told the investigators that they had intended to vote, but failed for some reason or other, so that they were not much better than the others as far as practical results were concerned.

The conditions in Chicago apparently are analagous to those in Peterborough.

The investigation leaves the problem just as far away from solution than ever.

It confirms the extent of the apathy that exists, but leaves little idea of how the conditions are to be overcome.

The Examiner can sill see no remedy but that suggested by this paper a few days ago, the education of the school children in civics, at least to an extent that will give the coming generation a better idea of responsibility than at present exists.

GET DOWN TO BUSINESS.

Both the Dominion Parliament and the Ontario Legislature are to be convened shortly, and to citizens who realize the many important problems that should engage the attention of both bodies, it is disconcerting to read that one of the principal matters to occupy the Federal House will be the reform of the Senate, while the Queen's Park legislators are to devote much of their time to the Ontario Temperance Act.

Surely there are other problems of much more vital importance that might be taken up by the two bodies.

In the Federal arena there are plenty of questions that are clamoring for attention, much more vehemently than the curbing of the powers of the Senate, however desirable that change may seem to some people.

Canada's financial position, the necessity of a more effective immigration policy, the present condition of Canadian industry—these are things that demand thoughtful and sincere attention.

Senate reformation can wait; but it would be dangerous to dilly-dally much longer with these other problems, the solution of which is vital to the progress and prosperity of Canada.

Similarly, in the Provincial arena there will be little gained in the public interest if time that could be devoted to useful and necessary legislation is instead wasted upon arguments over the Ontario Temperance Act.

That question was settled by the votes of the people a few months ago, and while the pressure of candidates representing wet ridings who have to save their faces before their constituencies will no doubt be strong, yet the Government should recognize that there is other business of much greater importance than a rehash of a matter upon which the voters of the Province have already made their decision.

Let us hope that both Federal and Provincial administrations recognize the necessity of getting down to business upon the problems that are demanding attention.

BRITAIN AND THE WAR DEBTS.

The British Cabinet has spent considerable time debating the question of the repayment of the war debts owed by the Allied nations, both to Britain and the United States, says the Brantford Expositor. As a result, among other things, the British Government is ready to renew the offer made by Balfour in 1922, Bonar Law in 1923, and Churchill in 1924, to cancel the inter-Allied war debts either by scaling down British assets to the exact level of British obligations, or a formal cancellation all around. Britain makes this historic offer at the cost of some £1,000,000,00 worth of debts owing to her. Failing the acceptance of this offer, Britain remains free to take whatever action is necessary to protect her interests in the repayment of the war debts owing to her.

The inter-Allied war debts will be regarded as private debts, as individual concerns between debtor and creditor. If the United States gives better terms to France than it gave to Britain, then it will be considered hat an act of injustice was done to Britain, which was the earliest debtor to pay its debts. British public policy will take no notice of that injustice, and will freely admit that the United States has the right to deal as it pleases in regard to the terms granted is debtors. The five-year moratorium granted by Britain to France can be justified only on the ground that France cannot afford to pay. The moratorium was tantamount to a British loan of further cash to France. If France proposes to use that cash to pay America before paying back Britain, then Britain will intervene and refuse to accept a transaction neither reasonable nor honorable. Therefore, if France funds her debt to America she will be expected to pay her debt to Britain up to at least an equal extent.

The British Government is prepared to recognize the principle that payment should depend proportionately upon the ability to pay. If, therefore, Finance Minister Clementel asks a kind of Dawes treatment for the French debt, then London, of course, will be prepared to grant her former ally what she advocated for her former enemy, but that can only be done if America shares the sacrifice. Obviously, the British treasury could not submit British assets to the Dawes treatment and retain British obligations intact. The conclusion is irresistible that the British position is unassailable. It takes a view that cannot be objectionable to the United States, and yet is just to France.

INDUSTRIAL INSANITY.

Word comes from New Brunswick that a large lumbering enterprise of that Province contemplates building a paper mill on the United States side of the border, says the Ottawa Journal. This follows upon the erection at Tonawanda, in New York State, of a pulp mill to be fed by Canadian timber.

When pulpwood—spruce or poplar— is cut in Canada, the owner gets a price.

If the pulpwood be made into paper in the United States, the original price of the pulpwood is all that Canada gets.

If the pulpwood be made into paper in Canada, Canadians get the price of the pulpwood just the same, Canadian paper mill operatives get wages, and they spend the wages in Canada, benefiting all Canadian business.

Which of these two propositions looks sensible?

* * * *

It may be argued that if Americans buy the Canadian pulpwood, American money comes into Canada which otherwise would not come in.

But—if the paper mill stands in Canada, the paper it makes is mostly sold in the United States. And that brings in more American money than would be brought in by the raw pulpwood.

Nine-tenths of all paper made in Canadian mills is sold in the United States.

* * * *

How long is Canada going to allow pulpwood to be exported to the United States, at not only a great immediate industrial loss to this country but at great danger in the near future? For our pulpwood is giving out under the present drain upon it; and the paper manufacturing industry of Canada, which is almost the greatest industry we have, is in danger of early destruction.

FARMING A SUCCESS.

Seeing that agriculture is the basis of prosperity in this Dominion, the reports which have been presented at the Eastern Ontario Dairymen's Association convention will be read with much gratification. Mr. George A. Putnam, Director of Dairying in Ontario, spoke of the "satisfactory returns" which producers had enjoyed in the past year. There was an increase in cheese production, "while her standing in the cheese and butter educational scoring competitions has been the best in history, leading all other sections of the Dominion in cheese and securing second place in butter for the season." This Province also secured first, second and third place in the cheese section of the London, Eng., dairy show, held last October, and obtained full score for flavor on an exhibit of butter. The other day the Provincial Minister of Agriculture predicted excellent prospects for the industry during the coming year. Altogether, therefore, there is good reason to be satisfied with the position, and every incentive to increased effort.

Such is the fortunate situation of dairy farming in Ontario, and, taking the country as a whole, it can be said that agriculture is in a generally flourishing position. The higher prices obtained for the products of the soil have brought greater prosperity to the farmers, in a year when the yield has fallen short of expectations. It is to be hoped that a knowledge of these conditions will reach intending emigrants in the Old Country, of a class capable of taking advantage of the opportunities. The story of the printer from London, Eng., now paying a visit with his family to the Old Country, who took a farm in Saskatchewan eight years ago, upon which he has built a "comfortable home," now entirely free of debt, and has made provision for old age, after raising a family of five, is worth considering. "We are still living on our original homestead," he writes. "We have never regretted coming to Canada. We had no capital when we came; everything we own was made here." This is the kind of information needed to counteract the unfavorable propaganda which has been spread in the English press regarding the experiences of farm settlers in this country. The Regina Leader, which gives publicity to the facts, declares there are thousands of inexperienced men who have been equally as fortunate. If that is so, the prospects for the experienced settler would seem to be exceptionally rosy.—Hamilton Spectator.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Ald. Stocker's status seems to be that of the man in the erstwhile popular song, "All Dressed Up and No Place to Go."

The cross-road puzzle is more dangerous than the cross-word competition to the pedestrian, and about as difficut to solve.

It seems strange to find the dean of the Council, Ald. Joseph Crowe, without a committee. But the veteran Alderman apparentl yis quite content to serve in the ranks for the year.

Premier Ferguson is still silent in regard to the suggested repeal of the Doherty Act. Meanwhile the Henry plan is causing a lot of discussion that the Premier could end with a word or two.

An Ontario weather prophet declares there will be snow in May. But perhaps he means at White River.

Crossword puzzles are popular with the travelling public, probably because they are easier to solve than the railway time tables.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK.

TORONTO, Jan. 12.—Exporters were taking bulls to-day in good supply at $3.75 to $5.50 and handyweight heifers at $6.50. One bunch of good handyweight steers sold at $7 and other choice butchers up to $7.50 a cwt. Fair quality light killers were $6.25 to $6.50 a cwt. A number of baby beeves sold from $7.25 to $9.25 a cwt. About 250 north-west stockers and feeders were on sale. One load of 42 of these averaging 700 lbs. sold at $4.25 a cwt., and two loads weighing around 925 pounds each brought $5.75 a cwt.

Rogers & Maybee had bought less than 300 export cattle up till noon. The top of $8.75 a cwt. was paid only for two choice steers. Several loads of average good quality steers were being held at $8.50 a cwt., but it was thought that at $8.25 they would sell as well as last week. Most of the cows sold early were choice exports and these brought $5 to $6 a cwt. Except for good to choice butchers the market was rather slow up to noon, and it looked as though there may be a holdover from to-day's market.

The supply of good to choice calves was limited to-day and prices were no easier. Top calves brought 12 3-4 cents a pound and a load for Buffalo was taken at 12 cents. Good calves were 11 cents and medium 9 cents.

Lambs were not bought too readily this morning, but there was no weakness. Packers have to protect the storage supply taken at fairly high figures, and this is a supporting market factor. A few Southdown lambs brought 15½ cents and for a shipment from the north-west 16 cents was demanded or they would be shipped to Buffalo. The market is overloaded with undesirable lambs.

Hogs on sale to-day numbered about 2,500 and none seemed to anticipate any lower market. Sales were made at last week's closing price of $10 a cwt. f.o.b. and the market undertone is steady, although the packers' buyers are predicting easier prices later in the week.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Jan. 12.—The export trade in Canadian grain here today was extremely dull. A stronger market for oats, and prices were advanced one cent per bushel; Ontario No. 2 white oats were advanced one cent per bushel; Ontario No. 2 white being quoted at 66 cents; No. 3 grade at 64 cents, and No. 4 grade at 62 cents per bushel, ex-store.

An advance of 20 cents per barrel was announced for spring wheat grades of flour, which makes a net rise for the year so far of 30 cents per barrel. While the undertone of winter wheat grades was firm, no change in prices was announced.

The feature of the local egg situation was the stronger feeling that developed for storage grades, and prices were marked up two cents per dozen. Fresh goods were unchanged. The demand for butter was limited and prices were unchanged. There was no change in the condition of the chees market, the feeling being firm with current receipts of fodder-made goods quoted at 18 1-2 to 19 cents per pound. and No. 2 grade at 17 1-2 to 18 cents per pound.

Crop beans were steady at $2.70 to $2.80 per bushel.

EGG PRICES

OTTAWA, Jan. 12.—Very little change has taken place in the general situation with regard to eggs during the past week. Ontario country shippers are paying: Extra 60c, first 44c to 50c, and making sales of Extras 65c, First 55c, F.o.b. Chicago prices have advanced slightly and the prospects are that higher prices will rule for all grades.

Toronto jobbing: Fresh Specials 76c, Extras 73c to 75c. Storage Extras, 55c to 56c; Firsts 52 to 53c; Seconds 46c to 47c.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Jan. 12.— Accelerated by an unexpected big decrease of the United States visible supply of wheat and by a lively demand from domestic millers, the wheat market today climbed to the highest prices yet this season May delivery touching 1.85. Closing quotations on wheat were strong ata 7-8 to 4 1-4 cents net advance; May 184 3-4 to 185 and July 156 1-8 to 156 1-4.

Corn finished 7-8 to 1 5-8 cents up, oats varying from 1-8 cent off to 1-4 cent gain, and provisions 7 to 27 cents higher.

BEEN IN PRISON 28 TIMES IN 26 YEARS

LONDON, Jan. 13.—(United Press).—If ever a Victor Hugo wants a character to out Valjean, the hero of "Les Miserables," let Elsie Andrews be paged.

Life, to Elsie, means just police courts and prisons. She scarcely walks out of one before she steps into the other. Only 26 years old, she has a record of 38 convictions for violation of the law. Jail is so nice and quiet that Elsie is nervous when she's outside. Every little sound along the street—the fall of a leaf or the flutter of a bird—sounds to her like the tread of a policeman. And yet—

The other day when a big London bobby arrested her for loitering, Elsie thought the law was going a bit too far. She broke a plateglass window before reaching the police station and another plateglass window when she got there. After that, she contented herself with biting a policeman.

The judge sentenced her to six months' hard labor, and detailed the strongest man in the Aldershot police to take her to the Winchester jail.

All the world loves a lover. Anyway, you never see a good one without a date.

"I was Greatly Distressed With Pains in the Back"

Mr. Alfred McNeil, Chapel Rock, Alta., writes:

"During the winter of 1920-21, I was greatly distressed with pains in my back and felt tired and depressed most of the time. Particularly during the night I was troubled with frequent urination, some nights having to rise almost every hour. I tried several different treatments without success, until finally I began using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and they relieved my condition before I had finished the first box. I am feeling better this summer than I have for years, and although in my 67th year, can work all day without any undue fatigue."

MANY PUPILS TAKING AGRICULTURAL COURSE

About Ninety Have Already Enrolled to Take the Short Course at Centreville.

BAILIEBORO, Jan. 13.—The agricultural short course that is being conducted in the town hall at Centreville, is being largely attended. During the first week the number of names on the roll in the young men's class have increased to about forty-five members, while each day there are always several visitors as quite a number of the older men of the community visit the class whenever they have the opportunity, and take in the lectures and demonstrations.

The names enrolled in the young ladies class have also increased to about forty members, and they also have several visitors daily. The sewing class will only last for the remainder of this week, when the girls will have a complete change and take the remaining two weeks in household science. Mrs. Ailsworth, of Toronto has had complete charge of the girls sewing class, and the girls claim that they have derived much benifit from even the one week's course.

During the past week the young men have had a special course in sheep and hogs. Several market lambs have been killed and the boys have had the privelege of judging a class of sheep, seeing them butchered, and dressed. Mr. F. C. Patterson the district representative and Mr. Fraser Ross who is conducting the class, took the class of young men to Peterboro on Thursday to show them through the Canadian Packing Company's plant, and while there they had to grade a number of hogs. This weeks course is principally based on judging live stock. The boys will visit several of the herds of live stock on the near by farms and will judge classes of both cattle and horses. They also intend to visit the stock yards, and abattoirs, city dairy, etc., in Toronto during the latter part of this week.

Car Traffic Stopped

The snow which fell on Wednesday night last made the highway between Port Hope and Peterboro almost impossible for cars to travel on. On Thursday many motorists found it necessary to be drawn through snow banks and even on Friday and Saturday very few attempted to go through.

The sleighing is excellent on all roads now, and there is an abundance of heavy loads travelling to and fro on both highway and side roads.

There is considerable traffic on the lower end of Rice Lake between Woodduck Landing and Gores Landing, but with the exception of an occasional motor car there is very little traffic at the head of the lake as yet.

Personals

Mrs. Wm. Fell has returned to her home in Peterboro after spending a week the guest of her daughter Mrs. Roy Greer.

Miss. Kathleen Isbister of Peterboro spent the week end at her home in Centreville.

Miss. Loretta Barnard of Peterboro spent the week end, the guest of her parents.

Mr. Hy. Dawson has returned from Toronto, where he has been visiting his son Mr. Jno. Dawson.

SOUTH AFRICA RESUMES GOLD

Restoring Gold Standard on July 1st Next Government Decides.

EXPERTS' ADVICE

PRETORIA, Union of South Africa, Jan. 13.—(Canadian Press).—As an outcome of recommendations made by Dr. G. Vissering, president of the Netherlands Bank of Amsterdam, and Professor E. W. Kemmerer of Princeton University, the Government has decided to resume gold payments. Dr. Vissering and Prof. Kemmerer were invited by the South African Government last October to visit this country and make an inquiry into the desirability of the South African Union introducing a gold standard independently of Great Britain.

The commissioners recommended a resumption of gold payments on July 1 next, and with a view to assisting in the restoration of the gold standard and its maintenance when restored, they have recommended that the South African Reserve Bank henceforth should operate in the open market more actively than hitherto.

Accordingly, the Government has decided that it will not introduce legislation postponing resumption of gold payments beyond June 30, and specie payments will be resumed July 1, or at such earlier date as may be necessary under the existing legislation.

VIENNA HAS DIVORCE FEVER

VIENNA, (United Press).—Vienna is having a very bad attack of divorce fever. By many persons this is attributed to a marriage fever which swept the country in the days immediately following the return of the Austrian soldiers from the World War. Other persons claim that the housing situation is responsible. During 1924 an average of almost three hundred divorces per month were granted in the local courts.

CARNIVAL AT BETHANY RINK SATURDAY NIGHT

Many Different Styles of Costumes—Personal Mention.

BETHANY, Jan. 12.— Messrs. Thorndyke and Bigelow staged a carnival Saturday evening on the rink. The ice was in good condition and well lighted. Many and varied were the costumes in evidence. Indian Chief in real buckskin and bow and arrow; armoured knight, with enough armour to withstand a machine gun; old Uncle Sam with his high hat, and stars and stripes; two neat girls dressed as young men with Charlie Chaplin mustache, that would captivate the heart of any young girl. Butterfly, a very gorgeous specimen which would be welcomed in the collection of any person interested in the insect world; clowns in their fun-making dress. The comic costume which won first prize would be the envy of any buff orpington cock of the feathered world. Many other costumes were also there.

The potato race was a new feature and well contested, having seven entries. The participants starting from one end of the rink, skating to the opposite end, pick up a potato off the ice and bring it back and hand it to a person and repeat until they had delivered five of the spuds.

Prizes were awarded for the following races and events as follows:

Ladies' race, four times around rink—1 Helen McKimmon; 2 Winnie Dawe.

Men's race, seven laps—1 W. Fallis; 2 Rex Dawe; 3 L. Driver.

Boys' race, under 15—1 F. Hamilton; 2 L. Steer.

Potato race—1 K. Thorndyke; 2 F. Hamilton.

EVANGELISM IS EMPHASIZED BY REV. DR. HARPER

Fundamental to Success of Church He Declares in Sermon at Millbrook Church.

SAVED ENGLAND

Praised Leadership of Rev. Dr. Moore in Conducting Prohibition Campaign.

MILLBROOK, Jan. 13.—Rev. Dr. Harper, secretary of Social Service and Evangelism, Toronto, preached in the Methodist church on Sunday morning, the congregation being of a fair size in spite of the severe cold.

Basing his remarks upon Matthew 25: 33 to 46, Dr. Harper gave an interesting and inspiring account of the work with which he is connected, stating that of three great departments of the church—missionary, educational, moral reform and evangelism—the latter is less known than the other two, yet its work stands at the foundation of all the activities of the church, and is fundamental to its success. John Wesley saved England from a bloody revolution by a campaign of evangelism from Lands' End to north of the Tweed, and the church has been true to his policy of personal salvation through Christ ever since. Methods may change, but the underlying principle is the same. Some of the means employed today are summer schools in all conferences, winter schools in a number of them, Bible study groups when as many as two hundred men, in some churches, under able leadership, meet together to concentrate upon the life of Christ, going out to translat into actual practice what they have learned, to the benefit of church and community. "Overpowered by the information and insight gained during the study hour, I have seen men sit for an hour, silent, mastered by the influence of the Holy Spirit."

Prohibition Leader.

Some reference was made to the excellent service the department had rendered during th recent plebiscite campaign, and specially to the capable leadership of Rev. Dr. Moore, who is at its head, but who, under strong pressure, took charge of the temperance work for the entire province on the stipulation that he would not have to look after finance. However, with not one dollar in the treasury, with no literature, or other advertising matter, ready for broadcasting, and with no organization effected, he had "sweat blood, lived under tremendous pressure night and day for weeks, and really given up ten years of his life", until, thanks to the strong common sense of the methods employed, and the splendid support of rural Ontario, victory was assured. In a recent address in Toronto, Rev. Father Minnehan said: "I take off my hat to Rev. T. Albert Moore, the best organizer we have in this country today."

Child welfare work is another phase of activity the department carries on successfully, and its importance can hardly be overestimated since we are probably on the eve of one of the greatest developments in immigration Canada has ever seen. Laying the foundation solidly in the young life that truth, sincerity, righteousness, and honor are the principles most worth cultivating, is a vital necessity, else we shall be destroyed at the very core of our national existence. Miss Beatty, a daughter of the late Governor Beatty, of Parry Sound, has charge of this work in Toronto, going to the juvenile court, and working in a variety of ways to save the boys and girls "to themselves, to the church, and to the great, loving heart of God."

Care Of Girls.

The splendid service rendered by the Home in Nova Scotia, which the Methodist and Presbyterian churches jointly support, where between seventy and eighty girls, who have been committed from the Magistrate's court, are saved from the street, and the red light district, and placed under loving influences, was detailed. The "Bethany Home" in Montreal, which rescues fallen women, "who have found the wrong path," was also referred to, the speaker strongly condemning the double standard of morals "which permits one young life to be thrown upon the shores of life's sea, broken and disgraced, while society welcomes and even honors the one responsible for the wrecked hopes, the whitened hairs and bowed heads of parents, spent in grief and shame."

A solo, "Heavenly Father, We Praise Thee", by Miss Ethel Richardson was much enjoyed. The appeal for a special offering for the work of evangelism and moral reform met with a generous response.

Personal Mention.

Miss Blanche Clarry, who has been spending some months with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Clarry, returned to her duties as a trained nurse in New York, last week. MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS.

Mrs. M. O'Connor, Whitestone, Ont., writes:—"I have been troubled, most of my life, with shortness of breath, palpitation of the heart, and fainting spells. I was advised, by a friend, to try Milburn's H. & N. Pills, which I did, and at once found relief, and I have never had a really bad spell since. I am 80 years of age and I always keep them in the house, and feel that with their help I will see many years yet. I always recommend them to anyone who is suffering from heart trouble."

BEAR.

Russia claims she is disarming. Says her army and navy have been reduced by 48,000 recently, which brings their membership down to not much over 550,000.

The 1925 outlook is fairly peaceful along the Russian frontier. The Reds have found that propaganda is more effective than bullets.

GIFTS.

Philanthropists gave 130 million dollars to education and health in 1924.

These gifts eventually will make the average person more prosperous, according to the elder John D. Rockefeller's theory. He believes that poverty is the result of ignorance and disease, and that, with these two causes removed, poverty will vanish. It is a plausible idea, though a lot of near-poverty is due to excessive prosperity of others. There is just so much to go roun ," no more.

TRAVELLED THE WORLD BUT

'Never Found Anything to Equal Zam-Buk'

Mr. Henry C. Davis, a widely-travelled railway engineer, now of South 17th St., Kansas City, U.S.A., writes that he has found nothing in any quarter of the globe that compares with Zam-Buk for healing. He says:—"As a first-aid I have used Zam-Buk in innumerable instances for cuts, wounds, bruises and similar injuries sustained in my engineering work.

A REAL ANTISEPTIC HEALER.

"I also tried Zam-Buk for a rather common trouble in this country—skin poisoning by poison ivy. Disfiguring sores appeared on the hands, and other parts of the body after being in contact with the poisonous plant. Zam-Buk speedily cooled the affected surfaces, drew the poison right out, and healed my skin perfectly.

"Another time, whilst travelling, I suffered from a virulent outbreak of eczema, contracted through careless use of a public towel. I had medical advice and tried in addition, many special remedies without finding the hoped-for relief. Zam-Buk treatment took away all the pain and burning irritation, and quickly purified and healed the deep troublesome sores. It made my skin quite well."

ZAM-BUK 18—

unequalled for cuts, chapped hands, chilblains, cold-sores, burns, scalds, etc., to check bleeding, inflammation and pain, and bring swift clean healing. Also for eczema, poisoned sores, ulcers, piles, bad legs. Of pure herbal origin, Zam-Buk is infinitely superior to artificial ointments composed of pore-clogging fats and crude drugs. Dealers everywhere sell Zam-Buk, 50c. box, 3 for $1.25.

ZAM-BUK FREE & POST-PAID.—The Proprietors of this wonderful herbal healer offer every reader a GENEROUS SAMPLE BOX. Send request to-day to Zam-Buk Mfg. Co., Dupont St., Toronto.

FOR SKIN DISEASES & INJURIES

WARS HEAVIEST

advantage and in the interests of all classes in this country.

Tax-Free Bonds.

The Premier said that although it was appalling it was nevertheless true that the whole capital cost of the war to Canada, $1,670,406,242, was still unpaid, and that not a cent had been raised in taxation to pay it during the years 1914 to 1920. Moreover it was all borrowed at higher rates of interest than money could be borrowed at today. Much of the interest today on this amount was on bonds given out by a previous government which were made tax free.

Despite this, Canada with her natural resources was able to offer to the world more than any other country in the world. Regarding immigration, the Premier said that 300,000 persons had been brought to Canadian shores within the last three years. The talk of exodus to the United States, he said, was exaggerated and it was unpatriotic. He said many thousands were included in this movement who never should have been included as Canadian citizens. Moreover, there were other thousands who went to the United States for a temporary period who were included as permanent migrants to the United States. The figures showed, he continued, that thousands were coming back every month. The Premier said that once more Canada might expect the flood of immigration which came after the advent of the Laurier government in 1896.

Assisted Passages.

He referred to the system of assisted passages to Old Country people in connection with the overseas committee. "Under this scheme it is intended that 3,000 British farmers shall be brought out here in the next three years," said the Premier. A vigorous policy was being pursued regarding settlers from Norway, Sweden, Denmark and Holland.

Regarding the tariff, the Premier said, "never forget that the customs tariff is a tax. If levied on the instruments of production, it constitutes a burden to be borne by industry, a burden which will make its presence felt at every stage of the manufacturing and distributing processes and a burden to be carried ultimately by the consumers."

Railway Problem.

Mr. King said that the tariff was not the only question in Canada today, and that transportation was if anything more in need of solution. "No one can have followed the representations made before the Railway Commission and before the Government with respect to freight rates without coming to the conclusion that the time is due for a consideration of the problems in a comprehensive manner." Inasmuch as it was before the courts at the present time, the Premier said he was precluded from expressing his views. "However," he added significantly, "I should not be surprised to see the ensuing session one in which the problems of transportation would be most prominently to the fore."

Mr. King then reviewed the transportation question, particularly in railway history since his Government came into power. He said that his government, despite any personal opinions, felt that the return to the private interests of the railways was not desirable nor feasible. The government had neither committed itself or the railways to public ownership but had promised to give public ownership a fair trial. The government had secured the right man to manage the railways, and had taken them out of political control. He pointed out that under the chance given by the government that since 1920 the operating deficit had dropped from $36,842,970 to $6,018,199 in 1923. The Grand Trunk earnings in 1923 had turned the deficit into an operating profit of $11,656,422. Total deficits after paying interest and fixed charges had also gone from $74,378,318 in 1920 to $52,779,350 in 1923.

PRICES.

Wholesale prices are moving up. In November, according to Dun's organization, there was an advance of more than two cents on the dollar.

A higher cost of living is the price of a full wallet. For most people, the value of the dollar (its buying power) shrinks as fast as their income gains.

CLOTHING ROTS IN WAREHOUSES

Relief Materials Sent to Victims of Japanese Earthquake Are Wasted.

OFFICIALS BLUNDER

TOKIO, Jan. 13.—(Canadian Press).—Vast quantities of clothing and other materials sent to this country from the American Continent for relief purposes following the earthquake disaster have been allowed to rot in the warehouses at Shibaura and the situation has brought about a municipal scandal such as this city has seldom witnessed.

Blundering of officials during the confusion following the earthquake and fire is held responsible for the waste, although a thorough investigation is to be made. Plans are being made to dispose of the goods by auction to the highest bidder, and a belated effort will be made to have the stuff distributed in a manner which conforms as much as possible with the desires of those who sent it originally.

The goods completely fill three large warehouses which have been kept tightly closed for many months. Due to the lack of ventilation and the dampness of the old buildings, much of the foodstuffs, clothing and other material has become so mouldy that it is unfit for human use.

Beside the destruction wrought by time and the weather, huge colonies of rats and cats have grown up in the buildings. The bedlam which prevails in the warehouses at night is enough to frighten the bravest heart, according to Nichi Nichi, and as a result it has been impossible to secure the services of night watchmen.

THE RIGHT MAN.

(By Cynthia Grey)

He'll be the one person in the world who can make you unhappy.

Dozens of men can take you out to dinner and theater and make you happy, but only the man you love can cut you to the heart.

You'll want to ask him to supper to show off your home-making instinct.

You'll want to pick out his TIES and tell him the kind of collars he ought to wear—

And read "Poems of Passion" aloud to him.

You'll wonder how he used to look when he was a BABY.

And more than that, you'll NOT be bored when he tells you how he sneaked into the circus tent without paying or skipped school when he was a boy!

CROSSINGS.

The safety campaign appears to be reducing fatal accidents at railroad grade crossings. Deaths are fewer than a year ago, and the safety campaigners claim credit. Less pleasing is the report that injuries resulting from crossing smashes show a slight increase in latest reports.

However, the number of autos in use has increased by about a fifth since a year ago. So crossing crashes, for every 1,000 cars average materially fewer.

Paste it on your windshield: More than 8,500 Americans killed crossing railroad tracks in 1924.

LACE GOWNS.

Black lace gowns are seen with brilliant touches of color at the belt, either an overgrown flower or a large rosette of brilliant silk.

CITY TOBOGGAN SLIDE ASSURED BY ORDERS GIVEN TO ENGINEER FOR IMMEDIATE CONSTRUCTION

Start From Hunter Street Bridge and Run Through Park Gate—Mayor's Project Carried After Debate on Possibility of Street Slides.

TRY TO SUSPEND ROADS COMMISSION

Alderman McIntyre Made Fruitless Attempt to Reduce Number of Committees—Believes They Clutter Up the Council and Impede Business.

Peterborough City Council's first regular meeting passed very tranquilly last night, and while there was more talking on the sidelines than is usual in a decorous assembly, business was expeditiously handled under the steadying hand of Mayor J. J. Turner. To take off the rough spots, he said, if any remained after the day's activity in appointing chairmen of committees, the Mayor entertained the members of the Council at an informal supper in Hooper's parlours after the session.

The high spots in last night's meeting were Alderman McIntyre's proposal that the number of committees be reduced from seven to five; Alderman Crowe's expressed desire to see the last of the bothersome Suburban Areas Commission; and the decision of the Council acceding to the importunities of the Mayor, to proceed immediately with the construction of a toboggan slide.

The chiefest of these, sinceit was one of the few that survived the debate and was given concrete form, was the proposal to construct a toboggan slide. The question arose on a request from the Home and School Council that the City Fathers take steps to protect the children who coast on city streets in danger from automobiles and trains. It was first suggested that certain streets be set aside as protected areas on set days; then that the matter be referred to a committee for a report and finally, after giving the Aldermen their heads the Mayor presented his cool request for authorization for the City Engineer to commence construction forthwith of a toboggan slide to cost about $500 and he won the day. The slide will be constructed at Hunter street bridge, running from the bridge side walk through the gate of Riverside —now the James Stevenson—Park.

It is proposed to make it removable, so that it will not present an eyesore to detract from the summer beauty of Hunter street bridge. The motion giving effect to the Mayor's proposal was moved by Aldermen Denne and Greene, and an amendment by Aldermen Rife and Meyers that further consideration be given at some future date was defeated.

Reduce Committees

Alderman McIntyre expressed the opinion that too many committees you seem to have got them tonight."

Suburban Commission

Alderman Crowe's opinion of the Suburban Areas Commission is that it should be assigned a place in the museum along with the corkscrew, the hairpin and the horse. It was called to his attention last night by the presentation of three applications for the position of city representative on the Commission, from Robert Morrison, T. E. Sargent and W. T. Holloway. Action on these was deferred a month to allow further applications, which it is believed are pending, to be received, it being understood that the city's interests are still represented by ex-Alderman Morrison.

Alderman Crowe, declaring that taxation is ruining the country and quoting from a bank report to justify his statement, asked that the Government be memorialized in an effort to eradicate the Suburban Commission with its tendency to spend money.

At the very least, he said, it should be stopped functioning for four or five years. A resolution will be framed in proper form by the City Solicitor, and if adopted by the Peterborough Council copies will be forwarded to other municipalities for their endorsation and a united effort may be made to influence the Government to suspend the operations of the Commission.

Alderman Crowe was ably seconded by Alderman Stocker, whose attacks on the Suburban Commission have been not merely merciless but positively malignant. He said last night that "the Commission is all right if managed by sober men."

Park Lease Debt

Though Riverside Park may be dead as the name of one of Peterborough's play places, it is a lively ghost indeed to the Peterborough Baseball Association, which still owes $750 from the amount of the lease for 1924. The offer of the City Council to accept $500 in full payment up to December 31 was not accepted by the Association, and City Solicitor Joseph Wearing was given authority to sue if necessary for the full amount of $750. The motion was by Aldermen Crowe and McIntyre, and was passed despite fresh developments reported unofficially by Alderman Phelan.

Board of Health

On the retirement of George H. Duncan and James Lynch from the Board of Health, where they have served twelve years, Alderman McIntyre, Dr. J. M. O'Brien and Claude H. Rogers were appointed for 1925. Alderman Turner moved a sincere vote of thanks to the retiring members expressing appreciation of their faithful and efficient service.

Other Appointments

William Stevens was re-appointed to the Public Library Board taking his seat for a further three years.

Alderman N. E. Phelan was re-appointed as a member of the committee to administer the funds for charitable purposes under the will of the late Elmira Foley. Sheriff F. J. A. Hall last year succeeded his illustrious father as the second member of the committee.

Return to Give Thanks

One of the little incidents that makes life on the City Council worth living was the receipt of a note of acknowledgement and thanks from the Sisters in charge of St. Vincent's Orphanage, expressing appreciation of the grant of $25 towards a Christmas treat for the children under their care. Not many benefactions of the Council are acknowledged, and one Alderman was prompted to remark "Where are the other nine?"

Civic Church Service

Invitations were received from Rev. W. Harold Young of George Street Methodist Church and Rev. Dr. R. C. Blagrave of St. Johns' Anglican Church, to the City Council to attend divine service with their congregations. Rev. Mr. Young having invited the Council last year after an earlier invitation had been accepted, it was decided to attend George Street Church next Sunday. A letter of thanks will be sent to Dr. Blagrave.

Census of Beekeepers

When City Assessor W. J. Henry makes his rounds this year he will make a special count of the beekeepers in the city, for statistical purposes by special request.

Honor Mr. Elcome

A communication from Miss Elcome, commenting on the changing of the name "Harvey street" to "Elcome Crescent", offered to pay the costs of the revision, amounting to $25. The Council will inform her that the city is glad to perform the service as a tribute to her esteemed father and no re-payment is desired.

Sewer Construction

A by-law was passed, authorizing the construction of a sewer on Antrim street, the rate being changed from 5 1-2 per cent to 5 per cent.

Motion Falls Flat

With so many people sounding alarms about one thing and another that it does not know which way to jump, council received in apathy Alderman Crowe's annual kick at the motion authorizing the Mayor to sanction the payment of expenses of deputations. The bills should come before the Finance Committee, Alderman Crowe said when the motion came up just before adjournment last night. He found no seconder.

WHAT THE CITY COUNCIL DID

Decided to build a toboggan slide.
Changed the name "Riverside Park" to "James Stevenson Park".
Appointed Alderman M. McIntyre, Dr. J. M. O'Brien and C. H. Rogers to the City Board of Health.
Appointed William Stevens to the Public Library Board.
Decided to go to Church on Sunday in a body.
Moved a vote of thanks to G. H. Duncan and James Lynch, retiring from the Board of Health.
Enjoyed the hospitality of Mayor Turner at supper.

MAGNESIA BEST FOR YOUR INDIGESTION

Warns Against Doping Stomach With Artificial Digestents

Most people who suffer, either occasionally or chronically from gas, sourness and indigestion, have now discontinued disagreeable diets, patent foods and the use of harmful drugs, stomach tonics, medicines and artificial digestents, and instead, following the advice so often given in these columns, take a teaspoonful or two tablets of Bisurated Magnesia in a little water after meals with the result that their stomach no longer troubles them, they are able to eat as they please and they enjoy much better health. Those who use Bisurated Magnesia never dread the approach of meal time because they know this wonderful anti-acid and food corrective, which can be obtained from any good drug store, will instantly neutralize the stomach acidity, sweeten the stomach, prevent food fermentation, and without the slightest pain or discomfort. Try this plan yourself, but be certain to get pure Bisurated Magnesia especially prepared for stomach use.

A debutante told us she had a fever blister but we could stay home and play bridge.

Voice Of The People

Indian River, Jan. 7th.

Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—The County Clerk replies to my former letters by quoting some more minutes. It was shown in the last letter that how the minutes quoted were not correct.

He now comes out with a fresh bunch of minutes of the Sub-Area Commission as a "body corporate" and the trotting out of these minutes, he is evidently trying to befuddle and confuse the public, as to the powers possessed by the Commission.

He and the Commission evidently hold the view that if they hold a sitting behind closed doors in 1922, assume a certain piece of road, and the Dept. also behind closed doors approve of such assumption, it at once creates the commission a sort of super-man or demi-god who can go ahead in 1923-24 and spend tens of thousands of dollars of the people's money how it likes and where it likes, regardless of the wish of the people who have to use the road and have to pay for it.

While this view is contrary to all sense of justice and unthinkable in a British country, it is the view publicly advanced and acted upon by the county council and its clerk, as well as by the Commission.

In this connection he further tries to confuse the public by his reference to Sub-area roads and county-provincial roads.

Now common sense teaches us, and the Dept. insists on the fact, that there must be only one leading road going to any one place, no matter what it is called, and if money is spent on two roads a lot of it must be wasted, so that the only term to be thought of is Leading Road.

A further illustration of the power taken to itself by the Commission is in connection with the County road superintendent's salary.

In 1922 the County Council entered into a contract with the road superintendent that he would give his full time to the work of looking after the county roads for the sum of $2100 per annum.

Some time after the commission decided to give him another $1000 of the people's money on work and time on roads that were already contracted for, and this still continued.

Was this within their power

While it is true that the commission have jurisdiction over certain county roads, it is also true that the county council have jurisdiction over the commission, and they in turn are answerable to the people.

Most people have the idea that a leading road should be built where the people who have to use it 12 months in the year wish to have it, and that it is the duty of the County Council to see that this is done.

That is the view held by the Department of Highways is evidenced by the fact that last spring, when the ratepayers and the township councils of Otonabee and Asphodel protested to the Department against the commission spending so much money in Otonabee where it was not wanted, the Dept. did not take action with the commission, but with the County Council, asking them to have a survey of the various roads before making any change in the location of the leading road to Norwood from the place designated by the Department.

When the council at a meeting held on April 2nd turned down this request and later permitted the commission to go on spending several thousand dollars more on the north road, the Dept. then decided that as their policy is not to interfere with local roads, that it was none of their business how much money the Peterboro County Council spent on the north road, but so far as the Dept. were concerned, while they were prepared and ready to pay 60 per cent of the cost of all work done on south road, there would be no more money for the north road until such time as council had a survey made of both roads as requested, and demonstrate to the satisfaction of the Dept. that the north road was the better place on which to build the leading highway.

What will be the effect of this decision?

Probably one of the first effects will be that the great bulk of the nearly $18,000 spent on less than two miles of the north road will have to be scrapped, as one can hardly conceive that a reputable engineer can be found anywhere in the whole wide world who would recommend, as the Sub-Area Commission have been doing, trying to build a leading highway on a road 6 miles long on which there are 25 hills, running from a 6% to a 12¾ per cent grade, while another road can be got only 4¾ miles in length, without a single hill from one end to the other, having a 6 per cent grade, the first cost of which per mile would be less than the other, while the cost of maintenance for all time would be very much less, owing to the vast beds of gravel close at hand.

Yours truly,
SAMUEL ARMSTRONG.

THE SCHEDULE.

Many parents keep a daily schedule to be followed by their children and thus prepare them for greater regularity of life in later years.

The Mann family wasn't particularly attentive to such matters and this is typical of a great many families.

A program laid out by certain school organizations is as follows:

7 a. m.—Rise bathe, drink glass of water, clean the teeth. Setting-up exercises, if desired.

7.30—Breakfast. Wash hands. Do chores about house. Proceed to school at 8. 30 to 9. During morning recess drink at least one glass of water and get outdoor excercise if weather permits.

1 p. m.—Noon meal. Drink more water and wash hands and face. Follow this by rest. Don't be too eager to play right after eating.

2 to 2:30—Begin afternoon play. For older children this hour is extended to 3.30 or 4, as school closes later. Take mid-afternoon lunch of water.

5.30 to 6.30—Evening meal. Clean teeth right after eating. Play home games or study and get to bed early. Either bathe or carefully wash face and hands.

Reduce Your Fat Without Dieting

Years ago, the formula for fat reduction was "diet"—"exercise." Today it is "Take Marmola Prescription Tablets." Friends tell friends—these friends tell others. They eat substantial food, live as they like and still reduce steadily and easily without going through long sieges of tiresome exercise and starvation diet. Marmola Prescription Tablets are sold by all druggists the world over at one dollar for a box, or if you prefer you can order direct from the Marmola Co., General Motors Bldg., Detroit, Mich.

EASY TO DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

You Can Bring Back Color and Lustre With Sage Tea and Sulphur.

When you darken your hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it's done so naturally, so evenly. Preparing this mixture, though, at home is mussy and troublesome. At little cost you can buy at any drug store the ready-to-use preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients called "Wyeths' Sage and Sulphur Compound." You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning all gray hair disappears, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully darkened, glossy and luxuriant.

Gray, faded hair, though no disgrace, is a sign of old age, and as we all desire a youthful and attractive appearance, get busy at once with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound and look years younger.

Voice Of The People

ENTER UNITED CHURCH.

Knox College, Toronto.

Editor, Peterboro Examiner.

Dear Sir,—Would you please publish this letter in order that those to whom it may concern, may know that my final decision in face of the Church Union issue is to go into the United Church of Canada as a member after June 10th next, and later, after graduation, to enter its ministry.—Very truly yours,

M. E. R. Boudreau.

Editor, The Examiner:

Sir,—My attention has been called to a report of a speech delivered by Rev. M. C. McKinnon on Sunday evening last and reported in your issue of the 5th inst. The headline, stating that Rev. Mr. McKinnon denied the truth of statements made by anti-union speakers, rather startled me, and I wondered if it was warranted by the said speech. I find, on studying the article, that, according to your report, Mr. McKinnon denied the truth of the statements made by myself, for I was the only speaker at that meeting. The report appearing in The Examiner was a very fair and unbiassed report, and therefore Mr. McKinnon must have had some other source of information which he used as a basis for his attack.

I do not like the designation "anti-unionist." I have always been a Presbyterian, and I am not aware of any change taking place that has transformed me into anything else. In the first place, it was very unbecoming of Mr. McKinnon to desecrate his pulpit by attempting to make it appear as if I, another Presbyterian minister of the same standing as himself, had stated anything at a public meeting that was untrue. I want to deny the allegation in the strongest possible terms, and challenge Mr. McKinnon, who was not present, and, therefore, knows nothing of what I said except by report, or anyone else to substantiate the charge that I made any statement that was, in any sense, untrue.

I much regret that church union should have caused Mr. McKinnon to make such an attack upon me because I have enjoyed the hospitality of his home in his former charge at Mountain and, therefore, it amazes me that a friend should make such an unwarranted attack upon a brother minister.

The subject of church union, however, is not a personal matter, and we must deal with it not as it formerly was, as an academic question when the people voted on it in 1911 and 1915. It is now a matter of stern reality, and church union is being consummated on the terms of a specific Act of Parliament, and on no other terms. Mr. Mackinnon refers to the fact that the the United Free Church of Scotland and the Moderator of the Church of Scotland have approved of it. They might well do so, because it does not concern them. It concerns the members of the Presbyterian Church in Canada and they alone. The churches in Scotland have heard only one side of the case, and that, too, by such men as Dr. Clarence Mackinnon and Dr. C. W. Gordon; but they have not heard of the strength of the opposition, or of the methods that were used at Ottawa to push church union through or of the public ridicule to which the Westminster Confession of Faith has been held up by the leaders of the union movement. The fact that the United Free Church Record of September carried an article stating that the only opponents of church union in Canada were the "Anglicans and the 'wets'," reveals how little they really know in Scotland about the so-called union movement in Canada.

Mr. Mackinnon makes much of the fact that the Pan Presbyterian Council has approved of the union. I have a letter in my possession from the president of the Alliance of the Reformed Churches Throughout the World, holding the Presbyterian system, and he states that the action of both the Eastern and Western sections of the Executive Committee of the Council heard only one side of the question, and the action they have taken is "purely advisory," and the Pan Presbyterian Council itself will not meet until it meets in Cardiff in June of this year. The fact that the United Church of Canada seeks admission to the Pan Presbyterian Council is sufficient proof that the Presbyterians voting into union have ceased to be Presbyterians because they are asking admission to a Presbyterian body, whereas those Presbyterians who remain so do not need to make a similar appeal for they are already within the fold.

Mr. Mackinnon denies that there is coercion. My statement on Friday night was that certain ministers in a B.C. Presbytery had been given only two days more by the convenor of the Union Committee to decide to enter the United Church. I still adhere to that statement. The fact that Mr. Mackinnon was not one of these does not alter the fact; but I notice that what many ministers consider the pressure of the Union Committee in their policy to poll every minister in every Presbytery, Mr. Mackinnon's name is one of those which appeared in the public press as stating that he intended to enter the union. In other words, Mr. Mackinnon allowed his name to be used as propaganda to lead his people into union. He did not need to do this except for this pressure by the Union Committee, because Section 4, Sub-section B of the Bill states: "That any minister of the negotiating churches may, within six months after the coming into force of this Act, notify the clerk or secretary of the General Council, in writing, of his intention not to become a minister of the United Church, and, in such an event, he shall not be deemed to have become a minister of the United Church." Furthermore, if there is no coercion in the Bill—thanks to the amendments secured by the Presbyterian Church Association—there is much worse.

Mr. Mackinnon asks, 'What about Regina?' In the city of Regina there are five churches. The total vote polled for union was 1,086, and against union 463. By having a majority in each congregation, the Christian brethern that voted for union are now in possession of all the property in which these two groups of Presbyterians shared and paid for together, and the minority have been driven out of their church homes and are meeting next Sunday in a building apart from these churches as a Presbyterian Church. Not only so, but this minority loses its right to any share in the general property or the general trust funds of the Presbyterian Church. Mr. Mackinnon asks what of Regina? He is welcome to any joy or glory he can get out of such an iniquitous and high-handed piece of coercive legislation.

I repeat again, without fear of contradiction, that we are holding the strategic points in the West. We have secured amendments in British Columbia protecting minorities in every congregation in British Columbia. We expect to have amendments made in the other Western Provinces which, when the vote is declared, will have the same effect. The vote in Saskatchewan is not being taken on the same terms as it is being taken in Ontario, for there it may be decided by a show of hands at a congregational meeting, and at this season of the year, when the temperature is often 30 below zero, as I have experienced it recently myself in Prince Albert, it is a most unjust way of deciding the transfer of the property which the Presbyterian Church as a whole has built up.

I repeat again that the General Council "has all kinds of autocratic powers." Section 17 A. and B. shows that the United Church may function by resolution of the General Council, and its powers, as defined in that section, are most certainly autocratic. I repeat again that Section 22 states that the courts of the Church, save as to non-concurring congregations, shall continue to have and enjoy all their respective powers and privileges, but only until the first meeting of the General Council. The first meeting of the General Council, Section 21 B, will be on the 10th day of June, 1925.

Mr. Mackinnon contends that the Barrier Act does not require a question to be submitted to the people. No one ever said it did; but it does say, "that no prepared law shall become a permanent enactment until same has been submitted to Presbytery for consideration." The Church Union Bill has never been submitted to Presbyteries and, as it is being voted on now, it has never even passed the General Assembly, because the amendments make it an almost entirely different Bill. The Barrier Act does not require it to go to the people; but in the early stages of the Union movement the Moderator of the General Assembly and others stated that it must go to the people. Dr. Patrick, in 1906, said "from first to last the question must be a peoples' question," and Sir Robt. Falconer, in the same year, said, "from the commencement he had put it in the forefront that it would be utter madness to go forward to a union that did not carry the whole church with it. It was absurd to think that the Assembly could force its will on the people." Dr. Herridge, in 1915, said, "I believe the matter must go on. The question must go to the people, and if the vote is not more decisive than the last vote I would oppose taking further action."

Mr. Mackinnon and his friends, the unionists, are now trying to perpetrate that utter madness upon a long-suffering people who comprise the Presbyterian Church.

Another section of the Bill worth noting is Section 28B, in the light of the fact that the United Church acts by resolution of its General Council: "That nothing in this Act contained shall be deemed to limit the independent and exclusive right and power of the United Church to legislate in all matters concerning its doctrine, worship, discipline and government, including therein the right and power from time to time to frame, adopt, alter, change, add to or modify its laws, subordinate standards and formulas, and to determine and declare the same or any of them, but subject to the conditions and safeguards in that behalf contained in the Basis of Union."

With regard to the ordination of elders, I stated, and I repeat it again, that according to Section 3, Sub-section 19 (2), dealing with the Presbytery: "The elders, deacons, leaders and non-ministerial representatives of pastoral charges within the bounds equal in number to the number of ministers and chosen in accordance with the regulations to be made by the General Council." We do not know yet what regulations will be made for appointing elders, but we do know that the Methodist Church does not approve of ordained laymen.

Mr. Mackinnon asks who are the men who are "damning" the Westminster Confession of Faith? I did no use such an expression. In answer to his question, however, Sir Robert Falconer and Dr. Leslie Pidgeon held the standards of our Church up to ridicule before the Private Bills Committee in Ottawa, one stating that he did not believe it, and the other stating that he took his vows with "mental reservations." But when the latter was asked had he ever read the Westminster Confession of Faith, he had to admit that he never had at that time. Moreover, the Union pamphlet, headed "The Gospel of Anti-Unionism," quotes the doctrine of election from the Westminster Confession of Faith and ridicules it. Therefore we charge the unionists with departing from their fidelity to the Westminster Confession of Faith and Larger and Shorter Catecisms, which are not being carried into the Union but are being substituted by the "Basis of Union," to which no minister is asked to subscribe.

If, as Mr. Mackinnon says, the Unionists acknowledge the creeds of the ancient church, why have they persistently ridiculed these very creeds, and that, too, before mixed audiences of people who did not understand the interpretation of our Presbyterian doctrines. For the information of Mr. Mackinnon and all other Unionists, I would say that the Presbyterian Church will continue to exist in Canada, adhering loyally to the standards of Presbyterianism that have been accepted and loyally adhered to by the Presbyterians, both people and ministers, in every other part of the world.

Editor, The Examiner.—The votes held to date on the question of Church Union have cleared the air considerably. Hitherto it has been claimed that the minority opposed to Church Union was so small that the Unionist leaders were justified in pushing ahead to consummate Church Union. Today it is realized that they were badly mistaken and that further action should have been deferred indefinitely.

Enough congregations already have voted out of Church Union to insure that there will be a strong Presbyterian Church in all the leading centres, as well as in country districts all across the continent from Nova Scotia to British Columbia. As voting has only commenced, it seems evident that when the final returns are in such a large number of congregations will have voted not to enter Union as to insure practically the complete failure of the objectives of the early leaders of the Church Union movement.

In the report of the Union committee, submitted to the General Assembly in 1905, it was stated that, "It was universally recognized that a union of the Churches to be real and lasting must carry the consent of the entire membership." (Assembly Minutes, page 280). This report was adopted unanimously by the Assembly. This official record shows that it never was intended to proceed with Church Union in the face of such opposition as the votes held to date show exists. The present leaders of the Church Union movement, who have tried to force the issue through regardless of the opposition, are responsible for the situation which exists.

Vote Analyzed.

Take the situation in the City of Toronto. Up to a few days ago 17 Presbyterian Churches had voted to enter Church Union and 10 not to enter Union. The total vote cast in favor of Church Union was 8,530 and against Church Union 7,628, or a Unionist majority of 902. Had the congregations been divided according to the vote, it would mean that 14 had voted to enter Union and 13 against.

Take the situation in Canada as a whole. Up to a recent date the total vote in favor of Church Union was 31,000 and the opposition to Church Union about 19,500. This was in spite of the fact that many of the Ontario and Quebec congregations, in which provinces the opposition is largely centered, had not voted. Yet we were told that there wasn't much opposition to Church Union.

What, then, is the situation today? It means that those who have favored Church Union and who expected to see the Methodist, Presbyterian and Congregational Churches enter Church Union almost unanimously, and who were prepared to make sacrifices to reach that end, now realize that their expectations will not be accomplished. The mistake is going to prove a costly one. The great Methodist Church, with all its traditions and sentiments will disappear. Those Presbyterians who vote to enter Union will constitute only a small part of the new United Church, in which their influence will be only in proportion to their numbers. Instead of there being less denominations than hitherto, there will be as many if not more, as there will be a strong continuing Presbyterian Church in addition to the new United Church. Already some Congregational Churches have voted out so that there will still be a Congregational Church.

Today Presbyterians who are being asked to vote on this question, no longer have any expectation of achieving the early objectives of this movement. They are being asked to separate themselves from the Presbyterian Church, which is going to continue in Canada, in order that they may unite with a new denomination in which they will constitute but a small part of the membership.

From now on, it is to be expected that more and more Presbyterians will vote to stay with the continuing Presbyterian Church, because they see that it is going to be a strong and representative one. Among those who do so will be many who have favored Church Union, but who see that the objectives of the early leaders of the movement are not possible of accomplishment. They realize alo that the strong vote being cast against Church Union will have an important influence in the legislatures of Ontario and Quebec, where the Church Union Bill has not yet been passed, and in which provinces not a cent of Church property can be transferred until the necessary legislation is on the statue books.

To Honor His Victorious Rival For Reeveship

APSLEY, Jan. 13.—Norman Lean, the newly elected Reeve of Burleigh and Anstruther, celebrated his victory by giving a dance in St. George's Institute on Friday evening, which was attended by about 100 people. In closing his remarks he called for three cheers for victor and vanquished, which were heartily given after the singing of "For they are jolly good fellows."

FREE MASONRY IS THREATENED BY ITALIAN PREMIER'S MEASURE TO COMPEL PUBLISHING NAMES

Proposes That Details of Oaths of Secret Order Must Be Given.

STRONG OPPOSITION.

Three Former Enemies Unite to Block Mussolini's Drastic Repression.

(By Thos. B. Morgan—United Press Staff Correspondent).

ROME, Jan. 13. — Three former Italian Premiers, bitter enemies in their day, met to-day to consider joint action against the Government in view of further drastic repressive measures proposed by Premier Mussolini.

Marquis Salandra, Orlando and Giolitti held a conference and proposed meeting again to-night to discuss the situation arising from the Fascisti move in presenting bills in the Chamber of Deputies to restrict the activities of secret organizations. It was the first time since the world war that Giolitti and Salandra had spoken. In the short session of the Chamber to-day, Mussolini presented a bill regulating the membership of Government employees as well as those of provincial and communal administration, associations, clubs and fraternities.

The Premier also proposed that secret orders—and this would include the Free Masons of Italy — must present a list of their members and give details of their organizations, such as the oaths and by-laws.

This would mean the wiping out of Free Masonry in this country.

TRINITY CHURCH CONCERT

By JEANNETTE.

Trinity Methodist Church held its anniversary concert last evening, with a good attendance. The concert, of a very pleasing length and arranged in such a manner as to make it interesting from start to finish, was marked by the solo work of the visiting musicians from Toronto—Madame Fern Filion, Ferdinand Filion and Horace Lapp. Their delightful numbers were greeted with enthusiastic applause in every instance. Their programme was artistic and finished to a degree, and each excelled in a special branch of musical art.

Probably the outstanding music of the evening was that of Ferdinand Filion, violin virtuoso, who gave a remarkable exhibition of complete control of the king of stringed instruments.

His technical ability is masterly in its range and breadth. The most difficult intricacies of bowing and fingering are things of no moment, evidently, to Mr. Filion, whose programme held selections that called forth every art of the violinist. He has, in addition, a smooth, full, singing tone and an easy assurance in playing that makes his music delightful in the extreme. His first group was a charming quartette: "Intrada," Air de Lensky from "Eugene Onegin," a Spanish Dance, and "La Ronde des Lutins," the latter a particularly beautiful and well-played number, with a gypsy atmosphere. A swift, flying bow executed graceful little cadenzas of finely-spun notes, alternating with a delicate web of lace-like harmonies, done with a dancing bow. The enthusiastic applause which followed this selection brought an encore in the lovely "Ave Maria" of Schubert."

A second trio included a pensive "Hebrew Melody," legato, smoothly-flowing, the second portion played on muted strings, a pretty, descriptive bit, "Waves at Play, and "Scenes de la Czarda, Number Two," a Hungarian gypsy selection that called forth again all the musician's resources in whole passages devoted to harmonics and pizzicati. A second encore followed the conclusion of this group.

Madame Filion has an exceptionally pleasing voice, used with artistic effect. It is distinguished by clarity, sweetness and clear diction. The selections which brought out the coloratura quality of her voice were lovely. Bishop's "Lo, here the Gentle Lark," a dainty bit called "I'd be a Butterfly," and Arditi's "Il Bacio," were splendid examples of the bright, florid type of singing in which a voice of this type excels. Other pretty selections were "My Mother bids me bind my hair," Mendelssohn's "Spring Song," Strauss', "Devotion," a charming French bit "Celle gue je prefere; a sweet little love song, "Ah! Love, but a Day; an odd, effective selection in "A Monotone," and two encores, "'Tis April," and a final number, with birdlike trills in its dainty lyrical cadences. Madame Filion's last two numbers, "A Monotone" and "Il Bacio" were accompanied by the violin obligatos played by her husband.

From the point of view of youthful brilliance and striking musical ability, Horace Lapp, the accompanist of the evening, who also, by special request, played two organ numbers, was exceptional. This young man gives promise of a remarkable future. His music is characterized by a quality of youthful, triumphant buoyancy that gives it an extraordinary atmosphere His organ playing was memorable. Instead of appearing to master, by means of careful hard work, the difficult organ, he gave an impression of triumphant supremacy of its intricacies that resulted in some wonderful expressive music. Playing the organ like a piano, he produced a full, resonant volume of soaring melody with facile ease. Applause that would not be lessened or stilled sent him back for an encore. Mr. Lapp's accompaniments of difficult violin and vocal numbers throughout the evening was marked by this same quality of easy mastery and sympathetic comprehension.

The choir of Trinity Church surpassed itself last night. Over forty strong, the varied voices combined in the two numbers given in a way effective and very pleasing. Under the baton of the organist and choir leader, Mr. George H. King, with Mr. Lapp at the piano, their second number, "Goin' Home," from "The New World," by Anton Dvorak, rolled out in beautiful full-voiced effect, marked by instantaneous attack and release, and a volume of softly-phrased melody. With piano and organ accompaniment by Mr. Lapp and Mr. King, the opening number, Mendelssohn's "Judge Me, O God," was given in reverent fashion.

REV. JAMES ROLLINS WINS IN RENFREW

A Supposedly Anti-Union Church Follows Former Peterborough Pastor.

One of the latest big gains made by the United Church is the large Presbyterian Church in Renfrew, of which the Rev. James Rollins is now minister. This church has decided to enter the United Church, although it has all along been considered by the "Antis" as one of their strong centres.

Mr. Rollins' predecessor, Rev. Dr. Horne, a brother of Mr. Horne, the Anti-Union organizer, who recently spoke in St. Andrew's church, Peterborough, is himself a strong opponent of Union and still lives in Renfrew; where he has led the Anti-Union forces.

In spite of this opposition the Renfrew church has decided to go with Rev. Mr. Rollins into the Union.

Another formerly Anti-Union Church, which has voted to enter the United Church, is John Street Church, Belleville, of which the Rev. D. C. Ramsay, is the minister. It is the largest church in Belelville.

UNEMPLOYED LIST GETTING SMALLER

Over Forty Men Placed Last Week—Mostly in the Bush.

The local unemployed list has decreased considerably in the past two weeks, according to a statement from the Government Employment Bureau. Although there is nothing startling in the city at present there is not quite so many men out of work now as there was two weeks ago. At present there are 109 men in the city unemployed, while two weeks ago the total was about 130. During the past week there were 21 new applicants for work, and 44 placements. The majority of these placements were jobs in the bush.

BREAD FLOUR UP 20 CENTS TO-DAY

Gets Into Luxury Class at $5.75 a Half Barrel.

$7 PREDICTED.

The price of bread flour took another rise yesterday. Twenty cents increase on the half-barrel is recorded in today's quotations on flour to local retailers. The half barrel that is today leaving the wholesalers' hands at $5.37 1-2 will be sold in the store at $5.75, and it is anticipated that a $7 price will be reached before the ascent is finished. This is the highest quotation on flour since 1919, when flour was close to $7 for the half barrel. The increase is general, and makes an advance of $1.25 since three weeks back, when flour was selling at $4.50 for the half barrel.

Bread prices have not yet advanced. The bakers are evidently still using old stocks, or else are holding off an increase until the last possible moment.

Rev. J. A. Mackenzie Says He Will Resign If Antis Head Poll In His Church

Guelph Jan. 13.—"If Chalmers Church should decide to stay out of Union, the only honorable course for me is to resign," declared Rev. J. A. Mackenzie, pastor of Chalmers Church, to his congregation last night.

Chalmers Church will vote early in February.

Rev. Mr. Mackenzie was formerly pastor of Knox Church, Peterborough, being succeeded here last year by Rev. M. C. Mackinnon.

AKEY JUDGMENT AGAIN DEFERRED

Now Set For Friday—Soldier, Six Months in Hospital, Pays Tax.

YOUTH COLLAPSES.

The case of James Akey, in which he is charged with selling or trafficking in liquor without a license, with regard to selling two bottles of whiskey to R. S. Russell on October 24, 1924, judgment, which was to have been given at this morning's Police Court, was held over until Friday morning of this week. Magistrate Langley, who said that he wishes to give reasons for judgment in this case, and did not have the transcript of evidence before him until yesterday, renewed Akey's recognizance for $1,000.

Youth Collapsed.

Louis Rabbard, a dark youth charged with stealing certain articles of clothing from his employers in the city sometime last fall, created a minor sensation in Court this morning by collapsing entirely when the Magistrate delivered judgment in his case. Mr. Langley, having consideration to the prisoner's previous record of theft and misdemeanor, also to his youth, delivered sentence of not less than three months and not more than one year in the Ontario Reformatory, leaving the case in the hands of the Parole Board. The young man, who had asked for clemency on the ground that he wished to "give a hand" to his stepfather, a resident of North Bay, who is suffering from blood-poisoning in the head, on hearing sentence, fell heavily against the side of the prisoner's box, striking open the door and collapsing on the floor. He was carried out by police officers.

Re turned Soldier Up.

A returned man, who was charged with non-payment of his poll-tax of five dollars, appeared in Court this morning. He did not wish to engage the service of a lawyer, and, on agreeing to pay the sum, with an additional charge of one dollar, the charge was withdrawn by Tax Collector Green. The man, who said he understood returned soldiers were exempt from payment of poll-tax, had been in Christie Street Hospital during six months of last year, and said he had not received notice of his poll-tax being due.

FATAL ACCIDENTS TO 3,983 WORKERS

Minor Mishaps Bring Total to 442,002 in Canada in Decade.

With the thirty-first of December, 1924, industry in the Province of Ontario saw the completion of the first ten years of operation of the Workmen's Compensation Act, in this province. During this ten-year period 442,002 accidents to workmen in their employ were reported to the Board by employers, and of these 3,983 were fatal. In the ten years over $45,937,221.06 was awarded in compensation to injured workmen and their widows and children, and in providing medical attendance, hospital and skilled nursing services and artificial limbs and appliances. This means that, roughly speaking, the average accident reported to the Workmen's Compensation Board has cost over $100.

In 1924 there was a decrease in the number of accidents from 1923. In 1924 there were 58,675 accidents of which 402 were fatal, as compared with 61,109 of which 379 were fatal in 1923. The total benefits awarded during 1924 were $6,122,809.26, or about $50,000 less than awarded during 1923.

DEATH RATE LOW; SUICIDES ARE FEW

Canada Compares Remarkably Well With High Rates in U. S.

According to statistical reports which involve a million and a half of the industrial population received for the month of November last, the health situation in Canada is very satisfactory, the death rate being 7.6 per thousand, which is a remarkably low rate for that period of the year. The considerable decline since October is due largely to lower mortality from intestinal diseases, tuberculosis, chronic nephritis, cerebral hemorrhage and cancer. The combined mortality from influenza, pneumonia and other respiratory diseases, is about the same as in the preceding month.

During the last five months only four cases of suicide and an equal number of homicides have been reported in Canada. These records contrast markably with the notoriously high rates that prevail in the United States.

FINAL PLENARY SESSION

Feels Like Singing and Dancing Now

Thanks to the Great Canadian Kidney Remedy, Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Labrador man used them for backache and urinary troubles and got complete relief.

Kegashka Bay, Labrador, Jan. 12.—(Special).—"I feel it my bounden duty to write and tell you how grateful I am, to be able to tell you what a wonderful recovery I have just made by taking four boxes of your Dodd's Kidney Pills." So says Mr. J. L. Osborne, a well-known resident of this place.

"I used to get those griping pains in my back and kidneys and was seriously inconvenienced with urinary troubles. I was advised by my aunt to give your pills a trial, which I did, and Oh, gee, what a wonderful change came over me. I can run and jump and perform all kinds of stunts and not an ache or a pain. Goodbye to weak kidneys. I feel like singing and dancing all the time. Your are at liberty to use my letter which I know will help others to enjoy this wonderful change in life."

RUSSIA IS A SLUM.

Journalist Tells Toronto Club of Conditions in Real Russia.

TORONTO, Jan. 13.—(Canadian Press).—"Russia is one vast slum," declared Isaac F. Marcosson, American journalist and traveller, who spoke on "The Real Russia" before the members of the Canadian Club at a Juncheon yesterday. There were 1,700,000 idle workers in that country. Industrial production was 45 per cent. of normal, while agricultural production was 60 per cent. of normal. When he left Russia last mid-summer the six leading industrial groups were some $40,000,000 in arrears in payment of wages.

MINISTERS TO RESIGN.

Churches Defeated Union While They Were in Favor.

HAMILTON, Jan. 13.—(Canadian Press).—Rev. Dr. W. H. Sedgewick, of the Central Presbyterian Church; Rev. J. A. Wilson, of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, and Rev. S. Burnside Russell, of Erskine Presbyterian Church, have all tendered their resignations because a majority of their congregations defeated the Union, while they themselves were strongly in favor of the Union. Their resignations will be considered by the Hamilton Presbytery at a special meeting on Jan. 20th.

COMING TO CANADA.

Deposed Boy Emperor of China May Visit Dominion.

PEKING, Jan. 13.— (Canadian Press.)—Heuan Tung, the boy emperor of China, who was deposed by the revolution and was recently driven out of his palace in the forbidden city near Peking by Marshal Feng Yu Hsiang, may visit Canada next spring.

Pu Yi—that is his name now that the last semblance of royalty has been taken from him—has read and studied much of the ways of the Occident and now he wants to see it all for himself. He particularly desires to visit the North American continent, although he also entertains an ardent desire to visit Canada, too, and that is easily explained by the fact that almost ever since childhood the boy emperor has been tutored by an Englishman, R. F. Johnston, who is still his constant companian and adviser.

Before going abroad Pu Yi will visit Japan and arrangements are now being made accordingly.

There is more than his personal desire to see the world behind the motive of the journey now being planned. Fear is entertained that trouble between the troops of Chang Tso-lin and Feng Yu-hsiang will involve the safety of the former emperor and empress.

When his safety first seemed to be menaced Pu Yi made a daring escape from his palace, wearing ordinary street clothes and carrying a revolver. He went to the Japanese Legation first and then to the British Legation. He has since been notified that it will be quite safe for him to return to the royal quarters, but it is understood that he is quite content to share the hospitality of foreign powers while the present political uncertainty exists.

GEORGE GIBSON TO COACH CUBS

Veteran Catcher and Former Pilot of Pirates, Gets Berth.

WAS A STAR.

CHICAGO, January 12. — George Gibson, veteran catcher and former pilot of the Pittsburgh Pirates, today became coach of the Chicago Cubs, succeeding Oscar Dugey, who was unconditionally released.

Gibson, a student of the "Old School," started his baseball career with the Buffalo club in 1903. He joined the Pirates in 1904, remaining for 11 years. While with the Pittsburgh club he established a major league record for catching consecutive games. This record of 150 games stood until Ray Schalk of the White Sox took the honor by backstopping in 151 contests.

Gibson went to the New York Giants in 1917 and 1918, but was sent to Montreal the following year.

Pittsburgh claimed Gibson as manager in 1920 but in 1922 he was succeeded by William McKechnie.

The new coach the following season coached the Washington Senators under the management of Donie Bush.

SKI AND SNOWSHOE CLUB NOTES.

Last Wednesday's hike was very successful and well attended. Everyone had a fine time, and returned to the club-rooms with appetites that did justice to the beans, brown bread and coffee.

Ken. Blood played several dance numbers on the piano.

To-morrow's hike is scheduled to start from the Y.W.C.A. at 7.30, and if it is half as good as last week's hike no member can afford to miss it.

Official P.S.S.C. badges will be procurable on the next hike for 50 cents each, or can be procured at White's Cycles and Sports Store.

Membership applications are rolling in fast. Application forms can be had from any member of the executive. The membership is limited. Don't delay.

LINDSAY PLAY GROVE.

O. H. A. Opening Game at Lakefield Tuesday Night.

LAKEFIELD, Jan. 13.—The first local game in the O.H.A. Junior League will be played in Lakefield on Tuesday between "The Grove" and Lindsay. This will be a good game and has aroused considerable local enthusiasm. Walter Jackson of Peterboro will referee.

The local junior league has not as yet re-organized but it is expected that the games will be arranged very soon. Some of last year's juniors are too old for the local junior league and it is possible that a local intermediate league may be arranged. Juniors will be recruited from last year's bantams, who are keen and play a very fair game.

VANCE TO GET $15,000.

NEW YORK, Jan. 13. — Dazzy Vance, star pitcher of the Brooklyn Robins, offered a $15,000 contract for two years by the club owners. He was paid $9,500 last year.

PETES DEFENCE CATCH THE EYE

Toronto Paper Says Biggest Crowd of Season Will be on Hand For To-night's Battle.

PETES GET TEST.

TORONTO, Jan. 13 (Canadian Press).—The Mail and Empire says this morning, "An acid test faces the Peterboro team in the Senior O.H.A. game with Parkdale at the Arena tonight, and if Peterboro can repeat their S. P. A. victory over the Paddlers, the fans will be ready to concede them group honors. The game shapes up as one of the season's best, and it is expected that the largest crowd to see an amateur game this winter will turn out. Both teams will be at full strength, and with Harry Watson in mid-season condition, Parkdale will be able to present a stronger front than in any game they have yet played.

Peterboro is conceded to have the most effective defence. Harold Parker and Bert McLeod being great checkers and both carry a punch on the offensive. The Peterboro's chances to win will depend a great deal, however, on how Irvin Bailey can hold the great Watson. Over on the other wing, Ranger will have Don Jeffrey, and it should be a great battle between the two.

Decision to this effect has been reached by the military and educational authorities and official announcement will be made by Dr. Okada, Minister of Education, when he returns from a trip of inspection. One of the effects of the incorporation of military training in the curriculum will be the reduction of the term of compulsory service for graduates of middle and normal schools.

AUTO BUS NOW TAKES CHILDREN TO SCHOOL

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—(United Press).—The "little red schoolhouse" has been out of existence in most parts of the nation for many years. Now the venerable tradition of the farm boys and girls trudging along dusty roads to their classes is going the same way.

The auto bus is taking the kids to school now, and doing it so economically that the practice is becoming almost universal in all except the very poor and sparsely settled farming sections.

The department of the interior has just completed an investigation which the average cost of transportation is $32.55 a year for each pupil. The investigation was based on 22 states which transported 446,226 pupils during the school year 1921-22.

UKRAINIAN CRAFT EXHIBITION HELD

Women's Art Association Sponsored Showing in Conservatory Studio.

An exhibition of Ukrainian craft and wood carving was held at the studio at the Conservatory of Music on Saturday afternoon, under the auspices of the Women's Art Association. There was a good attendance during the afternoon.

The exhibit of Ukrainian craft was very interesting, including a number of pieces of needlework on heavy linen. These included dresses, table linen, luncheon cloths and runners and towels, all done on pure linen and in the typical colors of the Ukrainian workers, the cunningly-blended blues and greens and reds which make such effective designs. One luncheon cloth was heavily embroidered in red and green, a very decorative runner had a conventionalized border of roses and butterflies, and another had a pattern outlined in odd fashion with tiny red and green beads.

An attractive portion of the exhibit was the specimen wood carving, loaned by various people. Miss Cameron Edwards showed some pretty things in relief work, including a Gothic panel, a fender stool, and a pair of bellows showing a curving dragon. An odd chair, a taboret and two trays, done in chip carving, were loaned by Mr. W. E. Lech, along with a Lotha, or East Indian brass drinking mug. Miss Jean Hartstone's pieces included two heavy book ends and several daintily carved boxes and a taboret done in effective conventionalized pomegranate design, and Miss M. Howson loaned a humidor, its top exquisitely worked in relief with a scaly dragon.

A very enjoyable musical programme was listened to with interest. Vocal numbers were given by Mrs. L. Spriggs, who sang Cadman's "At Dawning," and Miss Geraldine Collins, who sang "The Star." Both singers were accompanied on the piano by Miss Agnes Logan. A string quartet, with piano accompaniment by Miss Margaret Widdess, was composed of Miss Edwina Palmer, Stewart Widdess, Gerald Greene, Baden Greene. They gave a group of Russian folk songs, "The Song of the Volga Boatman," "The Red Sarafan," a Lithuanian song and chorus, a Russian song and dance, and "On the River."

Tea was served from a table prettily arranged with daffodils and French paper white narcissus. Mrs. D. N. Carmichael and Mrs. Alex. Murphy acted as tea hostesses, assisted by the Misses Howson, E. Murphy and G. Glover.

BASSIN-BLANC EXTINCT CRATER

Hindu Worships and Prostrates Himself Before It.

BROADCASTING.

In the mountains of Savanne, high above the waving sugar-fields, lies a sheet of limpid water in the bosom of an extinct crater. This is Bassin-Blanc. It is difficult to say how it got its name, for the water is as blue as the tropical sky above. When clouds are passing overhead, however, it takes on the hue of mother-of-pearl, and it may be that its discoverer saw it under these conditions, and by the name he gave it perpetuated his first impression.

Lying as it does in a wild and trackless deer forest, where the only human beings to be seen are a few Hindu gamekeepers, or "gardiens de cerfs," it has but few visitors. Now and then, however, a stray Indian makes his way to its banks to worship and prostrate himself before it, for these flooded craters have an irresistible appeal for them. They also say that they are the dwelling-place of gigantic eels, probably the spirit of the waters. These eels are as deadly as sharks, and woe betide the irreligious man who would dare to bathe in the sacred waters. He would be eaten alive. Notwithstanding this assurance, sceptical Europeans have swum across these "bassins" from one side to another and have met nary an eel. They are probably of the sea-serpent order.

Sixty feet high, the inside walls of the crater are hidden by virgin forest. Here no axe ever rings and representatives of the indigenous trees, which have been largely cut down elsewhere to make room for the everlasting sugar, flourish in wild profusion to die only of old age or by the blast of a cyclone. Once they are down the white-ant makes short work of them, and their dust and debris have gradually encroached upon the waters and formed a narrow beach, along which the circuit of the "bassin" can be made. Tree-ferns, colophanes, ebony trees, flamboyants, palms, mangoes, jack trees, all struggle one with another for a place in the sun, while their trunks and branches are decked with innumerable orchids, among them the odorous and invaluable "fahame."

Bassin-Blanc extends over about ten acres, and is popularly regarded as fathomless. The same is said about all these crater lakes, but an R.E. officer, who sounded one of them, found bottom only a hundred feet down, though the natives refuse to believe it. The water is always at the same level, wet season or dry, and is reported to be connected by means of an underground tunnel with another "bassin" in Madagascar. Similiarly several caves in the island are said to run under the sea as far as the neighboring isle of Bourbon, and if you sit at our end any evening you can plainly hear the French military band playing at the other. Broadcasting isn't in it! The distance is 125 miles.

Our lake is a "bassin-loulou," which means that it is haunted. If a boat attempts to cross it, a whirlpool suddenly appears in the centre and engulfs it. The very stags know this, for when they take to the water pursued by dogs they always swim round the edges. The dogs, however, in their ignorance plunge straight across, and, of course, the whirlpool gets into action at once and they are never seen again. Though Bassin-Blanc is generally as smooth as a mirror, centre and all, this is only a dodge on the part of the whirlpool which lies just beneath the surface ready to start operations the moment a man or animal, deluded by the glassy surface, attempts to cross. The whirlpool is undoubtedly an evil spirit.

Except the mythical eels, Bassin-Blanc contains no fish at all. It is a wonder some enterprising angler has never thought of stocking it with Rainbows or Lochlevens. Perhaps the French planters would object, as they did when some officers of the garrison suggested putting trout in the Mare aux Vacoas, the island reservoir. Their proposal was negatived on the ground that the trout would pollute the water. However, Bassin-Blanc makes up for its poverty in fish by a wonderful echo which reverberates a word or a snatch of song six or seven times. Still, a multiple echo does not satisfy the soul of an ardent angler.

DOCTOR.

Should a doctor be allowed to put incurable patients out of their misery under certain conditions? The question is often debated in the medical profession. Denmark brings the debate into the open by considering a law that would permit this sort of scientific murder. For that's what is amounts to—murder. And, according to the white man's ethics, murder is not justified by any motive—except war.

CHINESE VERMILION.

For many years in Hong-Kong the industry of vermilion making, entirely in the hands of the Chinese has been an important one. The factories at Hong-Kong have inviolated trade secrets. The manufacture of this pigment is among the foremost of the colony's industries. There are something like one hundred small plants for the manufacture of vermilion in Hong-Kong and Kowloon. The raw material comes from Australia, and the vermilion is prepared altogether by what is known as the wet method. The Chinese made artificial cinnebar long before Europe was a civilized country, and to this day there are trade secrets in the vermilion industry.

DE LUXE TRAVEL TO CALIFORNIA

Modern travel leaves little to be desired in comfort and luxury. The most recent innovation is the introduction of Lady's Maid Service on the California Limited, the Los Angeles Limited, and the San Francisco Overland Limited, operating daily between Chicago, Los Angeles and San Francisco over their various routes. It has also been announced that the California Limited has been equipped with new all-steel drawing room compartment sleeping cars with specially designed ladies' lounge. Such improved services signify the strides being made to satisfy every conceivable desire of the long distance traveller.

These famous trains are already associated by connections with the Canadian National double track system to Chicago and the trip from Toronto to Los Angeles or San Francisco is thus made one of unequalled pleasure and satisfaction throughout.

Full information and tickets may be obtained from Canadian National Ticket Offices, and personal service in arranging reservations, etc., will be rendered by any Canadian National Ticket Agent.

The NUT CRACKER BY JOE WILLIAMS

MR. P. NURMI

The secret of Mr. Nurmi, the Finnish runner, seems to be that he is always in front, at the finish.

Mr. Nurmi is the kind of gent we'd rather have run for our money than with it.

It was feared Nurmi would be handicapped running indoors ..... But from what he showed, that baby could run the 100 in 10 flat in a barrel of glue.

The Finn carries a watch with him on the track ....It would not be hard to convince Messrs. Ray and Ritola that he carries a pair of extra legs.

Despite the fact that the young visitor has no bad habits and sustains solely on fish he is the fastest guy in the sporting world today.

As a tribute to the genius of the Finn, Tin Pan Alley has agreed to change the name of the popular annoyance from "Hot Lips" to "Hot Ankles."

The difference between Nurmi and the Bryan brothers is obvious ..... Nurmi does a lot of running but gets somewhere.

Nurmi says the important thing in running is a proper regulation of the wind ....We wish he'd talk to some of our parliament members about that.

QUESTION: A five-letter word meaning hell-bent-for-election.

The experts say Nurmi is a natural runner.....Yet this is hard to believe since he never did any prize fighting.

Nurmi always runs rings around his field ....From this it's hard to tell whether he's a ringer or a rounder.

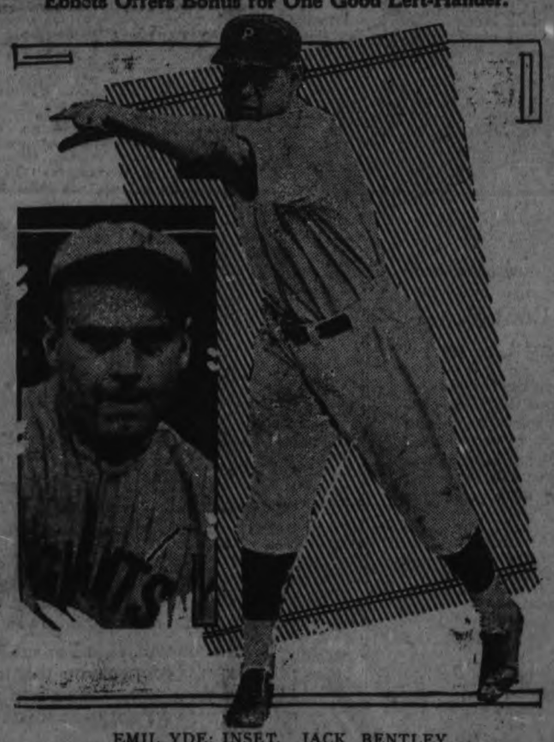
TWO SOUTHPAWS JINX BROOKLYN

Bentley and Yde Beat Dodgers Out of 1924 Pennant—Ebbets Offers Bonus for One Good Left-Hander.



EMIL YDE; INSET, JACK BENTLEY

BY BILLY EVANS

Charles H. Ebbets of the Brooklyn Superbas is one major league club owner who takes an active part in directing the affairs of his team.

He is a practical baseball man Ebbets knows the game from the cellar to the ceiling. If you don't think he does, listen to his latest analysis:

"Two southpaws beat us out of the 1924 pennant. I'll pay a handsome bonus to anybody who will send me a left-hander who can make good on my ball club.

"All we need to win the pennant in 1925 is a good left-hander."

Ebbets, in digging deep into the pot of baseball dope, points out the cause of the Superbas' defeat in the close National League race in 1924. He does not scatter a flock of adjectives, but simply says:

"Yde of the Pittsburgh Pirates and Bentley of the Giants."

Beat Dodgers 10 Games.

An the pitching records show that the Pirates' recruit won four out of five from the Superbas in 1924, while the Giants' husky portsider won the six games he pitched against the Dodgers.

It must not be forgotten that the Superbas were but 1½ laps behind the Giants when the race was decided last fall.

The Superbas have been extremely fortunate with their right handers. The case of Arthur Vance tops the list. Vance, tossed around the minor league circuit for years, passed up by many big league scouts, became a start for the Superbas.

Burleigh Grimes was regarded as a misfit in Pittsburgh. He was the hero in Brooklyn when the Superbas won the 1920 National League pennant.

Bill Doak Pulled Comeback.

There was Bill Doak, veteran spitballer, with the St. Louis Cardinals last summer. He was passed up as a has-been by the Cardinals. He joined the Dodgers and won 12 out of 14 games for them, putting together a winning streak of 10 straight.

The southpaw candidates for the Superbas of 1925 are not very promising; with the exception of "Dutch" Henry. He was sent to New Orleans last summer, has been recalled, and should be ready to deliver.

Henry was considered a brilliant prospect several years ago when he won 17 out of 21 for Mobile in the Southern Association.

Nelson Greene and Gomer Wilson are the only other left-handed candidates on the staff to report to Manager Robinson next spring.

FAREWELL MESSAGE FROM LOST VESSEL

Note Picked Up in Bottle Near Boulogne—All Perished.

BOULOGNE, Jan. 13 (Canadian Press.—A farewell message from the crew of the ill-fated French vessel Jeanne D'Arc, stating that their craft was rapidly sinking without hope of rescue off the Cornish coast, has been washed up in a bottle near here.

The message, written in pencil on a sheet torn from a notebook and dated December 26th, was signed by the master, Pierre Levinis.

PAYING.

The British Government has so far paid Uncle Sam more than 323 million dollars to apply on the 4,600 millions it borrowed during the war. The figure is larger than most people realized.

Britain is certainly entitled to American respect. These payments have not been easy to make. British taxes are extremely high, the highest income taxes in the world. Her foreign trade is leaving her in the hole, imports exceeding exports by more than 1,050 million dollars a year. And France and others are not yet paying what they borrowed from London.

To remove a splinter under the nail, cut out a V-shaped portion of the nail above it and then the end may be seized.

FUTURE.

A city of 30 million inhabitants. That is what New York will be 100 years from now, predicts Joseph P. Day, one of the best-known real estate operators in the country. He also visions underground streets and sky-scrapers 100 stories high.

Day thinks the airplane will come into common use in a century, and that it will greatly extend the suburban districts.

If planes do come by the millions the big cities are more apt to dwindle instead of grow. People will live far out and fly hundreds of miles quickly to work and to do their shopping.

"ANOTHER MAN'S WIFE," WITH JAMES KIRKWOOD, MATT. MOORE, WALLACE BEERY, LILA LEE, ETC., AT ROYAL TO-NIGHT.

THEATRES

AT THE REGENT.

"BETWEEN FRIENDS" OFFERS STRONG APPEAL TO SCREEN FANS.

Cast Includes Lou Tellegen, Norman Kerry, Alice Calhoun and Anna Q. Nilsson.

"Between Friends," which was shown at the Regent Theatre last night, is one of those photoplays that one would enjoy seeing a second time. The action starts with the first flash and continues until the end without a break. The unexpected, constantly occurring, holds the attention and stamps this production as different.

The cast is exceptionally well selected. Lou Tellegen as Drene, the sculptor, whose wife deserts him leaving a broken, half-made man to battle life alone, does some of the best work of his career in this production. Anna Q. Nilsson, as the wife who runs away and later repents and takes the long journey from which there is no return, adds new gems to her long string of successes.

It is rather surprising to see Alice Calhoun in the role of model, and yet it becomes her better than anything in which she has appeared. She seems to have thrown herself heart and soul into the role and with the addition of her varied experience she creates a character that will long be remembered.

Norman Kerry, who appears through the courtesy of the Universal Pictures Corporation, has the role of the false friend. He does exceptionally fine work, especially in the Bermuda and final sequences. In a disagreeable role, Stuart Holmes gives a performance that wins friends despite the fact that the character has many of the unlikable qualities in humanity.

The cast: David Drene, Lou Tellegen; Jack Greylock, Norman Kerry; Cecile White, Alice Calhoun; Jessica Drene, Anna Q. Nilsson; Quaire, Stuart Holmes; Guilder, Henry Barrows.

AT THE ROYAL.

Great Cast and Good Story, "Another Man's Wife."—James Kirkwood, Lila Lee, Wallace Beery, Matt Moore, Chester Conklin, Zeena Keefe, All In It—Now Playing, Royal.

Sharp contrasts in histronic versatility blend into a well-balanced cast and their work makes "Another Man's Wife" an interesting production.

This picture should please, as it is a happy combination of story value, laughs and thrills and takes us from America to Mexico.

One of the best shipwreck scenes it has been our good fortune to see is also vitally worked innto the plot, which deals with man's distrust and a woman's valiant effort to regain his love.

Benny Leonard, the lightweight champion of the prize ring, in his new series of "Flying Fists," is getting better with each release. This one, "The Jazz Bout," is the best we have seen to date. Larry Semon and a novelty Indian scenic complete a well-balanced programme. Special attention has been paid to the musical accompaniment.

Hockey Results Given Out at Royal To-Night.

As usual, with every hockey game either in or out of town the results will be given out at the Royal to-night between the Peterboro and Parkdale teams at Toronto. In order to avoid too much interruption while the main feature is on, the important plays and goals will be announced at the end of each period.

The Royal wishes to announce that patrons who can not get to the show may obtain all hockey information by calling 1253.

SQUIBS AT ROYAL THURSDAY

Betty Balfour, better known as "Squibs," in a new productions just out from England, has been booked for the Royal Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Hugh E. Wright, who will be remembered as 'Okins in "Me and My Gal" and for his work as Alf in "The Better 'Ole," is also with Squibs in "Mary Finds the Gold," a story that gives her a chance to make her audiences both laugh and cry. A new Andy Gump is on the same program.

AT THE CAPITOL.

SILLS AND CORINNE GRIFFITH TOGETHER

"Single Wives" is the alluring title of a daring photoplay of modern society life which is to be the attraction at the Capitol Theatre. As the title implies, the theme of the story which the picture unfolds, treats with that class of women known to society as "single wives," who, victims of indifference of their husbands, seek affection and diversion away from their own firesides.

The photoplay offers to Corinne Griffith, who is co-featured with Milton Sills, one of the greatest opportunities she has had to date. Those who saw Miss Griffith in "Black Oxen" and "Lilies of the Field" will find her role in "Single Wives" more dramatic than any of her former parts.

Milton Sills is cast in the difficult role of the husband, who, although loving his wife, nevertheless is responsible for forcing her into the arms of an admirer because of his indifference. The part of the lover is in the hands of Lou Tellegen. Others who make up the truly all-star cast of "Single Wives" are Kathlyn Williams, Henry B. Walthall, Phyliss Haver, Phillips Smalley, Jere Austin and John Patrick.

"Argentine Love", the feature picture at the Capitol Theatre for the first two days of this week, tells one of those colorful, romantic stories in which Ibanez, its author, excels. The creator of "The Four Horsemen," Blood and Sand," and "Enemies of Women," never fails in a most fascinating interpretation of life and youth and love. The vivid atmosphere of an Argentine setting prevails in this story, with its keynote of music in the fascinating "La Paloma" serenade.

The lady with the rose in her mouth and the knife stuck in her garter is not exactly the type of heroine portrayed in this picture. Bebe Daniels has a different role. She is the coquette with Spanish draperies and eyes who bestows her favor on a trio of men in turn, on Juan Martin, the wealthy young South American, one Rafael Cornejo, the dark youth who comes from Mendoza to enjoy the fiesta in the Argentine village of Alcorta, and meets the knife of Consuelo's jealous suitors while playing a serenade to his lady love, and on the handsome young American engineer, Philip Evans, whom she loves best of all.

There is love and romance and intrigue aplenty in "Argentine Love" a swiftly-moving story of passion and fire that moves on to a peculiar ending. Ricardo Cortez has the principal role, that of Juan, the intriguing handsome Argentinian, fighting and killing for his love, and finally renouncing in a manner truly Spanish.

It is an interesting production, beautifully staged and with strong supporting cast to two excellent principals.

The cross-eyed king of comedy Ben Turpin, is as funny as ever in the Mack Sennett creation, "Three Foolish Weeks."

AT THE GRAND.

"THE WORLD OF PASSION."

Nineteen hundred years ago, Jerusalem was the cradle of civilization. Jerusalem was the centre of the famous World of Passion, Jerusalem was the capital of the Mighty World of Flesh. Christian, Egyptian, Mongolian, Negro, Semite and Turk — black flesh, white flesh, yellow—human flesh of all races, men and women of all religious, were sold on the market of Jerusalem, nineteen hundred years ago.

Oswald Stoll, in "The World of Passion," which comes to the Grand Opera House on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week, with three evening performances and special matinee on Saturday, presents a motion picture absolutely without equal, without precedent, and without parallel in the motion picture field of to-day. Spectacles that amaze, drama that engrosses, passion that stupefies, are combined in its screening. Tottering empires and crumbling civilizations produced at a cost of $1,000,000; the greatest thing ever seen in film productions.

The prologue for "The World of Passion," as contrived by Mrs. W. McKee Bingham, promises to be one of the most interesting things of its kind ever seen here. It will be given in two parts, the first section preceding the screening of the first half of the picture, with the second section of the prologue intervening before the conclusion of the production.

The keynote of the prologue is the manifestation of Woman in the various countries which form the background for the prologue's unfolding. In Spain, Woman was Pleasure, in Syria, she was Religion, in Italy, she was Art, and in Jerusalem, she was Passion.

The first scene shows a Spanish garden, in which Mrs. Bingham, as Pleasure, is surrounded by Spanish dancers and slaves, in her troupe of assistants: the Misses May Perry, Martha Kirn, Jessie Hodgson and Helen Ross. Spanish dances and the song, rendered by Mrs. Bingham; "The Secret of Bliss," from Donizetti's "Lucretia Borgia," form the musical interludes in this section, which is followed by a presentation of Religion, in an Altar and Shrine. Mrs. Bingham enacts the part of the Priestess, also the Worshipper, the Misses Hodgson, Kirn and Ross are Spirits of the Altar, and Miss Perry is the Crusader. The music for the dance of the veils, which is given in this section by Miss Jessie Hodgson, was composed by her mother, Mrs. Carrie Hodgson. A song, "Just as the Daylight is Fading," by Delibes, is given by Mrs. Bingham.

In the second section, the first scene depicts "Roman Art," with Miss Perry as the Gladiator, Miss Jessie Hodgson and Miss Helen Ross as Roman women, and Miss Martha Kirn as a Nymph. The Gladiator dance is given in this portion, and the Spring Song dance.

In Scene Two, a mountain top outside of Jerusalem is pictured, and dances are "Pipes of Pan" and the Salome Dance. Mrs. Bingham sings the song of the passion of power, "The Enchantress," in her role as the Enchantress. Miss Helen Ross is a nymph, Miss May Perry a faun, and Miss Martha Kirn a dryad.

The music for the entire production is under direction of Mrs. Eveline Foster.

Mistook Metal Polish For Gin at a Wedding; Two Are Dead; Four Ill

POTTSVILLE, Pa., Jan. 13. — (Canadian Press.) — Metal polish, drunk in mistake for gin at a wedding party in Maiseville, near here, last night, caused the death of two of the guests and the serious illness of four others. Reports of how the mistake was made varied. The county coroner and state police, who are investigating the case, said to-day that some of those present at the wedding expressed the belief that the poison had been mixed with the liquor deliberately; others said it was done as a joke by one of the guests who did not know it was poison.

Proposed T. and N. O. Line Into Rouyn District Discussed.

TORONTO, Jan. 13.—(Canadian Press.)—The conference yesterday at the parliament buildings between Premier Ferguson and Chairman George Lee of the T. and N. O. Railway, did not lead to any definite decision upon the building of the proposed T. and N. O. spur line into the Rouyn district. While immediate action was not thus decided upon, however, Premier Ferguson definitely stated, following the conference, that the Government was determined that the T. and N. O. railway would be the first line to tap the new district when construction should be justified. The cost of the line to this district will be approximately $2,000,000 for government road.

EIGHT HOUR DAY CONVENTION TO BE INTERPRETED

Supreme Court of Canada is Asked to Decide Where Obligation Rests.

LIST OF QUERIES.

International Agreement Is Tossed About by Federal and Provincial Governments.

OTTAWA Jan. 14— (Canadian Press).—The Government has decided on the questions to be submitted to the Supreme Court of Canada on the eight-hour day question, arising out of doubt existing in certain quarters as to the jurisdiction of the federal and provincial parliments. It is extremely improbable, however, that this reference can be brought on for hearing before the May sitting of the court, as it is expected that the attorney-generals of all the provinces will have to be notified, and time allowed for the filing of factums.

The following questions will be referred to the Supreme Court for decision:

1—What is the nature of the obligation of the Dominion of Canada as a member of the International Labor Conference, under the provisions of the Labor part (part 13), of the Treaty of Versailles, and of the corresponding provisions of the other treaties of peace, with relation to such draft conventions and recommendations as may be from time to time adopted by the said conference, under the authority of the, and pursuant to, the aforesaid provisions?

Duty of Provinces

2—Are the legislatures of the provinces the authorities within whose competence the subject-matter of the said draft convention in whole or in part, lie and before whom such draft convention should be brought, under the provisions of Article 405 of the treaty of peace with Germany, for the enactment of legislation or other action?

3—If the subject-matter of the said draft convention be, in part only, within the competence of the legislatures of the provinces, then in what particular or particulars, or to what extent, is the subject-matter of the draft convention within the competence of the legislature?

Particulars Wanted.

4—If the subject-matter of the said draft convention be, in part only, within the competence of the legislatures of the provinces, then in what particular or particulars, or to what extent is the subject-matter of the draft convention within the competence of the parliament of Canada?

The question of the competence and power of the federal and provincial parliaments to legislate on this whole question originally arose as a result of a certain draft convention adopted at the first session of the International Labor Conference of the League of Nations, held at Washington in 1919, limiting the hours of work in industrial undertakings to eight in one day, or forty-eight in the week.

KILLED BY DYNAMITE.

Premature Blast Blinded Another Gravel Pit Worker.

PEMBROKE, Ont., Jan. 14. — (Canadian Press).—Arthur Pritchard, aged 60, was instantly killed, and Maurice Spence, 22, was seriously injured in an explosion at Demers Centre gravel pit, Allumette Island, Tuesday afternoon. It is thought that the explosion was caused by the premature detonation of a charge of dynamite. Spence will loose his eyesight, and is otherwise injured.

AMBASSADOR DECIDED.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—(Canadian Press).—Alanson B. Houghton, Ambassador to Germany, has been virtually decided upon as the Ambassador to Great Britain to succeed Frank B. Kellogg.

Bombards Police Station From His Circling Auto

RICHMOND, Ind., Jan. 14.—(Canadian Press).. —John Atkins, 60 years of age, the farmer who few weeks ago went on a rumpage after drinking a quantity of horse liniment shooting and wounding a neighbour and attempting to burn down the latter's house, was taken into custody again last night after bombarding police headquarters with a revolver and shot gun.

Atkins, according to information to officials, declared his intention of "getting" the officers who arrested him following his first escapade and set out from his home in an automobile armed with a shot gun, a revolver and plentiful supply of ammunition. He circled about the police station firing into the building until he finally lost control of his machine and crashed into a telephone pole.

..As he crawled from the wreckage he was placed under arrest No one was wounded during the shooting.

HOUGHTON GETS KELLOGG'S POST

U. S. Ambassador to Germany is Transferred to London by Coolidge.

HAS EXPERIENCE.

WASHNGTON, Jan. 14.—Appointment of Alanson B. Houghton, of New York now ambassador at Berlin to succeed Ambassador Kellogg at London was announced last night at the White House.

London Pleased

LONDON Jan. 14.—The announcement that Alanson B. Houghton, United States ambassador to Germany, is to succeed Frank B. Kellogg as envoy to Great Britain, was received with much satisfaction by British official circles. There was said to be a feeling of gratification that Mr. Kellogg's successor is a man having intimate knowledge of European affairs, and one who has gained wide prestige in handling important matters for the United States in Berlin.

Officials at the foreign office are understood to be particularly pleased at the prospect of dealing with Mr. Houghton. He is known to them through the few days he visited London during the allied conference last summer.

Regretted in Berlin.

BERLIN, Jan. 14. — Alanson B. Houghton, the American ambassador, found official notification that he had been selected to succeed Frank B. Kellogg as ambassador to Great Britain awaiting him Tuesday and he immediately cabled his acceptance to Washington.

News of Mr. Houghton's appointment first reached the press and official quarters through Washington despatches yesterday afternoon, and while it was not wholly in the nature of a surprise, the departing ambassador was promptly plied with congratulations and expressions of regret from his numerous professional and personal acquaintances. His immediate plans have not yet matured, although it is announced that he will return to the United States before assuming the London post.

Interest in Changes.

The shift of United States ambassadors abroad and the new line-up in the Coolidge cabinet continue to be featured in the day's news and are also liberally discussed in political circles, which lay stress on the future attitude of the United States towards Russia and European economic issues.

Senator Borah's alleged statement with respect to the urgency of fixing the amount of German's ultimate indemnity and his attitude on the Dawes plan aroused considerable interest here, where impatience over Germany's previous inability to arrive at a decisive settlement of her final penalty has been given frequent expression. The late Hugo Stinnes was among the first of the influential Germans to demand definite fixation of Germany's liability, in order to enable her to make necessary budgetry adjustments. The advent of Mr. Kellogg as secretary of state is interpreted in Berlin as forecasting a relaxation in the former inflexible attitude of the United States government toward Soviet Russia, the Soviet interests making no concealment of their pleasure over the impending retirement of Mr. Hughes.

ASQUITH WELCOMED.

GIRL FROZEN TO DEATH CLIMBING MOUNTAIN PEAK

Daughter of Denver Millionaire Succumbed in Arctic Blizzard—Huddled in Crevice.

SEARCHER LOST.

Companion Reached Safety, But Suffers From Severe Effects of Frost.

ESTES PARK, Colorado, January 14. — Walter Kiener, companion of Miss Agnes Vaille, secretary of the Denver Chamber of Commerce, who perished during a perilous climb to the summit of Long's Peak on Monday, told yesterday the story of hardships and suffering encountered by the daring climbers in Arctic temperatures at an elevation of nearly 14,000 feet.

Lying in a bed at Long's Peak Inn, near here, suffering acutely from frozen feet and hands and exposure, he narrated the details of the fateful climb, in short, terse sentences.

As the couple ascended the east side of the peak on Sunday, there was a sudden drop in the temperature, he said. The thermometer he carried showed that it was 50 degrees below zero, and this lowered temperature was accompanied by a swirling blizzard.

"It was sundown," he said. "We decided we'd just as well go up, as we would have to make the descent in the dark. Arrived at the top we did not tarry—we started down immediately.

"We were coming down a slope when Miss Vaille slipped. She slid and rolled 150 feet down before she stopped. She was not hurt physically, but after the hardships it unnerved her. We continued. Finally, early on Monday morning Miss Vaille called that her feet and hands were frozen. "I can't go on," she declared. I tried to carry her and stumbled along for a while. But it was useless. Leaving her propped against the lee side of a boulder, I struck out for the Timberline cabin for aid. Just as I managed to get within calling distance I went down."

A rescue party near the cabin heard his cries and came to his aid. He told of Miss Vaille's plight and they started upward, fighting every inch of the way through a blinding snowstorm.

Warned by the pioneer mountaineers that their search probably would be futile, and that her body would remain buried in the drifted snow of Long's Peak until the spring thaw, 3 parties set out at dawn in an effort to recover the frozen form of Miss Vaillie.

The body of Herbert Sortland, a lost member of the first party which sought to save Miss Vaillie, after her escort was forced to leave her, and press on for help, also was the object of renewed search.

Miss Vaillie's body was found propped in a crevice, half covered with snow, but the fury of the elements made it impossible for the party to bring it down the mountain side. It was left until a more favorable moment, when a larger party might lower it through the snow-packed passes and dangerous ravines of the peak.

(Miss Vaillie was the secretary of the Denver Chamber of Commerce, an intrepid mountain climber, and daughter of F. O. Vaille, the retired Denver millionaire.)

ELECTROCUTED TO-DAY.

BRITISH LIBERALS TO RAISE MILLION FUND

May Adopt Successful Method Employed by Methodist Church.

LONDON, January 14. — The decision of the Liberal convention to raise 1,000,000 pounds for party funds brings the candid confession from the Star, the only Liberal evening paper in London, that unless this is done—and it can be done—there is no chance of a resurrection of the Liberal party.

The plan adopted in successfully raising a million pounds for the Methodist Church, by which local contributions were ear-marked for local needs, is highly recommended to the high officials of the Liberals.

According to the latest returns the Labor party of Britain had an income last year of £266,000, and it is asserted that much of this amount came from trade unions, to which contributions were made very unwillingly by many Liberal workmen.

SANDBAR HOLDS U. S. SUBMARINE

Coast Guards' Boat Smashed in Attempted Rescue Near Chatham, Mass.

SUB IN DANGER.

CHATHAM, Mass., Jan. 14.—The United States submarine S-19, with her crew of forty, last night was still in precarious position on an outer bar five and a half miles south of Nauset Coast Guard Station where she went ashore early yesterday morning. From both the shore and the coast guard cutters which had raced to her aid desperate efforts were made all day to get a line aboard her, but all failed.

The men of the Nauset Station early in the day launched a boat and fought their way out through the surf to within a hundred feet of the distressed craft before the waves capsized them. They regained the shore and tried again. This time their boat was smashed. All of the coast guards men made their way to shore but they suffered from exposure.

Captain Abbot Walker refused to leave the station but Wilbur Chase of his crew was taken to his home. The condition of neither men is serious.

Failing to rescue the submarine's crew in this manner, repeated attempts were made to shoot a line across her. The Tamps and Aeushnet coast guard cutters that are standing by again drove in until they themselves were endangered but their lines fell short. Accomplishment was equally impossible from the shore.

There have been no signs of the vessel breaking up and the danger of its crew was apparently no greater last night than when it piled up on the shore.

CHATHAM, Mass., Jan. 14.— The U. S. submarine H-1 is still fast on a mud bank at the entrance to Orleans Harbour but it is believed the craft will be floated at High tide to-day. The submarine staff declined an offer to be taken off, Lieut. Martin declaring his men would remain with their vessel.

TRIAL OF IBANEZ IS POSTPONED

Spanish Novelist Charged With Defaming King Alfonso Pleaded Illness.

MAY BE EXTRADITED.

PARIS, January 14. — The hearing of Vicente Blanco Ibanez on the charge of defaming King Alfonzo of Spain through publication of the Spanish author's recent pamphlet, was postponed for a few days when the case came up in court here on Tuesday. The postponement was at the request of the writer's attorney, Marius Moutet, the Socialist deputy, who was one of ex-Premier Caillaux's battery of lawyers during Caillaux's trial by the high court.

Deputy Moutet told the investigating magistrate that Ibanez was slightly ill and could not come to Paris from Mentone for four or five days but would appear as soon as he was able to travel.

FINED IN DEFAULT.

MADRID, January 14. — The case against Vicente Blasco Ibanez for the publication of his booklet against King Alfonzo, which is being pressed in the absence of the author from the country, has been placed in the hands of the district judge who has dictated an order committing the writer to prison unconditionally, and demanding from him 10,000 pesetas as a cash bond to guarantee his financial obligatoins.

It is generally believed that the extradition of Ibanez will be asked.

RECOVERS JEWELLERY.

$225,000 in Jewels Stolen Two Years Ago, Returned to Owner.

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—(Canadian Press).—All but $75,000 worth of the $300,000 in jewellery stolen two years ago from Mrs. Irene M. Schoellfopf, wife of C. P. Hugo Schoellfopf, former millionaire Buffalo broker, at a party in the apartment of Barry Carman, was returned to Mrs. Schoellfopf yesterday afternoon by court order. Jewellery valued at about $225,000, which was recovered about a year ago, following the arrest of John W. Mahon, jeweller, who bought it from thieves, had been in the custody of the police property clerk. The robbers were convicted and are serving prison sentences.

ROBINSON APPEALS IN INDIAN PRINCE CASE

Continues Suit for 125,000 Pounds From Midland Bank.

LONDON, Jan. 14. — (Canadian Press).—Charles E. Robinson, the former bookmaker who sued the Midland Bank for £125,000 on account of an alleged settlement with Rajah Sir Hari Singh, has appealed from the judgment of the court which was rendered in favor of the bank. Robinson alleged that the settlement with the Indian potentate was made because of the latter's intimacy with Mrs. Robinson.

The Midland Bank is defending the suit brought against it by Robinson, asserted that the money in question was never received for Robinson and also alleged that the plaintiff was the party to a blackmail plot to obtain money from the Rajah, Sir Hari Singh. During the trial, the Indian Prince was referred only as "Mr. A," but his name was subsequently published by order of the British Government.

A jury in the case cleared Mr. Robinson and his wife of the allegations that they were parties to a conspiracy.

James Charles Arthur, former British army officer, who acted as aide to the Rajah when the latter was in Europe, and William Cooper Hobbs, a former solicitor's clerk, were subsequently arrested on charges of conspiring to blackmail the Indian potentate.

ENGINEER DEAD IN TRAIN CRASH

Jumped Before Freights Collided and Crushed Under Derailed Car.

IN NEW BRUNSWICK.

MONCTON, N.B., Jan. 14.—(Canadian Press).—Joseph W. McDermott, locomotive engineer, was killed and his fireman, Stanley Murphy, had a leg badly injured as the result of a head-on collision between two freight trains on the Canadian National Railway at Belledune station, about 40 miles south of Campbellton, Tuesday.

The third section of Freight No. 82, in charge of Conductor J. C. Cormier and Engineer Joseph McDermott, southbound, was to meet the extra freight train, in charge of Conductor Walter McGinn and Engineer Edward Legere, at Belledune. The northbound freight had arrived at Belledune and was standing on the main line, when the southbound freight crashed into her. A snowstorm was in progress at the time.

Driver McDermott and Fireman Murphy, seeing a collision inevitable, jumped as the crash came.

Seven cars were derailed and wrecked, and it is supposed that Driver McDermott was crushed to death under a carload of horses. At nine o'clock last night his body had not yet been found. Fireman Murphy, in jumping, sustained a badly-injured leg, which it was feared was broken. Few other particulars of the wreck had been received by the C.N.R. management late last night.

As the car containing the horses turned completely over, it is presumed a number of the animals were killed.

The wreck is one of the worst that has occurred on the northern division of the Atlantic region in some years. Both engines remained on the rails.

McDermott, the dead engineman, was a native of Kent County, but had been running out of Moncton for some years. He was about 40 years of age and unmarried.

Traffic was blocked at the point of the wreck up to midnight, and the northbound Maritime was detained about an hour.

The southbound Ocean Limited had passed Belledune before the wreck occurred.

Four British officers rushed to the rescue and captured one of the assailants who was badly wounded. The others escaped. The attack is attributed to the pathan menace which is causing serious apprenhension. Seagard, the woman and Matthews are in the hospital suffering from knife wounds.

LIBERALS KEEP SENATOR HARDY IN PRESIDENCY

Brockville Senator Unanimously Re-elected by Ontario Liberal Association at Annual Meeting.

PREMIER PRESENT.

Government Will Appeal to Country if Legislative Programme is Blocked.

TORONTO, Jan. 14—The Ontario Liberal Association held its annual meeting here on Tuesday and was addressed by the Right Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Premier of Canada and W. E. N. Sinclair, M. L. A., leader of the Liberal opposition in Ontario.. The association elected the following officers: President, Senator Hardy; vice-Presidents, Mrs. A. H. Beaton, Toronto; A. J. Young, Toronto ; Jas. H. Spence, Toronto and E. S. Little, London, Ont., George Wilkie, Toronto was elected treasurer. The secretary is chosen by the executive and the executive committee is from delegates reprsenting each Federal and provincial riding in the Province.

Resolutions from the main association and the Women's Liberal Association of Ontario expressed confidence in the Federal and Provincial leaders. There were 251 delegates present from 60 federal ridings in the Province. A resolution carried by silent vote expressed appreciation of the work of the late W. H. Dewart in the cause of Liberalism.

Premier's Appeal.

That the Dominion Government is preparing to complete its full term but will not hesitate to appeal to the country at an earlier date should its legislative programme be hampered in the House was the declaration of Premier King when he addressed the association. He appealed for a closing of all breaches in the party and for a blotting out of past differences.

Mr. King won applause by his declaration that the Liberal party was broad enough to include all those opposed to Toryism and he forcasted the return of the present government at the next federal elections. The Prime Minister was given a tremendous reception by the audience which cheered for several minutes and sang "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow. Mr. King said the was every reason to believe that the Ontario Liberals had taken a new heart.

Low Urges Unity.

Hon Thos. Low, minister of Trade and Commerce, speaking at the afternoon session said that West Hastings had been won by the capable leader of the Liberal party plus a good candidate. He took Toronto Liberals to task for being divided and declared that if they were a united family that there was no reason in the world why Toronto should remain a solid Tory centre. In a brief review of Canadian financial history he declared that Canada to-day had a trade balance on the right side and maintained that last year there had been a surplus of receipts over expenditure.

"Keep your powder dry, for you cannot tell the day nor the hour of the battle," Mr. Low advised.

MERSON FACES FRAUD CHARGES IN CITY COURT

Long List of Victims of Worthless Cheques Was Produced.

'EMANDED A WEEK.

Husband and Wife Separate After 35 Years' Married Life.

After thirty-five years of married life, William A. Murphy, of 491 Elm Street, and his wife, through their official spokesmen, the solicitors who represented them, agreed in Police Court this morning to go their separate ways. William Murphy, who was charged with assault sufficient to occasion bodily harm to his wife, the offence committed about two weeks ago, agreed to turn over his home and the household furniture therein to his wife, he retaining a vacant lot situated on the easterly portion of the land surrounding the house. In return for these earthly goods, the wife released her husband from all claims as to support, and he released her from any obligation contracted by the marriage. The spirit of this agreement, with regard to the practical cancellation of the marriage, met with dissent from Magistrate Langley, to whom, however, it was pointed out by Mr. J. A. O'Brien, representing Mrs. Murphy, that time might bring about a difference of opinion between the two. Murphy, a rather well set-up dark man, who signed the agreement with his own name, and his wife, poorly dressed, the remnants of some former girlish vanity lingering alone in the tiny gold bangles in her ears, signing with a mark, did not look at each other. Johanna, the smallest of the trio of children born to the two, was with her mother. Johanna has a pleasant smile and a lot of freckles in a pale face. She has been a thin little ward for some years of the Children's Camp at Jackson Park, and spends most of her time smiling at the antics of her playful companions. She is a bright little thing, despite her paleness, and held her mother's hand steadfastly this morning.

Conspiracy Charge.

Other attendants in the antechamber to the hall of justice were the wife and dark-eyed boy of Nathan Merson, apprehended in Montreal yesterday by Provincial Constable Norman F. Maker, and brought here to stand trial on a charge of conspiracy to defraud farmers of the district. Merson, in company with a friend, R. Sherman, is alleged to have travelled through the country, in this district, representing himself as a stock buyer, and exchanging for good cattle cheques on a local bank, the cheques later proving worthless.

Among those whom Merson is charged with defrauding are named Louis Kemp, Leo Conway, W. I. Goodfellow, W. E. Maloney, Jno. Faux, Bert Sanderson, C. E. Moore, Harold Archer, Milton Easson, R. G. Wood, W. S. White, John Christie, F. D. McElderry, Joseph Tully, George Howden, J. A. McGregor, D. H. Wood, M. Healy, Harvey Webber and Alex. Calder.

Merson, a thin-lipped gentleman with Hebraic accent, opaque blue eyes and light brown hair, was remanded for a week. His case will come up at 10 o'clock at the Police Court, on Wednesday, January 21. "I am expecting that Mr. Sherman will be here too," he interjected pleasantly into a discussion as to his trial. Sherman has not yet been apprehended.

Merson, who is also charged in a second indictment with fraudulently obtaining a cow and a calf from Mortie Healy of Indian River, on or about the first of November, asked for bail, which was fixed by the Crown Attorney in the sum of $10,000, with two sureties. He looked undecided as he went out.

Included in the list of Merson's transactions are rumors of several minor matters. At Indian River, it is alleged, he took the only prize of a widow with four children, a big pig, and gave for it a worthless cheque similar to those bestowed on others. Another widow in Norwood parted with a calf for a bogus bit of paper, and the Messrs. Duffy, brothers of a local blacksmith, are said to have sold the accused $690 worth of cattle for worthless cheques.

LIBRARIAN'S REPORT

ANNUAL REPORT OF THE LIBRARIAN, JANUARY, 1925.

The Chairman and Members,
Public Library Board,
Peterborough.

Gentlemen: I beg herewith to present to you the 15th Annual Report on the work accomplished in the Public Library.

The upward trend to which reference was made last year, in the matter of circulation, and patronage of the reading rooms, has been markedly maintained throughout the past twelve months and increased interest has been shown in the use of our reference books. There has also been a decided interest evinced in the use of the reading rooms on Sunday afternoons. Both at the beginning of 1923 and since the advent of the cold weather in November last it has been very fully demonstrated that a large number of men and women find it both a convenience and a pleasure to be able to resort to our magazines and newspapers.

The increased patronage accorded to our books has necessarily entailed a corresponding amount of wear and tear and a large number of books, almost entirely fiction, have had to be removed altogether from circulation.

During the year 1,660 volumes were added to the shelves, of which 162 were presented by individual donors. Through the kindness of our parliamentary representatives, the Deputy Speaker of the Federal House and Mr. Bradburn, of the Ontario Legislature, we were also favored with various Government publications which have proved of the greatest value for purposes of reference and general information.

Whatever vandalism has been perpetrated during the past year has been confined to papers and magazines. It is a pleasure to state that this has not been as noticeable as in past years and may perhaps be a proof that the public at large recognizes that the library is an institution created for the use of all and not for the benefit of a few.

At the beginning of the year a fresh register was opened for the purpose of ascertaining to how great extent the library was being patronized. At the close of the year 2,034 readers had taken out tickets in the adult section and 719 new readers had applied for tickets in the juvenile department. A glance at the figures presented below will serve to show how well all parts of the library have been used.

Miss Hood estimated the reading room attendance during the year at 10,752. The attendance at the story hour averaged 52.

Increase, 6,685.

Our reading room attendance can only be guessed at. Last year it was estimated at 4,682. In 1923 it was certainly larger than in 1922, and taking into account the longer hours the rooms are open to the public the attendance must at least have equalled, if not surpassed that of the juvenile reading room.

The new volumes added to the shelves during the past year are given herewith, in their various classes. For purposes of comparison the figures of the preceding year are also given.

There were not nearly as many books presented to the library as in former years, which will account for the comparatively small increase in the receipt of volumes over those of 1923.

It gives me pleasure to testify to the good work done by the various members of the staff, all of whom co-operated, as far as lay in their power, to make the work run smoothly and successfully.

As librarian of the children's department Miss Hood has done exceptionally good work, as the records of her department clearly show.

On behalf of the members of the staff and of myself, I beg to tender to the members of the Board our warm thanks for the kindly consideration shown to us throughout the year. I remain,

Yours respectfully,
F. M. DELA FOSSE,
Librarian.

GREAT INCREASE IN TEA CONSUMPTION

The consumption of tea, it is estimated, increased in 1924 thirty-nine million pounds. The price, as a result, may go to $1.00 per pound, but even then, tea is the cheapest beverage in the world—aside from water.

KEENE MAN DIED IN WEST CANADA

John Nelson, Pioneer Rancher of Meadow Creek, Left Big Ranch.

HATED BARB WIRE.

News has just come from Claresholm, Alta., of the death of John Nelson, pioneer rancher of Southern Alberta, who went there from Keene. He suffered a second stroke of paralysis last week, and died at the Claresholm hosptial on Tuesday.

Mr. Nelson was born at Keene, Ont., and was 57 years of age. He lived in the Meadow Creek district for 35 years, where he has been successful in the ranching business, having a large amount of land and amassing a snug fortune. He was a real old time rancher, loving the open range and detesting the barbed wire fences that cut up his beloved foothills. Sickness has been an unknown factor in Mr. Nelson's life until last fall when he was in the Claresholm hospital for a few weeks. David Nelson of Calgary, s a brother of the deceased.

CAN'T TELL FOR WHOM WOMEN ADORN SELVES

Premier Herriot Says She Dresses Against Other Women.

PARIS, Jan. 14.—The question for whom women adorn themselves has often been asked, but seems never to have received a definite answer. An attempt by the newly started weekly Candide to solve the problem hardly promises to advance matters, for of nineteen women and twelve men who replied to Candide's question on the subject only two women and five men expressed a decided opinion.

The questions asked were whether a woman dresses for a certain man or for man in general, for her own satisfaction or to outshine other women.

Premier Herriots' reply is succinct.

"Above all, perhaps for nothing else, women dress against other women," he said.

Countess Henride Mun is convinced that women dress for other women only, and offers as proof the fact that if a woman meets a handsome man with an ugly but well-dressed woman her first glance is for the woman and the second for the man.

Marquis Boni de Castellane declares that women dress for other women. He says women care nothing for men's opinion, and at the same time would never take the trouble to dress solely for themselves.

The musical comedy actress, Alice Cocea, says women's object is to please the men, while Marquis Robert de Flers and Henri Kistemaeckers, the dramatists, and Kees Van Dongen, the fashionable portrait artist, all agree that woman's dressing is for her own delectation.

All others to whom the questions were propounded evade giving direct replies:

"Every woman is a separate case," writes the poet Marquise de Noailles. "It is impossible to generalize."

Yvonne Printemps, the actress wife of Sacha Guitry, the author, gives the following as proof that women do not dress for the sake of men: Men, she points out, prefer black silk stockings on women, yet the women are all wearing cream or champagne colored hose, just because these shades are the fashion, although they make even the slimmest ankle appear thick.

MONTREAL MEN BEFORE COURT

Array of Legal Talent for Defence of Prisoners in Girl's Murder.

REPEAT EVIDENCE.

MONTREAL, January 14. — The preliminary enquiry into the charge of murder of Mary Kelly, the Hamilton girl, whose death took place in the St. Matthew street apartment here on January 5th, following what is alleged to have been an illegal operation, and in which are involved Arthur Evans, a prominent Montreal Rugby player, Alexander Sweezy, a brakeman, T. H. Miller, director of Athletics, of the Montreal Amateur Athletic Association, John Corrigan, an athlete, and Imalda Bourgeau, a telephone switchboard operator, was opened here on Tuesday afternoon.

The evidence was practically a repetition of that presented before the coroner's court, and embodied the testimony of Dr. Frank Scully, the medical practitioner, who had found Miss Kelly dead in the apartment after he had been summoned there by a telephone call on the day in question; Sergt. J. O'Neill, of the city police force, who was called to the house following Dr. Scully's discovery; and Sergt.-Detective Pusie of the Coroner's court, who gave evidence of the arrest of Evans and Sweezy, who had been in the apartment at the time of Miss Kelly's death.

The enquiry was liberally punctuated by legal argument regarding the admissability of evidence presented before the coroner, and counsel quoted largely from precedents established in former well known criminal cases.

A feature of the present case was the formidable array of prominent lawyers retained by the defence.

Whites of Eyes Tinged With Yellow? Muddy Complexion? Your Liver is Out of Order!

Mrs. Wm. Bourque, Fox Creek, N. B., writes: "I have been troubled with my liver for a long time, and was so bad I could not do any work. I had severe pains in my stomach that were so bad, at times, I could hardly stand them. My tongue became coated; I had a bad taste in my mouth, especially in the morning; the whites of my eyes were tinged with yellow, and I had a muddy complexion.

I had read a great deal about

City May Commandeer Citizens and Their Shovels To Clean Snow-Covered Sidewalks, Declares Court

TORONTO, Jan. 14.—(Canadian Press).—It behooves owners and occupants of houses to look well to their snow shovels. They and their shovels may be commandeered any time by the municipal authorities, in view of a decision given by the Appellate Division in the action of Cohers vs. Belleville.

At the trial it was shown that for five or six days the sidewalks of Belleville had worn an icy glare to the knowledge of the municipality. The trial judge held that it was a general condition, but that the plaintiff, who was injured in the fall, had failed to establish that the condition could have been relieved at an expense proportionate to the risk and to the city's financial resources, and he dismissed the action.

The Appelate Division hold that the state of the city's finances has nothing to do with the matter. The decision points out that the Municipal Act provides the municipality with powers for commandeering the services and financial resources of occupants or owners of properties adjacent to snow or ice-covered walks. The plaintiff sued for $2,000 damages. The Appelate Division allowed him $1,500 and costs.

OBITUARY.

HANNAH M. GRANDY

MILLBROOK, Jan. 14.—The late Hannah M. Grandy, whose death occurred last Thursday, was the second daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Grandy, and was one of a family of eight children, three sons and five daughter, two of whom, one son and one daughter, died in early life.

The grandparents of the deceased were among the pioneer settlers of Cavan township, clearing their land on the Tenth Line, the farm owned and occupied by Mr. R. Bigelow. After removing from the family homestead where the older members of their family were born, the late Thos. Grandy having succeeded his father as owner of the property, they lived for a comparatively short time at a place called "The Point," afterward purchasing the farm north of the village which for many years was the Stanton homestead, and is now owned and occupied by Mr. A. Coyte.

Over forty years ago Mr. Grandy moved his family to Millbrook, living for a year or two in the house of Main street of which Mr. John Gray is the present owner. Later they bought the house on Anne street from the late Mr. J. B. Smith, which has been the family homestead ever since.

One sister, Miss Ella Grandy, is the sole surviving member of the family, two brothers, Stanley and William, and two sisters, Mildred and Laura, besides the two children who passed away in early life, having predeceased the one just gone. About seven years ago the death of Mrs. Grandy occurred, her husband having predeceased her by some years.

Rev. Canon Allen had charge of the service at the house on Saturday, the late Miss Grandy having been a life-long and faithful member of the Anglican church. In spite of rapidly failing health, deceased attended early communion on Christmas morning. Rev. M. G. B. Williams conducted the burial service at the graveside, relieving the rector whose health would not permit the necessary drive to the Ninth Line cemetery where interment took place.

The pall-bearers were four cousins, Messrs. John and Harold Cathcart, Stanley Purser, Cobourg, H. Thompson, Toronto, A. A. Needler and W. H. Coombe.

Many beautiful floral tributes were laid upon the casket.

Among those from outside points who attended were: Mr. and Mrs. O. Young, Smith township; Mrs. J. Swain and Mrs. Bruce, Valentia; Mr. and Mrs. W. Cathcart and family, and Miss Jennie Cathcart, Peterboro; Mr. and Mrs. Joshua Mulligan, Manitoba; Mr. R. Cruickshanks, Mr. Arnold Staples, Mr Stanley and Miss Purser, Cobourg; Miss Lowery, Miss Beggs, and Mr. and Mrs. Thompson, Toronto.

MRS. WILLIAM A. BENTLEY.

MILLBROOK, Jan. 14.—The funeral of the late Mrs. William A. Bentley, who passed away in her sixty-eighth year, took place from the residence of hr son, Mr. P. I. Bentley, Cavan street, on Monday, service at the house being at 7.30 a.m. Going by the 8.30 a.m. train to Picton, interment was in the family burial plot, beside her late husband, at Cherry Valley, about five miles from the capital town of Prince Edward couny.

Deceased was born and brought up at Cherry Valley, and here the first few years of her married life were spent.. Predeceased by her husband over thirty years ago, the late Mrs. Bentley, whose maiden name was Sarah A. Scott, has since made her home with her only son. It is some thirteen years since the latter came to Millbrook to reside, taking his place in the community life of the village by building up a successful hardware business, having bought out Mr. Holliday who was here but a short time, the previous owner being Mr. J. D. Fair, now living in Toronto.

Besides Mr. P. I. Bentley, the immediate surviving relatives are one brother, living at Kingston, and two sisters, Mrs. Lambert, and Mrs. McGibbon, both of Cherry Valley.

Deceased had been in failing health for some time, the trouble gradually growing more acute, especially during the last few months, until death finally brought relief from suffering last Friday morning.

Rev. F. W. Howard had charge of the funeral service at the house, the late Mrs. Bentley being a faithful member of the Methodist church, and, as long as health permitted, a regular attendant at its services.

Included among the many beautiful floral tributes laid in loving memory upon the casket, was a wreath from "Golden Sheaf" Rebekah Lodge, No. 176, of which deceased was a member, and a sheaf from J. B. Hall Lodge, A.F. & A.M., in which her son holds an official position.

The pall-bearers were all members of Millbrook Lodge I.O.O.F., No. 308, and included: Messrs. A. J. Henderson, J. W. Hamilton, J. A. Vance, T. H. Bradley, T. Harkness and H. A. Fallis.

Quite a number of friends gathered at the house for the funeral service though the hour was necessarily unusually early, several members of the Oddfellows and Rebekah Lodges, particularly, showing in this way their affection and respect.

Ex-Warden A. J. Henderson accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Bentley on their sad journey, remaining with them until the loved one was laid in her last resting place.

MINISTERIAL MEETING.

Met at Millbrook and Elected Rev. G. B. Williams President.

MILLBROOK, Jan. 14—The ministerial association held its annual meeting on Monday afternoon, the retiring president, Rev. R. M. Paterson, occupying the chair. The officers elected for 1925 are:

President—Rev. M. G. B. Williams
Vice-President—Rev. G. I. Craw, Springville.
Sec.-Treas.—Rev. R. T. Richards, Cavanville.

Rev. F. W. Howard gave the address for the January meeting, dwelling upon the thought, "Understandest thou what thou readest?" and basing his remarks on John 21:15-17, where Christ, having in mind the only acceptable motive in service, questions Peter, "Simon, son of Jonas, lovest thou Me more than these?" The speaker explained that though possibly contrary to the generally accepted views in the matter, Christ did not ask Peter the same question three times, nor did Peter give the same answer in each case. "Strength of understanding is one of the best guides to truth, and one of the best guards against error, for we do not possess what we do not understand, and he who understands amiss is apt to conclude worse."

A spirited discussion followed the opening of the subject by Mr. Howard, this being one feature of the monthly meetings which is considered decidedly helpful and important.

Owing to illness ,and other causes, the attendance was smaller than usual, those present including: Rev. G. I. Craw, Rev. R. M. Patterson, Rev. G. S. Gervan, Rev. M. G. B. Williams and Rev. F. W. Howard. Rev. Mr. Richards had to go to Cobourg this week to attend the Winter School which lasts from Jan. 12 to 19 inclusive. Mr. Richards is one of the leaders in group Bible study each morning.

MILLBROOK MOVIE SHOW DISSOLVES

Machine Being Removed From Town Hall—Failed to Pay.

MILLBROOK Jan. 13.—The Millbrook council held its first meeting for the new year on Monday evening, Reeve W. T. Wood in the chair. Councillors J. R. Eakins, P. Stinson, T. J. Lang and G. W. Sayes were present.

Movies Fade Out.

Mr. Gilmour was given permission to remove the moving-picture machine and transformer from the town hall, and Councillors Eakins and Sayles were authorized to consider the proposition of purchasing piano and booth.

Councillors Eakins and Stinson were appointed a committee to meet a committee for the Women's Institute and discuss with them the project suggested.

A delegation consisting of ratepayers H. A. Elson, J. L. Byam and T. Donaldson waited upon the council complaining of poor service from the HydroElectric in their part of the town, the power supplied being inadequate to the needs of householders in that vicinity.

The Reeve and Councillor Lang were instructed to interview G. F. Harrington, local Hydro superintendent, re the matter, and if satisfactory arrangements cannot be made with him, to take it up with the Hydro Commission.

HORTICULTURISTS MEET AT HASTINGS

Rev. C. S. Bretherton is Again President—Membership Increasing.

HASTINGS, Jan. 13.— The Hastings Horticultural Society met for its annual meeting on Monday evening. Owing to the stormy weather the attendance was not as large as it otherwise would have been.

The President, Rev. C. E. Bretherton, opened the meeting by a few remarks and comments on the work of the society.

The secretary treasurer, Mr. C. B. Plout gave the report of the previous year's business and gave the financial statement as follows:

C. B. Plant, treasurer.
C. S. Bretherton, President.

In the year 1923, the total number of members were 140 and an increase of 40 members is reported for 1924. This year the government grant was not as large as that of 1923, the larger grant of that year being due to the larger sum of money being expended by the society as it was then that the trees were planted on the Memorial avenue.

The officers elected for the new year are the same as that of 1924 excepting the secretary treasurer who has said it is impossible for him to hold office for another year.

A renumeration of $25.00 was voted the secretary treasurer as the membership is so steadily increasing that more work is being added to the secretary's duties.

Mr and Mrs. Brown were appointed to look after the members of Roseneath who joined with the Hastings Society this year.

Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Plant were appointed as delegates to attend the Ontario Horticultural Convention in Toronto on February 10th and 11th.

The meeting was adjourned until next Monday evening, anuary 19th, when the secretary will be elected and other business matters concluded.

FUR SALE

A Genuine Bargain Offering of Furs in face of advancing market on Raw Fur Skins

Canada has not experienced an active market in manufactured fur garments this season. Consequently our stocks are rather heavy and must be disposed of to realize money for next season's business.

This means our fine fur productions of all kinds at unusually low prices, in many cases Less than the Cost of Reproduction.

To invest now is a golden opportunity to those who can take advantage of this offer—meaning a real saving on this year's values and a still larger saving on the prices which will prevail next season.

A personal letter just received from one of the largest and best informed raw and dressed fur houses with over 30branches situated in all the fur producing countries of the world, collecting at the sources of supply, says;

"Prices of the fresh catch of raw furs in all primary markets of the world are on a higher level— American, Russian, Asian, and most foreign furs will generally average over 10% higher. Available stocks of raw and dressed skins have been used up owing to extreme use of furs and fur trimmings in all countries, and a still more extreme use in all the fashion centers. Still further advances in Persians, Squirrels, Mink, Coon, Fox and Skunk are anticipated."

We would strongly urge our public to consider the above statements and secure furs while this sale is on.

We are going to sell, because we are going to continue work, therefore, we must keep stocks moving. This is your Fur Opportunity, even though it means our loss of profits.

GOOD NEWS FOR YOUNGSTERS.

Peterborough's youngsters are to have a toboggan slide—and there will be joy not only among the children but among parents as well.

The City Council has decided to make a start toward providing facilities for coasting by constructing a slide running from the Hunter Street Bridge through the gate at James Stevenson Park (formerly Riverside).

This should be an ideal place for the pastime, and there will be no danger from street traffic.

The Examiner has been advocating, in season and out, the claim of the youngsters for consideration, and it is a pleasure to announce that the city fathers have recognized the necessity of action.

The cost of the slide will be trifling compared to the health and fun the children will get from the use of it and to the ease of mind it will give parents, who have recognized the perils that existed in coasting on the streets—the only place that up to the present has been available.

TRAFFIC LAWS.

The Examiner publishes today an article from the Border Cities Star in which the contention is made that Canada should adopt the same traffic regulations as in the United States for the convenience of tourists from across the border who find themselves at sea because of the different laws in various parts of Canada.

Whether or not the Canadian people are prepared to go as far as that—and there is much in the suggestion to commend it—at least a start could be made by endeavouring to have the various Provinces come to an agreement as to traffic rules so that wherever he went on Canadian soil a driver would know just what the law expected of him.

Some progress has been made along this line, but so slowly has been the development towards uniform traffic rules that it is only recently that all the Provinces fell into step in regard to the keep-to-the-right rule, and there are many points in which there is a considerable variation of the regulations.

One code of traffic laws for the whole Continent would undoubtedly be of the greatest convenience to the motoring fraternity, but if that is not feasible we in Canada can at least make a big stride forward by making the regulations uniform over the Dominion.

STEVENSON PARK.

The action of the City Council in changing the name of Riverside Park to James Stevenson Park as a tribute to the memory of a citizen to whom Peterborough owes much of its present prosperity and progress was a graceful act that will be applauded by the older residents to whom the extent of James Stevenson's services on behalf of his home town is fully known.

There have been a number of men who have in the last half century played a big part in the building of Peterborough, but no one in the city's history has had such a long record of faithful service as Mr. Stevenson.

To those who refuse to contribute their talent and energy to the welfare of the community when they are called upon to serve, Mr. Stevenson's career should serve as a rebuke and a challenge.

For ten terms he was Mayor of Peterborough, seventeen years a member of the Town Council, four years on the County Council, fifty-six years a member of the School Board, holding the chairmanship for eighteen years, half a century a member of the Town Trust Commission and its Chairman for twenty-four years, a Director of the Little Lake Cemetery Company for fifty-nine years.

The figures only hint at the extent of the public service performed by Mr. Stevenson.

It is fitting indeed that his name should be kept before the community, on whose behalf he laboured so long and faithfully.

ALD. STOCKER'S CASE.

The manner in which the disposition of the various civic portfolios is made is to the general public somewhat of a closed book, and the failure of Ald. Walter Stocker to receive a chairmanship, in spite of his record in two departments and his years of service, is even more of a mystery.

Two years ago Ald. Stocker was Chairman of the Board of Works, and it cannot be denied that he gave a large amount of his time to the manifold duties of that position.

The annual shuffling of chairmanships found him ousted from the Works Committee and given the leadership of the Fire, Water and Light Committee, a position to which he again devoted himself faithfully and with excellent results, only to find himself out in the cold once more.

Ald. Stocker, like everybody else, may have his faults, but he is honest and reliable, an enthusiastic advocate of Peterborough wherever he may be and a man with the necessary time to serve his fellow-citizens and the ambition to try and serve them faithfully as well.

His record of attending 83 meetings last year out of a possible total of 90 shows that he was generally on the job, and it is difficult for the public to understand why more use should not be made of him.

In the case of Ald. Phelan the Council has wisely retained him as Chairman of the Finance Committee for several years because of his business training and other qualities for the office—a business-like attitude to take.

Why a similar policy could not be adopted in other departments where good service has been given is one of the developments of municipal politics that explains why civic governments are not always as efficient as they might be.

The treatment accorded Ald. Stocker is not the kind that encourages men to offer themselves for public service.

It Pays to Advertise!

PUBLICITY THAT HURTS.

The Kingston Standard has made a New Year's resolution that henceforth it will be chary of giving publicity to the movement of prisoners to the penitentiary.

It is a policy, the Examiner feels sure, could be profitably adopted by other newspapers, especially some of the larger dailies, who have been publishing to a nauseating degree the detailed actions of some of the celebrated prisoners who have recently been incarcerated in Portsmouth Penitentiary.

These well-known men who have been found guilty of straying from the straight and narrow path are paying the penalty by serving the penalties an even-handed justice has imposed upon.

Their punishment, in view of their former status in life, is drastic, and it should be confined to the limits prescribed by the judges who sentenced them, not aggravated by having their every word en route to Kingston published and every action held up for the world to read.

In the case of the former Provincial Treasurer, for example, one newspaper did not even respect the privacy that should have attended the farewell between the prisoner and his wife, who had bravely accompanied him on his journey to the penitentiary.

The whole episode was described at length, and there was no thought of the effect of this publicity upon the wife or other relatives and friends.

There is a certain amount of publicity necessary in regard to such cases, but it is to be feared that some of our Ontario papers have gone further beyond the bounds of decency in this regard than would some of the yellow journals across the line that we are so fond of decrying.

PREMIER FERGUSON'S TROUBLES.

The liquor question, stumbling block of more than one political party, appears to present increasing difficulties to the Ferguson Government. Premier Ferguson and his assistants are still vainly seeking some compromise which will reconcile that powerful faction within the party who felt cheated last October 23 without offending too seriously the majority vote in favor of the Temperance Act.

The local option plan which was early suggested by certain Toronto members as a way out of trouble proved too risky to entertain very seriously, and various other proposals are now being mentioned cautiously as feelers of public opinion.

Through the medium of Hon. George S. Henry the possibility of securing from the Federal Government a repeal of the Doherty Act has been broached. This would mean removal of restriction on importing liquor from other Provinces. Ontario would revert to the situation which existed prior to the vote of 1921, when it was possible for citizens of this Province to secure unlimited shipments of liquor from Quebec provided they were householders. In other words, the effect of the O. T. A. in restricting purchase and consumption of liquor would practically be wiped out. The importation plan is merely a little less convenient than Government sale for the small consumer with the added difference that the money of Ontario purchasers goes to the other Provinces.

Another proposal which is being more or less quietly suggested is based on a change in the medical prescription requirements. This plan appears also to emanate from Toronto. It is suggested that the distribution of prescriptions for liquor be taken out of the hands of private practitioners and that they be replaced by the appointment of Government medical officers. One such officer would be appointed for each Government dispensary, and an individual desiring liquor would merely need to go to the dispensary, secure his prescription as more or less a matter of form, and, without charge at one picket, pay in the price of the liquor at another wicket, and secure the bottle itself at a third wicket.

This plan apparently would entail little if any amendment to the O. T. A. since it preserves the letter though not the purpose of the law, and it would, of course, inaugurate a convenient system of liquor distribution which virtually would accomplish everything desired by advocates of Government sale. It would, in fact, be Government sale.

It seeks very unlikely, however, that Premier Ferguson can or will attempt to introduce either of these plans or any other proposal intended to circumvent the Temperance Act. The political awkwardness of the present situation is obvious, but Mr. Ferguson will probably decide to endure the troubles of the present in looking at the more enduring results of the course he follows. Mr. Ferguson is too definitely pledged in his pre-plebiscite statements to an undeviating enforcement of the Temperance Act to do anything but abide by the results of the vote. From the point of view of political expediency he was perhaps unwise in committing himself to such definite pledges, but having made them he would be even more unwise now to disregard them. Evasion of his pledges might temporarily remove the ill-will and disappointment of the protesting faction, but eventually it would earn for him the distrust of all factions with dire peril to his political fortunes.

Premier Ferguson is undoubtedly a shrewd enough strategist to foresee these risks. It seems unnecessary therefore to take very seriously any of the various proposals which are being or may be mentioned. It is more probable that a certain amount of loose talk is being permitted, or even encouraged, as a safety valve for explosive natures and to satisfy the malcontents in Mr. Ferguson's camp until such time as the bitterness of their disappointment may be assuaged. Time is a great healer, and delay with ultimate inaction appears to be the safest and most probable course for Premier Ferguson to follow.—London Advertiser.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

The prediction that there will be frost in July does not appeal so improbable now that the Boston hockey club has won a game.

One newspaper remarks that the appointment of Frank B. Kellogg as Secretary of State in the United States Cabinet offers food for thought. Possibly breakfast food.

Messrs. G. H. Duncan and James Lynch have retired from the Board of Health after twelve years of excellent service. They deserve the thanks of their fellow-citizens for the time and thought they have devoted to this vital public work.

Because the Niagara fruit growers cannot produce certain kinds of fruit as early as some places farther south are able to do, these gentlemen are hardly justified in demanding a prohibitory duty on these articles during the early spring months. To refuse to let others have what you cannot produce yourself is carrying the protective doctrine too far.

Moonshine seems to have been competing with murder in Chicago to see which can pile up the biggest death list. Each takes an average toll of one life a day.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, Jan. 13. — Cattle trade at the Union Stock Yards was a little dull when the market opened today. Much of yesterday's activity was missing. The slowness however, was partly caused by late arrival of trains, cattle from which had to be fed and watered before being ready for sale. For the first two days of the week, however, the run has been fairly heavy, considering the season of the year. But close observers of the market do not expect a clean up today.

At noon, live stock receipts were as follows: Cars, 110; cattle, 1655; calves, 371; hogs 2363; sheep and lambs, 392. To be added to the offering were some 600 stale cattle left from yesterday's market.

The export buyers picked up a few medium to good steers at $7 to $8 a hundred, including a few lots of handyweights of the feeder class. Cows and bulls moved readily at yesterday's prices with the best cows $4.50 to $5, and with export bulls up to $5.50 a hundred.

Export agents were loading around 100 heavy bulls for Antwerp today. In the butcher cattle division, the movement was stagnant with no early sales above $7 a hundred. The quality on the whole looked a little below that of yesterday's offerings.

A small supply of calves sold steady at $12 to $13 for a few choice veals with the majority of the offering going at $8 to $11 a hundred. Small lots of heavy grassers sold downward to $3.50 a hundred.

After closing at $11 off car yesterday the hog market opened again unsettled with packers' quotations at $10.75 off car. Prospects were uncertain during the morning.

Lambs were cleared out at prices about a quarter lower than Monday. Heavy lambs were as usual in the majority and sold slowly at $11.50 to $13.50 a hundred, while a few examples of handyweight lambs ranged from $14 to $14.75 with an odd sale at $15 a hundred. Sheep remained strong at $7 to $8.50 for choice handy weight ewes with heavy ewes and bucks at $5 to $7 and cull downward to $3 a hundred.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, Jan. 14. — Wheat shot skyward to-day to the highest prices since the world war, but quickly receded on account of big selling to realize profits. A few carloads of No. 2 red wheat, specially wanted for milling, brought as much as $2.00½ a bushel. Active speculative buying on the part of strong houses working for an advance gave the chief upward impetus to the market. Wheat closing quotations were unsettled, varying from 1 38 cents net decline to 1 3-8 cents gain, with May delivery 1.85 3-4 to 186 1-8 and uly 156 7-8. Corn finished 3-8 to 1 cent higher, oats unchanged to 1-2 up and provisions showing 7 to 35 cents advance.

EGG MARKET.

OTTAWA, Jan. 13. —A slight increase in production is reported at some Ontario points but with storage stocks low markets continue firm. A return to milder weather on a break in the United States markets will immediately be reflected in prices here. The bureau of statistics report just issued shows storage stocks in Montreal, January 1st, 44,619 cases compared with 14,733 cases same date last year.. In Toronto, 9,110 cases January 1st, last, compared with 1,515 cases same date last year.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, Jan. 13. — There was no new developments in the export grain trade here to-day with the exporters in some cases stated that they bought No. 1 Northern spring wheat back from London importers at 15 cents per bushel under the price they could lay it down at that port for. Glasgow made some demand for Barley and a few sales were made for April shipment. Prices were well maintained in the local market for coarse grains, but the demand was limited.

Ontario No. 2 white oats were quoted at 65 cents.

No. 3 grade at 64 cents and No. 4 grade at 62 cents.

Spring wheat grades of flour were advanced a further 10 cents per barrel, but business was extremely dull in this direction. Owing to the small offering of winter wheat flour from Ontario millers. The tone of the market was stronger and prices were moved up 10 cents per barrel..

There was no change in the condition of the market for mill-feed. The demand for standard grades of rolled oats was fair and prices were unchanged.

The undertone to the egg market noted. Little trade was transacted in buttter but prices were steady. The tone of the cheese market continues strong and prices for current receipts of fodder made goods showed a further advance of 1-2 cent per pound with a steady demand for supplies at 19 to 19 1-2 cents per lb. for No. 1 grade, and 18 to 18 1-2 cents per lb. for No. 2 grade.

Crop beans were steady at $2.70 to $2.80 per bushel.

STERLING RATES.

MONTREAL, Jan. 13.— Sterling exchange rates were quoted here to-day as follows:—

Sterling demand $4.77¼.

Sterling cables $4.78⅛.

Health and good looks
—the reward of internal cleanliness.

IF YOU do not keep clean internally your looks and health are undermined together. A clogged intestine breeds poisons that reach every part of the body. These poisons ruin the complexion and undermine health. Constipation brings on such ailments as headaches, bilious attacks and insomnia, each of which sape your health and vitality.

Avoid Laxatives—say Doctors

Laxatives and cathartics do not overcome constipation, says a noted authority, but by their continued use tend only to aggravate the condition.

Medical science has found at last in lubrication a means of overcoming constipation. The gentle lubricant, Nujol, penetrates and softens the hard food waste and thus hastens its passage through and out of the body. Nujol is not a medicine or laxative and cannot gripe. Like pure water, it is harmless.

Take Nujol regularly and adopt this habit of internal cleanliness. For sale by all druggists.

SNOWDEN SHOULD FOLLOW HIS WIFE

Morning Post Admires Spirit of Mrs. Philip's Furore in Montreal.

LONDON, Jan. 14.—(Canadian Press). — Discussing a reported speech in Montreal by Mrs. Philip Snowden, wife of the former Chancellor of the Exchequer, in which she was said to have attacked the leadership of former Premier Ramsay Macdonald, the Morning Post says ex-Chancellor Snowden must be somewhat disturbed at these "spirited Montreal indiscretions."

"The incorruptible member of the Labor party," (meaning Philip Snowden) says the Post, "to do him justice, always played the game by his chief. Even when Mr. Macdonald was prepared to raid the treasury for the most unmitigated scoundrels who ever disgraced civilization, Mr. Snowden bowed his head, and if he cursed at all he cursed under his breath." Mr. Snowden may have been foolish, but he was silent. Mrs. Snowden certainly is not foolish and she is far from silent.

"Is Mr. Snowden going to round up the lady who, besides being his own wife, stands deservedly high in the counsels of Labor, or is he going to throw over Mr. Macdonald as a bad job and agree with his wife?"

The Post expresses the hope that Philip Snowden will follow the course which wise men invariably chose—that is, stand by his wife—particularly as he knows that his wife is speaking simple truth.

Eighty-Six Page Book Gives Court Judgment In Woman's Will Case

TORONTO, Jan. 14.—(Canadian Press).—A book of eighty-six typewritten pages was dictated by Chief Justice Mulock in giving judgement of the Court of Appeal in the action over the will of Mrs. Ann Moore, formerly of Collingwood. Her will was drawn by the family doctor in 1921 when she was eighty years of age. She died three years later, survived by ten of her eleven children.

A question was raised as to the validity of the will.

Testimony was given to show that she was mentally incapable, such, for instance, as that she would sit for hours pretending to sew but with no needle or thread in her hands. Other evidence tended to show that her memory was good. The will left a sewing machine to one daughter, an enlarged photograph to another, and divided the rest equally among the remaining children, with the exception of George, to whom she said they had given all they could.

The trial judge found that no decision interfered with the testatrix in the administration of her estate. This view is adopted by the appellate division which finds that the will is valid.
